A large number of Rawdonians journeyed to Stirling Monday evening and enjoyed the minstrel show under the auspices of Stirling Agricultural Society.

Miss Bessie MacMullen, Springbrook, spent a few days with her cousin, Miss Eileen MacMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb David are wearing smiles. A new daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith (nee Jean David) Ottawa on Tuesday May 10th.

Women's Missionary Society

Mrs. Percy Hubble opened her home for the May meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon W. M. S. with twenty three in attendance. The service began with quiet hour with Mrs. Ross Hoard. The president Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave "The call to worship" based on the theme "Joy to Serve Jesus". All sang a hymn and read alternately psalm 15 and 16. The devotional period opened with a hymn and Rev. J. E. Beckel offered prayer. Mrs. Harold Martin of Stirling gave a splendid paper on "The Joy of Home Missions." The treasurer's report amounted to $40.84 for April. Sixteen members answered roll call with the keyword Joy and seven visitors were present. Mrs. Frank Jeffs read a letter from Mrs. F. E. Hooper new Presbyterial president re spiritual awakening also a letter of appreciation from Mrs. James Williams. Mrs. Don Campbell read a poem "School for Leaders" in May monthly. The literature secretary read a letter from Mrs. H. Williams, Bloomfield re annual report and Through the Missionary Windows and she is taking orders for same. The quilt secretary urged that blocks and print be sent in as soon as possible so the quilts for the supply table may be completed. One dollar was voted for yarn and one dollar for a W. C. T. U. outpost member. The visitors were welcomed and their thanks extended to Mrs. Percy Hubble for use of her home and Mrs. Roy Thrasher for arranging programme. Plans for an evening in June were made. All joined in a hymn and Mrs. Allan Bailey offered prayer. Mrs. Cyrus Summers gave a splendid paper on "What our Missionaries are Doing Across Canada."

Mrs. Roy Thrasher conducted a special hymn service telling incidents in the lives of various writers. Messrs. Kenneth Weaver, Frank Jeffs, Ross Hoard and Misses Vera McAdam all sang verses of well known hymns. Mrs. Morris Rose gave a synopsis of "educational work in Canada taken from the study book. Miss Eileen MacMullen read a story "The Joy of the Loving Heart." The offering amounted to $4.90 was dedicated by the president. The service closed with "Bless be the tie that binds" and the hostess and her daughter Pearle served a delicious lunch and was later tendered a vote of thanks.

Young People's Society

Mr. Bert Jeffs opened Mount Pleasant Y. P. S. on Friday evening with Joy Bells. Plans were made to close the league on May 27th when Burnbrae will be guests. An invitation to attend the league picnic at the Cedars, Carrollton was read.

The missionary convener, Mr. Ormel MacMullen then took charge and opened with "Thy word is like a garden Lord" Mrs. Cyrus Summers read the bible lesson. Master Don Rose and Miss Vera McAdam all sang vocal solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd." Miss Bessie McMullen president of Springbrook Y. P. U. read a leaflet "A Challenge to Youth."

Miss Phyliss David rendered a piano solo. Mr. Kenneth Weaver outlined the topic on the subject "Mission and human uplift" dealing with the various religions of the Orient and in Canada.

Rev. J. E. Beckel led in a helpful discussion. Mrs. Elwood Johnson read "Four church needs you" Master Bert Sharp gathered the missionary offering and the service closed with "Hark the song of Jubilee." Mis. Anna Sharp staged a contest entitled a musical questionaire.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, Donnan Ridge Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Eileen and Ormel attended the play at Springbrook entitled "I can't afford it" by Thomasburg talent.

Miss Doris Rannie who has taught for the past few years in the Williams School has accepted a position at the Masson School, Hoards.

Mr. Clifford Holmes spent last week with his parents as his school was closed owing to an outbreak of scarlet fever.

Mrs. Wm. Telford, Bridgenorth, spent a few days last week with her daughter Mrs. Kenneth Weaver.

Mrs. Clifford Sine and Muriel, Mount Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sine and Mrs. H. Sine, Wellmans attended the funeral of Mrs. Ernest McCowan of Rochester on Friday. The interment was made in Stockdale Cemetery and the funeral was held at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Reid, Stockdale.

RIGGS MOTOR SALES

224 Pinnacle Street BELLEVILLE Telephone 116

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sundays and holidays excepted) at Intelligencer Building.

AND 61,000 MORE OF THEM

Still the procession of motor vehicles grows. Already this year according to report of the Provincial Highways Department, 61,000 more licences have been taken out this year than in all last year. The present figure is more than 185,000 motors. Of these the passenger vehicles number 516,883, which total is 54,000 ahead of last year.

As companion to this increase there is the increase of gasoline sales, which might be expected. March sales in Ontario were reported at 21,383,000 gallons, just a million up.

There are not more or longer roads to any extent and more cars and other motor vehicles, at least 61,000 of them, have to find moving space on these highways and county roads. Every driver knows what that means, especially with a fifty mile top on speed per hour.

It is more careful driving.

No one in the happiest dreams of the growth of business could have foretold in the years just before war's outbreak there could have been so many machines running the highways at half a hundred miles an hour. The modern world is on wheels. The growth of this industry is not even equalled by aviation, that marvellous development of modern days.

Who is to say that the saturation point has been reached in gas-driven cars? One may say so, only to be confounded by the facts of the next season.

But even the endless procession of cars on the highways need not mean accidents if drivers use all their driving power to go ahead with safety as the supreme intention in their use of the highways. There are enough naturally careless persons in all spheres of life to lead one to believe that there will be accidents, without others, who are normally careful, just becoming reckless because they are in cars. With everyone careful, both drivers and occupants, there will be no mournful stories to tell in the newspapers, and in police records.

'HAPPY RETURNS' FROM AUTO RIDES

The phrase "Many Happy Returns," has always a pleasant inference. Now a pamphlet has been turned out by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, Toronto. Knowing this readers appreciate immediately what is meant by "Many Happy Returns" in this instance.

The booklet is intended for road users of all shapes and sizes. When we leave home on a trip of any length, either in a car or on foot, we all look forward to and hope for a happy return; but no return can be happy unless it is a safe return, and unless all co-operate to that end the objective of a safe return will indeed be problematical. It is a matter of co-operation, both car user and pedestrian. The problem is vital. In Ontario, in 1937 there were 766 persons killed and 12,092 maimed as a result of traffic accidents. Surely these figures are sufficiently serious to make the question of road safety a personal one. The pamphlet "Many Happy Returns" is recommended for earnest consideration.

Persons desiring copies of this pamphlet may receive same from the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, 600 Bay Street, Toronto 2, Ontario, without charge.

THIS MERRY MONTH

The merry merry month of May has not been merry enough for all people. There have been days of chill or coolness and the house without a fire was a chilly one. Somehow the past winter and spring have exceeded in eating into many coal and wood and coke than in any other recent winter, not because of intensely cold weather but because of unseasonable conditions.

On the other hand the grasses have a good start, the flowers of spring are ahead of season and some of them are already gone.

Oliver Goldsmith knew something of "winter lingering" which chills the lap of May. Even Shakespeare had known that "rough winds do shake the darling buds of May."

But the latter poet also speaks of ultimate beauty in these words, "In beauty as the first of may" and "as full of spirit as the month of May". Lord Thurlow pays May this tribute:

"May, queen of blossoms,
And fulfilling flowers,
With what pretty music
Shall we charm the hours?
Wit thou have pipe and reed,
Blown in the open mead?
Or to the lute give heed
In the green bowers"

That is the May the world generally knows.

IN THE MARITIMES

Come ye to the Maritimes, now that it is May;
Hear the robin redbreast sing all the sunny day;
Wind all salty with the sea, and fragrant as the rose—
Come ye to the Maritimes, and leave behind your woes!

See below the shingly beach, reaching to the sea;
Tassels of the yellow birch hang from every tree;
Mountain brooks are carrying their burden from the hills;
Whine of saw and balsam smell from the lumber mills.

In the old fence corners the waxen blood-root grows;
Old and new are blended, as the waters and the snows.
Spirits of the dead and gone of both nations stride
Down the pathetic, drifted sand, at the turn of tide.

Come ye to the Maritimes! Spring is on the way.
Life is singing in the sea, and green is every brae;
Life is in the bloodroot flowers, and in the salty wind——
Come ye to the Maritimes, and leave your cares behind!

PROPOSITION TO ELIMINATE THE MINIATURE PARK at the junction of Front and Station street has been vetoed as it should have been. Pedestrians find in this oasis a safety zone which enables them to navigate the wide stretch of pavement much easier than if it was all thrown open to motor traffic. Arrangements should be made that this patch of green should reflect the pride citizens have in having earned the title of "Beautiful Belleville." Elimination of this beauty spot would mean a black eye for "Beautiful Belleville."

MILITANT MEMBER OF THE SIDELIGHT FAMILY contributes the following "dry" paragraphs:

Harper is a town of 1,100 people. It is absolutely "dry." It claims to be the only town of its size that has never had to have any Government assistance or direct relief, but now family is now on relief; a new reservoir, an increased budget for education, a new waterworks system, have been added since depression began. One of the two hotels is now being leased by the Ontario Motor League's shield for the finest small-town hotel in Ontario; it has a community skating rink with free admission to all; there is not a little crime that one constable has been able for years to keep in check, as well as collect the taxes and act as inspector of the waterworks system.

"Grog Money," is a new edition of grog ration. An old tradition of the British navy allows every member of the fleet to buy his rum ration. But temperance sentiment has so grown that men are now offered a cash allowance instead of the rum if they so desire it. Maclean's is authority for saying that on one battleship Navy out of 114 men in the crew, only 41 take the ration, the rest pocketing the six cents a day.

"GOOD NEIGHBORS" is the title of a radio program in which one Jerry Belcher, a very likeable chap, judging from his voice, interviews little known but interesting people who otherwise might never be noticed generally or have a voice reach way beyond their own little circle. Good neighbors certainly form an asset worth having and one of the good neighbors of Belleville, much admired for modesty and more than ordinary attraction to the casual visitor, is Victor with its comfortable homes and tidy streets, besides its nearby Lake of the Mountain, a curiosity of Nature not duplicated elsewhere and other advantages of a scenic and general character. Picton should be proud of having two first class newspapers, Grade A in every respect, newspapers which are not just hurriedly thrown together but which bear every mark of careful editing, set-up and make-up. When it is considered that each of these two newspaper is a brand new creation it can be understood that the tendency would be toward repetition rather than creation, but Picton's newspapers, The Gazette and The Times certainly possess plenty of pep and show every evidence of being created by workmen who are proud of their work and desire to turn out each newspaper as a completed masterpiece, and that goes from editorial room to printer's

That Body of Yours

By James W. Burton, M.D.

Migraine —One Sided Headache— May Be Due to Strain and Tension

I write frequently about migraine—one sided headache—because thousands suffer with it and the only relief usually obtained is by going to bed for two or three days to a week by which time the attack passes. As the cause has been believed to be due to over-work—mental and physical— rest would thus seem to be the logical treatment.

Perhaps the most efficient treatment that has been discovered is that of ergotamine tartrate, full details of which were given by Dr. Mary O'Sullivan some months ago in the Journal of the American Medical Association. This ergotamine tartrate is given by injection into the muscles by a physician or may be taken in tablet form by mouth. Even when taken by mouth however the dose of the dose should be ordered by the physician, the usually depending upon the severity of the attacks. This drug is given different names by the different drug manufacturers but druggists know these names.

Migraine is a condition that migrain occurs in families and in individuals who work hard or do things in the hard or "tense" way. In other words individuals of this type usually do everything they bring on an attack.

Additional information on migraine is given by Dr. W. R. Riley of Battle Creek in the Michigan State Medical Society journal, who among other points, mentions the following:

1—Among the exciting causes of migraine are depressing emotions such as those associated with worry, anxiety, fear, anger, fatigue, tension and hate. Also excess in eating more and more an age of "I haven't time."

2—Being sensitive to certain foods—eggs, fat rich foods, milk, cream, ice cream, wheat and others.

3—Increased alkalinity of the blood. The individuals often work so hard they starve themselves and often do not eat enough meat and fish.

4—Spasm in the blood vessels in the brain, by the action of Dr. Riley this spasm of the arteries of the brain which of course prevents the blood supply of blood from reaching the brain and removing waste, is responsible for many other symptoms besides the headaches such as temporary loss of sight, dizziness, and even dimness.

These individuals who have this tendency to migraine should then that it is tenseness that causes the spasm of the bloodvessels, and thus the migraine.

PLANS GALORE

A Washington despatch tells of something like twenty economic plans for relief are received every day by President Roosevelt. Each plan, however, is put on the desk, the number seems small. The plans are legion.

And all dissatisfying. Mostly they are against the "old capitalistic order." They are against Socialism. Against Fascism. Against Communism. Against Democracy as organized. Against the concepts that generally engage men's thoughts. Often they speak of the "new capitalism", but just what this "new capitalism" is, they do not say. They don't say clearly. They don't say in a balance, either do or don't. And therefore, that such and such fundamental policy is most follow. One is told what is right and what is wrong but never what is to be done in particular.

Which is a serious confusion. Because, if we are to fight and "new capitalism", and reject Socialism, and do not take Communism or Fascism, where do we go? Where, seeing that we don't get the foggiest notion of the nature of the "new capitalism"?

So we wish people would stop sending in plans. Life's really too short (and the weather too lovely) to be spent by the citizens and people who, coming right down to brass tacks, don't get much further thinking that "something should be done."

WARE DISTORTION

The distorted use or sensational use of type faces has been one of the most serious menaces to the "freedom of the press," Arthur J. Sinnott, editor of the Toronto News, declared at a luncheon in Philadelphia at which his paper was presented the Francis Wayland Ayer Cup for typographical excellence.

Mr. Sinnott said that "overemphasis in type presentation can sometimes go to such harm as distortion of text. The newspaper which considers only the large screaming type may for the moment have the box office appeal, but for the long pull, and as our democracy is educated in newspaper values, the newspapers that practise moderation, that upgrain from the absolute in type faces, will prevail. They must prevail if we wish to preserve freedom of the press and the process of democracy.—Editor and Publisher.

HAVENT TIME

"I'd like to, but somehow I don't seem to get time."

Ever hear that phrase? If you have, it's because you're human. It's in constant use. With all the hustle and bustle of modern life getting more and more an age of "I haven't time."

At every social or public function nowadays, the chairman always invariably starts his remarks with "Mr. So-and-So phoned me that he regretted exceedingly that another engagement made it impossible for him to attend."

Men don't seem to have time to spend an evening at home with their families, women to have time for the time for the same tenderly care of their children, and mothers and a generation ago.

The business and professional world has got to the stage where there seems to be time for nothing but work, work and if there isn't time was, and that not so many years ago, when a funeral in the community was a day off for all the blinds and a large turnout at the obsequies. Now it is a matter of financial pillar must fall in our midst before the whole city work takes much notice. Many of our finer and nobler sides of human nature are being lost in the mad rush set simply because "we haven't time" to do those things which bring out and develop the finer traits in human character.

It will be noticed, however, that people find time for the things they really want to do, and if they are losing sight of the finer things of life it is largely because material interests are paramount.

Those people that "never have time" are losing out in life. They'll have to take time to do some day.—Guelph Mercury.

Great Secrecy Shrouds Movement Of Precious Metal

Ottawa, May 20—(CP)—Gold coin and bullion is reported flowing into Ottawa from abroad to be stored in the vaults of the bank of Canada and it is said more than $100,000,000 worth has been stored during the past few months in the building on Wellington Street, west of the parliament buildings.

Great secrecy shrouds the movement of the precious metal. Police guards meet it at the train and the express boxes are rushed in armored cars to the safety of the bank vaults. The reason for the importations remains a mystery. Bank officials will not comment on any aspect of the movement although it has been established the importations have been going on and may continue for some time.

Some monetary experts on Parliament Hill believe the gold is being sent to Canada so that it will be readily available for the purchase of munitions in the United States should Britain be involved in war.

Those who support this theory recall that during the Great War the United States bought from South Africa was shipped to Canada for refinement and eventual credit to Britain for purchase of war supplies in the United States.

Other experts contend the gold is being stored with the Bank of Canada by the Bank of England for safekeeping, due to the unsettled state of Europe and the danger of retaining a large gold supply in London should a conflict break out. To have gold reserves scattered through the Dominions would guarantee that Britain would have under the most extreme exigencies of war, they believe.

GENERAL REDILLO READY FOR WAR WITH CARDENAS

Spreads Army in Hills And Will Carry on Guerrilla Warfare

FUED LONG STANDING

San Luis Potosi, Mexico, May 20 (AP)—General Saturnido Redillo, former Mexican army general, spread his peasant army into the hills today to prepare for guerilla warfare with the army of President Lazaro Cardenas.

He would not start it but he was ready with arms to repel "all aggression," said Cedillo, 45-year-old Mexican Indian, Rightist political opponent of Cardenas and for 22 years the dominant power of San Luis.

Cedillo was plotting rebellion, charged Cardenas, 43-year-old radical leader of Mexico's program of socialization of "Mexico for Mexicans" which was nationalized on March 18 by government expropriation of foreign-owned oil properties.

Their dispute was that between the "rich and the poor," and many feared that if fighting began it might spread through Mexico and make of Mexico another Spain.

Have 20,000 Troops

The Cedillistas fixed their number at 18,000 to 20,000. Cardenas, invading San Luis in person to establish calm, had 10,000 troops in the state. Two regiments of cavalry were on the way from Chihuahua, and Mexico City planes landed here yesterday, and probably 20,000 troops could be brought quickly from many states.

Cedillo said he had "trustworthy" information the Federal army was preparing to "try to crush me by force of arms" and that attack might come today.

Bitterly, the leader of Mexico's last important private army, whose realty he held by land allotments on his estate, denied he plotted rebellion.

Victim of Efforts

He saw himself as the victim of efforts by his enemies to destroy him, and referred to his resignation as Secretary of Agriculture in a fill with Cardenas last August.

THREATEN STRIKE IF CUT IS MADE

Walkout Would be Nation Wide According to Union Officials

Washington, May 20—(AP)—United States railroad labor unions added a threat of a nationwide strike today to efforts of administration Senators to prevent rail lines from putting a 15 per cent wage cut into effect July 1.

Chairman Wagner of Executives Association, charging in a statement that the roads had "doubled-crossed" labor, declared that a strike would be the "only ultimate result" if the roads proceeded with their $250,000,000 wage reduction program.

Senate opposition to the cut crystallized in withdrawal yesterday of Administration support for a bill to more liberal Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to railroads and carriers. The bill was on the House of Representatives calendar for debate today.

The Senate returned the measure to its banking committee via the request of Chairman Wagner (Democrat-New York), who said he opposed "no discussion" of the wage-cut proposal at the time the bill had been considered.

Wagner told reporters that several committee members wanted to include a no-wage-cut stipulation in the legislation. Both labor and management will be called to discuss the issue, he said.

CROSS CHINA SEA TO DROP LEAFLETS

Chinese Air Force Makes Flight But Tokyo Denies Report

Hankow, May 20 (AP)—The China Air Force said today (and Tokyo denied) that a squadron of planes had slipped across the China Sea, dropped upon Japanese cities leaflets urging the people to oppose the invasion of China, and returned unharmed.

The story was related in a Chinese Air Force communique. (No taking off-point was named but from the nearest point on the China coast to Nagasaki, one city over which the Chinese said they flew, is approximately 650 miles.)

The Chinese said they flew over the island of Kyushu, then across the Japan Inland Sea over the industrial cities of Osaka and Kobe. (Foreigners at Osaka and Kobe said all was quiet there. The Tokyo War navy departments included the Chinese announcement with the statement "if Chinese planes could reach Japan they would drop bombs, but not leaflets.")

STIRLING PASTOR IS HONORED

Farewell to Rev. J. A. Koffend And Family Prior to Departure

Stirling—The members and friends of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Stirling, gathered in the church parlours for a social evening on Wednesday evening organized for the purpose of enabling Stirling friends to bid farewell to Rev. J. A. Koffend and his family who leave next week to take over the pastoral charge of Iroquois and Dixon's Corners in the Brockville presbytery.

Mr. R. Ormiston acted as chairman for the evening and introduced the following musical numbers, etc. that formed the program. Mrs. R. H. Williams presided at the piano. The first number was a vocal duet by Wm. Dermedy and Arthur Duncan. A reading by Grace Montgomery given in a most capable manner was very much enjoyed. Vocal solos were offered by Messrs. Duncan and Dermedy.

Presentation Made

Midway through the program, Rev. Koffend, Mrs. Koffend, Bobby and Claire were given a place of honor on the platform and Mr. Ormiston after briefly outlining the purpose of the gathering called upon Mr. Harper Rollins to read the following address and the presentation of a modernistic floor lamp took place. Mr. and Mrs. Koffend expressed their appreciation of the kindly gesture with deepest feelings. Other speakers throughout the evening included Rev. Rose, Rapelye, T. J. McGee, James, Montgomery, Duncan Montgomery, Mrs. R. Rollins, Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Mr. Louis Wilson, Wm. Dermedy, Arthur Duncan and Lawrence Munn and at the conclusion of the fine program the ladies of the church served tea, coffee and a social period was greatly enjoyed.

The Address

Stirling, Ont., May 18th., 1938

Dear Rev. and Mrs. Koffend:—

Your friends of St. Andrews have gathered here tonight to meet at a social evening with you and to do you honour by your departure from us. We realize that we must submit to the changes which come in life, but we can not help but feel saddened. We are going to miss each one of you but we have carefully tried to help in any case of emergency.

To you Mrs. Koffend, we would say that in spite of the obligations in your home, you have cheerfully endeavored to help along with the Lord's work. Your contribution to the Sunday School was ever an inspiration to the teachers and student. The children have endeared themselves to each one of us. Their simple but implicit faith in His Deity has been a shining light to lead us on. The scriptures say: "A little child shall lead them" and we know the meaning of those words. To them we would say: "God Bless them."

To you, Mr. Koffend we would say: long will we remember your messages from the pulpit, your chalk talks and your messages of song. It has been said "Sickness and trouble are the one touch of nature which makes the whole world kin". Those of us who have been called to pass through darkened rooms will ever forget the meaning of a rest friend as you have proved to us. Your presence in the sick room has been a wondering comfort and has done much to endear you to the hearts of each one of us. Sacrifice of self to help those in trouble is the highest attribute of character anyone can have. Herein, we have excelled and we feel that those whom you have helped will form one great family of witnesses and will unite to say "God Bless You."

We might say more, but no more is needed. Our words are true. We ask you to accept this gift and in your new home we trust it will lighten a dark corner and will help you think kindly of your friends here. We pray God's richest blessing in your new work.

Signed on behalf of the congregation—T. J. McGee, Clerk of Session; Lewis Wilson, Chairman of Board.

Earlier the same evening the members of St. Andrew's Young Women's Bible Class and the Young Men's Bible Class gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Ward and Wm. Dermedy read the following address to the departing family as Miss Lenora Ward presented them with a silk embroidered tea spread. Both Mr. and Mrs. Koffend thanked the young people for their kindness in brief addresses.

Stirling, May 18th., 1938

Rev. J. A. Koffend,
Stirling, Ontario.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Koffend:—

In the days that are to follow your departure from this community, the two groups represented here will be led in Christian Education and Studies by others. It is your wish that we adapt ourselves readily and loyally to that leadership, and this we will strive to do. But years of service and good of which is becoming apparent on every hand, will never be forgotten.

We sincerely express our gratitude for your labours and will think of you often in your new field. These two groups who counted you one of them will find your absence each Sunday difficult to become accustomed to. The pleasures of Church work were continually heightened by your capable leadership.

As Young People, students of St. Andrew's Bible classes we wish you to carry this slight token of our esteem with you into your new home. Our prayers will be for your continued success in the work you so dearly love. Your life with us will ever remind us of Paul's message to the Corinthians:—

"Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast unmovable always abounding in the work of the Lord for as much as ye know that your work is not in vain in the Lord".

Signed—St. Andrew's Young Women's Bible Class. St. Andrew's Young Men's Bible Class.

Shannonville

Shannonville—Mr. and Mrs. W. Lucas and son, Walter, of Napanee, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Coles.

Mr. Herbert J. Brant, popular chief of the Tyendinaga Reserve, was appointed Supervisor of the Reserve Roads for the ensuing year at a recent council meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Leverton and family also Mr. and Mrs. D. Waddingham and son Bobbie of Lansdale were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Robertson.

Word was received in the village that Mr. George Bell brother of Mr. William Bell of this village had passed away at his home on Wednesday.

Philip F. Reid

The community was deeply shocked to hear of the death of a former life-long resident, Mr. Philip Reid, who passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Douglas Thompson of Foxboro on Wednesday morning. Mr. Reid had been suffering from a heart ailment for several years and about four years ago his condition became worse and he had been confined to his home from that time until his death. Preceding his fatal illness Mr. Reid had been foreman of No. 3 highway from Shannonville to Belleville. Following the death of his wife who passed away two years ago, Mr. Reid was moved to the home of his daughter at Foxboro.

The funeral service will be held in the Trinity Church, Shannonville on Friday afternoon.

He leaves to mourn his loss four daughters, Mrs. Douglas Thompson and Theresa of Foxboro, Frances of Shannonville and Marsha of Belleville, and one son, Clinton of Foxboro.

A large number attended the dance held in the Orange Hall on Wednesday night under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the Anglican Church. Dancing was enjoyed to the lilting music of the Merrymakers Orchestra of Napanee. The door prize, a hamper of groceries, was won by Mr. Byron Seeley; the hundred pound bag of sugar on which tickets were sold was won by Mrs. John Houston. After the various expenses had been paid it was found that a profit of approximately thirty dollars was realized.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Depew of Stoney Creek were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bell.

Mrs. (Rev.) Herbert Pringle was hostess at a linch shower in honor of Miss Jean Maracle, a June bride to be. Mrs. George Culbertson, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, poured tea and Mrs. Robert Hill president of the Ladies' Guild poured coffee, assisted by the Misses Marion, Beatrice, Viola and Alma Harnard and Miss Doris Rose. Armed with a large basket the bride and groom made a very successful treasure hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Badgley were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hamilton, the third line.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Maracle, Clifford and Miss Elsa Maracle spent several days in Hamilton recently visiting with relatives.

Miss Miss Jean and Beatrice Maracle attended the Three Day Convention held at the O. A. C., Guelph.

The Women's Guild held their weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Isaac L. Maracle on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Norway Maracle spent two days last week in Toronto.

Mr. W. N. Bell is spending this week in Stoney Creek and Vineyards where he is visiting with relatives.

Christian Street

Christian Street—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon and Mrs. Harold Cross attended Quinte Chapter No. 59, O. E. S. at Ameliasburg on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Oram and Harry are at home after spending the winter at his lumber camp at Combermere.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowers of Burr's on Tuesday and attended the sale of the late Mrs. Doolittle's household effects in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Chrisly spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden.

Mrs. Harold Cross spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Oscar Parks of Wellington Road.

Misses Marion and Nellie Werden of Belleville spent the weekend with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Calnan called on Mrs. James Noxon on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Adams of Bayside spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon.

Miss Gertrude Cross of Peterborough visited her parents over the weekend with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Noxon and Lillian of Belleville spent Sunday with the parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Roblin spent Sunday with her cousin, Mrs. Amelia Clarke of Foxboro who has been ill for some time.

Miss Betty Bonjesg of Crofton, has been visiting with friends. Miss Marion and Nellie Werden.

A gloom has settled over the neighborhood on Sunday when it became known that Mrs. William Caughey of Crofton, had passed away after a short illness with heart trouble. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family. A large number from here attended the funeral at the home on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hamilton and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Jones of Dorset.

The bridge in Crofton is completed here and many are eagerly awaiting the opening of the road on.

Heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. George Wood on the arrival of a young son.

CHEESEMAKERS HONOR C. F. LINN

Interesting Gathering Held in Stirling Agricultural Hall

Stirling—At a meeting of the Central Hastings Cheesemakers Association held on Tuesday evening in the Stirling Agricultural Hall, the members of the organization paid tribute to the excellent services of Mr. C. F. Linn. Cheese Instructor of this district for the past twenty-seven years. An address was read and signed by each member of the organization and Presidents Morris Rose presented the retiring instructor with handsome pyrex electric dripolator.

Mr. Cyrs. Pollard, who will act in the position so faithfully served by Mr. Linn was present and along with other prominent men in the industry of this section expressed congratulation to the retiring official for the manner in which he had filled the position.

President Morris Rose acted as chairman and introduced each speaker who spoke in high praise of Mr. Linn's association with the men of the district, both from a business standpoint and also in a social way. At this time Mr. Tom Barles, Secretary, was called upon to read the address and the presentation was made by the president.

In expressing his gratitude for the kindly gesture, Mr. Linn spoke of his association with these men as something that will live on. "I will always be ready to give any assistance I can in the improvement of the production of cheese for this district", he stated.

May 17, 1938.

Mr. Linn:—

We, the cheese makers of your former group are taking this opportunity of expressing to you our sincere appreciation of your service as instructor of our group for the past twenty five years.

Your keen interest in the cheese industry and your ability have so created and kept alive a spirit of co-operation among us that our group has always had a very high standing.

We are proud that you are stepping from your position with an excellent record for your self and the cheese-maker under your instruction.

Not only are we as a group losing a man who had a thorough knowledge of his work and a strong sense of duty, but the cheese industry as a whole is losing a man who did all in his power to make Canadian cheese of the purest and finest quality.

Your genial disposition and pleasing personality made us glad to see you come into our factories at any time.

We appreciate also the keen interest that you have shown in our social activities for we realize that it was largely due to your efforts that our social evenings have been successful.

We assure you that you will always receive a warm welcome at our group meetings and at our factories at any time.

As a token of our friendship and admiration for you and Mrs. Linn we ask you to accept this gift.

We hope that it will constantly remind you of the pleasant associations with the cheesemakers of our group.

Hymn 406 was sung and Mrs. Miller led in prayer. The Scripture lesson was read responsively. Business was discussed and Hymn 262 was sung. A poem "Waiting Time" was given and the topic "Missions and Human Uplift" by Mrs. Percy Calland. A duet "Nobody told me of Jesus" was rendered by Minnie Edith and Hazel Walker, accompanied by Mr. C. Ritz. Hymn 344 was sung and the meeting closed with the League Benediction.

They'll Do It Every Time :-: By Jimmy Hatlo

Men past forty can no longer take chances with health and "get away with it," because the body has less resistance to disease and its powers of recuperation are lower.

Common sense must dictate the mode of living, including diet, exercise and habits. A precautionary health check-up should be made at regular intervals by a good physician.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Finlay spent Thursday in Toronto.

Mr. A. Stewart Sr., Turnbull St., who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, is progressing favourably.

Mrs. Mr. Mclean, 89 Victoria Avenue, has returned to the city after spending the winter in Florida.

Mrs. J. Rathman and the Misses Gallagher, 35 Bridge Street West, and Mrs. H. H. Empson, Miss Evelyn Empson and Mr. Jack Empson, were in Toronto Thursday visiting relatives.

Under the auspices of St. George's Guild, a euchre party was held in the Hall last evening. Prizes were won as follows: ladies' first, Mrs. Hall; second, Mrs. High; third, Mrs. Babcock; men's first Mr. Exley, second, Mr. Hill; third, Mr. Darvell. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crawford, who are now residing in Bloomfield spent last week-end at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William J. Masterson, 94 East Moira Street. Mrs. Crawford, who for some time past was a valued employee of the Empire Food Corporation, Limited, Belleville, has accepted a similar position with the Baxter Canners of Bloomfield.

The members of St. George's Guild met on Wednesday evening to honor Mrs. J. Collins, who is leaving shortly on an extended visit to England. At six-thirty a sumptuous banquet was served. Mrs. Trump acting as chairman made a few appropriate remarks after which she called upon Mrs. Bond senior member of the Guild, to present Mrs. Collins with a lovely umbrella with the best wishes of all. Mrs. Collins made a gracious reply and all sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow". Euchre was played until a late hour when all left wishing Mrs. Collins bon voyage.

Miss Kathleen Boyd, Toronto, entertained as a shower in honor of Miss Barbara Wright, of Delora, a June bride-elect. Miss Betty Wright, a sister of the bride-to-be, was Miss Margery Gerald poured tea and coffee, assisted by Miss Rae Willison. White lilacs and red and white tulips decorated the table. In the drawing room streamers of pink and white, attached to balloons of many shades, hung from the chandelier. The presents were attached to the far end of the streamers.

On Friday evening, May 13th, the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Birdie, Front Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Langabeer, North Front Street, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birdie to celebrate with them their wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in playing progressive euchre, first prizes being won by Mrs. Sinclair, and, College Street, Mrs. Daly, R. Moira St., Mr. Ed. Shortis, Donald Street, and Mr. A. Rea, Corbyville, Consolation prizes went to Mrs. Langabeer, North Front St., and Mr. F. Shortis, College St. Supper was served after which Mrs. A. Rea read an address to the brides and grooms. Mrs. Birdie was presented with a table lamp and Mrs. Langabeer with two chesterfield cushions. Mr. Birdie and Mr. Langabeer expressed their thanks and appreciation for the thoughtfulness of their friends. "They are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung and the evening brought to a close.

Women's Association, Ladies' Aid, United Church Meet at Foxboro

The sixth annual convention of the Women's Associations and Ladies'-aid societies of Prince Edward and Hastings counties in the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, was held in Foxboro Church, Thursday afternoon and evening.

The large number of delegates and visitors were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Walter Wickett, president of the Foxboro Aid, and Rev. and Mrs P. Horton. The church, beautifully decorated with spring flowers and potted plants presented a very pleasing appearance.

Presided Presider

The President, Mrs. C. E. Mackie, of Stirling, presided for the two sessions in her usual capable and pleasing manner. The opening hymn was "What a Friend We Have in Jesus", and Clinnel W. A. conducted the devotional period with Mrs. A. Brown in charge. "O Master Let me Walk with Thee", was sung after which Mrs. L. Bird read verses from the twenty-first chapter of Revelations and gave a wonderful explanation of them. Miss Nina Carlisle followed with a solo "I built a Cathedral Deep Down in my Heart", with Mrs. H. Fyear at the piano.

Mrs. Ci. Priest on behalf of the Foxboro W.A. extended a cordial welcome to all present, to which Mrs. F. J. Bellerdine replied.

The president then addressed the meeting. "A chain," she said "is as strong as the weakest link". The president and executive cannot run such a society, no matter how interested or capable they may be. She referred to the "Mission Band" the tame and wild flowers and fruit and how cultivation improves plants. To become a diamond we must improve ourselves, but it takes work. Mary, Martha's sister, would have a place on the devotional committee, as she was fond of sitting at Jesus' feet to learn more, and then tell it to others.

The ministering group comprises Joana—wife of Herod's steward, who no doubt had means.

Salome—ready to do any task to serve Jesus' for her sons, James and John were thinkers.

Mary Magdalene—cured by Jesus of seven diseases, served Him last at the cross and first at the tomb.

Woman in Samaria, who talked with Jesus at the well and told all. "Come see a Man who knows all about me and loves me". She would find new members today.

Dorcas—She would be convener of sewing committee.

Mary, mother of John Mark opened her home for prayer as she would assist in prayer service today.

We, as members of a society should strive to follow in these footsteps no matter to what group they belong, and have as our guide the Master who trod the highways and byways of long ago.

Fine Solo

Mrs. J. Heagle, Wellman's, rendered a beautiful solo "There is a Star in Bethlehem" with Mrs. H. Elliott at the piano.

The reception and courtesy committees were then appointed.

Nominating committee, Mesdames W. Bailey, Stirling, Ting and Miss Brickman. Courtesy committee, Mesdames; Newman, Foster and Roblin.

Mrs. (Dr.) Semple, Belleville, had charge of the study period, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us", was sung by Mrs. Ada Reid, Island, Psalm 121. Mrs. Semple spoke on "Shortcuts". Bronchial Disorders Discussed

Throat Ailment May Be Mistaken for Common Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENNING, M. D.

ABOUT THIS time of year a number of people find they can't lose their winter cold. They keep coughing and spitting and ...ting chilled.

They constantly announce that they are catching cold again.

If this happens to a person spring after spring so that the winter cough is prolonged into the hot weather, it probably is bronchitis or bronchiectasis, which is a dilation of the bronchial tubes, and strenuous steps should be taken to treat it in the early stages.

This chronic bronchial infection is not well understood by the medical profession. I am afraid, I know a great many people who have gone to doctors with a plain case and have been told that there is nothing really the matter with them. It is true that one cannot find very much by an ordinary examination of the lungs, but the symptoms, and general picture are sufficient to make a diagnosis if one is familiar with the condition.

When It Begins

It usually begins in young adult life with a series of colds in the nose and chest. They are not ushered by colds in the ordinary sense, but an infection of the nose and throat keeps lighting up the chest condition. In the course of time the "colds" become continuous.

These people are very subject to drafts, and changes of temperature make them catch cold all over again. They always have a good coughing spell in the morning and drain a great deal of matter out of their bronchial tubes. This usually becomes serious enough so that they are emaciated and complain of chronic invalids.

Treatment consists in, first, clearing up the nasal condition; second, postural drainage of the bronchial tubes by hanging over a chair with the head down so that the lungs and bronchial tubes will drained; third, change of climate.

A Boston surgeon advocates removing the infected part of the lung.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

F. F. R.: "Will you please tell me about a diet for gall bladder? Are fruits, butter and tomatoes to be eaten? How about the yolks of eggs? Are they to be taken raw? If so, how many a day?"

Answer: When there is any jaundice, fat foods such as egg yolk and butter should not be eaten. But they stimulate and drain the gall bladder, and in the intervals of attacks may be taken. The egg yolks are just as effective cooked as raw. Fruits and vegetables in any form are to be encouraged.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Do Girls Really Like Cave-Man Tactics?

Why is it that so many women imagine they would like to be bossed by a cave-man before marriage, but object to it vehemently afterwards?

An illustration of this before and after treatment was presented in Judge T. McMahon's court, Washington, D.C., the other day.

A couple, looking daggers at each other, took their troubles to His Honor. The husband, Mr. F., it seems, was thoroughly tired of bachelor housekeeping and wanted evidently to have Mrs. F. return to him. But his "wish-fulfillment" took the form of threatening her life, and making himself generally unpleasant. The strong-arm wooing had failed completely. And Mrs. F., though not opposed to cave-man tactics before marriage, left her husband hald into court.

The wise judge, well-versed in the ramifications of the human heart, saw immediately that Mr. F. wished to become reconciled to his wife and to take her home with him, though he took this oblique method of showing it. Counsellen the judge:

"I was foolish to try and scare her into coming back to you; it would have been much better to have taken the tender way."

The husband was released on his personal bonds, and the wife departed by another door. Just another case where cave-man tactics have failed completely after marriage.

Of course, there are some women so spineless, so utterly devoid of will-power, so possible to impose up their minds, that they have to be told when to come in out of the rain. And these accept the cave-man bidding gleefully. But the average woman discovers, after she has said the "I do's", that she has a will of her own and is quite capable of using it.

Is this due to her changed status; or is it just one more evidence of human contrariety? So often I have been puzzled by letters which come to this column from girls with comfortable salaries who are bored to death with economic independence, freedom, and long for a man's place-ure to consult but their own.

These "footloose-and-fancy-free" girls imagine they'd love to be bossed by a conquering hero, who would appear on a dash of cave-man along with Prince Charming. But their changed minds before the honeymoon is over. And the bewildered male, who imagined a haven was awaiting him—a haven where his word would be law—suffers a rude awakening when he discovers the little woman has a will of her own, and insists on exercising it.

And here's a letter from a groom, who found the honeymoon as a solitaire:

"What in heck is the matter with girls anyhow. Before we were married she would consult me about everything, even her hats and dresses, and I was supposed to should attend. I thought everything was going to be so peaceful and pleasant to get married life. We came to Atlantic City on our honeymoon, ten days ago, and she left me yesterday. I wanted to take some swimming lessons at a pool here, and she insisted me to push her up and down the board walk in one of the roll chairs. We had some words. I didn't go home with her, but walked on the sand. When I got back to our room, she had gone, leaving me a mean note. I can't understand it. Before we were married she always wanted to do things my way.

Lonesome Husband

Table Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—If I have three or more people for dinner, should the best silver also be served last?

2—Having only gentlemen for a luncheon, should the host be served first or last?

3—When the dessert is a fruit salad, how is the silver arranged?

4—Should the salt be left on the table?

5—Are sauces such as are bought in bottles passed in the bottles or in small dishes?

R.

1—Yes, the best is served last. If there is a waitress, she serves first the woman seated at the host's right, then proceeds to the right, serving the guests in the order in which they are seated . . . and this means that the host is served last. If the hostess is carving and serving, he serves the women guests first, then the men and, of course, himself last.

2—At a "stag" luncheon, the host would also be served last.

3—The fork that is to be used with the fruit salad . . . it may be a salad fork or any medium-sized fork . . . may be placed before the fruit-salad-dessert is served, or it may be placed nearest the plate at the left when the table is set, or it may be placed, in the European manner, above the plate when the table is set.

If you place both a knife and fork for the fruit salad, as many hostesses do, a salad fork and salad knife may be placed, or the luncheon fork and knife. Then, with the fork at the left of the plate nearest the plate, the knife is placed at the right of the plate nearest the plate for both silverpieces may be placed, parallel to each other, above the plate, the handle of the knife pointing to the right, the handle of the fork pointing to the left.

5—Before the dessert course, the table is cleared. The plates of the course preceding dessert are removed. Then the waitress removes pieces of ...silver—er... ... (as a serving tray) the unused silver, the salts and peppers, and any other accessories which have been used in the preceding courses, such as nut cups. Then with a folded napkin and swish or sweep of the hand she brushes the edge of the table, the waitress then stacks each plate at each person at table.

6—When the dessert is a fruit salad (as you mention in your third question) and crackers may be served in the salad or butter plate may, if you think it more convenient, be left on the table when the table is cleared.

5—If we can possibly plan otherwise, we should avoid placing these sauce bottles on the table. Most of the same attractively-labeled sauces aren't exactly sightly on a table: If the family is "sauce-minded" the sauces may be served in, say, a small pitcher, making the serving even more tidy than in a bottle.

Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it good form for a widow who is marrying a divorced man to have a formal wedding "complete with" wedding processional, bridesmaids, and so forth? Such a wedding was held in a church near here recently, and I have been wondering about this in relation to my own wedding plans.

L.

To be in the best form, the wedding of a widow should be planned very simply. It should not be planned so that the word "elaborate" could be used to describe it. The bride should not wear a bridal veil or orange blossoms. She does not have bridesmaids, but she may, if she wishes, have a maid or matron of honor. She also wears an afternoon dress and hat; often she wears a travelling dress or suit.

Everything about the wedding whether it is held in a church or in her own home, should be dignified and correct, and it can be very charming.

Girl Told To Remain Faithful

Writer Advises Her to Keep Promise to Sweetheart

By VIRGINIA LEE

IT IS HARD to give up our own way, isn't it? We want what we want when we want it, and we want to do what we want to and no opposition. We can always find perfectly good arguments, too, to back up anything we may want to do, but somehow those same arguments don't mean a thing when other people use them.

To make myself clear and get down to cases, here is a young girl who never has "gone steady" with any one boy until lately. She has the name of being fickle. She is evidently a very attractive young person and has numerous boy friends.

Now she, of her own accord, she writes, tells me about her friend that she wouldn't go out with other boys, and he promised he wouldn't date any other girl.

Now our young friend, PICKLE PUSS, wants to know if I'd go to a show with another boy—one she has known for some time, but for whom she cares nothing in particular—and she is puzzled as to whether she should go or not. Her postscript is illuminating.

"Would you be sent out on me I would" be so hurt I just wouldn't know what to do. I would give back his ring and quit him."

Then why do you think you should even consider going out with another boy when you have given your promise to go with no other boys. Doesn't such a promise mean anything to you? Do you think you risk hurting a boy you do like just to get even with a girl who admittedly do not care much for? It sounds silly to me, aside from the fact that it would be breaking your promise.

You may say he may be a little late in reaching you, but I hope you didn't go with any other boy. And, a promise is a promise, and an honorable boy would be hurt by his word. You can tell how your boy friend would feel if you did go out with the other chap by your own feelings if he should go out with someone else.

No, six months is not a great difference in people's ages—even if you are that much older than the boy. I do think that a boy and girl of 18 are too young to get married. A man should at least be of age, and his mother should be when they take that important step.

AN INTERESTED READER wants me to remind Luke, the young man who is being helped by his physician not to marry, that there is the Great Physician who can heal if one has faith in him.

SONG

For me the jasmine buds unfold
And silver daisies star the lea,
The crocus hoards the sunset gold
And the wild rose breathes for me.
I feel the sap through the vine returning,
I share the sylark's transport fine,
I know the fountain's wayward yearning
I love, and the world is mine!

I love, and thoughts that sometime grieved,
Still well remembered, grieve not me;
From all that darkened and deceived
Upsoars my spirit free.
For 'tort the flowers repeat one story,
Sings the sea one strain divine,
My clouds arise all flushed with glory;
I love, and the world is mine!

How to Curb Dominant Child

Heavy Responsibility Will Keep Him From Losing His Balance

(By LISA GRENELLE)

NINE-YEAR-OLD FRANK was always a "couple of jumps" ahead of everyone. His brothers couldn't keep up with him, neither could his sisters nor any of his friends. He had even been known to "put it over" on his father and his school teacher.

He never missed a trick. Like a shot he could pick up your own weapons and use them against you. Just in fun, of course, but enough to prove, just the same, that you were no match for him.

Frank was, of course, the pride of his family—and, the problem. For his own sake, and for theirs, he needed slowing up. Everything was too easy for him; his talents gave him too much reason to feel superior, and already he was showing a tendency to bully. He was a natural leader. He had more initiative, more imagination and more confidence than any of the other children. He knew what to do, and was never afraid to do it. He was never troubled with indecision.

Not Good For Him

Was it a good thing for Frank, this habit of ordering everyone about, of seeing them obey? Most certainly it was not. Undisputed authority is never a healthy diet for anyone. But how to stop it? What can be done to offset it?

Now, you can't put Frank back in a normal nine-year-old's place, because he doesn't belong there. On the other hand, you can't let him go on playing "general" without ever letting him get word of your position. It would demoralize his entire sense of values.

So why not give the boy some responsibilities, some that ordinarily would be left to the older 12-year old, in which he can take some pride, but which will really tax his talents? Give him a job in which even he may fail if he isn't careful.

Needs Failure

Failure is good for this type of child. It will keep his feet on the ground, spur him to greater effort and prevent him from feeling too superior.

Failure should be suffered for the first time now rather than later, howbeit.

If a child like Frank runs the world without a hitch until he is grown up, and then is blocked unexpectedly, it may defeat him, for he has had no opportunity to build a defense against such. He has never known it, and is therefore unprepared for it.

All dominant children like Frank should have as much responsibility as possible. They should be urged to perfect themselves in one difficult sport or other endeavor.

Cholly Grimm's Ramping Cubs Take Giants for 2nd Straight With Bill Lee in Hero Role

Hurler Allows Only Five Hits And Blanks Terry's Men 1-0

INDIANS ON TOP

Cleveland Swamps Senators While Boston Blanked by White Sox

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Right-inning Lee is 10-inning Bill now, and things are perking up for Cholly Grimm's galloping Cubs from Chicago.

It had been so long since Bill went the route that the folks were beginning to think he didn't know there were nine innings in a ball game. Someone must have tipped him off yesterday however, because he not only lasted the regulation distance, but added one inning for good measure and handed the Giants a 1-0 setback.

This victory set a lot of precedent for the 1938 season, but most of all it changed the folks' mind about Bill. In six previous starts this year, Lee hadn't lasted. In his last five trips to the post in 1937, the same situation prevailed.

But, after a streak of 11 times in which he failed to finish what he started, Bill's arm and legs had as classy as ever. He pitched a five-hit job in his "comeback", didn't walk a man, and grew stronger and faster inning by inning.

Cleveland Back on Top

While the Cubs' second-in-a-row over former Terry lads was a thrilling baseball news of the day, such other things happened yesterday as and there as the return of Cleveland to the top of the American League; the second straight over-time victory for Boston's Bees over Pittsburgh Pirates, and the end of Boston Red Sox's eight-game winning streak, as well as the finish of their stay on the top of the American League.

The Pirates dropped a 4-3 decision to the Bees in 11 frames yesterday, which boosted Casey Stengel's boys riding a five-game winning streak, into third place in the National League.

Doing About Face

Back home after a costly road trip, the Indians are about-facing as usual. No matter how they loiter around the circuit, they're always tough, tough and dangerous in Cleveland. Yesterday they bashed the Washington Senators 16-3. The Red Sox, after having won eight straight and taken over the pace, were blanked 4-0 by Johnny Whitehead and the White Sox in an abbreviated seven-inning affair, and dropped back to second.

Hugh (losing pitcher) Mulcahy fooled the boys and girls in Philadelphia by pitching the Phillies to a 8-4 win over Cincinnati. Brooklyn Dodgers trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4.

Rudy York and Hank Greenberg each contributed a homer and Detroit Tigers trounced the Athletics 6-2. The Yankees and Browns were rained out.

MANAGER CHANGE NOT MUCH HELP

Syracuse Chiefs Continue Downward Path Despite Shakeup

The sovereign remedy for a ball club's slump, a change of managers, isn't what it used to be.

Syracuse Chiefs, deep in the ruck of the International League, tried it yesterday, getting rid of Jim Bottomley and replacing him with Dick Porter. Then the Chiefs went out last night and were thumped 10-3, by the champion Newark Bears.

All this activity (or non-activity) has put the Chiefs deeper, detracted somewhat from other events as the league opened its night baseball season. At Baltimore Pitcher Tom Baker and the wabbling Jersey City Giants with a 2-1 victory over the Orioles. At Buffalo, Montreal Royals treated themselves to an 18-9 win over the Bisons.

The Bears' win won only six games under Bottomley and were nestled comfortably in the cellar. And Jim, who had found his aging legs couldn't carry him through the season, saw no pleasant summer ahead in the league. So the Bottomley is out and Porter, a veteran outfielder with a hitch in the big league record, is in. He has no easy task ahead.

AUBURN BOWLERS FIRST IN CAN.-AM.

Defeats Amsterdam While Ogdensburg And Cornwall Split

(By The Canadian Press)

Auburn Bowleys have stretched their latest winning streak to three games and are back in first place today in the Canadian-American League. Only three days ago, Ogdensburg Colts and Cornwall Bisons were fighting it out for the first place slot in a two-game series but Bowleys have gone a step further on things by taking two in a row from Amsterdam Rugmakers, while Colts and Bisons were cutting one another's throats with a victory apiece.

Yesterday, pitcher O'Shea led Bowleys to an 8-3 win over Rugmakers. He allowed six scattered hits and fanned nine batters, as his teammates connected for two three-run rallies and a brace of single and one offerings at Cliff and Baker, Garrison homered on O'Shea's initial pitch, two more runs were all the Amsterdam bats could add.

Meanwhile, Bisons were aiding the cause by swamping Colts, 12-2. Three pitchers were unable to stem the tide as Cornwall took advantage of four miscues along with their eight hits to blast the champions off their lofty perch.

Prime Colonists evened up their series with Gloversville-Johnstown by coming five runs in the last two frames to win 5-4, while Ottawa Braves were absorbing a 19-1 beating at the hands of Oswego Nationals.

112 Pounds.

Martin of Madoc lost this one to Martin of Trenton with the latter receiving a distinct margin over the loser.

138 Pounds

Madoc won both of the 138 pound events, one of the best well known local hockey star won a close decision from Bob Derry of Trenton. This was one of the best bouts of the evening with both boys fairly matched.

In the second 138 pound event Cotsey Edwards of Madoc won by much for his shorter opponent, George Baker, Trenton.

145 Pounds

Kil Kincaid also a battler from the hockey team made his boxing debut in grand style as he forced McMurdock to take a count three times in the three rounds.

The remaining bout in the Battle of the Century was the shortest event on the program as Tony Terry Brummel of Trenton easily disposed of his rival, Jack Madoc again in the third and deciding meeting between these two boys. Brummel scored seven knock-outs and was never restrained his superiority.

The semi-final bout was the best on the card. White Golden Glove winner, of Peterboro won an extra pound decision from Bristol of Madoc.

The final event was 135 pound battle between Jibber Ellis of Trenton and Mark Storms of Belleville. Ellis, the golden glove winner was held to a decision by Storms. The bout was fast and disclosed good boxing but neither of the boys landed any tell-tale blows.

EXPECT FOURTEEN TO BE NAMED IN KING'S PLATE RACE

Horses Will be Closely Guarded Until Post Time

MAY BE HEAVY TRACK

Seagram Stable Will be Represented by Tabhim

Toronto, May 20—(CP)—Fourteen thoroughbreds, the best Ontario-bred fillies, geldings and colts available, were expected to be named today for the 79th running of the King's Plate Saturday.

All candidate for the $7,500 added purse and 50 guineas, donated by the King, have been tuned to perfection and declared fit to battle over a mile-and-a-furlong. The race is open to three and four-year-olds which have never won a race other than those for juveniles.

Bushy Lawless, the favorite and pride of Willie Morrissey's stable, was guarded closely from prying eyes as post-time neared. Stable hands took more than usual care with his bedding and let no stranger any possible mishap.

Lawless also was watchword in other stables. Suffern and Carnicole, R. C. Hatch's three-year-old classic for the third straight year were constantly in attendance of their colt. Hatch won the race in 1936 with Monsweep and Goldlure won it in 1937.

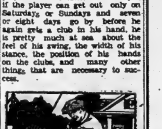
Glad Seagram in

Enthusiasm rippled around Woodbine Park when word was recorded the famed yellow and black colors of the Seagram stable at Waterloo, Ont., would be carried in the race.

Until yesterday the stable was not scheduled to have an entry, when nominations were released last month the usual Seagram representative was absent. Trevor Seagram, son of Edward Seagram who died more than a year ago, didn't have a horse to name.

SPORTS NIGHT HELD AT O.S.D.

Honoring their school championship teams in the various sports, and a competitive team sport, the Ontario School for the Deaf held its annual sports night and banquet in the school last night. The banquet followed the culmination of the recreational program of the school year in which basketball, baseball, volley ball, handball, table tennis and quoits participated. Distinguished guests occupied the head table with Mr. W. J. Morrison, superintendent of the O.S.D. and Mr. A. H. Hall, secretary of Belleville "Y" as speakers for the occasion.



In his discourse to the students and members of the school staff, Mr. Shortt stressed the need of physical recreation for the young, the powers of endurance, all of which he termed as essential and a great factor to the building of fine citizens of worth. "These things should come after our duties in our profession and our church" added Mr. Shortt as he then related personal experiences which he had enjoyed with veteran athletes and sportsmen, such as Tom Longboat, George Young, Clarence deMar, Lou Scholes and numerous other veteran athletes in which Mr. Shortt was at one time closely connected. The speaker then gave concrete examples of how games should be played, taking examples from life and their experiences on the field of sport. Miss Shortt complimented Mr. Hall and Rice's well known sports poem —"The Code of a Good Sport."

Mr. Shortt congratulated Mr. Hall on physical directory at the O.S.D., was pleased with comments he received upon, as were the efforts of Miss Cass, Miss Daly, Mr. Ed Lally and others, who so capably assisted in the promotion of sports and athletics at the O.S.D. Nearly one hundred students, school staff members and guests attended the annual O.S.D. "sports night banquet" which was voted the finest in the history of the school. The members of the school championship teams were afforded school crests and introduced to those present.

The Four Memory

One of the biggest handicaps the average golfer has to fight against is the fact that he does not play often enough to remember how he played the last time. For example, the player can get out only on Saturday, or Sundays and seven or eight days go by before he again gets a club in his hand, he is pretty much at sea about the feel of his swing, the width of his stance, the position of his hands on the clubs, and many other things, that are necessary to success.

Number 22.

Even when playing almost daily the position of the hands and feel will vary somewhat, and it is only the extreme familiarity of regular play that enables one to overcome the errors natural to golf. A great deal of the handicap of the irregular play can be overcome in a very simple way. It doesn't take much more than the handling of a club to keep in your mind about the things to do on the course.

Some time ago I suggested keeping a club hanging at home or back of the door in the office so that it would be ready to reach when an opportunity presented itself for a few minutes practice. I now mean to encourage the neglect of work or business for golf, but there are minutes, during the day when a little relaxation is in order and you could improve your game with some constructive work about your home.

Try picking up a club at least once a day during the week and I am sure you'll feel more at home when you do get out on the course.

The umpire of the C.O.B.L. and the Bay of Quinte met at Napanee last night for the purpose of reviewing the rules and regulations of baseball before taking to the field next Tuesday. We imagine that Peterboro and Oshawa scribes will get quite a 'kick' out of this announcement, but there are many who argue relative to the rules of baseball, having never seen inside the cover of a rule book. Last night's meeting is unique, in that it is naturally present, was most instructive as many of the would-be arbiters brought up interesting points for discussion, some even proving the rules of baseball, as laid down in the official book were contradictory. The rules were thoroughly discussed while each umpire present was given a copy of "Instructions to Umpires" as issued by the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs. We were fortunate to procure a number through certain contacts and passed them along to our fellow-umpires for their general benefit we hope. The meeting should materially assist the umpires in general and also result in better officiating on the field.

Here is one of the contradictory rules found in the rule book and thoroughly discussed last night. Here's the way Rule 47 reads: "The base runner is out when forced without liability to be put out in advance one base except where more are specified in the following cases: Section 1. If while the batsman is batting a base runner.... if a fair ball batted strikes the person or clothing of the umpire.... on fair ground before touching a fielder, Provided that if a fair ball strike the umpire after having passed a fielder (but not the pitcher) ... the ball shall be considered in play." To contradict we have rule 32, that reads: "The ball is dead and not in play: (d) in case a fair hit ball strikes ... umpire before touching a fielder ..." Therefore, if the bases are filled and the infield plays in on the grass to cut off a possible runner at the plate and the umpire places himself behind the infielders, and the batter connects for a hit that goes through the infield, the batter strikes the umpire and bounces back into the infield according to rule 47, section 1, the ball is in play because it struck the umpire after passing a fielder, other than the pitcher. But, according to Rule 32 (d) any fair hit ball which strikes the umpire before touching a fielder is declared dead. So, we have a contradiction. Other knotty problems were also discussed.

Mark Storms, Belleville favoured leather-pusher, will climb through the ropes at the Hume Arena to meet his toughest opponent in history tonight when he meets "Kidds" Semple, the pride of the Air Force. Semple came from Ottawa highly heralded as a slugging attraction, Belleville fans have not been afforded much boxing of a late date, but with eight bouts on the card, all proven stars, the return of boxing to its former lofty status should be a certainty.

We understand there are more than one anxious person around the city these days. Why?—well it seems that one week from today the Intial drawing for the Parish Sweepstakes will take place on May 27th and 28th. Belleville has a large quota of ticket-holders, all of whom are living in hopes of having lucky tickets this trip.

Art Scarlett native of Trenton, who one time patrolled left field for Belleville in the days when baseball was the pride of the whole club, but more recently has been playing in Napanee, has posted up stakes and migrated to Northern Ontario, where he will try out with the Haileybur Miner seniors. Art he'ted a tidy .275 in 1936, his best year in the Central League. The good wishes of all his sport fans will follow Art Scarlett.

Although distance running seems to have been long forgotten in Belleville there are many who still interested in the oldest sport known, feel racing. Bert Girling, Belleville's lone remaining distance "ARTIST" .... tance runner is now ..... training in the middle distances, preparing for the grander affair. Bert is seeking runners with whom he can train at the Exhibition Park. Runners interested should leave their names at the Y.M.C.A. Bert says any middle distance running was featured throughout Northern Ontario, but seems to have fallen into bad graces as far as Bi he Mr. Girling's intention is interest a few of the younger set in middle distance running in the hope of reviving this ancient and honorable sport.

Do you remember when Pete Latzo dethroned Mickey Walker as world's welterweight boxing champion 12 years ago tonight? The 10-round decision over the "toy bull-dog" at Comiskey Park four years later Walker became middleweight champion. Georges Carpentier, "Tiger" Flowers, only negro to hold that title, mastered heavyweight ranks in 1931.

The Deacon "Sportswear" trundlers won the Major League honors at the Recreation Alleys last evening, defeating the Belleville Pruit quintette in straight sets in the finals. It was the same five, Bill Belnap, Doug Tobe, D. Cameron, Art Whalen and Les Shiels, who won this year to repeat their accomplishments of last season previous under another name, however. Last night's scores were much lower than the initial tilts of the season, when top flight bowling was seen. The deciding of the Major League championships, practically terminates the bowling season at lightweight, but Storms has been afforded much boxing of a should add fuel to tonight's main

DANGER IN THE MIST

By

Martha King Davis

"I sure worked all wrong for Silas Lydia. She knew Judy was in the room, but she wouldn't look at it—she could only trust to hate.

"She was ready to jump when she heard Judy at the 'phone—and she slipped into the room and changed the tablets again, and later she was able to slip the poisoned ones in the bathroom."

He hesitated a moment, said everything went wrong. This time, Miss Linnell caught her musing, as it got away.

Our eyes flew to that cringing figure in the big chair. The girl did not speak.

"Another chance for little black-mailing," said the sheriff contemptuously. "Well — I guess you'll have to pay me back that ten thousand. If I'd only known—"

"It's all right to suspect, Sheriff, you've got to suspect. There were only a few tablets—would she have more in her room? I searched—but I could find nothing.

"Then tonight—she played into my hands. When Bunko burst into that room, Lydia Caldwell was standing by the open bureau drawer, which had been concealed between the doors. Of course no one wouldn't dream that poison was there.

"Well, I found all the evidence I needed in that drawer—including the tablets. She hadn't settled back there you are with the whole story."

"I was beginning to suspect her," said Parker, "but I couldn't get hold of any evidence, only guesses." He turned to Norma. "I do hope you will forgive me, Mrs. Caldwell, for so stupidly accusing you, but I was under great pressure, Barres."

She nodded, and there was a little silence in the room.

I felt Mac straighten beside me. "That's okay, Sheriff, but how did you get on to Lydia?" he said.

"Well—darn if I can see how Miss Lydia shot Barres thinking—"

"That's what I was thinking," said Grace Linnell. "Lydia was in the room with Barres long after I left and on when that shot was fired."

"I think I can solve that," said Dr. Parker. "Lydia found Barres already dead when she heard the shot that killed poor old Barres. All right, Sheriff—listen to the man whose murdered Barres is none other than our friend here — Detective Parker."

CHAPTER 39

The Sheriff Needs a Confession

I have never heard such language as burst from the lips of the infuriated handkerchief detective.

Everyone looked astonished! Detective Parker! Somehow I knew I had not been so dumfounded about him before. Still, although I had distrusted and disliked this man, I had never seen him in any way with the crime. Of course, one reason was because he had not become real to me until after the murder had been committed. Even now—here—I doubted.

But the sheriff was saying sharply: "Detective Parker! There ain't any use blasphemin'. There's nothin' about you I don't know, and it's pretty nearly everything. I'm all there and hear a little past history —it'll do you good.

"I asked you right off what agency you were from, and you said you wasn't connected with any but you had worked some with Calhoun's. I'm frightened of Calhoun up on that—he'd never heard of you. And when Sidney told me that Miss Lydia, I knew she would never have said that a real sleuth.

"You shot Barres while Miss Lydia had her smooth alibi, and you 'planted' the revolver in the book-case after you'd overheard me give instructions to Judy to hunt that gun. You were sure dumb about that. Ye-up—the revolver episode worked mighty well.

"Then it, Wilson!" snarled Parker, who had been struggling to regain his self-control, "you were right there to fix this. I can explain every move I've taken. Lydia shot Barres myself."

"The sheriff held up his hand. 'There's no use saying more about the dead Barres, he hated to. She's got plenty to answer for—plenty. Besides—I've never let anybody get this if it hadn't been for you.

"Because you thought I'd search your room, did you? Well, I did—and when I found a ball addressed to you, I'll admit I never even thought I'd run up and look at the joint and perhaps find what I found inside dope.

"But the address was wrong. The woman said you'd left that place along about the first of May. Said you'd moved to another place—I guessed it was because of 'that woman.' She thought the new location was on Dartmouth Street.

"I finally found it. Your new landlady—Mrs. Jonson Parker was mixed up pretty bad in the murder case—she loosened up a whole lot.

"Mighty nice quarters you have there, but you didn't want them long cleaned out." The sheriff paused to relight his cigar. "Nothing startlin'—insisting left lying around. But I found out that a woman answering to the general description of Lydia Caldwell was apt to visit you there in awhile, and that was really all I wanted to know."

An oath burst from the detective. "Why—I wouldn't! She—"

"No, I had to come back to get the rest of the evidence, thanks to Bunko, here it is. For Miss Lydia had just finished writing her confession and was putting it in that drawer when the monkey-bit her.

"Here's the damaging few pages of evidence, Parker. 'Confession! Damn all women! Never always be confessed! You ought to have known.'

"You ought to have known. Man of the world like you ought to know women."

The sheriff put on his glasses and took a paper from his pocket. He began to read just the confession —just as she wrote it not so many hours ago. It is kind of hypnotic—one of places, but it tells just about everything."

"I feel the net closing in about me now this last thing has killed me —I am afraid and terribly unnerving. I have decided to write it all, for if the truth is known I do not think I will be so condemned.

"I should never have done these things if I had not been made to feel that I was the only poison tablets, as I now plan—the real culprit in all this may go free.

"When Eliot married and brought his bride and baby to live with us, I thought I never could be happy. I not only did I hate both of them, but Eliot changed to me. Whereas he had always been kind and devoted, he now seemed suspected that I get out—go and live by myself. Of course, I should have done that very thing, but I was jealous. I did not want her to have entire control of the two places, which should by rights belong to me. Especially at that time—I was—where I always looked after everything and everybody.

"Last November I went to a spiritualist meeting at a hall on Huntingdon Avenue. I put a question in the box telling of my trouble, and asking advice. That medium seemed to get in touch with my mother, who said I must fight my way through and not get discouraged.

"I became greatly interested in spiritualism, and I went every-where—always with a man by the name of Professor Johnson Parker, who had a little place on Washington Street. I ought to have known he was a fake, for everything had to be done so surreptitiously.

"I told him all my troubles. I was desperate—I was not very intimate with the man, so that I knew at last I have no use for a medium or had anything to do with spiritualism, I was too infatuated to care.

"He made love to me—promised that some day we would be married. But—why not get control of everything? Little by little he talked to me of the plan. If Eliot could be done away with—the guilt put on Norma—everything would be all right.

"I was aghast at the thought, but my horror lessened as he painted the picture of the future with Eliot out of the way. The world—the place here—money—love—everything.

"So we arranged to carry out the scheme sometime this summer. I was to use tablets he gave me, to poison Eliot at a time when Norma would be involved. Then I was to send for him, as a detective, and he would prove her guilty.

"That night came and everything worked in my favor. The quarrel of dinner—the quarrel in the library. I didn't intend to shoot Eliot. I was going to make him more angry with Norma. I knew he would drink and I knew I could devise a way to slip a couple of the poison tablets into his glass.

"But when I went in he was too dead drunk to swallow anything. I could not rouse him at all. The revolver was there, so—I used that.

"I had gloves and I wore a pair of Norma's slippers, and I left a handkerchief of hers on the floor. I had not wanted to use the revolver, it unnerved me. Then—I could not get back quickly with Norma in the library. I ran into Barnes. He knew right away from my condition that something terrible had happened. I made him swear he would never tell he having seen me.

"When the body was discovered and I found all my carefully arranged evidence destroyed—I was nearly frantic. I don't know how I came to notice the revolver.

"I sent for Johnson, as we had planned, and he brought back my courage. But—though did not go with him. Johnson overheard Barnes telling Elias that he was going to tell all he knew about the case to the sheriff.

"I could not kill Barnes! It was arranged that I should have an alibi—that Johnson would fire the shot.

"But even after the revolver was found the sheriff would not arrest Norma. And I began to get very nervous and frightened, for—there is something about the house! An unexplainable sound—a face at the window. Is it Eliot's spirit come to haunt me? I think I am going mad.

"When Johnson suggested we poison Norma, it seemed I never could go through with it. It was not until he threatened to expose me that I would consent.

"And now—that has failed. Grace found me changing the envelopes. She says she will only keep silent at a price, but I cannot pay.

"I have a feeling the sheriff knows all, and as I am writing this to put in the drawer, if I decide to take the tablets tonight—

"The sheriff folded the written sheets. "Sec—that's all. Any statement to make, Mr. Johnson Parker—"

"It's all a lie!" he cried hoarsely. "She was crazy—crazy to get control of her brother's money. She was the one who did all the planning—Judy pulled me into that!"

The sheriff nodded understandingly. "I see. I suppose you would not have shot Barnes if she—"

"No—of course not! She—Poor Parker! Too late for me to help him. His face grew livid.

Wilson rose. "Well—I guess you all better hustle off to bed. Barry and I will tend to everything. You can all get a few hours of real sleep, knowing there won't be any murderers lurking around—nor any more murders."

CHAPTER 30

The Fog Lifts

I don't know about the others, but I slept those few hours—a dead sleep until nearly ten o'clock in the morning.

When I looked at my watch, I jumped out of bed in dismay. I must get right straight down into the kitchen and start breakfast. How could I have slept so late!

But out in the hall was the delicious odor of coffee and bacon. Who on earth—?

I dressed in double-quick time and fairly flew down the stairs. There in the dining room—Miss Linnell—just as though she had never been away!

She threw my arms around her. "Elizu—you old honey! Was I ever so glad to see anyone!"

She acted glad to see me, too. Was came for me this morning. I'm thankful for terrible things are over."

Elias—of course you weren't surprised about Miss Lydia. Barnes had told you."

"Yes. Barnes told me just before they killed him. I was scairt almost to death. If I told, I was afraid they'd find out and tell me. But I knew I had to tell somebody, so I did tell. No—I wasn't surprised about Miss Lydia. She was always a queer kind and I wasn't surprised about that detective, either. I'm glad he's getting to get his. She shot that range door with a satisfied little grunt. "Now I'll get better eat our breakfast. Everybody in the house has had theirs, but you."

"Where's Mr. Parker and Mrs. Caldwell?"

"She was up when I got here. She said to let you sleep. She's gone into town with Mac. There's a good deal for her to look after, the Alcotts will help her. She had quite a time with Eddy this morning, but in the end he seemed kind of glad it was gone.

"Ugh—it's a wonder that terrible beast didn't kill every last one of us!"

"We do owe him a great deal, though. He made Miss Lydia so panicky she hardly knew what she was doing. And he did stage a peppy last act. Oh, Elias!" I had a sudden thought. "Where's Bunko? Isn't down, is she?"

"Yes—he's in Mac Brought her into town when he come for me. She's cleared out—bag and baggage. Guess she couldn't stay Mrs. Caldwell. Well—I'm not surprised about that, either."

It was a busy day. I only caught occasional glimpses of Mac flying about, and Norma Caldwell was here there and everywhere. She already looked like a different person. "You won't leave me, will you, Martha? I'll need you terribly. I need you now—more than ever."

Of course I had no thought of leaving.

It was not until late afternoon that I happened across a newspaper. There were glaring headlines. The door—if only there might be kept from the morbid interest of the curious public!

But there was a different item in little heap on the library floor. Mac—my eyes had caught a small paragraph—

"An interesting angle in the Eliot Caldwell affair at Piney Point has been revealed. The pretty young maid is none other than Miss Judith Marsden—a Wellesley student, and daughter of Leslie D. Marsden of Philadelphia—and the young man who has been acting as chauffeur is Malcolm Stewart, of Yale University, son of Mrs. Richard Ramsey of Boston. The Ramseys have a summer home at Cliffport, Maine—

"Well—of all the little deceivers!" said a voice over my shoulder.

Down went my head in my arms. Mac—Stewart—! — I think you're horrid! You've just been p-playing with me! You thought it was a J-joke!"

He knelt down and cuddled me close in his arms. "Judy, darling—I never dreamed you weren't a real maid! But—it wouldn't have made any difference. I loved you to death from the moment I saw you on the train. I wanted the family to find you. I told Dad Ramsey, 'I've found my girl—a little maid—but such a little maid!' And they all fell for you."

"—I put your mother all about it."

"You did? She never said a word to me."

"But, Mac—I don't understand. The Ramseys—?"

"I am my mother's son by a first marriage. I was only three when she married Richard Ramsey, Cousin Jo's best friend, father to me, Judy. Mother and I haven't any money, and Dad's business is sort of on the rocks just now, so —I got this job for the summer. I had the idea of simply flopping around."

"And—Janet Ramsey is your sister?"

"Through—my half sister. You sure were funny that night, Judy, being jealous of Jan!"

But I am deep thought.

"I see—Mrs. Caldwell knew, too."

"Of course! She thought it a tremendous joke. But—you, Judy—how'd you happen to do this?"

"Dad Ramsey told me. Genius D is kind of flat, y'o. And—I got fed up with acting a general. Mac—just suppose we hadn't done that Wellesley—never found her."

"Yes, we would, sweetheart. It was written in the stars."

That evening we sat on the bench under the shadow of the clock. There was the soft swish of the surf—lights sparkled in the harbor like fireflies. It was enchanting.

"S-sh! There's someone coming on the dock."

"Norma—I can't believe it! I can't realize that you're going to be mine forever and ever!"

"I don't dare to be happy, Peter. Just think—I have never known happiness."

"But you're going to now, beloved. Both you and Eddy, won't we dearest?"

They went back up the steps of the dock.

"Mac—that was no sleuthing! That was just plain eavesdropping. —I'm a detective, and Mac and Judy are both—peaches!"

"I'm not interested in 'em," said Mac. "Let 'em go. Judy—is Locke D. Marsden awful fussy about his son-in-law—"

"Mrs. Locke is. But—I'm not interested in 'em—let 'em go!"

AT THE BELLE

"Old Chicago"

History is slow in the making'.. And the movie men have found just as slow on the remaking. In the current 50th Century-Fox offering, "In Old Chicago" which makes its debut at the Belle Theatre, on Saturday for three days, matinee daily, the major part of the picture's action deals with that hectic year 1870-1871, climaxed by the historic fire in Mother of the Mid-West. And the records of the studio show that it required a year and a half of intensive effort to bring that story to the screen. As a matter of fact it required three months of shooting just to film the events of two days,—Sunday and Monday of October 8th and 9th when the blaze was at its height.

Began 2 Years Ago

It was nearly two years ago that Darryl F. Zanuck, executive head of the 20th Century-Fox, decided to make a picture around Mrs. Catherine Story, "We, The O'Leary's. It was to be a romantic story of spectacular proportions, climaxed by a re-enactment of the fire. Immediately the studio, the re-search experts of the studio were set to work amassing what finally amounted to 240 pages of closely typed information on scenes, costumes, habits of the time and particular mannerisms of famous characters who figured in the saga. Supplementing the typed data were hundreds of contemporary drawings and a few photographs, chosen from collections all over the United States.

Thereupon began the task of building the sets, an involved construction of two cities. . . . Not to represent Chicago in the picture's prologue as it appeared in 1854, when Molly O'Leary first saw the city. The other to represent the city as it appeared when Molly's cow kicked over the lantern that set off the blaze which destroyed the city. In the end, more than thirty acres were covered with buildings, streets, car tracks and even an artificial lake to represent the Lake Michigan shore front. These in addition to vast interior sets which occupied three sound stages on the lot.

Story Started

With the sets under way, there came the problem of casting. From the very first, Zanuck drew Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don ameche for the leading roles. From elsewhere he obtained the services of Alice Brady and Andy Devine. Supplementing them, were a host of important featured players, among them Brian Donlevy, Phyllis Brooks, Sidney Blackmer and Berton Churchill, to mention a few.

More than in scene and costume detail was accuracy preserved. It is no slaughtered Chicago with stripped extras and players on the hoof, driven by the lash. For example, a herd of cattle were loosed to recreate a stampede of fear-maddened beasts from the stock-yards. The players knew it was only a scene, but the cattle didn't and it required the exercise of every possible device to prevent serious injury.

It is not difficult, then, to understand that Zanuck planned "In Old Chicago" as the most ambitious undertaking in the history of his company. So much so, indeed, that when the last cost had been reckoned, it was one of the most expensive ventures in Hollywood history.

West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon, May 20.—Citizens here were interrupted in their daily routine of work on Saturday morning when it was discovered that an airplane piloted by Mr. Earl Phillips of Kingston made a successful landing in the beautiful 36-acre field comprising part of Mr. Sandy McCuaig's farm. A large crowd gathered around Mr. Phillips explained the workings of his plane. Earl is well known here. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillips of Belleville lived here on the farm now occupied by Mr. Arthur Thompson. Mr. Phillips is the leading mechanic for a private airport at Kingston. He will be given a beauty welcome any time he is flying over here.

The Huntingdon Branch of the W.I. held their May meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ben Killpatrick with an attendance of 18. It was opened by singing the ode followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was given after which reports of the year's work were given by the secretary and the auditors. The president, Mrs. Killpatrick, then gave a brief talk and a paper on "electricity in the home" was read by Mrs. William Shaw. A solo, "Long Long Ago" was then rendered by Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Sam Donahue conducted the election of officers for 1938-39 which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. T. Fleming; first vice-president, Mrs. William Shaw; second vice-president, Mrs. Ben Killpatrick; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. Clements; district director, Mrs. John Wallace; pianist, Mrs. Milton Shaw; assistant, Mrs. Sam Donnan; press secretary, Mrs. E. T. Sayles; assistant secretary, Mrs. C. Mills; Board of Directors, the president, first vice-president, secretary, Mrs. Tanner, Mrs. J. B. Hagerman and Mrs. Killpatrick; auditors, Mrs. A. Clements and Mrs. Henry Wallace. The National Anthem was then sung and lunch served.

The Young People's Union of the United Church concluded their activities for the season with a weiner roast held in the Orange Hall on Friday evening. The arrangements were looked after by Mrs. Harper Treverton, Rev. Tristram led the gathering in community singing and also contributed some solos. Mr. Alvin Carr divided the groups into teams for contests. Miss W. J. Sayles and Misses Irene and Margaret Elliott gave some musical selections. Lunch feed was enjoyed by all and the Minpah benediction closed the meeting.

Mission Band was held at Mr. Alex and Miss Joan McCourdy's home on Saturday afternoon. Miss Dorothy Tristram called the meeting to order, Minpah and Marion Hammond read the Scripture lesson, Mrs. McCourdy led in prayer. Kathleen Moorcroft read the story in the monthly Watch Tower, Africa by Melbourne Moorcroft; Minpah by Joan McCourdy; Hymn, "Marion Hammond; Chalk by Alex McCourdy. After the roll call and business were conducted Dorothy Tristram gave the treasurer's report, Hilda Hammond the study and next meeting was dismissed with Minpah benediction.

The Endeavors Class were entertained for their May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Carr's lot on Tuesday evening. After the worship period the roll call was answered by each member giving a verse. Mr. Tristram conducted a word mobber. Rev. Tristram gave an address on Christian life and experiences in Northern Ontario. Mr. Philip Carr gave a talk on what some of our boys are doing to prepare for the future, especially concerning lumbering. Mrs. Sandy McCuaig gave a solo and Mrs. Elliott and girls sang a chorus.

The Huntingdon Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society held their annual meeting in the United Church here on Monday evening. Mr. Frank Hammond, the president presided over the meeting and also gave the opening address. Mr. Tristram led the special speaker and gave an outstanding address on the Bible Society. Mr. Hammond was re-elected president and Miss Ruth Moorcroft secretary-treasurer. Much regret was felt that more people were not interested in this great work. Lunch was served by a committee of Mrs. Wm. McCoy, Mrs. A. Houser of Madoc and Mrs. Tumelty of Port Arthur were the guests of Mrs. and Mrs. Sarah Stapley.

Mrs. William Adams and Fred of Thomasburg were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

Springbrook

Springbrook, May 20.—The weekly meeting of Springbrook Young People's League was held on Monday evening in charge of the president, Beatrice Wilson. It opened by the singing of a hymn followed by the repeating of the League Pledge in unison. The business part of the meeting was then conducted. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. The theme word for the roll-call being "Christ" was well responded to. It was decided to hold a weiner roast in the near future for the members, marking the closing of the season.

The Scripture reading was read by Beatrice McMullen. Current events were given by Mrs. Walter Heath, followed by a reading "The Happy Farmer" by Emerson Reid. The topic, "Canadian Provinces", was taken by the president after which Laura Mason favored with a solo with guitar accompaniment. The meeting closed by the singing of another hymn and repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R.J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself in his private chair and I said, Hay pop, how about ladies hats?

How indeed? pop said, That has all the earmarks of a good question, but dont seem to be able to think of a good answer, he said. Well I mean how much does one cost?

Well now we're getting somewhere, but not very fast, pop said, and I said, Well is it expensive.

Well, yes or no, in other words that all depends, pop said. If it's a hat that a refined, Women named Jones are all wearing a similar model of it can be had very cheaply, but if only 30 thousand women named De Hyster van Snooks are wearing hats in the same general effect, then it becomes cutomatically as much more expensive as to be within the reach of only the most extravagant ladies. Or to take another example, if the hat was made by a sleepy moron in Paris it would be worth its weight in platinum, or ruffly speaking about 35 dollers, but if it was put together by a highly intelligent citizen of our own country with the same material its value would fall to about 18 dollers, wich seems plenty although it is only a little more than half. Have you any personel reason for asking or is your intrist purely academic? he said.

Well I wore ma's hat out on the street for the genreel funny effect, and Reddy Merly pulled it down over my eyes to make it look even funnier, and the shape got all bent diffrent and ma said no like it the new way. I said, aint pop said, For Pete sake dont ask her, ladies hats are stranger things and obey no known law of nature, so your mother may not even notice the change, in wich case you and I will both be better off.

Wich we wasn't, on account of ma noticing it with a sound like somebody drownding and choking for the 3rd and last time.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, May 20 — (CP) — Sellers encountered a thin buying demand today on the Toronto share market and price movements were given a moderate downward slant. A strong indicial wave set at the close. Trade slowed down with the price drift and only about 450,000 shares changed hands in the session.

Another sharp decline in the copper price gave the base metal shares a setback early in the recent rise and the closing price around 2.18 was off 17 cents. Bulolo Gasin and Falconbridge dropped 10 to 15 cents.

The industrial Board was spotted with losses up to a point at the close with gains mainly apparent in the steel, paper and implement groups.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, May 20 —(AP)—Offerings dwindled substantially after an opening sell-off in today's stock market and dealings became rumbling to a point or more were subsequently obtained down or changed into moderate gains.

Dealings, fairly fast at the start, slowed appreciably as the session progressed and, near the final hour the ticker tape seemingly was in a standstill. Transfers were approximately 500,000 shares.

While bearish ammunition was plentiful in today's stock market, most professional observers felt that offerings dwindled to a minimum and prices stabilized after a moderate relapse in early dealings.

Extreme losses running to a point or so were reduced in numerous cases or replaced by gains near the fourth hour.

Modest advances—some even sizable—were posted in such issues for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, International Harvester, Texas Corp., Westinghouse and General Electric.

Canadian issues showed limited changes. Lake Shore was slightly higher while McIntyre, Porcupine and Canadian Pacific lost small fractions. Canada 4's were inactive.

Practically no point or so in arrears the greater part of the time were Atchison, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Great Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio and Allis Chalmers.

Produce Prices On Montreal Market

Montreal, May 20. — Egg prices held their ground at unchanged levels while the butter market was inclined to be fractionally lower again. Cheese was in shade firmer. Receipts were 1,410 cases of eggs, 314 boxes of butter and 207 boxes of cheese, excluding truck arrivals, and including 600 cases of eggs for export overseas.

Sales at the Canadian Commodity Exchange were 200 boxes of Quebec fresh #2 score butter at 26¾ cents, and 100 boxes of Quebec second, 28 score butter at 25½ cents, with closing prices posted as 26¾c to 26¾c for Quebec fresh #2 score, 25½c for Quebec second, 28 score. The open spot market for No. 1 butter was 26½c. Small lots in the retail trade were quoted by jobbers at 27½c to 28c for solids and 28c to 28½c for prints.

Buffalo Ankerite Gold Mines

This Company has been operating quite successfully, having in 1937 made earnings of $1.30 per share after taxes and after writing off development expenses. The company is expending considerable money in the sinking of a new shaft; this will not entail an extension to ore reserves in the current year as the work will not be completed in time but it prepares the property for possible further large expansion in 1939. Dividends last year were 72 1-2 cents a share, the stock is now on a quarterly basis of 25 cents a share and in view of the large earnings expected for 1938 it is very likely that a bonus will be declared later on in the year.

The comparatively low share issue is a feature of this company; on the whole the forward view for Buffalo Ankerite appears to be good. Any future expansion in the earnings would be substantially reflected in the market price of the shares in view of the small capital.

Hollinger Cons. Gold Mines

This company had adopted the policy of distribution about the entire earnings in dividends to shareholders. The feature about Hollinger is that for many years past the company has been increasing up all upper levels and consequently the average grade of the ore that has gone through the mill has been lower than the actual ore reserves; this position will soon be completed and an increase in earnings may be confidently expected in the years to come. Various outside interests are also starting to bring in additional revenues. As an investment in a Senior gold stock, Hollinger is the logical stock to buy at this time.

COUNSEL ARGUE

is expected to take several weeks in preparation of his findings.

Mr. Justice Hope, it was possible that a man may be confined in the Homewood Sanitarium for a period during which his relatives may be deprived of his assets, when medical experts have recommended the patient's release on probation.

He told the commissioner it was necessary that strict government supervision be established to guard against overcharges by mental health institutions and wrongful detention. Counsel declared that while McIntosh was fighting in the courts of Ontario and Quebec for his release, $10,000 dollars were being used to oppose his case.

Declares Profits $50,618

The crown counsel declared that Ultimate Investments Limited, which received $247,000 in revenues from the patients' estates during a period had profits that year of $50,618, and its assets at the end of the year were $197,000.

"It is improper that a group of individuals should be allowed to run out of suffering" declared Mr. Snyder. "The province should scrutinize carefully such a system. It permits such profits accruing to a group of individuals as an inducement for mental sufferers."

Ultimate Investments Limited, established in 1883, had in the past 15 years paid dividends totalling $1,000,000 and at the end of 1937 assets had increased by $177,000.

Detention of McIntosh

Mr. Vien dealt more particularly with the detention of McIntosh. He declared the admittance and confinement of McIntosh to the institution in 1934 were unlawful in spirit. There were provisions for voluntary entrance to mental institutions, if the sufferer was accompanied by a proper medical certificate, but there was a provision that such a patient be examined within 15 days of his entrance.

"The fundamental principle in conduct of such an institution is the welfare of the patient," said Mr. Vien. "An institution of this kind should not be allowed to exist if its operations are not in the interests of the patients confined in it."

Argues McIntosh Case

He declared that McIntosh's detention and the treatment accorded him by the sanitarium authorities were definitely not in McIntoshs best interests. McIntosh's wife had applied for his release on probation to her in Montreal for a period of three months, in 1934, but McIntosh himself wanted to go on probation to his relatives at Hamilton. Consequently his release on probation was withheld because the superintendent held that McIntosh's wife was not a proper person for his committal to the institution. He did not sign the probation order.

Mr. Vien further claimed that the sanitarium's treatment of McIntosh changed for the worse after the patients reported applications for probation.

Counsel declared that McIntosh was moved from ward 1 to ward A3 of the hospital, a much less desirable quarter of the institution where he was placed in close contact with patients of a more objectionable type, and where he was unable to enjoy the fresh and quiet needed in his case. Further alleged that visits of McIntosh's relatives from Hamilton were being curtailed by the hospital authorities.

The report generally approves the policies followed by the Corporation, its business administration and the Corporation, on which matters it asked the Board of Governors responsible for policy and the management responsible for administration.

Policies of CBC

The report says in part:

"The bulk of the evidence concerned the general policies and financial policies of the corporation. Your committee is of the opinion that these policies are well designed to carry out the purpose for which the Corporation was created. Your committee is also of the opinion that the management of the Corporation are being executed in a business-like fashion.

"With respect to programs, the Corporation's policy is to utilize private facilities to the development of Canadian programs of distribution of Canadian talent and to make available to Canadians the best programs from the United States, Great Britain and elsewhere.

Creating Worthy Program

"With respect to the Board, your committee believes, the Corporation are creating satisfactory broadcasting service, and at the same time enabling Canada to create programs worthy of the change.

"With respect to the Corporation's plan of national coverage, involving the ownership of high power stations in the principal centres, CBC coverage to reach all parts of Canada, your committee is glad to indicate its approval. It is considered that the establishment of this plan is of great importance in the national interest.

Board of Revenue Adequate

"Your committee considered care, fully the present and future income requirements of the Corporation. It is of the opinion that present sources of revenue will be sufficient to maintain and develop the projected plan of national coverage.

"With respect to revenue for capital purposes, your committee is of the opinion that consideration should be given to the position by loan or grant, of sufficient capital funds to enable the Corporation to complete its plan of national coverage at the earliest possible moment.

"Your committee is of the opinion that the present scale of licence fees, of $5.00, for private receiving and broadcasting stations of 100 watts or under is adequate, but believes license fees should be increased on higher powered stations servicing populous areas.

"Your committee recommends that the incidence of the application of the licence fee be carefully received by the Department of Trans port in the light of the present experience, with a view to effecting such changes as may be necessary.

"Your committee was impressed with the importance of the establishment, at an early date of a high power short-wave broadcasting station. Such a station, your committee believes, would be a great utility in interpreting and advertising Canada abroad and in facilitating exchange of programs between Canada and other broadcasting systems. Canada, your committee was informed, is the only major trading nation without such facilities. It is submitted this should be financed as a national utility, operated and controlled by the corporation."

SERIOUS OFFENCE BRINGS ONE YEAR

Arthur Meeks Sent to Reformatory After Guilty Plea

"I think this man should be whipped," stated His Worship, Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in today's local police court before he sentenced Arthur Meeks, believed to not less than one year nor more than two years in the Ontario Reformatory when the accused appeared for sentence on a serious charge, preferred by local police under section 292 of the Canadian Criminal Code.

Meeks, who had elected summary trial and pleaded guilty in a previous court, appeared in the prisoner's docket today with his face badly scarred and cut, the result of altercations when he and a fellow inmate at the Hastings County Jail became involved in a fist fight, police officials revealed after court. Meeks gave himself up to police recently after a warrant for his arrest had been issued charging him with a serious offence against a teen-aged girl. Meeks was questioned by Dr. Doyle, the government psychiatrist, this week, and declared eligible for sentence. He not seriously affected, the report said. R. C. Donnan, K.C., County Crown Attorney, pointed out to the court it was Meeks' first offence of a serious nature.

Constable's Quick Action Prevents Serious Accident

Only the expert manipulation of the automobile which he was driving averted a serious accident today when another motor car careened directly into the path of an automobile driven by Provincial Constable W. R. Smith in the intersection of Victoria Avenue and Front Street this morning. Constable Smith was proceeding southward on Front Street and about to turn into Victoria Avenue when an unnamed woman, As the officer attempted to question the woman a lady started to make a lefthand turn out of Front Street in proceed easterly on Victoria Avenue. Constable Smith, immediately sensing the seriousness of the situation, swerved sharply to the left, thus avoiding a possible crash. The occupants of the two vehicles locked, however, but no large amount of damage resulted to either vehicle. The officer assisted the lady driver to her destination and without comment permitted her to proceed on her journey.

Announce Dates For School Fairs

Dates for rural school fairs to be held in Hastings County this fall have been announced by H. L. Fair, agricultural representative for this county.

Huntingdon Township, at Ivanhoe, Sept. 13th; Rawdon, North Hastings District, at Maynooth, on September 10th; Hungerford Township at Stoco, on September 13th; Tyendinaga Township, at Melrose, Sept. 15th; Thurlow Township, at Springbrook, on September 14th; Sidney Township, at Frankford, on September 15th; Madoc Township, at Remington, on September 16th; Elzevir Township, at Latimerbridge, on September 19th.

The championship school fair will be held in connection with the Belleville Fall Fair, on Sept. September 21st. These fairs are conducted under the management of the Hastings County Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Education, and school boards of the rural areas.

Police Blotter

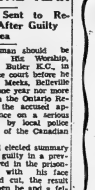
Ernest Dewrey, Bloomfield, was fined $10 and costs on the charge of common jail when he appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C. in police court this morning. Dewrey's sentence, after having pleaded guilty, was arranged to allow him time to collect the money under false pretenses, he was —issuing worthless cheques, when he appeared before Magistrate Butler in Court. The sentences in each case was imposed yesterday His Worship held.

Raymond Ensamith, of Marysville, pleaded guilty to the charges preferred by local police when he was charged with driving a motor car with defective brakes and also of reckless driving.

"I understand this man nearly killed a child," Chief Constable Ponton pointed out Crown Attorney R. C. Donnan, K.C., when he imposed a fine of $10 and costs on the initial charge and $15 and costs on the second charge of reckless driving, which totalled $30.00 in all.

A charge of cruelty to animals, preferred by the S.P.C.A. against a local citizen, was enlarged for one week in police court this morning. Officials of County to Animals, through Provincial Constable Ponton, charged the accused was driving or permitted to be driven a horse that was not fit to be used for laborious driving.

A non-support case, heard in police court, was dismissed.



The Buckinghamshire Standing Joint Committee has officially reported that the chalet built during the reign of Hal Aylesbury, England, for 41 years has no bristles left and it is about time for a new one.

'Kid' Skunk is Defeated in Picton's Battle of 'S' century

Picton, May 19 —(Special)— While hundreds of spectators looked on "Kid Skunk" a promising newcomer to the wicks, lost a close decision yesterday to "Young Ford" an injun fighter as Picton staged a one-night battle of the 'S' century on its Main Street.

Fierce rounds were raging and in all probability to acquaint himself with the surrounding scenery "Kid Skunk" displayed a lightning-like weight sneaked in under the light of the moon and hid himself beneath a convenient sidewalk grating outside a prominent store.

Disturbed not only by passing pedestrians, The Kid soon gave evidence of his whereabouts. His high powered sense of advertising wafted in and about nearby stores brought residents flocking to the scene. Defiantly waving a pluneer appendage and his left fist he had his audience in a haze of odorous fumes as they attempted to dislodge him.

A veterinary, police and other town shock troops were called to the battlefront. Evil-smelling fluids were poured on the "Kid" but with his battle flags flying and spray guns pouring broadside after broadside, the scrappy scamp successfully defied all efforts to dislodge him.

Fire engines were by with the "Kid" holding a large margin on points. Then in desperation, "Young Ford" lightweight champion under the management of Clarence King, who was brought into the picture, dragging the kid into a neutral corner. The newcomer was given a couple of lefts and rights to the body. Staggering under the rains of shots, the kid slowly gave up the sponge and was counted out while spectators held their noses and cheered.

But the Kid was merely out and not a corpse. A few minutes later while awaiting treatment at the hands of Chief of Police Bert Biddle, the shock a heavy head, and attempted to regain his feet. Alarmed the chief applied a coup de grace with the butt end of a large shovel and the "Kid" passed permanently out of the picture.

GORDON GRAVES GIVEN ONE YEAR

Recently Pleaded Guilty to Theft of Bablbit in City

Gordon Graves, 18 of this city, was sentenced to serve not less than one year nor more than eighteen months in the Ontario Reformatory, when he appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., for sentence in police court this morning. Graves had pleaded guilty to charges of the theft of babbit, the property of Goodman Sons, Limited, in a previous court after having elected summary trial.

"I would not like to see this lad sent to the penitentiary, as his is an unfortunate case." He was brought up in a broken home, I understand," commented Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C., before sentence was given.

This boy has a widowed mother to support and she was living on $6.50 a week when he witnessed home from serving a previous term," stated Mr. A. Pringle, counsel for the defendant.

"Apparently Graves is fast becoming a candidate for the penitentiary. I have Dr. Doyle's report on record here and he suggested a long period of vocational training for this boy," informed His Worship as he sentenced Graves to the Ontario Reformatory. Dr. Doyle the Government psychiatrist, in Graves' time was dated back to the time of his arrest, April 4th.

Mayor Bone to Attend Ottawa Conference

Plans a communication received yesterday from the president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities by Mayor Bone, the letter points out that a conference of the national executive of the management committee and regional chairmen of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities be held at Ottawa "for the purpose of further and more definite representations to the Federal Government in connection with low-cost housing, one of the most serious problems now affecting municipalities."

"It has been decided to hold this convention in Ottawa at the Chateau Laurier Hotel on Tuesday, May 31st., and I strongly urge that you attend," the letter continues.

Read to members of city council at last evening's meeting of committee by Mayor Bone, the letter evoked no special enthusiasm on the part of members, nor was suggestion that he be authorized to attend, it was stated by Mayor Bone this morning.

"So I'm going anyhow and pay my own expenses," he declared today.

Mayor Bone is Central Regional chairman of this association.

West Shut Frontier

France would not be obliged completely to shut down her frontier—true of Russian interest in sending aid to the Barcelona government—but withdrawals under supervision of the international non-intervention committee are ready to start.

Britain, in the role of mediator, is endeavoring to restart the negotiations between Paris and Rome that had ended in a suspense of a call a meeting of the non-intervention committee next week.

Fresh tension in central Europe are reported to be an underlying reason for the break in the talks. Informed political commentators said the Germans are using their southern garrison in the Rhone-Berlin axis to keep France occupied in the Mediterranean so it would be unable to block Germany's plans in Czechoslovakia.

Many Rumors

Among the welter of reports was one that extended French troops were in several quarters—that Germany actually was aiding the Spanish government in an undercover effort to prolong the civil war.

The reasoning behind this was said to be that so long as the war lasted the revolutionary efforts to aid the insurgents would keep colorful reports appearing of this fantastic theory pointed out it is also would keep Mussolini's attention strictly on the Mediterranean, leaving central and eastern Europe alone.

Despite Premier Daladier's warning yesterday against circulation of reports damaging to the interests of all sorts continued. One was that King Zog abandoned 22 German troops had been ordered up to the Hungarian frontier. The morning paper which published this story patch in the first edition withdrew the story from the next.

Anti-Czech Feeling Reaches White Heat in FRONT PAGES OF GERMAN PRESS CARRIES ATTACK

Claim Incidents Planned And Promoted For Certain Reasons

ELECTION SUNDAY

Sudetens Expect to Gain Control of 66 Places in Voting

Berlin, May 21—(AP)—Pageiong descriptions of reported troop attacks on Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia were featured by the German press today, whipping anti-Czech feeling to a white glow.

Under large red headlines, like "Praha, where do you go", "unbearable challenge" and "Czech provocation creates serious situation," Berlin newspapers gave their entire front pages to disturbances in Praha, Brno and Komotau when according to their version several hundred Germans were injured in provocative clashes.

In German official quarters it was said that must be made clear in Praha official circles who prefer quite to negotiating and to stimulation to reasonable settlement.

The official German news agency, Deutsches Nachrichtenburo, said approximately 100 Sudeten Germans were injured at Komotau as a result of an attack by Czechoslovak soldiers.

Incidents Planned

Commenting on these reports, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's newspaper, National Gestung of Essen, said: "These incidents indicated they were planned and promoted by responsible Praha circles for certain reasons. Incidents in towns and villages inhabited by Sudeten Germans, in Praha and other places cannot be blamed upon Sudetens."

Meanwhile, Praha authorities and government officials minimized the German reports of disorders, which they termed the "usual pre-election scuffles without bloodshed."

The gravity of the situation, however, seemed to have been recog-

Lightning rods! For a long time the efficiency of lightning rods was disputed. But it seems now quite certain both from a theoretical standpoint and from practical experience that lightning rods do help. They help because they direct the lightning bolt to the discharge taking place in the rod and not down through a part of a building which may be set on fire. All are agreed that heavy conductors should be used. There should be good joints and few bends. The rods should be well grounded and grounded in damp earth.

WRECKS CAR AFTER FOUR MILES DRIVING

Brantford, Ont., May 21 (CP)—John Scott Byers of Brantford probably has a record for "breaking in" a newly purchased motor car. He bought a second-hand machine and hadn't travelled four miles before he lost control of the car, stopped it around a tree and wrecked it.

A BIG MEAL FOR KITTY

St. Marys, Ont., May 21 (CP)—The St. Marys storekeeper who found his little store cat developing a 15-pound rabbit couldn't figure it out at all, but it turned out the rabbit had been killed by dogs, then tossed to the cat by a neighbor.

FIGS GET WISE

Kitchener, Ont., May 21 (CP) —The electric fence axiomns had a good argument. He said the fence is a certain farmer not far from Kitchener and the farmer connected his car battery to it. So the fence working wonderfully in keeping the pigs out of neighboring fields. The farmer complained that he couldn't use his car as the axiomns had ruined the fence and done its educational work and the battery was no longer needed. The farmer said the battery off, and sure enough, the pigs still give the fence a wide berth.

Aberhart's Car Becomes Target Of Liberal Guns in Campaign

Regina, May 21—(CP)—Premier William Aberhart's appearance in the Saskatchewan election campaign has drawn to his automobile across the political horizon as the target for Liberal guns. Attorney General T. C. Davis last night fired a broadside at the premier's car which he described as a costly vehicle.

While the political pot started to boil with only 18 days before ballots are cast, the Attorney-General displayed before a Hodgeville meeting what he claimed was a photograph of the machine. He described it as a new custom-built car brought by the Alberta government for $6,703. Mr. Davis said he had been told the car was a replica of one bought by the Duke of Windsor. For a man who complained the poverty of the people, the purchase showed little

BODIES ROLL OUT OF BLAZING SOFA POLICE ASSERT

Alleged Father Killed Two Young Daughters With Hammer

BOOKED FOR MURDER

Paterson, N.J., May 21—(AP)—A 25-year-old unemployed father, quoted by Acting Detective Captain James Smith as saying he killed his two young daughters today because he "didn't want them to starve," was booked on a murder charge.

Smith said Alfred Schwartzenbach, jobless silk dyers' helper, confessed he crushed the skulls of Lorraine, 4, and Alberta Jane, 3, with a machinists' hammer and then sought to burn their bodies on a blazing room sofa.

Schwartzenbach covered the bodies with a blanket and then, Smith said, set fire to the sofa by igniting an oil lamp with a cigarette. Meanwhile, Mrs. Hilda Schwartzenbach, 22, was asleep in a bedroom. She was awakened by a neighbor witness, David Platt, a neighbor, saw smoke emanating from the Schwartzenbach's third floor flat and turned in an alarm. A few minutes later, firemen and police Mrs. Shwartzenbach appeared on the sidewalk, excitedly inquiring as to the whereabouts "of my little baby and the babies."

Schwartzenbach then appeared on the sidewalk, Smith said.

"Where are the children?" his wife asked.

"They're upstairs," he replied.

Battalion Chief Michael Conner said firemen came upon the charred bodies accidentally after a search.

The bodies rolled out when they broke down the sofa in order to get at them first thought they were dolls.

FRENCH-ITALIAN TREATY OUTLOOK SEEMS BRIGHTER

In Spain General Franco is Meeting Desperate Resistance

BORDER SITUATION

Russia Said to Have Sent in 300 Planes by Land And Sea

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 21.—(CP Cable) — Paris today reflected a more encouraging attitude towards the France-Italian talks.

The newspaper Figaro commented that "after Rome and Britain contacts the impression gained in official circles is that the outlook is more encouraging, a resumption" of the conversations between Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, and Jules Blondel, the French Charge D'Affaires.

In Rome, meanwhile, General Franco is meeting tenacious resistance between Teruel and the Sea. Fascist Civolei in Rome charge the Spanish Republicans are getting assistance through France.

Crossing Border

They declare that within the past few weeks there crossed the Pyrenees from France to Catalonia 5,000 Czech volunteers 50,000 Mauser rifles, 722 machine-guns, five wagon loads of grenades, 1,200 tons of high explosives 75 Schneider-Creusot guns, 1,500 Hotchkiss guns, and 500 mortars.

Russia, it is alleged, sent 150 planes by sea and 150 were flown direct with a stop in Czechoslovakia for gasoline, Russia also is said to have sent large consignments of gasoline and wheat.

Italy Charged With Direct Help

For weeks past the Republicans have charged Italy and Germany with direct help to General Franco.

Two hundreds tons of Spanish Gold and Silver are now entering France by road for Le Havre. The precious consignment is to be shipped to America for payment of Spanish Republican purchases.

WILL NOT BUILD SCHOOL ADDITION

Municipal Board Refuses Request of The Madoc Union

Madoc, Ont., May 21.—(Special) —Despite the fact that plans had been approved by the Department of Education, the much-discussed addition to the local High School will not be built this year. It was decided at a joint meeting of the village council and members of the Madoc Board, held here on Thursday night.

Decision to postpone the erection of the addition followed the refusal of the Municipal Board to allow the village to issue debentures for the purpose, without a vote of the people.

The proposed addition provided rooms for the instruction of general shop work and household science.

LIBERAL POLICY NATIONAL UNITY

Ottawa, May 21—(CP)—The Liberal party is ready to wage war on "subversive doctrines from whatever source," declared Prime Minister Mackenzie King today in a statement on national unity. Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in part:

Mr. King and three of his Ministers, speaking at a banquet of the National Federation of Liberal Women, made it clear the "national unity" issue will be the keynote of the government in its next appeal to the people.

A few days ago Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, in the first speech of the night, a western Canada political leader in a province where his own stalwart views Canada to band together. Certain statements made in the east were not much better.

"It is a challenge to Canadians," said Mr. Lapointe. "The flag of national unity must be at the top of the Liberal mast."

Defence Minister Mackenzie, Labor Minister Rogers and Mr. King continued further the unity theme first enunciated by Mr. Lapointe.

Dewdney B. C. Riding In Liberal Column

Mission City, B.C., May 21 (CP)— Returns from Dewdney riding from the Conservative column in the provincial by-election yesterday when D. W. Strachan, a former representative of the seat, was elected. His victory raised government strength in the legislature to 32.

Mr. Strachan defeated Reeve W. A. Jones of Kent Municipality and Miss Mildred Osterhout of Vancouver. Mr. Jones carried the Conservative banner and Miss Osterhout ran as a Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate.

With two polls to hear from the vote was: Strachan 2030, Jones 1903, Miss Osterhout 1641. As a result of the balloting the Hon. standing will be: Liberals 32, Conservatives 7, C.C.F. 7, Independent 1, Labor 1.

Foreign Policy of Great Britain Aimed at Fostering Good-Will

Ottawa, May 21.—(CP)—The foreign policy of Great Britain has been aimed at fostering good-will and co-operation between nations, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night in a speech to the National Federation of Liberal women.

Special interest attached to Mr. King's remarks on this subject owing to the fact that he is expected to make a statement on Canada's foreign policy. The statement was scheduled to be made this week but was delayed because of the absence of Conservative Leader Bennett.

Within the Empire there was more co-operation and good-will than ever before, said the Prime Minister. The leaven of good-will still exists. It had brought about the Anglo-Irish agreement after years of strife.

Mr. King said he had never and, though he had been reported as saying it, that Canadians shouldn't discuss the foreign policies of other nations. He did say there should be caution in such discussion so as not to add to the embarrassment of those dealing with difficult matters.

"I believe that so far as Empire is concerned, regardless of the government in office, the spirit, aim, purpose and desire of the government of Great Britain has been to foster that spirit of goodwill and co-operation between nations which aims above all else at seeking to keep the peace of Europe and the world".

Military Precautions Taken at Frontier When Sudetens Shot

Situation in Central Europe Greatly Strained Over Possible Eventualities Over Shooting of Germans Crossing From Czechoslovakia to Germany

MEN KILLED INSTANTLY, SAYS PRAHA

Thirty Persons Wounded in Election Campaigning; For Vote to be Held in Czechoslovakia on Sunday—Sudeten Germans Are Very Much Aroused

Copyright, 1938, by The Havas News Agency

Praha, May 21.—(CP-Havas)—Two reserve army classes were called to the colors and modified martial law declared for the frontier town of Graslitz today as the Czechoslovak government took a series of precautionary measures following the killing of two Sudeten Germans by Czechoslovak frontier guards this morning.

President Edouard Benes said, in a radio speech that Czechoslovakes are "prepared to defend our independence to the ultimate consequences."

Residents of Graslitz, in Northern Bohemia, were forbidden to approach the frontier or hold meetings near it, to leave their homes at night or to possess weapons. At the demand of the Sudeten German party this decree was modified to permit persons employed in Germany to reach their work.

'Indirect' Call to Arm Selves

Konrad Henlien's Sudeten German party published a declaration warning it could not prevent members from defending themselves in the event of "continued provocations" against Sudeten Germans. This was regarded as an indirect call to the pro-Nazi Sudetens to arm as individuals.

Reminding his countrymen they might count on the support of Europe, President Benes, speaking at Tabor, 49 miles southeast of Praha, said he could still today express hope for peace.

"We have no fear of the days which are to come, and we are ready for all eventualities," he said.

Is Not Mobilization

The calling up of reserve classes "does not in any way indicate mobilization," the official news agency said in commenting on the communique announcing this step. Two classes would normally involve about 140,000 men.

"Competent constitutional powers would have to be invoked in case of mobilization," the agency said, pointing out that today's step was ordered by the Defence Ministry under paragraph 22 of the law for the defence of the state.

Attempt Made to Revive Issue Respecting Night School

Amendment to Motion to Refer Back Was Passed by Board

ROUTINE BUSINESS

In spite of the fact that members of the Board of Education by a majority vote have decided upon the discontinuance of the night school this coming season at the Collegiate and Vocational School, attempts were made again last evening to revive this issue.

Following the reading of the minutes of the special meeting at the regular meeting of the Board held last evening, Trustee H. J. Allin wished to have his name entered officially in the minute book as registering disapproval and objection over the entering of the motion in the previous minutes.

"I do so on the ground that the motion is illegal", he declared.

Support in this feeling was given by Trustee Rev. A. B. Payne.

"I believe that the report of that special committee was out of order. Yes, this Board passed this matter," he objected.

An attempt to have the restoration of the sum of $1,500 from the $5,000 which was said to have been included in the estimates for the night school was sought through the passing of a motion to this effect, moved by Trustee McMorrieff, seconded by Trustee Allin.

It was a fact that the $5,000 which was included in the estimates for 1938 was divided, it is understood, as follows: the sum of $1,500 from the Board," stated Mr. Allin.

Immediate objection was countered by Trustee Dr. C. A. Green, who moved the motion, which acted that night school be discontinued.

"I am opposed to this motion, that this matter be referred back to the board and Advisory committee for further consideration," added Col. Green. This amendment was carried when put to the vote.

"That's about all we can do, just keep referring it back every time the matter comes up," stated a member later questioned regarding the procedure, it is learned that the Board would be handed over the recommendations of the Advisory and Vocational Committee.

Board Not Against School

"Remember this", pointed out Col. Green in the discussion of night school continued with considerable cross-fire injected into the verbal opinions of some of the hard-fighting members "the Board as a whole is not opposed to night school as a night school. It is, however, against the manner in which it has been carried on in the past. Many or us who have voted on this disconnuance, have felt that the costs were getting out of bounds, and that the school was not for those, who needed it most. It served merely as a hobby for many, who could afford to pay for their hobbies instead of having the taxpayer pay. Then, it served many students of the city who contributed no arare toward its upkeep".

The importance of the night school from his own viewpoint was stressed by Trustee Monorieff.

"I believe we should continue it. I believe that if the school served to place only one man at a job in one season it has served its purpose, but it has done more than that. I personally know two young men, who were able to get jobs this year through their experience gained from night school last season. The only thing this year was that we were not ready for the 900 pupils, who attended when we only expected to look after 300."

Applications made by school principals, C. I. Frederick of Queen Mary School and A. C. Wilkin, Bridge Victoria School for permission to hold practical agricultural classes in the schools was granted by the Board.

Some Belleville children have been unable to attend school through the lack of proper clothing, it was reported by School Attendance Officer F. Wiggins in his monthly chart presented.

It was remarked also by the officer that two boys had quit school promptly last month upon attaining the legal age.

"What happened to these boys when they quit, what became of them. Did they manage to get work?" questioned Trustee Frank Gushing.

"They did," enlightened the Attendance Officer. "One of them got a job in the city, and the other took up farm work."

Notify Office

"Those children who are said to lack proper clothing . . . should not this Board notify the relief office of this?" asked Trustee Allin.

"There was a committee appointed some time ago to look after the children," reminded Dr. J. W. Kinneer in the chair.

"That is a different one," stated Trustee Payne.

"Mr. Hyde, and Mr. Petterly and myself were on that committee," pointed out Trustee P. C. McGuire.

"We tried to do something about clothing for the children, but it was pointed out that we'd step into a lot of trouble if we took this matter up. It seems that if we gave the money to the family a pair of shoes, some other family might hear of it, and keep their children home, pleading lack of shoes, just because they didn't get any."

Mr. Swee-Ess is to have Mr. Wiggins hand the names of these families who really need clothing to the relief office for action," suggested Trustee Russ Wotten, which suggestion was accepted by the Board.

Applications for the position of city playground superintendent this season will be handled by the special committee, Trustees Mr. Petterly and Mr. McGuire, it was decided.

The tender for the installation of a ventilator fan in the boys' room of the collegiate by the City Battery Service Company at a cost of $126.00 was referred to the Property Committee, with power to act.

Past Noble Grands of the district were in attendance to do honor to the distinguished guest.

Visitors and guests were cordially welcomed by the Noble Grand Sister and Sandercock.

At the conclusion of the lodge business the veterans of 1913 were called to the centre of the hall and the Noble Grand complimented them on their long and faithful service as members of Quinte Lodge.

Each sister was presented with an appropriate gift and the brothers a rose.

The presentation was made by Past Noble Grands Sister Mary Newman and Sister R. S. Chesher.

The recipients thank the members and expressed the pleasure of being present on this memorable occasion.

First Noble Grand Present

The first Noble Grand of Quinte Rebekah Lodge Sister Mc-Cready, now a resident of Toronto, complimented the lodge on its second growth since its institution.

Bro. R. H. Ketcheson, Past Grand Patriarch, and a staunch Oddfellow for the past forty years addressed the gathering briefly.

Other speakers were: Sister Graham, Noble Grand of Tweed Lodge; Sister Bailey, Noble Grand of Stirling Lodge; Sister Porter, Noble Grand of Thomasburg Lodge; Sister Turner, Past Noble Grand of Madoc Lodge; Sister Eggleton, Past Noble Grand Stirling Lodge; Sister Bailey, Past District Deputy President of Stirling Lodge.

Bro. Chas. F. Frost the first Past Noble Grand of Quinte Rebekah Lodge, Bro. R. W. Graham and Bro. George Kery another veteran with membership dating back forty years.

Bro. Bradshaw a visitor has the honor of being one of a group of twenty candidates to be initiated in the Grand Sires Class.

Varied Program

A varied programme was arranged those taking part were: Mr. Stephenson, graphic talk; Mrs. Grills banjo solo and vocal selection, Miss Barr, recitation, Mrs. Bonshain, reading, Mrs. Mary Plumpton, solo accompanist, Miss Richardson of Tweed.

All numbers were heartily applauded.

An hour was spent playing various games after which a dainty luncheon was served by the ladies. Sister Irene Amann and her committee were in charge of the programme.

The gathering dispersed at 1 a.m. all expressing the opinion that it was the finest party of the season.

There were two hundred and fifty members and visitors in attendance.

NEW MANAGER MEETS BOARD

C. J. Jewell of Bank of Commerce Introduced by Board's Head

At the opening of Cheese Board, C. L. Jewell, manager of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce succeeding to the position of Mr. E. V. Illsley who has been transferred to Seattle, Washington, introduced to the meeting by president Geo. Cook, expressed his satisfaction at being back in Belleville district once more. The promise of clothing all he could to advance the interests of cheese industry in this section" was given by the new manager. "I will follow with considerable interest the efforts of this Board in its promotion of one of important industry, and I hope that every member will feel free to call upon me any time my services may be of help when those valuable men, Mr. Illsley and the late John Elliott were in charge here and took such personal interest in you," expressed Mr. Jewell.

During the next five or six weeks period, W. C. Morrow, past president of the Board will "sail for the Mediterranean Cruise, which president Albert McCaskey is away on an extended trip through Western Canada and the United States.

Obituary

LATE WILLIAM W. PURDY

(Thurlow)

Friday afternoon, May 20, the funeral of William Wesley Purdy took place from the residence of his brother, Mr. F. B. Purdy, in the first concession of Thurlow Township. The service in the home and at the graveside in Salem Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. William H. Keough.

The bearers were Messrs. F. Parrott, William Reid, R. Hall, O. Bradshaw, J. Garbutt and Charles Graham.

MRS. EDWARD MADDEN

(Newburgh)

Mrs. Edward Madden, who occupied the position of postmistress at Newburgh, Ont., for many years, passed away suddenly in that village on Friday, May 20. She was well advanced in years.

The late Mrs. Madden during her long life held a high place in the regard of many friends and acquaintances. She was an aunt of Mrs. W. E. Schuster of Belleville.

The funeral will take place on Sunday.

LATE MRS. DELIA (CANNIF) SIMPKINS

Many friends were present at the funeral of Mrs. Delia (Cannif) Simpkins, widow of Samuel Simpkins, which took place from her late residence, 192 Avonia Street on Friday afternoon. The service in the home and at the graveside in Glenwood Cemetery, Picton, was conducted by the Rev. Guy A. Streeter, pastor of the Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville.

The bearers were Messrs. M. D. Denton, G. W. Reid, Donald Brown, Isaac Baker, H. W. Jarvis and Dr. H. F. Wellbanks.

The late Mrs. Simpkins, who had reached the advanced age of 83 years was born at Sugar Loaf Island in the late Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cannif. For nineteen years she was a resident of Belleville and by all who knew her she was held in high esteem.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. James Hallett of Demorestville, and Mrs. George Dawe of Belleville; one sister, Mrs. Ferguson Black of Northport, and a brother-in-law, Mr. David Parks of Picton.

A sister, Mrs. David Parks, predeceased her four years ago and another sister, Mrs. Henry Hess, Chicago, Ill., and two brothers, Miles Cannif, Sault Ste. Marie, and Jason Cannif, Tweed, passed away many years ago.

MRS. JOHN McGINNISS

(Tyrendinaga)

Mrs. John McGinnias passed away suddenly at the family residence in Tyrendinaga Township on Friday evening. She was apparently in good health during the day and performed her household duties as usual. In the evening she was taken with a heart seizure and died almost immediately.

The late Mrs. McGinnias was Miss Teresa Egan prior to her marriage. She was born in Tyendinaga Township and resided there all her life. She was the last of one family. In religion Mrs. McGinnias was a faithful member of St. Charles Catholic Church at Read and was highly esteemed, in the community. Her sudden passing has brought sincere feelings of regret to all who knew her.

Her husband survives her.

ALD. LAURIE LEWIS HEARD IN BROCKVILLE

Mr. Laurie Lewis, president of the Ontario division, Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, addressed a large gathering of retail merchants at Brockville Thursday evening upon problems peculiar to the retail trade. George H. Chatham, secretary of the Ontario division, Retail Merchants Association of Canada, also spoke. Merchants were present from the district comprising Kingston to Cornwall and including Ottawa. The gathering concluded with a banquet in the Hotel Manitou as at which the principal speaker was Alderman Laurie Lewis of Belleville.

MANY PREPARE TO JOURNEY NORTH OVER THE HOLIDAY

Northern lakes of Hastings and adjoining counties will be the scene of exodus from the city over the week-end and on the coming 24th holiday, if indications by preparations which have been made during the latter part of this week by summer camp owners to visit their sites for the first real holiday of the season. Rosda through the district are good, it is stated by the regular report of the Ontario Motor League. Sales of live bait, as reported earlier in the week have picked up to heavy proportions and sales of fishing tackle have been good in local stores, according to reports. All that is needed is fair weather and warmth though undecided weather probabilities for the morrow promise weather "cloudy and Cool."

CHEST CLINIC VISITS CAMPBELLFORD

VALUABLE FACTS OBTAINED BY SPECIAL COMMITTEE AT OSHAWA

Considerable "valuable data" was secured by members of the special committee on reassessment of city council, during a visit of attention to Y. Wills, Burton Jennings and Laurie Lewis, and headed by Mayor Jamieson Bone who visited Oshawa and conferred with Major Alex McLean and members of the city council on the matter of reassessment yesterday, it was reported by the Mayor.

"We were given every assistance from that city", stated the Mayor.

Oshawa has just recently completed a reassessment that city and guidance in Belleville's effort will be given.

Past Officers Night Observed

Past Officers' Night at Belleville Chapter, No. 55, O.E.S., was a very interesting event last evening in the Oddfellows' Hall and was attended by a large number of members.

Spring flowers of every variety were used in the decoration of the Hall and provided a colorful background for the function. Mrs. Ethel Adams acted as Worthy Matron and Mr. Basil Ainsworth as Worthy Patron in the initiation of the following former officers very efficiently conferred the degrees of the Order.

Associate Matron—Mrs. Thelma Liddle; Associate Patron, Mr. Chas. Brown; Secretary, Mr. Frank Wessel; Treasurer, Mr. J. W. Barlow; Conductress, Mrs. Mary J. Lewis; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Aletha Dornish; Chaplain, Mrs. Beatrice Embury; Marshal, Miss Irene Hallam; Organist, Mrs. Elizabeth Reid; Adah, Mrs. Ada McDonald; Ruth, Mrs. Mary J. Barlow; Esther, Mrs. Mildred Morgan; Martha, Mrs. Susie Chesher; Electa, Mrs. Enie Naylor; Warder, Mrs. Lillian Sentinel, W. M. Barlow.

Assuring the Worthy Matron was Mrs. Grace McEwen; and those helping with the initiation were Mr. Everett Liddle and Mr. Harvey Stewart.

Mrs. B. Embury on behalf of the Past Matron's Club presented the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Phyllis Barlow with a gift for the Chapter's use.

Among those present; and welcomed were Mrs. Boyd, of Capreol, a Past Grand Matron, and member of this chapter; Mrs. W. Taylor and Mrs. W. Nugent were welcomed back from an extended visit to the Southland, and Mrs. Parson, of Minerva, who was also welcomed. These ladies gave brief, interesting addresses, complimenting the Past Officers for the splendid way in which they had carried out the duties of the evening. Mrs. Adams thanked the members for the honor accorded her as presiding officer for the evening.

Mrs. Pollwell, who is leaving on a trip to the Old Country next week was wished Bon Voyage by her associates. The Business Girls of the Chapter were hostesses to the large gathering and served a delicious lunch. Dancing brought to a close a very interesting evening.

Summer Sports Officially Bow For Public Approval Tuesday, Many Events Being Scheduled

Victoria Park Will be Thrown Open For Public Inspection

BALL GAME

Tennis, Golf, Bowling And Aquatic Fans to Have Innings

Summer sports officially bow before the public, being graciously and glamorously re-consecrated around the 24th of May each succeeding year. The year 1938 is no exception in the realm of sports-dom in Belleville this season. Victoria Day being recognized as the best day on which to officially launch upon the various phases of summer sporting activities. Baseball, softball, tennis, golf, lawn bowling, horse shoe pitching, aquatics in all its beautiful surroundings on the Bay of Quinte and the other phases of sportdom, which attract so many today will officially be open Tuesday.

Commencing early in the morning and continuing all through the day, the various phases of sports will officially make their initial bow and take their long-awaited place in the field of athletic endeavors.

Open Victoria Park

In conjunction with the official opening of the summer sports season on Tuesday next, Victoria Park will also be officially opened by His Worship the Mayor. Fine swimming facilities have been provided for the long and hot summer months at Victoria Park, where a diving tower and swimming float are already in position for the season.

With motorized mode of transportation now being permitted upon Victoria Park, increased crowds will avail themselves of the thrills of the weekly Belleville Yacht Club sailing races on the bay. These races will be officially opened on the afternoon of May 24th, President Maurice Callaghan announced. Four classes of racing punts will face the starters' line, with the Yacht Club trophy being the supplement their present racing prowess with power boat races for the coming season. A new class "A" craft has been created by a well-known local sailor, "Chippy" Hayes, a craft is expected to give Duke Smith's "Joka" and Maurice Callaghan's "After You" plenty of opposition before the season is much older. Other new small-er craft have also been added to the Belleville Yacht Club flotilla, augmenting it to no small degree.

Lawn Bowlers to Start

After having waited patiently all through the long winter months, the lawn bowlers of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club will officially open their season on Victoria Day with a "mixed fiver" rink tournament, to which all newly acquired members are urged to attend and participate in. There will be no entrance fee charged, while valuable prizes are to be awarded the more fortunate winners of the tournament.

Secretary Mark Vanner announced the 13 greens at the Exhibition Park have wintered splendidly, all being available for lawn bowling this season. The local Lawn Bowling Club boasts of a membership of over 150 active members today, with new members affiliating with this energetic sports club daily. They will commence at 2.15 P. M. The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club has negotiated for an extensive season of bowling activities, that includes several district tournaments, at which the rinks selected to represent all parts of Eastern Ontario will compete in both doubles and rinks.

Baseball Game

After an absence of one year, junior baseball will again be presented by the entertainment of the sport lovers of Belleville when the season will officially be opened with the re-organized Belleville intermediates meeting the Kingston "Locos" in the opening game of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League at the Exhibition Park, commencing at 10.00 a. m. Victoria Day. The Belleville team is composed for the greater part of "home brew" players, which should prove acceptable to the patrons of the ancient and honorable game of baseball. The Kingston team is composed of several veteran players, well known to Belleville fans, plus a few younger players, that gives the team plenty of balance. Baseball in the higher flight was not played in Belleville last season, but will return in the Bay of Quinte League high in hopes and fervency that Belleville's second team, the Kiwanis Juniors, are scheduled to open the season at Picton in the opening league fixture versus the Picton Juniors in the afternoon. All baseball fans will get a 24 hour jump on the other sports, as the Belleville District Softball League gets under way with a triple-header on Monday evening, one game at Coleman Plats, another at Point Anne and the third at Napanee, all six Clubs comprising the league taking part in the grand opening.

Golf Courses Open

Although local golf enthusiasts have been availing themselves of some pre-season games, the official golf tournaments will usher in the current season at both the Bay of Quinte Country Club and Belleville Golf Clubs. Harry Drew, men's captain at the latter club, today announced the holiday program for the Belleville golfers, that will include a Men's Sweepstakes in the morning and a mixed four ball foursome in the afternoon with social activities to follow.

Cecil McIntosh, men's captain at the Bay of Quinte Golf Club, announced a "Kicker's Handicap Sweepstakes" in the morning with a mixed two ball foursome in the afternoon. On June 8th a unique golf tournament will be held at the Bay of Quinte Club, however, when teams representing the Bankers, Lawyers, Merchants, Physicians, Manufacturers of the city and a team of officers from the R. C. A. F. will compete in a special tournament with ten men to a team, that will aggregate 36 golfers competing in one tournament.

Tennis

Tennis will also be inaugurated at the Bay of Quinte Country Club where several outstanding and prominent players from Toronto and Hamilton will appear, while the Belleville Tennis Club, situated at the corner of Dufferin Ave., and Queen St., has negotiated plans for a mammoth tennis tournament, that will doubtless be concluded under the floodlights, that make these courts so popular among the tennis players of the city.

Verily, the outside sporting activities will blossom forth in all their scintillations on Tuesday, May 24th when the sports id is pried off for 1938.

GRANT McLEAN .....

One of Canada's foremost tennis stars is "Pinky" McLean of the Toronto Tennis Club, who with other outstanding net stars such as Bill Pigott and Maurice Margesson, will appear in competition at the Bay of Quinte Country Club tennis courts on Tuesday. McLean was chosen to play against Fred Perry at one time and is considered one of the best looking and attractive players in Canada, always causing a flutter of the hearts of the fair set wherever he appears in public.

KINGSTON LOCOS HAVE SMART TEAM

Many Former C. O. B. L. Stars Compose Their Lineup

When the Kingston "Locos" step onto the Belleville diamond to meet the Quinte City "Ortons" in the opening game of the Bay of Quinte League in Belleville next Tuesday morning, the Limestone City nine will boast of some rankling senior players of yesteryear, many of whom were with the old Kingston Frontes when that club won the senior O. B. A. title back in 1932.

The Arniel brothers, Jimmie and Gerald are with the newly-organized Kingston intermediates, with the veteran Jimmie managing the club from the bench. Albert Joyce, once one of the most feared hitters in the C. O. B. L., Tommy Boyd, "Mickey" Compeau, Kingston's perennial short-stop, "Buckeye" Reed and several other ranking intermediates will complete Kingston's roster. A pair player to turn out with the "Locos" will be Jerry Callin, Kingston's outstanding hockey player of recent years, who played with the Hershey Bears in the U. S. A. amateur hockey league last winter and a lad named Udell, who hails from Queens University.

After having let major league baseball lapse from Belleville for a year, the local nine may be supplemented with a trio of players from the R.C.A.F. base at Trenton for their opening game versus the strong Kingston team, thus assuring the fans of a tidy baseball game for the holiday. Coach Alex Weir has available such pitchers as Bud Wilkins, "Letty" Weeks, moving up from junior ranks who he starred last season. Phil Lett, former intermediate and Hilliard "Speedy" St. Louis for mound duty.

Predicts Toronto Leafs Will Click

Winnipeg, May 21.—(CP)—Returning to his Brandon home from the hockey wars, Walter (Mush) Broda, soft-spoken Toronto Maple Leafs goal-tender, expressed belief the Leafs are due to click next season.

"We've got a young, wide-open club that's nearing its peak," he said.

Broda's engagement to Miss Betty Williams of Toronto was recently announced. "We haven't set the date yet," he remarked, "but just watch my shut-outs next season. The pucks will have to be slopped when I have a wife to keep."

He plans to keep in condition this summer playing golf, which he took up a year ago, and is out to break 100.

RANKING TENNIS STARS TO APPEAR IN CITY TUESDAY

Five Members of Toronto Club to Perform at Country Club Courts

TO HOLD TOURNEY

Tennis Will Also be Played at Belleville Club Under Lights

Lovers of tennis, as played in the higher flights, are to be afforded a rare privilege when several Canadian ranking tennis players will appear in exhibition matches at the Bay of Quinte Country Club tennis courts on Victoria Day afternoon. Bill Pigott, of Hamilton, the Canadian indoor tennis champion and ranking intercollegiate titleholder, will appear to play Grant "Pinky" McLean, of Toronto, who was elected five years ago to play Fred Perry, when the English star was scheduled as an amateur through Canada. Maurice Margesson, Toronto, and two other ranking tennis players will also appear in the exhibition matches and edification of local lovers of the game.

The visit and exhibitions of these ranking tennis stars was made possible through the efforts of Ernie Whelpton, former Hamilton sportsman, now an employee of the Belleville Branch of the Bank of Montreal and in charge of the tennis activities at the Bay of Quinte Country Club. All of the members of the Toronto Tennis Club and exponents of the game in the higher realm.

Exhibitions Given

Exhibitions will be given during the afternoon of the holiday on the Bay of Quinte Country Club courts, while members of the local Club will later be selected to match their play against the heralded visitors later in the day. The local competition will commence in the morning with the ultimate winners meeting the visitors in exhibition play. Two outstanding players from the Trenton R. C. A. F. are also scheduled to compete in the tournament.

The opportunity to witness such high ranking tennis players in action is seldom afforded the lovers of tennis in this community and their appearance will doubtless command a large gallery.

Night Tennis

While these ranking tennis players are in action west of the city, the Belleville Tennis Club, occupying their splendid floodlighted site at the corner of Queen St. and Dufferin Ave., will officially open their season with a gala day's program, that is to include tournaments in all flights, ranging from midgets to the more competent seniors. The Belleville courts are equipped with floodlights, making night tennis available for club members under local playing conditions.

Ivan Scott, chairman of the club, and his associates have arranged a complete programme of tennis events for the youthful Belleville club, that will include singles, doubles and mixed doubles and permit every club member competition on the holiday. Tennis is rapidly forging to the fore as one of the major sporting events of this city and with two fine clubs available all that is left to assure a gala official

EXPECT BIG THINGS

Brighton, England, May 21 (CP)—"He will be Fred Perry's successor in Great Britain's Davis Cup team this year, if I am not mistaken," said a writer recently after watching Ronald Shayes in the Sussex lawn tennis tourney.

TENNIS STAR TO WED

London May 21 .)CP)—Senorita Anita Lizana Sancha Chilean tennis star and Ronald Ellis of Dulwich, will be married in London next July.

LOUD SPEAKERS TO CARRY PLAY

Batting Order and Positions Will be Given The Patrons

Keeping abreast with the modern trend of the times and for the benefit and interest of the baseball patrons, a loud speaking equipment will be installed at the Exhibition Park for the benefit of the fans at the opening ball game of the Bay of Quinte League on Victoria Day. The inaugural game brings together those two arch diamond enemies, Belleville and Kingston, the latter being represented in the Bay of Quinte loop by the C.I.C.A.C. team.

In order to acquaint the patrons of the opening game on Tuesday morning with the personnel of both clubs and other matters of interest to the fans, loud speakers will be installed through which a baseball commentator will announce the batteries, line-ups and other matters of interest.

In years past it was believed the fans were not fully acquainted with the names of the players and their positions, thus prompting the local management to install the loud speaking equipment for the benefit of their patrons. With Belleville having been void of a major baseball team for the past season or so a capacity crowd is looked for at the opening game of the Bay of Quinte League, bringing together Kingston at Belleville.

Senior—Aug. 15 to 27.

A boy will qualify for camp on the first event he wins. Should he place first in any other event, his runner-up shall qualify; should this runner-up place first in any other event, his runner-up shall qualify provided he has not already done so; if he has, the third and so on will qualify.

Qualifiers must be prepared to state at District Meet whether they will attend Camp at time allotted or not. As this Camp is held for the purpose of coaching and training the winners of the District Meets for the Ontario Schoolboy Championship it is obviously unfair for any boy to compete in a District Meet knowing he cannot attend the training period at Camp, as substitutions will not be permitted.

NATIONALS HAD GREAT RECORD

Grand Trunks Won Seven C.O.B.L. Pennants And Two Provincial Titles

Since the inception of the C. O. B. WESLEY BICENTENARY.

A great event in the world of the human spirit is being observed on Sunday and for the next two days, May 22-24, throughout the Methodist world-and even in other denominations which realize the importance of John Wesley in the religious life of the world for the past two centuries. In Canada the United Church, one of whose strains proceeds from Methodism, there will be tributes to his life service. In missions in pagan lands, there will be the same observance.

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, born at Epworth Rectory, England, had become a deacon by the time he was 22, that is in 17-25, and later received full orders. For a while he was curate to his father. He had graduated at Oxford and returned there and joined the "Holy Club" with which his brother Charles, later the great singer and composer of hymns had been associated and John became known as father of the "Holy Club." John was not satisfied with his success in reaching his hearers through his sermons and in the thirties he went to Georgia on a mission and there was laid the foundation on which was finally built Methodism. He returned to England, he met Peter Boehler and from him John Wesley grew to believe that he "lacked the faith whereby we are saved." On Wednesday May 24, 1738 he went to a meeting in London and it was there that one of the most historic events in English history took place, according to Lecky. John afterwards wrote of this occasion:

"About a quarter before nine while he [Boehler] was describing the change which God works in the heart through Christ, I felt my heart strangely warmed. I felt I did trust in Christ, Christ alone, for salvation and an assurance was given me that He had taken away my sins, even mine, and saved me from the law of sin and death."

This is the record of an event of the soul which is being celebrated at the present time.

Events after this led him among the Moravians in Germany, after which he returned to London greatly strengthened in his faith as his record shows. It was at this time that he and Rev. Geo. Whitfield came together. Whitfield at length found churches closed to him and opened in the open air to multitudes. John Wesley could hardly reconcile himself to preaching in the fields, for he had held tenaciously to every point regarding order, that "I should have thought the saving of souls almost a sin if it had not been done in a church."- But nevertheless next day he joined Whitfield.

Thereafter follow his visits to Ireland and Scotland, the great expansion of the religious society by the help of faithful preachers. It was in 1784 that Wesley made a deed of declaration which is known as the Deed of the Methodist societies a legal constitution.

Wesley is one of the world's great characters. His biography and his records of his itinerant journeys make engrossing reading today. He was great because of the spirit which was in him.

The church which arose out of his life and work began in an revival of personal religion and professed to have one aim—to "spread scriptural holiness over the land." It was the zeal with which the doctrine was taught, the clear distinction which Methodists drew between the profession of godliness and the enjoyment of its power—added to the emphasis they laid upon the immediate influence of the Holy Spirit which attracted attention, gave them distinction and even aroused ridicule and opposition. But when he came near to the close of his life he was welcomed everywhere.

Historians have placed Wesley among the greatest spiritual leaders of mankind. How important he has been shows-in the millions who belong or are attracted to the religious denomination which is owing to him. In the case of all great leaders his influence has not been confined to his followers but has spread far beyond.

ROYAL EMPIRE SOCIETY MESSAGE

The Royal Empire Society has sent through Col. W. H. Merritt this city a message for Empire Day as follows—

"On Empire Day the Chairman and Council of the Royal Empire Society send cordial greetings to their fellow members both in the United Kingdom and overseas.

"They trust that the Royal Empire Society will increase in strength and influence and thus continue to play its part in binding together in the spirit of unity and mutual understanding all subjects of His Majesty wherever they may be."

Today this spirit is necessary and indeed does dominate all parts of the British Empire. Today the noblest political creation and development the world has ever known is putting up a supreme effort to maintain peace in the world and to hold democracy and preserve the democratic states of the world. The trying times of the post twenty years which have given rise to political opportunists and the rise of all sorts of dictatorships, have produced in the world a sight tragic in the extreme, when what democracies offer would cure these ills. Britain, leader of the nations which have democratic governments, is taking a leading hand in world affairs which is even recognized by those outside the pale of democracy.

Just as the spirit of the Dominions of the Empire is sure, so should be the spirit of the individual citizen and subject. Empire Day this year should mean a rededication to the principles of democracy as they have been developed within the British Empire.

Unfortunately many nations, struggling with various "isms" and other problems, cannot see the full benefit of democratic freedom.

LIFE

Just to be kind—to ease the heavy burden
Of someone's load;
Just to be true—to win at last the guerdon
Of friendship good;
Just to be calm—with each unruly passion
Under control;
These are the golden chains which man may fashion, To stay his soul.

Just to be right—Whatever host oppose you,
To work you ill;
Just to be sure, whatever foes enclose you,
They cannot kill;
Just to be brave—to face long days of sorrow—With quiet eyes;
These are the things which make of each tomorrow—A paradise.

Just to be loved (and find no time for hating);
Just to be sure
That home and hearth and love are always waiting—Changeless and pure;
To hear the "Now I lay me's" as long lashes
Flutter to rest;
These are the gifts that glow amid life's ashes—These things are best.

GERALDTON IS ON THE MAP — one of Ontario's newest and brightest municipalities, with a gold foundation and a rainbow of promise in the sky—meet Geraldton, Ontario's newest mining camp (at this writing) up the road aways this side of Port Arthur and Fort William where Jim Conmee always contended that the ground was full of gold and managed to get enough himself to hit Easy Street when life really began at fifty. Jim Conmee, it may be stated, was at one time commissioner of the Bay of the North Country politically and industrially, his ventures including mining and lumbering. Geraldton has a Chamber of Commerce and has begun kicking about radio interference—so much so that a government inspector recently arrived and located 30 radios on which no license had been paid—penalty of publicity.

One hundred and thirty radio licenses have been sold in Geraldton this spring but the inspector says there are at least 300 radios in the district which means that some are still without licenses. Geraldton is up and coming. Having no sidewalks this spring the Powers that Be took the citizens out of the mud overnight by constructing and laying board walks between dusk and dawn. When the citizens awoke one morning from his slumbers, to and behold, where yesterday they had to dodge mudholes now there was a neat and tidy and well-ordered boardwalk. Some town Geraldton, we'll say. Just another up and coming Ontario gold' camp where the rainbow has dipped toward the Pot of Gold. Geraldton is in the Little Long Loc District, not being discovered but already attracting worldwide attention.

Making Sure That Renewal of Various Types Will Be Successful

During the examination of recruits for the Great War, any case with a marked degree of varicose veins in the legs was rejected as being on the feet in the standing position for long periods would be sure to make the condition worse.

The injection method was known but not highly regarded at that time and as if these men were very anxious to proceed overseas, they were sent into hospital, underwent operation, remained about three weeks in hospital, and were then put on their feet for about three months before doing the marching or other military duties of their unit.

Today there are more cases with various veins undergo the injection treatment than operation due to the fact that more thought is given to each case and only those cases that can expect satisfactory results either from the one or the operation are given treatment. That is, each case is tested as to the ability of the deep lying veins to do their work, should the large knotted veins which lie just under the skin be removed by injection or operation. After injection the blocking of the veins as the patient walks about, a tourniquet-tight bandage put around the upper two or thigh and the patient again walks around the block. Some cases have been operated and so prominently because the operation is done so that the work but seem to draw some of the blood out of the outer Varicose veins. Work in progressing on Mr. Corby's yacht. She will be ready for service shortly.

Mr. Joseph James of Acclington was in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. Stump of the Hub Hotel have returned after a trip to the West.

SNEEZING ALLERGIC

Once a sneeze was good luck. Like a talisman, and now it is possibly "allergic."

A new pronouncement of the American College of Physicians has given this one[lo humanity for what it is worth, and we are forced again to believe—in spite of its medical sanditize that if this sort of thing goes on we are going to have hypochondriacs getting better and better excuses for bothering others.

Now' allergy is sensitization. It includes headaches, skin rashes, dyspepsia, insuccumbable swellings, watery eyes and nose, hay fever and some ailments. But in spite of these formidable handicaps there is little doubt that certain people are willing to feel that such a label makes the thing worth having, and that to sneeze their way to allergy is just as easy as acquiring some of the other new and fashionable ailments. There is, of course, a qualification. You have to sneeze more than six times in a row to be allergic. That is quite a bit of sneezing. But practice makes perfect, and those who like to imagine that they are getting allergic can probably bring the latest discovery of psychology to make them edge over the half-dozen with facility and professional efficiency. The power of mind over matter is a great one, and, unfortunately, getting greater.

Self-consciousness about health has thus gained another ally, and there is no limit to how it may develop. This thought of unfortunates, however, does arise. There are those who will stop at five or possibly six sneezes, and wonder if that they are dubs or not in line for genuine allergy. For these, too, who don't want to be bothered with fashion, there is the dozen-six and stop. That could possibly, until a better term is developed, mean just a cosmopolitan cold. There could be no more meagre sop to vanity than that. — Hamilton Spectator.

MOST METEORS MISS

The question is often asked: How many of the 17,60 flaky meteoric showers are falling all the time, that none of them has ever struck such cities as New York, London, Chicago or Berlin? And why is it we never hear of anyone being killed by them?

Dr. Slipher, the Colorado student of the subject, replies: "Only a very small fraction of the earth's surface is taken up by the total area of the world. A hundred of the largest cities in the world occupy less than one-twentieth of its surface, so that by far the greater part there should be from 2,000 to 3,000 falls within the limits of cities and those named.

Dr. Fisher says that, all told, about 1,000 falls of meteorites are known to have occurred, and only 350 are represented in the American Museum of Natural History. Nearly 500 meteoric falls have actually been observed."

Small diamonds have been found in meteorites, and in the Colorado desert there is said to be a deposit of a 68-pound meteorite in which there is enough gold for a modest dental filling. The first stony meteorite observed to fall in America and be duly described by white men was that at Weston, Connecticut, December 14, 1807. Benjamin Silliman, of Yale, was told that Professor Silliman's account of the phenomenon described the fall, remarked: "It is easier to believe that two Yankee professors lie than that stones should fall from heaven." — New York Times.

MATTER OF ACCENT

One thirsty industrial community in Ontario, like many others, relies itself on its Jamboree. Last many years, local manufacturers and business men have willingly give jobs to likely looking boys who could show dexterity in handling a stick and the ball. They turned out in force to root for the team whenever it played on the home ice.

Although the town has only a few thousand inhabitants the team calls itself the Nationals. The name itself is an indication of the spirit which and never seemed incongruous to the team's supporters. The red sweaters were showing signs of the years they had endured, and when the boys were measured for new garments at the local knitting mills the mill owner, a sentimental man, made a special rate for the work as a gesture of pride in the team.

Unfortunately, one detail of the garments design had been omitted when the order was given, so a few days later, the team manager telephoned the mill owner to see if the team's initial letter in red could be placed on the chests of the sweaters. The manufacturer said that it could easily be done.

So that season the Nationals played hockey in sweaters bearing the letter N outlined with red letters. They won the championship of their league.— Printed Word.

EMPIRE'S OLDEST

There can be few with better claims to be the oldest resident of a British possession than Mr. Patrick Hamilton of New Brunswick, South Canterbury, New Zealand, who recently celebrated his 108th birthday, in an interview he said he was hardly tired of publicity and he was grateful the burden of answering the many letters that came to him from all parts of the world.

At 98 years Mr. Hamilton has lived in New Zealand and his home is large in size and comfort, being built in 1860. In both may be seen the passing of the years, but Mr. Hamilton is still active and has only just taken to using two sticks to help him get about more easily. His home is still neat and in excellent repair. He does not now pleasure in reading daily newspapers and gets much quiet enjoyment from his garden.

Mr. Hamilton was born at Carnock, County Donegal, Ireland, on St. Patrick's Day, 1830.

SWEET MUSIC

Rogers Hornsby, baseball manager, was discussing baseball salaries.

"Baseball salaries," he said, "are not high enough. Baseball salaries are not high enough to make a man sing sweet music, like Kreisler's violin.

"Kreisler's violin, you know, is worth $100,000. Kreisler, playing it, can make sweet music. He can make it sing.

"But a baseball player, even if he is worth $100,000, can't make sweet music. He can't make it sing. He can't make it do anything but yell."

Bolts Conclave

Roger W. Babson, famous statistician and moderator for the U. S. Congregational church, is pictured at the pulpit of the Unitarian church, Dedham, Mass. EUCHRE STILL POPULAR

Euchre is a game that has not lost its popularity to bridge. The great game adopts as much popularity as it did years ago, and it is played in the same way. The bridge fans have changed their game, and auction bridge was superseded by contract. Duplicate bridge clubs have been formed, and now the bridges deck of cards is to have a fifth suit, the joker. Thus the bridge crowds who derive the keenest of enjoyment in the game. The progressive system of playing mixes the bridge up, and has players and good players are partners with one another. It is a great leveler; the poor player has a fair skill against the other couple. If they lose they step at the same table, and each has a new partner for the next game; if they win, the man goes one way and the woman another, each to meet different players. It is a game that has a playful quirky, does not require too much concentration, and has a considerable chance and skill. As your partner says, "Euchre is the game, partner," and she takes a chance, which, after all, is what everybody has to do in order to be successful in the great game of chance—life.

Little Benny's Note Book

The telefone rang when I came home from school, and I answered it and it was pop, saying, Benny, I'm going to take you back shoes up to the shoemakers and have him straighten them. I want to wear them thoste so I'll be ready in a hurry for the shoemaker and I'll stop in and pick them up on my way home, do you understand all right.

Yes sir, I said.

Well, then, only I forgot all about it again on account of Pods and Mother blaming for me. I had forgotten about pop's shoes, but he was straightening his desk before supper time, and then I quick run in the house and got them and ran up to the shoemaker's, saying, My father wants you to straighten both pairs of his in a hurge big hurry for them.

Then he is in a hurry for everybodys that leaves shoes in here to be fixed, and the result is I'm always late for my shoemaker's.

Not saying when, and pop said, Good, come on with me while I transact some biz and we can do each other the honor of walking home together.

How about if I get them for you after supper? I said, and pop said, Then come over. I expect to be busy putting them on.

And I run back to the shoemakers with him, and pop saying, Are my shoes ready? and the shoemaker saying, Well that's the quickest job that ever was expected of me, and pop said, Didn't I tell you I was in a hurry for them? and the shoemaker said, Sure, he told me not 5 minutes ago.

The rest being the sad part.

Wooler

Wooler—The annual meeting of the Wooler Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. S. L. Terrill on Wednesday May 11th, at 2.30 P. M. The president, Mrs. Orvis, presiding. The Institute Ode was sung, followed by the Lord's Prayer and roll call.

The illness of Mrs. Palmer was mentioned and it was decided to remember her on her birthday, May 27th with a gift of flowers with a message from the Institute. The secretary Mrs. J. Way gave her report for the year, that 355 had attended the meetings and 18 addresses were given. The treasurer's report showed receipts of $101.80. Expenditures $83.38.

Mrs. Orvis gave an excellent report of the year's work and announced the District Annual to be held Enniskillen on June 22nd., with Miss Collins as department speaker.

The offices were then declared vacant and Mrs. G. Austin was elected chairman, Mrs. P. Gooding read from the handbook of the Women's Institute "Aims and Objects."

Mrs. S. L. Terrill gave the report of the nominating committee. The names on the slate for 1938 as follows:—

President, Mrs. Orvis.

1st. Vice president, Mrs. L. Leavitt.

2nd. vice president, Miss Edith Austin.

Rec. Treas., Mrs. J. J. Way.

Directors, Mrs. Geo. Anderson. Mrs. F. Crewe, Mrs. R. Plumpton. Mrs. W. Gilmartin.

District director, Mrs. L. R. Rowe Representative to district Annual, Mrs. Orvis, Mrs. Leavitt, Mrs. F. Gooding, Mrs. J. J. Way.

Auditors, Mrs. Erron Scott, Mrs. Robt. Read.

These officers were duly elected by the Secretary casting a ballot to that effect. Carried.

Mrs. P. Gooding, convener, then took the chair and called on Mrs. R. Walker for a piano solo. Vocal duet by Misses Elford and Eva Masters. An excellent paper on Peace was read by Mrs. Clarence McMaster showing the enormous cost of men and money in the last war and what we can do to prevent war. Mrs. Orvis spoke on this paper on Peace. Mrs. W. Ashley gave a practical talk on the kitchen garden. Meeting closed with National Anthem. Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. W. A. McColl and Mrs. J. J. Way.

On Friday evening a party of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Walker in honor of their sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Meigs of Nanjoke, Maryland. They came to spend two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Walker and the aged mother.

Percy Gooding acted as chairman and called the company to order by a vocal duet by Gwennie Elford and Eva Masters "Home in May". Piano solo by Esther Ellis, vocal number by little Betty Walker and Kathleen Sharpe. Community singing was enjoyed by the young people. The chairman explained why this company had gathered as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Meigs, as they could not quite understand why so many came at once. Then Mrs. S. L. Terrill read a well worded address, how we should treasure the memories of the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Meigs when and now Jean Jones presented them with a wool blanket and silk bed spread and a pair of towels, all in pale green, given by the neighbors and friends.

The happy couple expressed such an appreciation long to be remembered and we, knowing their home buried down with all their treasures a few months ago, wanted to share with them in these gifts.

After singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows", refreshments were served.

They'll Do It Every Time :-: By Jimmy Hatlo

AT THE BELLE

"In Old Chicago"

The urge to make big pictures, pictures honesty deserving those much abused adjectives "tremendous," "spectacular", and even colossal," seems to come in cycles. And these cycles reach their crest roughly, very roughly, at ten-year intervals. Of course people haven't been making movies long enough yet to enable the statistician to determine so long range a matter as the periodicity of appearance of big pictures definitely, but so far, ten years seems to be the interval between one cluster of big pictures and the next, by the clusters themselves are spread over a period of three or four years.

We seem to be right at the high point of such a cycle now, with a lot of big pictures showing, and "In Old Chicago" with its enormous budget, now on the Belle screen until Tuesday, matinee daily.

The chances seem to be, if the cycle is correct, that the next few years will see a slump in spectacle pictures, no more than one being produced a year, if that.

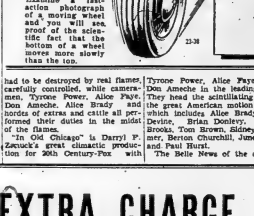
History Proves It

That's the way it's gone so far. The last wave of big pictures came in the years 1923, '24 and '25, then dropped off from the peak that saw the production of "The Covered Wagon," "The Ten Commandments" and "Ben Hur" in rapid succession. The cycle before that brought us only one "big" picture, but that one was a "whopper" being nothing less than "The Birth of a Nation" in 1915.

The present cycle of spectacular pictures seems to have its culminating crest, "In Old Chicago," if the production schedules as announced for next year are any criterion. And in some ways this seems fitting enough for the problems which the script writers set Henry King the director, and the problems he set the technical staff were many and complex. Nothing more difficult to do is likely to be thought up for some time.

Fire a Masterpiece

The fire itself, the mere matter of reproducing convincingly a fire that burned four square miles of buildings, destroyed $200,000,000 worth of property, killed 300 people (that was the number of dead who were found after the conflagration), all in a holocaust that lasted unabated for two days, was difficult enough. A sixty acre city had to be destroyed by real flames, carefully controlled, while cameramen, Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche in the leading roles. Then read the scintillating cast of the great American motion picture which includes Alice Brady, Andy Devine, Brian Donlevy, Phyllis Brooks, Tom Brown, Sidney Blackmer, Berton Churchill, June Storey and Paul Hurst.



The Belle News of the day and Walt Disney's new color-cartoon classic Donald Duck in "Self Control" will be presented on the same program.

Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.00 and 9.00. For your perfect enjoyment of "In Old Chicago" see it from the beginning at 2.30, 7.15, 9.25. Regular Belle prices will prevail.

1938 De Luxe Ford V-8 Fordor Sedan

You would ordinarily expect to pay more money for all the extra features illustrated here. They are the features you want in a De Luxe car. But they are included in the delivered price of the De Luxe Ford V-8. They contribute the additional comfort and luxury that make this the quality car in the low-price field.

Ford value is traditional. It is fully demonstrated in the 85-horsepower V-type eight-cylinder engine, the Centre-Poise riding comfort and Ford standards of quality in design and construction. You see Ford value in the economy of body lines, finely tailored interiors, and the many extra appointments and conveniences for which no extra charge is made.

But this Ford V-8 is still a "small car" in first cost and operating cost. The dependable V-8 engine gives 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline, as owners report. See the De Luxe V-8 at your Ford dealer's. Drive it yourself.

CONSERVATIVE 'AT HOME' VOTED GRAND SUCCESS

Cards Occupied First Part of Enjoyable Evening

400 ATTEND

The fine spirit of camaraderie and fellowship that has long been a characteristic of the social functions of the Belleville Conservative Association was again evidenced last night when upwards of four hundred members thronged the spacious halls of Johnstone's Academy on the occasion of the annual "at home" of this popular Belleville organization.

With cards forming the popular diversion during the early part of the evening, thirty-four tables of euchre and twenty-five tables of bridge swung into action. Other and exciting play featured both games and judges were forced to call in "overtime" to decide the final winners of the splendid prizes.

A feature of the affair was a tapdance and singing number staged by dainty little Miss Barbara Brown, garbed as a miniature Negro mammy in her first appearance, the clever little dancer drew the well-merited applause of the gathering. Appearing again in the ruffles and lights of a modern artist, Miss Donovan brought down the house with a clever display.

Served by members of the executive a delicious lunch catered to the inner wants of the large crowd shortly before midnight.

Dance Enjoyed.

Then to the lilting rhythms of Bud Haines and his Commodores, the gathering swung into the tempo of the dance. Members of the executive passed among the crowd dispensing favors, shakers and other noise-making apparatus, giving the party the appearance of the well-known New Year celebration. Interspersing the dance numbers prizes for cards and novelties were presented by R. D. Arnott, K.C., M.P.P.

Voted in unanimous accord, the "at home" was easily one of the most enjoyable events of its nature provided by the Conservative Association. President Harry Rollins and his capable executive assistants left no stones unturned to make the affair an outstanding one, and their efforts were well rewarded in the reception of the highly entertaining program provided for their guests.

Winners of the various prizes were: Door prize, $5.00, ticket No. 65 held by George Johnson, 119 Dundas street. Bridge: Ladies, Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mrs. M. Waldorf Mrs. H. Naylor; gentlemen, R. D. Bateman, Arthur Hill, M. Scanlon. Euchre: Ladies, Mrs. Mary Stark, Mrs. Percy, Miss Pauline Rushlow, Mrs. W. Arnott; Mrs. George Smith; gentlemen, W. Wareham, Jack Calcutt, Norman Samaine, C. Mikel, J. Cormier.

The lucky number score prize for euchre was won by Mrs. Rosenthal while the lucky score bridge prize was annexed by Mrs. M. W. Williamson.

BRIDGE ST. Y. P. Y.

Members of the 1938 graduating class and student nurses of Belleville General Hospital, were the last meeting of the Young People's Association of Bridge St. Church, Belleville, conducted by the president, Mr. Gordon Finlayson, and by Rev. Dr. Semple. The tunes were led by Mr. Ferris, assisted in a sing song and games. This was followed by an interesting program, the various numbers being as follows:

Reading, Miss Betty Anderson; Solo, Mr. C. Patterson; Reading, Miss Anna Lloyd; Solo, Mrs. Tiffney Ellis, Piano Dupt, Mrs. Harry Rollins and Mrs. Taylor Franklin.

Dainty refreshments were served, the tea table being most attractive with Spring flowers and yellow tapers. Miss Gertrude Lasier was convener, in charge of arrangements.

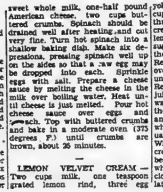
PASS RESOLUTION UPON CONDITIONS IN SOME HOUSES

The Adult Bible Class of Tabernacle United Church held their monthly open meeting last night. Mr. Mifflin, the president acting as chairman. There was a good attendance of members and friends of the class. Mrs. Mifflin, the choir leader led the group in a very delightful fifteen minutes of community singing. Mr. Grant Malcen sang twice to the delight of all and Mrs. J. C. Charlton gave two readings that were much appreciated. Miss F. Davis, organist for the Sunday School and member of the class, presided at the piano. Mr. H. J. Fetterly gave a very interesting and informative address on the work of the Children's Welfare Association dwelling specially on housing conditions in certain sections of Belleville.

He claimed families were living in houses without proper water supply and proper sanitation. He said children were living in surroundings unfit for habitation and were shunned by other children. He suggested, that the business people should organize to help these unfortunate children by providing and being made to improve conditions. The following resolution was passed by the meeting at the close of Mr. Fetterly's address.

That this meeting having heard the statement of Mr. Fetterly regarding conditions in this city unanimously request the Board of Health and the City Council to face such actions as may be necessary where there are no adequate sanitary arrangements and where children are living in conditions unfit for human habitation; and that we endorse the organization of the Christian forces of the city to improve these conditions that may become a menace to the moral as well as the physical life of the city. We believe that no life is safe until all life is safe".

A hearty vote of thanks was given to Mr. Fetterly for his address.



Eggs Florentine Is Delicious Main Dish For Menu That Ends With Lemon Dessert

By MRS. MARY MORTON
Menu Hint
Eggs Florentine
Buttered Beets Orange Salad
Lemon Velvet Cream
Coffee

The lemon velvet cream may be served with chocolate sauce again. A delicious chocolate sauce can be purchased in glass jars in the shops, as well as the butterscotch and other flavors. The egg and spinach dish will serve six, and frozen, cooked or fresh cooked spinach can be used in this recipe.

Today's Recipes

EGGS FLORENTINE — Three cups cooked or canned spinach, or two packages frozen spinach, six eggs, salt, one and two-thirds cups irradiated evaporated milk or cream, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, three egg yolks, one cup sugar, one-fourth cup lemon juice, three egg whites, one tablespoon sugar, one-half cup cream, whipped. Scald milk with double boiler. Mix salt, flour and sugar. Pour scalded milk onto them slowly, stirring the while. Return to double boiler and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture coats the spoon. Remove from heat, stir in lemon juice and rind. Fold in stiffly beaten whites, add remaining sugar gradually, beating it in as it is added. Whip cream. Fold egg whites into cream. Remove frozen spinach, if used, until light. Fold into the egg white and cream mixture. Delicious served plain or with chocolate sauce. Serves six or eight.

CONDITION HAIR FOR SPRING PERMANENT

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

NOW IS THE TIME for your spring permanent. If you are going in for curly locks this year you will be pleased to find that this department thought might be of interest before you take this important step.

Of course the idea of a permanent wave is to make straight hair behave like naturally wavy hair. It makes hair a lot easier to arrange, and is practically a necessity if you are going in for curly bobs or upturned hairdos. Most people have about two permanents a year, one in the fall and one another in the fall, but lots have more. It's a question of how fast your hair grows. If you are one of the girls who can have it cut every month you'll need more waves than one whose hair grows slowly.

Have Test Curls

We hope you've been a very good girl and used these oils to give your hair a few weeks' conditioning. Healthy hair responds so much better to the waving. If you have been ill and your hair is sickly and dry, or very fine and soft, then you will have more difficulty in getting a good wave. And don't be bashful with your operator. Break down and confess if you've been using over-strong lotion, dandruff removers, bleaches, tints or dyes. She will be able, with your help to tell whether your hair is in condition for a permanent and will know what to do if you have white hair or fine hair that has to be handled carefully.

Ask for one or two test curls before you have your whole head done. And get a reliable operator in a clean, reputable shop. This is not the time to go in for economy, because you are going to live with that head of hair for the next six months, once you have it.

Your hairdresser will part your hair and over your head, working about thirty-six curls of uniform size. There are two ways of winding the curls, spiral or croquignole. The croquignole starts at the ends and winds in. Spiral can be used to gives waves of different widths. Most are best in the middle of soft waves around your face. Croquignole is better for short hair, because it gives a more curly look or close spingy quality.

It is purely a question of taste as to what type of permanent wave you want. The three types are now electrically generated heat, pre-heated pads and regulated heat supplied by the aching tenaculum.

Don't think that because you have paid your money for a permanent your wave that your hair will just arrange itself when you run a comb through it. You've got to work with it and train the waves and curls in place, just as you would if you had naturally curly hair. And don't forget to give your hair and scalp hot oil treatments and shampoos for several weeks afterward, to counteract any dryness.

It will be fun to be able to take off your hat and toss your hair in the breezes without fear of it going lank on you just at your moment of abandon.

Obstinate Husband Ruining Wife's Health

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I married, expected a normal family life, husband, home, children. But my husband insisted that I keep m, job which obliged me to stand the greater part of the day, and I am my first baby. This has happened twice since, and my doctor tells me that if I continue with my job, doing all the housework, besides, before I go to work and after I come home, I will be an invalid for the rest of my life. I have explained this to my husband, but still he seems to think I can keep on.

He tells me his mother did all her own work and had nine children. It is unhappy

It's easy to understand your signature, and doubtless, if your husband's mother did all her own work and had nine children, and didn't have to hold down a job outside the home, understanding during working hours.

Have your doctor write a letter to your husband, if your husband is unwilling to talk things over with him. And remember, if you have a mother, sister, brother, or someone you can call till your health improves, by all means go. Very probably if you did lose your health your husband would be glad of the type you describe, would have scant use for an invalid wife.

Sorry I can't print your letter in full.

Lament of a Poker-Playing Husband

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Don't you think a wife might go along with her husband on the way to some congenial diversion? She's a swell girl, and we've been married five years, but she has never cared about sharing the recreation I enjoy. I'm fond of music, like to go to concerts, hear good choirs, even an opera, but she says music bores her. And if she goes with me, she squirms and can't control her impatience. I'm a bridge player and like bridge parties. She knew I belonged to a bridge club, before we were married. We meet at each other's houses about once in two or three weeks, but because she doesn't care for cards, she doesn't meet the boys, or the ladies, and has no good partner.

I do the best I can and put out beer and sandwiches and sometimes scrambled eggs, but my suppers are never as good as the other fellows' wives seem to take a real pride in having good eats. I love my wife, but I begin to see we're drifting apart.

Just a Husband

Have you ever taken up this question with your wife in the same way you have written me? Tell her that you hate to see this breech widening between you, and ask her if she won't at least see the boys have a decent feed on poker nights. I'm a great believer in putting the domestic cards on the table and talking things out.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Seats at Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Please tell me if it is correct to eat a fruit salad with the salad fork or the dessert fork.

2—When having a small number of guests to dinner and you have a proper seat for a guest of honor at the hostess' right and the man guest at the host's right?

3—Should the guest of honor be served first? I have a friend who says that the honors should always be served first.

R.

1—A fruit salad should be eaten with a salad fork. Sometimes the salad knife is placed as a supplement to the salad fork. But never should a spoon be placed to be used with a fruit salad . . . this is too much like kindergarten table manners.

2—You this isn't at all the idea. The woman guest of honor is seated at the right of the host, and the man guest of honor is seated at the right of the hostess. This is the traditional and conventional form for the most seductive dinner arrangement. At most dinners there is an equal number of women and men. At such dinners the guests are seated alternately. It would be extremely unusual to find a man and woman side by side and two women seated side by side, and that is never done except in the most unusual circumstance of having more women than men present at the dinner party. But even under the circumstances of an uneven number of women and men the rule would not affect the fact that the woman guest of honor would be at the right of the host, and the man guest of honor would be at the right of the hostess. The next most important positions are at the left of the hostess and host, and the woman to be given second honor is seated at the left of the host, and the man to be given second honor is seated at the left of the hostess. One more thing: If you the planning your seating . . . husband and wife are not seated next to each other at dinner.... Husband and wife are not important, for it is significant to socially-accustomed guests that the husband and wife be seated apart, give honor where honor is due."

3—Should the guest of honor be served first. This gives her the compliment due the guest of honor.

Formal Invitations Unnecessary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon. My fiance and I are both from South California, and the wedding will be a nine o'clock in the morning. I am having a long white dress and a bridal veil, and although I know that this is supposed to be very formal I still want to have a quiet wedding. There will be twenty people at the wedding, relatives and our closest friends.

My problem is: Do my parents still have to send out printed invitations to the two friends whom we know we would like to have with them by word of mouth? The invitations are very formal invitations in twenty-five, and the means that there would have over. Should I have them printed? Or would you advise me to invite through letters to the twenty-five or more just because I am wearing white?

Elaine

Don't consider having printed or engraved wedding invitations. They are entirely proper for you to invite these close friends verbally or by notes.

Permit Child A Good Cry At Times

Youngster is Better Off if He Can Give Vent to Emotions

(By Lisa Grenelle)

There are many mothers like Mrs. Blank. You've known them; they are always lavishing a fear of one of their children is crying. If a child looks doleful and suddenly vanishes, they instantly start in pursuit. No child of theirs is allowed to cry alone and in peace; they are always on the spot with their continuous demand of: "What's the matter, Junior, Sonny, Sissy, Baby, Sister, Brother, Mother."

Maybe the child doesn't want to "tell Mother". Children, like adults, don't always want to tell what the crying is about. Sometimes the cause isn't grief at all, but fatigue or irritation. Or perhaps people about all the time, making suggestions and asking questions.

I don't know why it is that people, especially mothers, have the misguided feeling that it is right to arrest the relieving flow of tears. Let the child go away and have his cry in peace!

Often Need Comfort

Of course, children sometimes need comfort. There are times when Mother's presence, if it is silent, may be of very real comfort. Some children cry more freely and easily against Mother's bosom, if that is so, then Mother is privileged in appearing. It is only when her appearance stops the tears that it is injurious.

Crying is, after all, not so much a sign of grief or hurt as a relief that at last a pent-up pain is being relieved, dispersed. Every good doctor and every sound psychologist knows that after shocks, severe mental pressure, anxiety or grief, the kindest thing that can be done for the patient is to make him cry. Once he cries the worst is over. Soon he will feel better. Soon he'll be able to relax, to adjust himself, to regain mental balance, to sleep and to eat.

Nervous Release

Crying is a nervous release. When nervous pressure — either through physical weakness, fatigue, pain or emotional disturbance, is built up to a certain point, it must find some outlet, some way of relieving, of relieving itself. And the natural way is through crying.

We all hate to see anyone cry, especially anyone "we love. And that, of course, is all wrong. We ought to rejoice, knowing that they are at last finding relief.

Of course, we have to train our children not to give way to their emotions in public. But we don't need to make them ashamed of crying at all, and we can tactfully allow them the opportunity to go away and have a good cry by themselves, without danger of interruption or comments.

Butterfly brains contain 80,000 nerves and 80,000 airtubes, yet the brain is just about the size of a pinhead.

TORONTO STOCKS
(Closed)

Toronto, May 21 (CP)—Led by Kerr-Addison, on the Toronto Stock Market declined in the closing session of the week. The writ issued against the Kerr-Addison company, questioning their title to some of the Larder Lake claims, caused free and heavy selling and the price worked down to 1.43. It recovered to about 1.50 for net loss of 3 cents.

Other soft spots were Moneta, down about 20 cents, Read Auth. off 10 cents or more and MacLeod-Cockshutt, down 30 to 50 cents. Denlow golds maintained a firm front in slow action.

International Nickel and Noranda declined about a point each and narrowly lower prices ruled in Sherritt, and Aldermac. Waite-Amulet continued to trade in heavy volume with the price swinging between 9.15 and 9.25. Eldorado weakened a few cents.

Rejection of the Walker offer for the stock of Canadian Industrial Alcohol brought a little selling in that issue and a drop of the price by ½ to 2.

WALL STREET

New York, May 21 (AP)—Traders ignored "good news" in today's stock market and at leading issues down fractions to around two points. Transfers were about 900,000 shares.

Revived war tension between Germany and Czechoslovakia threatening the peace of continental Europe, was seen as a restraining influence on speculative forces.

Canadian issues in most cases found a little support. Hiram Walker gained about a point and advances of fractions to around a point were added by Lake Shore and McIntyre Porcupine. Canadian Pacific was slightly lower.

Motors, rail orders, farm implements and specialties reflected elasticity of future sales signs.

Prominent on the losing side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum. Harvey Machine was Consolidated Edison. North American, Electric Power and Light, Western Union and National Power and Light.

MARKET COMMENT

That conditions in Canada are comparatively better than in the United States is borne out by the announcement that the production of steel ingots and castings in Canada during April totalled 116,446 tons as compared with 118,578 tons in March of this year and 121,436 in April 1937. For the four months period ended April 30, production totalled 466,681 tons as compared with 672,-560 tons a year ago, a drop of 0.4 per cent. It is well recognized that the steel industry is one of the best barometers of general conditions, and the modern decline so far this year is encouraging.

The recent statement by the management of Gypsum Lime that earnings on the 5 per cent. stock holding up well has not found reflection in the price for the issue. The reason no doubt is the announcement that production of gypsum in the first quarter of 1938, 6,903 tons, against 5,317 tons in February, and 22,308 in March 1937. Total output of gypsum in the first quarter of 1938 was 34,528 tons, approximately half the production of the same period of 1937. This beyond the fact that the boom in Canada is still lagging behind.

Because of the unevenness of Canadian business and the divergent prospects for individual industries, one cannot become too dogmatic about Canadian stocks as a group, state Jones Heward & Co. in their mid-March Review. Business in Canada has declined severely on balance. Construction has slumped and H.I.P. loans are only half what they were a year ago. But our steel plants are well occupied and the agricultural implement companies are looking forward to a profitable year.

Even if no more dividends are paid on Brazilian Traction this year, the stock at current levels is selling to yield nearly 5 per cent. for an attractive speculation for appreciation. Brazilian Traction common appears to boast distinct possibilities.

Powell Rouyn

Reports from the North state that Powell Rouyn is now shipping 600 tons of ore every day. Operations on the 900-foot level, the bottom level at this time have been proving up and ore which will probably average around $10 per ton. Plans to sink to the 1000-ft. horizon have been made and the sinking will get under way immediately.

Imperial Tobacco

The Imperial Company of Canada Limited is the leading factor in this country in the tobacco business. With the consumption of cigarettes in Canada reaching at all time high record there seems to be a great deal of Imperial equity, and if not bettering, last year's net of $11.61 cents a share. The stock is attractive from the standpoint of income.

NEIGHBORS HELP TO REBUILD HOUSE

The spirit of pioneer friendliness and help to others in trouble, exemplified by early settlers in this district, was manifested in the northern section of Hastings County.

This week fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morris at Harmony Village.

A gang of fifty men congregated from the village and section yesterday and commenced the erection of a mother house to replace the one destroyed.

Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Morris have a large family of small children and they are being cared for by neighbours until the home is built.

BATHING PIER AT END OF PARK

Diving Towers Will be Erected Over Overhang of Pier

The matter of providing accommodation for the city's bathers at the, which will be taken more seriously this season, is evidenced by the effort of members of the Board of Parks Commission who have planned considerable work on the bathing pier and diving tower off the end of Victoria Park.

This week workmen under the supervision of Commissioners Clarence Clapp and Maurice Callaghan are engaged in the first construction of heavy pier work which will be used to support the 27-foot pier stretching from the park end into the harbor. Fabricated of sections of large poles, the cribbing will then be filled in stone and earth to form a permanent berth. It is the plan of the Board to construct the diving tower off the overhang of the pier.

"The pier will be permanent inasmuch as we hope to have the construction finished in time for May 24th", Commissioner Clapp stated.

Besides affording facilities for swimmers, the new pier will make also a handy mooring place for the smaller craft.

Further work of the Board in providing safer bathing is the repair of the bathing pool for the smaller and the inexperienced swimmers and the appointment of Lifeguard Richards at the beginning of next week. It is hoped the season to provide as much safety as is possible by him in the event of any rescue work.

At present the bathing house and park buildings are being given their annual spring clean-up and are in fair shape. Some repairs to the park and flower beds are also experiencing a growing beauty.

POLICE COURT

Charles Genereaux, Queensboro, was fined $100.00 and costs in the County Police Court this morning by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd at Tweed, yesterday afternoon, on a conviction under the Excise Act. Genereaux was found in possession of a still, suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor, by the R.C.M.P. recently. The fine and costs must be limited to the minimum under the Act. Genereaux is beginning this month in which to raise the assessed fine, however. The still confiscated at the time of the raid remains.

Gerald Gunning, Hungerford, who was arrested on a charge of speeding was further remanded to the custody of the police for one week. Provincial Police are still conducting an extensive investigation into the drowning that have been preferred against Gunning.

Police Blotter

With a loud report of broken glass resounding through the night air and even piercing the din and roar as a fast freight train rumbled during last night's boxing bouts, P. C. Arrott hastened to the roof of the building in time to apprehend two local youths, who had climbed there for the purpose of witnessing the boxing show, but a large window pane, through which entrance was shattered, but made sufficient noise as to attract the attention of the patrons of the sports attraction and also the police.

The boys were escorted off the room and after securing their names were permitted to return to their homes with instructions to report to Chief Kidd today. The practice of children climbing upon the roof of the Arena has caused considerable trouble and the danger of beficial point out the danger of the boys falling off and seriously injuring themselves.

No arrests were reported yesterday, leaving the cell block available for the 21 truandents who sought sleeping quarters there last night.

SPRING PRODUCE MAIN OFFERING ON CITY MARKET

Asparagus Again Heads a Variable Display of Produce

EGGS FIRM

What was practically the first brilliant sunshine of the week flooded the city market today where a fine display of spring vegetables, cut flowers, potted plants and young vegetable shoots provided a colorful background for a larger than usual crowd of Saturday morning shoppers.

The third week of the appearance of new spring produce showed but little variation in the price structure, although a slight decrease was in store for some items in vegetables and in some cases in spring produce that at present is reaching the peak of production.

Dairy produce remained firm at quotations of a week ago with eggs showing no change over last week's quotations.

Asparagus again found favor in the eyes of Mr. and Mrs. John Public, with fairly heavy stocks moving briskly at 15, 20 and 25 cents per pound bundle. In some quarters, vendors offered varying stocks by the pound, which sold readily at 10 cents. Other spring vegetable stocks were fairly heavy, with lettuce, due to the fact that some greenhouses of the district have ceased to grow this commodity, selling fairly scarce and selling at a price high of from 10 cents to 15 cents. Onions in assorted sizes were fairly plentiful and sold generally at five cents per bunch.

Rhubarb again flooded the market with heavy tonnages selling at similar delicacy at from 5 cents per bunch to 10 cents per lb. Cut flowering table plants were offered in abundance and in many instances selling fairly well at 50 cents for flats containing one hundred plants. Cabbage was quoted generally at 5 cents per small flat with strawberry shoots selling at 10 cents per basket. Fresh raspberry canes were quoted at $3.00 per hundred.

Hyacinth, marigold and alyssum provided a vivid green background for the colorful display of cut tri-colums and violets. Petunias, asters, snapdragons and stocks were offered in profusion and sold readily at 10 cents per bunch.

Reminiscent of the winter markets were staple vegetables were offered for sale. Large stocks of fall potatoes were in evidence selling at 65 cents per bag. Turnips and carrots remained unchanged at 5 cents per bunch. Cabbage was

New York Giants are Slipping; Boxing Card Full of Action

McKechnie's Magic Marvels Putting Cincinnati Reds in Feared Class in National Loop

Defeat Giants 4-0 And Land Berth in First Division

GIANTS SLIPPING

Cleveland Indians Maintain Winning Pace in American

By SID FEDER

Professor Will McKechnie's magic marvels, the show that wowed 'em in Boston last year, is giving the boys and girls in Cincinnati a lot of entertainment this season, and spreading no end of anxious moments among the seven other clubs in the National League.

Professor Will is about as slick an article as the baseball business has seen since John Mcgraw. He can pull more rabbits out of fewer and hitter hats than the best magicians of yesterday's heydey.

Take last year, for instance. He had a collection of hitless wonders at Boston—a bunch of Bees without stingers—and he had a couple of rookie pitchers and one toddler, big old men of 31. So Professor Will and his magic brought that outfit in first place in the first division. At the same time, Cincinnati Reds were collapsing all over the place, and wound up a dismal last, in the back of the championship Giants.

Over the winter, Cincinnati, having disposed of Chief Dresser, hired McKechnie over to see what he could do with the Reds. And Prof. Will is showing them again in the best way possible—the official standings, which have his lads in fourth place right now and make them look like a pretty good team for any loose first-division berths.

Influence Stands Out.

The McKechnie influence stood out all over the place yesterday as Johnny VanderMeer blanked the slipping Giants 4-0, with a five-hit job of elbowing. Only one of Bill Terry's Terrors got as far as third base against him as he handed the champions their second straight shutout defeat and made it three wins in four starts for the Reds against the league leaders. This win boosted the Reds into the .500 class with its victories in 8 games.

For the Giants, the setback cut their lead to 3½ games over the second-place Boston Bees and the Phillies 16-7. In the only other National League game they thumped the topped the Pirates 7-3.

The Cleveland Indians maintained their slim first-place margin in the American League by trouncing the Washington Senators 6-3. The second place Boston Red Sox stayed in the thick of the fight by belting St. Louis pitching for 22 hits and a 16-2 decision, as Theodore, Lefty Grove won his seventh straight in this one.

Schoolboy Rowe lasted seven innings, just long enough to be charged with the defeat as the Athletics trounced the Tigers, 5-2. The Yankee-White Sox and Cardinals-Bees games were rained out.

BUNTY LAWLESS PUBLIC CHOICE

King's Weather For King's Plate Greets Racing Fans

Toronto, May 21—(CP)—Declared fit and ready, sixteen Ontario-foaled thoroughbreds were prepared today to battle over a fast track—6 furlongs for 50 guineas, donated by the king and the queen, in addition to a $1,500 added purse, feature events at the 75th running of the King's Plate.

Bright and bright bugle calls the field on the track at Woodbine Park; the second little event, the Plate itself will rule the public's choice to romp home victory. Bunty Lawless, owned by Willie Morrisey of Toronto, was installed favorite shortly after he came from winter quarters, and held the favored spot throughout the long training grind.

Despite Bunty Lawless' favored position, turf experts predicted a battle between the Morrisey colt, C. M. Hendrie's Bright Flame, Riverdale Stable's Wicklow, R. S. McLaughlin's Red Pirate and J. E. Smallman's Jacola.

Grand Dame, an ebony-coated filly, survived the only scratching period in fit condition. During her two-year-old campaign she finished in the post six times, won three, finished second twice and third once.

Red Pirate, carrying the weight of 132 pounds, and Slycat started in the Plate race last year but were badly beaten by H. C. Hatch's Goldcrest. They finished in the following races and remained eligible.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, May 21—AP)—Comeback hopeful: Charley Retzlaff, North Dakota heavyweight. Most of us thought he took enough from Joe Louis in a 1936 meeting. Everything Joe Jacobs did after Tony Galento almost knocked Nathan Mann's head off was to hire a secretary for the firm. . . She is a pip. . . The training story Jimmy Armstrong is taking for Barney Ross constitutes the longest on the Negro's record. . .

That is Bill Terry you hear bellering "ouch". . . Joe Medwick of the Cardinals took one look at Brooklyn's new outfield and whiff baseball park and remarked: "What did they do—swap with the ushers?" . . .

While vacationing at Hot Springs recently, Henry Armstrong drew a line with a speedboat parked there. George Raft is a movie actor. . . Somebody put Raft wise and yesterday he wired Henry: "Most of us here in California have a pretty fair notion you. . .Win that fight and the speedboat is yours."

Real trouble is that the poo bobs in both Ross' and Armstrong's camps are afraid their pets will go stale before the big fight. . .Armstrong will finish putting on a $100,000 smudge this year which will net him around $100 per week for the rest of his life. But he says he'll keep right on fighting until Manager Eddie Mead tells him to quit. . .

Field Events Only Concluded At St. Michael's Track Meet

One Record Broken in Shot Put by Johnnie O'Connor

RAIN SPOILS DAY

Completing the field events only, the annual track and field day of St. Michael's Academy was opened at the Exhibition Park yesterday afternoon when keen competition marked the various events introduced by Athletic Director Jack Doran's students.

Owing to the recent rains, however, it was deemed inadvisable to carry out the entire day's program as planned, the track events being postponed until next Thursday, owing to the conditions prevailing and the very unfavorable. Ideal conditions prevailed for the field events which were completed in the junior classes, junior, intermediate and senior.

Athletic Instructor Doran announced the field day champions would not be announced until all events, including the field day events next week, had been completed and the entire points of the field day considered.

One school record was shattered when Johnnie O'Connor tossed the shot put 38 feet 4 inches in the junior class, thus establishing a new record in the class for St. Michael's Academy competition. Several distances and records were well within the standards attained in previous years.

The officials of the day were: Instructor, Jack Doran; senior clerk, E. Bishop; intermediate clerk, E. Buckley; junior clerk, P. Logue.

Other officials in assistance were Percy Collins, Rev. S. M. Hilda and Jack Murphy.

The results of the field events were as follows:

Senior:

Running broad jump — W. Mellalieu, Thos. Haslip, F. Robertson; 16 ft. 8½ in.

Shot put—W. McQuaid, W. Whalen, T. Haslip; 22 ft. 6 in.

Running high jump—F. Robertson, (W. McQuaid and T. Haslip tied); 4 ft. 7 in.

Hop, step and jump—B. McQuaid, F. Robertson, T. Haslip; 33 ft. 9 in.

Intermediate:

Running high jump—Bob Holland, Ed. Powers; 4 ft. 10 in.

Discus—D. Clerin, W. Plugsbon, R. Holland; 74 ft. 10 in.

Shot put—Bob Holland, R. Donovan, W. Doyle; 29 ft. 7 in.

Junior:

Shot put—John O'Connor, Harry McDougall, R. Peets; 28 ft. 4 in.

High jump—J. O'Connor, Charles Frawley, H. McDougall; 4 ft. 7 in.

Running broad jump—J. O'Connor, H. McDougall, T. McCabe; 15 ft. 9½ in.

Standing broad jump—J. O'Connor, H. McDougall, H. Hurst; 7 ft. 10½ in.

Hop, step and jump—J. O'Connor, H. McDougall, H. Hurst, 32 ft. 5½ in.

With crop returns at record levels, industrial employment and wages improved, and government revenue increased, Latvia has been enjoying prosperity recently.

Junior Schedule For Quinte Loop

Picton, May 21—Picton's Kiwanis' junior entry in the Bay of Quinte Junior Baseball League, along with Napanee and Belleville Kiwanis will not operate under O.B.A.A. rules, it was decided at the Kiwanis Club meeting here Thursday. It was thought advisable to participate in the league but to use the team as a training ground for the intermediate team. The two teams have been trying out together and some of the juniors are likely to make the intermediate team. The schedule drawn up for the junior league is as follows:

May 24—Belleville at Napanee.
June 2—Picton at Belleville.
June 9—Picton at Napanee.
June 15—Belleville at Picton.
June 23—Napanee at Belleville.
June 29—Napanee at Picton.
July 7—Belleville at Napanee.
July 14—Picton at Belleville.
July 20—Napanee at Picton.
July 27—Picton at Napanee.
Aug. 3—Belleville at Picton.
Aug. 9—Napanee at Belleville.

Yesterday's Stars

Johnny Vandermeer and Ernie Lombardi, Reds — Former pitched three-hit shutout and Lombardi hit in three runs with homer and single for 4-0 win over Giants.

Dario Logiglina, Athletics—Hit 8 double and single driving in two runs in 5-2 victory over Tigers.

Ernie Koy, Dodgers—His homer, double and single drove in three runs and paced attack in 7-5 victory over Pirates.

Johnny Allen, Indians—Although touched for ten hits, he was tight in the pinches to top Senators, 6-3.

Stan Hack, Cubs—Got four hits, drove in three runs and scored two others in 16-7 win over Phillies.

Lefty Grove, Red Sox—Pitched right-hit ball to trounce Browns 16-2 for seventh straight win, driving in four runs himself, with three hits.

KI-Y Softball

A brace of softball games were played in the bantam series of the KI-Y softball loop last evening with the "Hi-Speeds" winning a one-sided 23 to 2 score over the Bluesicles at the A.A.A. grounds.

At Q.V.S. grounds a duplication was seen when the Millers defeated the Athletics 19 to 6, the "Irish" always being well in the lead.

In an exhibition softball game played at Picton last evening team composed of players from the Belleville Collegiate defeated the Picton Collegians by a 7 to 4 count. Ross Clare and Ken Weller hit circuit blows for the B.C.I. while "Goldie" Mumbaud blasted a triple. The winners played a fine type of defensive ball as the game progressed.

BERLY, PORTER COMBINE TO GIVE TORONTO VICTORY

Leafs Over .500 Mark For First Time This Season

BEARS DEFEATED

Chiefs Win in 13 Frames For Dick Porter, New Manager

Toronto Maple Leafs, who go up and down like a roller coaster, are on the upswing in the International Baseball League now and Manager Dan Howley is hoping they'll hold on the pace.

The Leafs, who take their wins and losses in batches mainly, ran their current winning streak to three yesterday by nosing out Rochester Red Wings 3-2. The victory boosted the Leafs into fourth place, their highest position since the start of the war, and over the .500 mark for the first time this season.

The veteran Johnny Berly and Young Bobby Porter came through with some good pitching and timely hitting to make sure of the victory. Berly held the Wings to eight hits and was in trouble only once when the Wings scored two runs in the fifth on a pair of singles and Bernie Cobb's base-clearing double. Porter, who led the Leafs' attack with four hits, including a pair of triples, smacked out his second three-bagger of the day to score the first in the Leafs' half of the inning in which the winning runs.

The league-leading Newark Bears and the last-place Syracuse Chiefs battled 13 innings last night before the Chiefs were able to come through with a 5-4 decision on the first win for the Chiefs under the new management of Dick Porter, who took over Jim Bottomley's job Wednesday.

Niles Bengtavanni lashed out his fourth hit of the game in the 13th inning with the bases loaded to drive in the winning run. Paul Gehrman went the route for the Chiefs, outlasting three Newark pitchers.

Lefty City was rained out at Baltimore and the Buffalo-Montreal game was postponed to a later date to make a doubleheader.

SOFTBALLERS TO OPEN THE SEASON WITH CEREMONIES

Mayor Bone, Chas. Cameron And R. D. Arnott to Officiate

OPEN MONDAY

All Games to be Seven Innings Until After May 24th

Completing final arrangements for their official opening of the season, the Belleville and District Softball Association convened in the city last evening and announced that Hon. Worship Mayor Bone, R. D. Arnott, M.P.P. and Chas. A. Cameron, K.C., would be present on the official opening ceremonies, that will launch the local softballers into action Monday night on Coleman Flats diamond on Monday evening.

After naming Harold Bawden as umpire-in-chief for the league and the appointing of the association as appointing officials for the season, seven inning games would constitute official games for Long Distance starting having been officially adopted in Belleville on May 24th. After that date seven inning games shall be of the nine inning distance.

Secretary Harry Knott announced the Association had netted the sum of $19.00 as the result of their recent tag day in Belleville, while an additional $20.00 had been added to the Association coffers as the result of league schedules being issued.

Two bats were donated to the league and will be awarded to the team scoring the most and least runs during the opening day. The official opening day games scheduled in the league are: Belmont vs. At Napanee; Quinte vs. At Point Anne and National Grocers versus Bonarlaw Cafe-Tea, to play at the Coleman Flats diamond Monday evening.

Devil's Bargain

By GRACE W. BYRNES

Five minutes to nine. Already a crowd of impatient women were pressing against the plate glass doors of Goldberg's department store. They elbowed each other roughly in the soft places and the stout ones thrust their armored hips into the defenceless curves of their thinner sisters. Splash day.

Outside, the panic of bargain hunting was growing as the leash, panting to be on the trail. Inside, the clerks stood behind the counters comparing "dates" of the night before. In the end elevator sat Mamie Mudgrave, crouched over on her stool, peering into a tiny mirror while she put a last dash of crimson on her lips.

The gong sounded, the doors swung open and the crowd poured in. Mamie pocketed her lipstick and assumed her professional air of sang froid.

"Step back into the elevator, please. Don't crowd. Room for only one more. Lady, you'll have to take the next car. Take the door, please.

"Second floor," called Mamie, and the car disgorged its passengers.

"Third floor. Ladies suits, coats and dresses."

The car slowly emptied and a man stepped in. He was bareheaded and Mamie caught a swift impression of good looks.

"Fourth, please," she said mechanically, but he made no answer. Mamie could hear his heavy breathing. She brought the car to a stop at Four, sliding the door open and shut again at Five and at Six. At Seven she opened the door and turned around to face her passenger. He was tall and undeniably handsome. Shining black hair slicked back from his forehead; dark brown eyes. But his face was white as chalk. He was standing far back in the corner of the car.

"This is the top floor," Mamie said in a conversational tone.

"I want the street floor," he answered shortly.

Mamie dropped past Four and were almost down to Three when Mamie saw two men coming toward the elevator in a walk that was almost a run. Big men they were, with heavy faces and grim jaws. One of them was waving his hand at Mamie. Like a flash of forked lightning the truth shot through her mind. They were bulls and they were after the man behind her. They would seize him with their big hands and throw him into the wagon. Then they'd third degree him; put him under the klieg light and beat him with rubber hose until he confessed—no matter how innocent he was. She'd seen it all in the movies. Well, she'd fool them. They weren't going to get him. She'd save him. Maybe she'd lose her job. All right. Let them fire her. She'd get work that stuck until she found another. He was already at the clock on the Lobby Hall tower. Dear old Dad.

As she slowed down for the street floor she said quietly: "Steady now. Walk out as if there isn't anything happened."

She felt his hand on her shoulder for an instant. "Thanks, kid. You're a brick," he said and stepped out of the car.

The car filled again and, at the click of the starter, Mamie descended to the basement. When she returned to the main floor, there were the two detectives waiting for her. They leaned over Mamie and fairly hissed the words, "Where's that man?"

"He got off on the second floor," she said coolly.

One of the detectives sprang into the next elevator. The other still faced Mamie. "Young woman," he said slowly, looking straight into her eyes, "do you know what it means to shield a criminal?"

"Was he a criminal?" Mamie's air of shocked surprise was cleverly assumed.

"He was a murderer. He just killed the watchman down at the First National bank. Shot the old man down in cold blood, damn his rotten soul!"

Mamie grasped the detective's arm. Her bravado was gone, her voice a weak whisper as she asked: "What was the old man's name?"

"McGregor," answered the detective.

"Oh God!" Mamie's voice broke on a hoarse cry. Her father—dead!

The gay lights were grinning at her as she slipped from her stool and fell in a crumpled heap on the floor.

Letter-Carrier Service Celebrates 25th Birthday

Delivery Instituted in Belleville on May 24th, 1913—Inauguration of Service is Recalled.

Twenty five years ago on May 24th, 1913, mail carriers paraded in front of the Belleville Post Office, hastily dressed in their uniforms, to initially decorated for the occasion as the letter carrier service of Canada was inaugurated in Belleville. Many notables were present on that unique day that made history in this city, while four of the original members of that force of letter carriers are still faithfully carrying out their duties daily supplying the citizens with their mail daunted neither by rain, blizzards or adverse weather conditions.

The original nine carriers to inaugurate the letter delivery in Belleville bosses were Messrs. P. O. Pilkey, Harry E. Simmons, Fredrick Bone, Clarence W. Jenkins, Robert C. Andrews, Harry E. Ralph, Fitten S. Bird, George A. Tripp and Charles R. Lloyd. Four members of this original party to institute this public service a quarter of a century ago and still in active service are Messrs Lloyd, Pilkey, Bird and Baker, with Andrews having been recently superannuated. Three, however, have since died.

Officials Attend

The service was officially inaugurated that day by Robert Dunstan, chief Post Office Superintendent and George Hall of Ottawa Staff. With their bags filled with mail and waiter for delivery the new service was launched by the late Mayor Willis, of Belleville, the assembly later the two local members of parliament at that time, Mr. R. Ova. Porter and Mr. J. Clancy, were also added their official favor. Mr. Porter announcing the letter carrier service would be free to the citizens, a statement that was greeted with much applause at that time. The occasion was one of rare distinction to the community, elevating Belleville to the ranks of the higher and larger communities. Prior to the inauguration of the letter carrier service, mail was obtained only through the channels of the local Post Office.

Ring Routes at First

Mr. Alfred Gillen was then Post Master, while the present Post Master, Mr. F. W. C. Trviiach was assistant to the Post Master. When the system was introduced 25 years ago nine carriers were used over nine routes. Today, Post Master Trulaich announced, there are eleven carriers in Belleville with 14 active routes, with also assistants are all members of the Federation Association of Letter Carriers.

The introduction of public mail boxes for letter carriers was a red letter day in Belleville, marking one of the milestones of this city's progress down through the early days of this city's history.

Many Changes

As pointed out by Post Master J. F. C. Trulaich, many changes have been effected in the mail service since the inception back a quarter of a century ago. The office has been remodelled, additional staff has been necessary and today our office men work full 9½ hours of the day in order to handle the increased mail, that is seen daily passing through the Belleville mail depot," added Mr. Trulaich. The staff at the Post Office numbered ten in 1913 prior to the introduction of the letter carrier service, while there are 25 now employed in the Post Office department in Belleville.

Library Corner

By E. G.

With the opening of the Empire Exhibition in Glasgow the eyes of the British Empire and the world are turned to Scotland. A G. Macdonnell has in his book "England, Their England" given a brilliant analysis of Scotland and the Scottish character as revealed by the past. In clear cut style, he sketches the dramatic history of his native land, never hesitating to criticize his own people when he thinks they deserve it. He sees Scotland at a land of two races, The Cymric Celt and the Gaelic Celt, the Lowlanders and the Highlanders. He compares the Lowlanders, always tending to face toward England with the Highlanders, tending to face toward Ireland. "My Scotland" is a vigorous and witty account of these races, their strength and weakness and their wartorn past. An amusing chapter is an analysis of the Scottish and Irish character. The volume is a companion to the book "My Ireland" by Lord Dunsany, which was added to the Library recently.

Something that knowledge of the Latin-American republics among North Americans and their better understanding of us carry with them immense influence in the future of the peoples in the Western Hemisphere. Professor at the University of Alabama, Mr. Strode suggests that the future course of South America will bear on the problems that confront Europe and through the medium of life and fashion of the Victorian age from contemporary photographs is given by Peter Quennell in his book "Victorian Pageantry." The photographs begin with the pioneer efforts of Fox-Talbot in the first years of the forties and carry the record through the nineteenth century to form an absorbing commentary on high life and low, of celebrities, middle class and slums. The whole is a picture of the personal life of the time. Mr. Quennell's comments are always enjoyable in this first survey of a period not entirely free from the medium of photographs.

"Safety First and Last" is the arresting title of a book by Charles E. Dull, supervisor of Science in the High Schools of Newark, New Jersey. Realizing that the average person escapes death from accident daily by only a small margin, the author presents information designed to save this needless loss of life. Since the greatest single cause of serious accidents is the automobile, Mr. Dull devotes eight of his fourteen chapters to it. The remainder of the book is devoted to safety at home, in the office and factory. "Safety First and Last", is a book that should be read by everyone.

"A BETTER POUCH —I'll tell the world!"

"Right now I'll make a prediction. When you get going with this new, improved Old Chum Tobacco Pouch you'll vote it to be just the smartest bit of packaging that ever beckoned a man to better smoking."

It's spill-proof, seal-tight, moisture-proof—an honest-to-goodness pouch that opens wide enough to permit loading the pipe without spilling, and then folds up snug and smooth to slip into your pocket. Made of special cyper, laminated foil and rubber, this flexible, durable, likeable pouch will keep your Old Chum fresh and flavorful down to the last satisfying pipeful.

We don't need to tell you about the tobacco. Old Chum is Old Chum and this new, improved, seal-tight pouch is right worthy of "The Tobacco of Quality".

Dr. Outerbridge Dedicated To Medical Mission Service

Grandson of Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker of Belleville is Ordained at Montreal To Ministry of Healing And Commissioned to China.

An article headed "Watch Outerbridge" written by J. M. Goodwin in this week's New Outlook, the official organ of the United Church of Canada, speaks of the service dedicated to the medical mission service. This grandson is the late Ralph K. Outerbridge, son of Rev. Howard Outerbridge, superintendent of missions in Japan and grandson of Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker of this city. Mr. Goodwin's article follows:—

"In the United Church Montreal, on May 8th, a lay ministry was inaugurated by the ordination to the dedication of a young man to the medical service. The Church laid its hands upon Dr. Ralph K. Outerbridge, born in Japan, ordained him to the ministry of healing and commissioned him to the cultural and political centre of China where the destiny of Asia and the world may yet be fought out.

"The commissioning service was conducted by the minister of the Church, Rev. Stone Rintoul, assisted by Dr. Munroe, secretary of the Missionary conference, and Dr. Baker, principal Emeritus of Albert College, grandfather of the young man. Rev. A. R. Kaw, missionary from Korea and Manchukuo, delivered the charge, Mr. W. Goodwin representing the Board of Foreign Missions, presented the Bible.

After the sermon Dr. Baker spoke of the inspirations of his life, of his conversion, his ordination, his first sermon on the first circuit, and now this greatest of them all. It seemed to him. He said he had been thinking of his life of service in the ministry of the Church, and that this latest was the record of the pulpit, he looked at his grandson standing by his hand bowed in prayer and said: "From falling hands we take the torch; 'tis yours to hold it high."

Dr. Outerbridge made a decided impression on the audience by his fine appearance, his poise, and by the quiet dignity and confidence.

He said he had been so often asked: "Why China? Why not Japan? Why go to China? Is there not enough to do at home?" He revealed that the call had come to him both by and for the Orientals, with whom he had formed his first eighteen years of his life. He had experienced their kindness, their love, their patience and still retained visions of their sufferings from preventive disease, and their ignorance of the simple fundamental principles of hygiene. Out of his love for them he had come to Canada for professional equipment and would return qualified to meet their needs.

This was a great occasion, the commissioning of a young man as well equipped; one born of missionary parents, brought up in missionary atmosphere, sent out by a missionary Church, to one of the greatest missionary centres on the whole world front."

Poets to Recite Tributes Before Holmes Memorial

Dedication of Memorial at Abbey Dawn, Near Kingston May 24

DR. DeLURY TO SPEAK

At 3.00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, May 24th, the Robert Holmes Memorial, a "Labour of Love" by the sculptor, Emma Fetherstonhaugh, Toronto, will be dedicated as a Wild-flower Shrine, in The Vale of the Muse, in Abbey Dawn Sanctuary.

The Memorial is on the face of the cliff of Robert Holmes Rock and faces The Syiran Theatre in The Valley of the Peeping Flowers.

The ceremony will be unique and will advance, without any formal direction, as a natural, woodland thrill. Four poets will recite their poems of tribute to Holmes in the following order, Laura Beadle, of Bloomfield; Frederick Silcock, of Toronto; Lillian Collier Gray of Lansdowne; Wallace Robb, of Abbey Dawn. The Bards will be followed by Dr. A. E. De Lury of University of Toronto, a life-long friend of Robert Holmes. Dr. De Lury will deliver the oration and dedicate the shrine.

At this ceremony Abbey Dawn Sanctuary will be formally opened to the public, and Wallace Hayrock Robb, the poet who is behind it all, has every confidence that a people who, come to share his love with him and who have affectionately called him "The Abbe of Abbey Dawn", will enjoy the beauty of Abbey Dawn with him and help him to keep it in all its lovely and unspoiled beauty. He is taking a chance; betting his love of humanity and their appreciation against the risk of having the place exploited by thoughtless ones who do not grasp the idea that a sanctuary is a sort of sacred place where one can go and not feel he has thieves or other things. Touch with the eyes —feel with the heart—see with the soul.

BADEN-POWELL RETURNS

London, May 21—(AP)—Lord Baden-Powell returned to England today from a search for health in South Africa. His condition was still serious.

An official reception at Southampton was cancelled but the noted leader of the Boy Scouts of the world was able to walk down the gangplank from the Llanglohr-Castle. A car took him to his Hampshire home. He is 81 years old.

Lady Baden-Powell said his illness had "set him with a tired heart" but that he had "most marvellous constitution."

VOTE MONEY FOR

In addition to these projects associated in one way or another with economic relief the supplementary tables related under Mr. Dunning provide for $44,413,714 chargeable to governmental enterprises including the Canadian National Railway deficit estimated for the current year 1938 at $42,000,000.

Accompanying the estimates was a statement by Labor Minister Norman Rogers that the government would bring down shortly legislation designed to stimulate low cost and low-rental housing, and legislation empowering the federal government to lend to municipalities on self-liquidating projects.

Total Nearly $100,000,000

Expenditures provided for in the main estimates supplied which Hon. announced yesterday, bring total money to be spent on relief, works projects and agricultural rehabilitation and associated policies to around $100,000,000.

Grants in aid to the provinces will be provided to the extent of $17,500,000, a $1,000,000 decrease from last year.

Public works items including buildings and works on harbors and rivers, will call for an additional $13,731,000 which brings the total votes for that purpose to more than $25,000,000 for the year ending March 31, 1939.

Agricultural Estimates.

Main agricultural estimates, of which the final items were adopted yesterday, totalling $9,180,000, were increased in the supplementary estimates yesterday by $6,742,000. Of that amount $5,965,000 will go for prairie farm rehabilitation, feed and fodder relief, the direct cut acreage and freight on livestock movements in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Labor Department expenditures, for which the main estimates provided only $962,000, will be increased by $24,000,000 of which $17,500,000 for grants in aid, $1,750,000 for youth training, $1,075,970 for joint works projects, $1,870,000 for contributions to farm employment plans, and $500,000 to provide, in co-operation with the provinces, for re-habilitation of unemployed persons.

Fisheries will be assisted by a $500,000 grant for rehabilitation of those engaged in the industry and one $150,000 for promoting markets for sea products.

Build New Roads.

An item of $5,219,000 for the mines and resources department included $1,310,000 for provincial transportation facilities to mining areas. $1,-750,000 for development of tourist roads, and $1,000,000 for historic sites.

In the transport department an extra $1,350,000 will be spent on airports and airways equipment, $1,-000,000 on canals, and $500,000 for the elimination of level crossings. For "a special deficit of the trans-Canada air lines during 1938 the estimates provide $350,000.

A small increase of $1,832,000 is added to the main estimate of $34,-000,000 for the National Defence Department. Of this amount $884,900 is for the permanent force, Canadian Air Force and $530,000 for general stores.

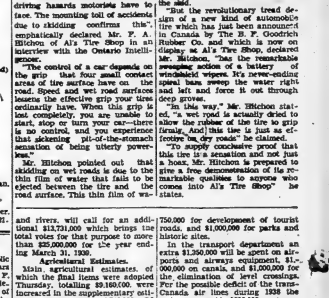
Details Given Later.

Details of the various items will be given by the ministers involved when the estimates are being considered by the committee of supply and it is possible the battles that waged nearly two weeks on the relief act will be fought over again to some extent.

An item of $60,000 for the External Affairs Department for representation in Belgium was added when it was taken to mean the government would open a legation in Brussels with jurisdiction over the Netherlands. Belgium sent a minister to Canada last year and it has been generally expected Canada would return the compliment this year.

Don Ameche, featured with Tyrone Power and Alice Faye in his dramatic thrill-spectacle "In Old Chi cago" now on the Belle screen.

"Skidding is one of the greatest tire sca se s advertising hazards motorists have to face. The mounting toll of accidents due to skidding confirms this", emphatically declared Mr. F. A. Hilchon of Al's Tire Shop in an interview with the Ontario Intelligencer.



"The control of a car depends on the grip that four small contact areas of tire surface have on the road. Speed and wet road surfaces and lessens the effective grip your tires ordinarily have. When this grip is lost, completely you are unable to start, stop or turn your car—there is no control, and you experience fatal, and this is the just as effective 'no, dry roads' he claimed.

"To supply conclusive proof that this tire is a sensation and not just a hoax, Mr. Hilchon is prepared to give a free demonstration to remarkable qualities to anyone who comes into Al's Tire Shop" he states.

"But the revolutionary tread design and the extra grip of this tire which has just been announced in Canada by The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. and which is now on display at Al's Tire Shop, declared Mr. Hilchon, "has the remarkable sweeping action of a battery of windshield wipers. It's new-sending spiral bars sweep the water right and left and force it out through deep grooves.

"In this way," Mr. Hilchon stated, "a wet road is actually made to allow the rubber of the tire to grip is no control, and you experience fatal, and this is the just as effective 'no, dry roads' he claimed.

"To supply conclusive proof that this tire is a sensation and not just a hoax, Mr. Hilchon is prepared to give a free demonstration to remarkable qualities to anyone who comes into Al's Tire Shop" he states.

Liberal Women In Party Affairs Demand Larger Voice

Ottawa, May 20 (CP)—The National Federation of Liberal Women opening a two-day convention here today, at its first session prepared to demand a large voice for women in party affairs.

This keynote was sounded by Senator Cairine Wilson, acting president, when she said women candidates were generally nominated by Canadian political parties in ridings in which they had little chance of success.

"It is difficult for women to obtain nominations and we are still asking that we be given an equal voice in the choice of candidates," she said.

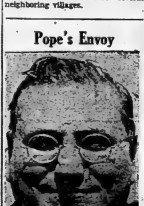
Duke of Devonshire Buried in Country Churchyard

Leading the line of mourners at the funeral of the Duke of Devonshire are the Marquis and Marchioness of Hartington, who succeeded to the ducal title at his death. The duke's body was borne to the grave, in the churchyard of the little village of Edensor, upon a farm wagon. The casket was made by carpenters on the duke's estate from wood grown on the grounds.

Sells Vast Holdings



Half the city of Cardiff, Wales, changed hands, in what is probably the biggest real estate transaction ever made in England, when the Marquis of Bute, ABOVE, sold a major portion of his estate. The sale price was reported to be $100,000,000. Included in the sale are part of the Cardiff docks, 30,000 houses, 1,000 stores and several neighboring villages.

Nine Meet Death as Airliner Crashes into Mountainside

The smashed wreckage of the $85,000 Lockheed Electra airplane, in which nine persons met death, is shown ABOVE shortly after it had been discovered in Mint canyon of the Sierra Pelano mountains, about 60 miles from Burbank, Calif. In the wreckage were found the bodies of nine persons, four women, two children, and three men, who had taken off from Burbank, on what was to have been a leisurely "delivery" flight to St. Paul, Minnesota. The airplane had been the object of an intense search ever since its disappearance.

Most Valuable American Stamps

Because a printer who "set-up" the United States first airmail stamps erred and they were printed with the airplane flying upside down, they became the most valuable American stamps, William E. Robey, Washington, D. C., purchased a sheet of 100 for $24, before the error was noticed by the post-office. He sold the entire block to a Philadelphia syndicate for $15,000, who in turn sold it for $20,000. These four stamps are at present on exhibit in Washington in connection with the U. S. Airmail week celebrations. They are valued at $16,000.

En Route to Make Geneva Plea

Looking worn and ill, Haile Selassie, former emperor of Ethiopia, is shown at RIGHT as he was greeted by an aid on his arrival at the Gare du Nord, Paris, on his way to Geneva. The exiled emperor later made a plea before the League of Nations in an attempt to prevent recognition of Italy's conquest of his former empire. But his plea was vain, the league leaving it to the individual members of the league to follow their own inclination as regards recognition.

Contests Will

Cut off by his father's will with $100, Elisha Tuzen Waterman, ABOVE, son of the late Frank D. Waterman, fountain pen manufacturer, has commenced legal proceedings to have the will broken. Estranged from his father by his marriage to a Montreal girl in 1923 Elisha claims that, according to terms of a will left by his grandfather, he was entitled to his father's share of a $5,000,000 estate after his death.

Vancouver Chinese Celebrate Homeland Successes

VANCOUVER CHINESE ...dGas Recent Chinese successes against Japan in the Shantung provinces gave Chinese residents of Vancouver an opportunity to stage one of their most colorful celebrations—their famous victory dance" The Dance of the Sacred Lion". The lion is shown ABOVE being prepared for the celebration.

Shots Wide—Honor Avenged

Dooms Suchow

General Li Chung Jen, Chinese commander, who announced he would completely destroy what was left of the city of Suchow, according to a report received in London from Hong Kong. Fifty thousand civilians have been ordered to evacuate Suchow, besieged Chinese railroad junction, as the vanguard of 1,000 Japanese troops came within a few miles of the city. General Jen declared: "The Japanese will occupy Suchow but they will occupy a city of ashes."

"Sweep" Winner Graduates from University

One of the 248 graduates honored at the spring graduation of the University of British Columbia, was Arthur P. Dawe—"lucky Dawe"—the young Vancouver man who won $40,000 in the Irish sweep eight years ago. He had quit college at the end of his second year to go to work. After the novelty of his fortune wore off he enrolled unobtrusively at the university again and completed his course. He is shown here receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Registrar Stanley Mathews.

Election in Anxiety

Although it was not officially admitted, informed circles believed the cabinet met to consider Germany's assurance that German troop movements, in Saxon especially, were only routine transfers from their winter garrisons into summer camps.

Praha official sources said the government is convinced of the honesty of the German assurance which also was given to Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador to Berlin.

Preparations for tomorrow's Czechoslovak elections in 222 districts proceeded in an atmosphere of anxiety. The districts include Praha and Aussig, one of the biggest German towns, where the present Mayor is a Nazi.

The Sudetens expect to gain control of 66 towns and villages. Germans in Eger and other towns were ordered to fly swastika flags tomorrow on pain of serious penalties.

Party officials will see that all Nazi shops display photographs of Sudeten leader Konrad Henlein. The elections will give the Sudetens their first chance of assuming power in local councils.

German Military Advisers To Be Withdrawn from China

CHIANG'S FORTY GERMAN ADVISERS WILL BE RECALLED

Loss of Military Advisers Will be Heavy Blow to China

TOKIO MAKES APPEAL

Contracts With China Are of a Personal Nature

Hankow, China, May 23—(AP)—Berlin has dealt China a war reverse once hopes a heavy blow, it was said authoritatively today, by ordering the recall of General Alexander Von Falkenhausen and his entire staff of 40-odd of German military advisers to the army of General Chiang Kai-Shek.

The withdrawal was said to have been ordered after strong urging by Tokyo on the basis of the Chinese-Japanese pact to combat communism.

German authorities in Hankow today informally confirmed the step, but none government of the step, but pending its consideration by General Chiang there was no official announcing the first among the vital Lung hai railway.

Hope Not Abandoned

Although the German officers' contracts with the Chinese government are of a personal nature, it was understood reliably they had little choice but to comply with recall instructions. Hope for some modification, however, was not abandoned.

There have been rumors in Hong Kong that certain direct trade arriving there were not being unpacked, but local agents denied such was the case.

Why the Weather?

Cause of wind! Herodotus, the famous Greek natural historian, observed that "from very hot places it is not natural that anything could blow and that a breeze is wont to blow from something cold." This keen observation is in accordance with fact. At the surface, wind goes blow from cold places to hot. The primary cause of wind is differences in heating. The force which causes the movement, however, is gravity. Two masses of air lying side by side and of different temperatures would naturally have different densities. Gravity would cause the denser and colder air to flow under the warm masses of air, thus making a wind.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, May 23—(CP)— A rough of low pressure extended over Northern Quebec southwestward across the upper lakes to the south, but this is relatively high pressure over Manitoba and the northwest States. Rain has fallen in the Maritime coast. Showers have occurred in some part of Ontario and northern Quebec, though in other districts of eastern Canada the weather has been fair. Local moderate showers have fallen in southern Alberta and in a few districts of Saskatchewan, but it has been generally fair and cool in Manitoba and east Saskatchewan.

Lake Superior—Fresh northeast to north winds; cloudy and cool with showers in some districts. Tuesday, fresh or moderate winds; partly cloudy and cool.

Manitoba—Partly cloudy and not quite so cool. Tuesday and Tuesday with scattered showers.

Saskatchewan—Partly cloudy today and Tuesday with stationary or a little higher temperature; scattered showers.

Alberta—Mostly fair today and Tuesday with not much change in temperature; light scattered showers.

Founded Restaurant System Serving 50 Million Meals a Year

Bernardsville, N.J., May 23—(AP)—William Childs, whose adventure in vegetarianism cost him control of the national chain of restaurants bearing his name, died yesterday.

Childs and his brother, the late Samuel S. Childs, started the restaurant chain in 1888 and built it into a $27,000,000 system serving 50,000,000 meals a year.

A vegetarian, Childs thought he oversaw a luncheon and higher meals and tried to anticipate it with meatless menus. The public was apathetic and declining profits led stockholders to oust Childs as chairman in March, 1929, after a long battle over proxies.

LONDON WOMAN KILLED IN CRASH, TWO ARE INJURED

Driver of Car And His Wife Sustain Fractured Skulls

WENT UNDER WHEELS

Toronto, May 22—(CP)—Mrs. E. Townsend of London, Ont., was killed and her two other London persons were seriously injured here today when the latter's motor car in which they were driving was struck by a truck at an intersection.

Driver of the car was W. Cameron of 716 Colborne Street, London, and his wife were believed to have suffered fractured skulls. Fourth occupant of the car was Corporal Thornton, 9, grandson of the Camerons, was only slightly injured.

Police said the car driven by Cameron north on Runnymede Road apparently did not stop when it reached the St. Clair Avenue intersection and was struck by a truck driven by A. Peters of Keswick, Ont.

The collision spun the London car around, throwing it against a truck driven by John Medford of Port Credit. Mrs. Townsend was thrown from the Cameron car under the wheels of one of the trucks.

REBEL AIR BASE HEAVILY BOMBED

Raid in Retaliation For Attack on Headquarters of Cardenas

San Luis Potosi, Mexico, May 22 —(AP)—Army fliers said today they had bombarded former General Saturnino Cedillo's rebel air base, destroying two camouflaged planes.

The rebel air force disappointed when attack made yesterday by a fast white plane on the field headquarters of General Saturnino Cardenas at Villa Hermosa, three miles from the city of San Luis Potosi.

Four bombs dropped by the white plane exploded in an air field near the residence from which President Cardenas is directing military operations against the Cedillo rebel insurrection.

The army fliers said they found Cedillo's hidden air base near a place called Santo Domingo, about 100 miles south on maps but which is believed to be in the rugged mountains.

Meanwhile, a rebel plane was reported to have bombed the village of Buenavista, near Ciudad Maiz, spreading terror among the inhabitants and causing them to flee. It

10,000 CHINESE GIVE UP ARMS DURING RETREAT

Routed Army Flees From Conquered Central China Zone

CLOSELY PURSUED

By ELMER PETERSON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

With the Japanese army in Central China, May 23—(AP)—Forty thousand Chinese soldiers said today that 10,000 Chinese soldiers have surrendered since the fall of Suchow.

The number of prisoners mounted rapidly as the Japanese pursued fragments of the routed Chinese army fleeing from conquered central China railroad zone.

Flying over the Suchow area in a Japanese plane, the correspondent saw a ghastly spectacle of desperate, shattered Chinese fighting for their lives in the Suchow trap. The Japanese said they had narrowed the ring down to an area roughly 12 miles in diameter, centering on Linhai railway between Suchow and Suhsien.

Fleeing from Suchow at 500 feet, it would be plainly seen that the Japanese were in full possession of the city of Suchow, the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railways. The rising sun flag floated over the city and it swarmed with Japanese troops, tanks and trucks.

In an adjacent fighting zone, where the Japanese say more than 200,000 Chinese are caught, tanks, motorized units and infantry could be seen pursuing groups of fugitives across the fields, harassing them with machine gun and rifle fire.

PRANKSTERS HIDE LONG-DISTANCE CANOE

Lewiston, N.Y., May 23 (AP)— A New York State canoe trip almost ended here yesterday when the 16-foot craft disappeared. When Mark Richelsen and Robert Hale, the pranksters found the craft missing they notified State Police. Sunday School children on their way to church reported the canoe hidden behind a hedge and State Police found the craft well hidden by pranksters. Richelsen and Hale then would be rescued within a few days.

Anglo-American Trade Agreement Will Lower Preferential Tariffs

Washington, May 23—(AP)—The forthcoming Anglo-American trade agreement will cut into Great Britain's preferential tariff agreements with the British dominions, official said today.

The new trade agreement, negotiated in 1932 gave preferential treatment to Dominion farm products in Britain's markets in exchange for British factory goods in the Dominion markets.

The American trade agreement with the United Kingdom, and another agreement being negotiated simultaneously with Canada will materially lower these preferences, officials predicted.

The United States thus would be better able to compete with the Dominions in selling agricultural products in Britain and with the United Kingdom in selling manufactured products to the Dominions.

All this, it is believed, will come about in July. Negotiations, officials said, are proceeding—both with Britain and with Canada—at high speed and steps.

Negotiations with Britain involve a factor not found in those with other countries—Britain's necessity for consulting with Canada and the other Dominions before granting agricultural concessions to the United States.

Negotiations with the United Kingdom and with Canada are carried on separately, and the United States has avoided the intimation that, in return for concessions from Britain, she should grant concessions to Canada.

United States negotiators expect to receive selling tariff reductions on agricultural products. Great Britain last year took one-third of all agricultural exports of the United States.

FRANCE TO FIGHT ANY AGGRESSION AGAINST CZECHS

Puts Question of Peace or War Up to Germans

ELECTION IS QUIET

French Feeling 'Hope For Best While Preparing For Worst'

Paris, May 23—(CP)—France put the question of peace or war squarely up to Germany today, leaving no doubt she would fight any unprovoked aggression against Czechoslovakia.

The calmness of Sunday's municipal elections in Czechoslovakia and the firm stand taken by France and Great Britain against possible German interference were considered in Paris to have eased the tension slightly.

Except for constant conferences at the Foreign Ministry and Premier Edouard Daladier's office in the National Defence Ministry France outwardly was calm. The French feeling seemed to be hope for the best while preparing for the worst.

Czechoslovakia Apologies For "Unauthorized" Attempt to Burn Bridge

Berlin, May 23—(CP-Havas)—D. N. B., the official German news agency, tonight charged that Czechoslovak troops violated the German frontier for the third time in 48 hours when a military contingent attempted to set fire to several bridges just across the Czech border.

According to the agency, Czech troops crossed the frontier at Ullrichsburg and Hohenfurth, north of Linz, and sprinkled straw and gasoline on the bridges with the apparent intention of setting them afire.

German frontier guards discovered the troops before they were able to carry out their plans and the Czechs fled across the border, D. N. B. said.

Jamaican Troops Called As Precaution in Strike

Kingston, Jamaica, May 23—(AP)—Troops were called from their barracks today and stationed in Kingston's central police station in a precautionary move as a strike of 5,000 workers tied up the waterfront and spread disorder through the city.

The troops were held in readiness as police, charging with clubs, tried to halt demonstrating crowds. Several persons were injured. Tension ran high. Leaders of the demonstrators urged calm and restraint.

Demonstrators marched through the city and halted business generally.

U. S. Presbyterians Omit Two Sections of Confession of Faith

Meridian, Miss., May 23—(AP)— The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America voted 151-130 in omit two sections of its confession of faith which some speakers said formed the cornerstone of the church code.

The sections omitted concerned the predestination of man by divine election. They were criticized by several ministers as the "overstatement" of the Scripture which "leaves our predestination to chance the defensive."

The two sections voted out read: "By the decree of God, for the manifestation of His glory, some men and angels are predestinated, or to everlasting life and others foredestined to everlasting death.

"And their number is so certain and definite that it cannot be either increased or diminished."

Revisions of the confession of faith approved by the assembly do not become law until ratified by a three-fourths majority of the Presbyteries.

BOBBY THOMPSON OF WELLINGTON DROWNS IN LAKE

His Companion Eugene Way Makes Pier Nearby in Safety

BODY RECOVERED

Hurried into the deep chandel that connects West Lake and Lake Ontario near the village of Wellington, Bobby Thompson, ten-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson village resident, was drowned early Saturday evening when the boat from which he and a companion, Eugene Way, 11, were fishing suddenly capsized in twelve feet of water.

Way, after immediately to the rescue of his chum who had struck out for the pier when the boat tipped, when it turned over. Failing to locate him, began to dive under, gasping for breath and clutched at a loose piece of floating plank from which he was rescued by Harold Burley, fisherman, a few minutes later.

Body Soon Recovered

Twenty minutes later Thompson's body was recovered from the sandy bottom about 30 feet off the pier. Ferdinand Murphy and Hilton Reynolds, local residents who raced to the scene of the accident upon receipt of the news, Thompson's body was quickly covered by the thin film of sand deposited there by the swirling waters, covering the channel.

Two hours strenuous application of artificial respiratory methods administered by Drs. R. A. Thompson and W. J. Hubbard, aided by villagers, failed to revive a spark of life in the body and it was pronounced extinct by Coroner Dr. Thompson after every conceivable method had been tried to restore the little girl's life, as she was unconscious when taken from the water.

Five year old Norma was playing along the cement abutment, wall which forms the village's dam once stood, when she suddenly lost her balance and fell into the fast flowing waters of the river. A number of large rocks, standing nearby, saw and heard the girl and ran to her assistance. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kirchoffer, who plunged into the river in an effort to rescue the girl in the current carried the child past him.

Running along the west shore young Norge and several of his companions got in advance of the fleeing girl. Norge plunged into the river near the Optical paint and caught the child as she appeared, floating above the water.

When removed to the shore, however, there were little signs of life, but artificial respiration methods by Herbert Hubbard, Harold Burley and Fred Poole, all companions of Moyes ultimately proved successful.

Prisoners Kill Guards, Seize Arms, Battle Troops in Attempt to Escape

Hendaye, France, May 23—(AP)— Two thousand armed government militiamen killed several of their guards in the insurgent prison at Pamplona last night and seized their arms, battled troops in a futile effort to escape.

The insurgent command at Irun said the uprising was quelled only after an undetermined number of prisoners were killed and wounded. Rare details reaching the frontier indicated the attempted break was sternly suppressed.

Prisoners were said to have overpowered their guards in a carefully-laid plot. Several, it was said, then they broke into the guardroom where firearms were stored. Barricading themselves here, they engaged in a fight with insurgent troops.

A government offensive on the Catalonian front was reported to have gained ground between two insurgent positions between Tremp and Balaguer.

The insurgents, however, disputed government reports and said the attacks had been fought off. An insurgent spokesman said the government suffered heavy losses.

Dispatches from Barcelona said the highway linking insurgent advance positions at Balaguer and Tremp, important Hydro-Electric power station, had been cut by the government's surprise attacks. This sector had been quiet for weeks.

The band concert will consist of the varied type, pleasing to all lovers of music. Ample space for parking and seats for the comfort of those wishing to enjoy the day's programs will be provided by the Parks Board.

SAYS POORER CHINESE DO NOT HATE JAPS

Toronto, May 23—(CP)— The poorer Chinese do not hate the Japanese and the Japanese do not hate the Chinese, said Herman Stiommill, newly-appointed Japanese Consul to Canada. In an interview here last night. He left last night for Ottawa.

"The hatred of the Chinese for the Japanese is over-rated," he said. This was proved by the fact a great many Chinese were living happily in Japan even while the Sino-Japanese war continued.

The Minister said he believed the war would be of short duration.

THREE-YEAR-OLD RUNS INTO SIDE OF CAR

Three-year-old Johnnie Evans, residing at 371 William street, was knocked down by a passing motor car after running directly into the path of a motor car driven by Anson Gilroy, Shannonville, on Saturday.

The little Evans lad was playing in front of his home when he apparently failed to observe the oncoming automobile, running directly in front of the vehicle. Fortunately Mr. Gilroy was driving at a rather slow speed, but the force of the impact knocked the boy to the pavement where he sustained an injured knee, cut lip and suffered from general shock. Mr. Gilroy stopped and rendered what assistance possible before reporting the incident to the police.

VEHICLE TURNS OVER NEAR JONES' CREEK

Glen O'Hara, Adolphustown, narrowly escaped major injuries when the automobile he was driving went out of control and crashed into the ditch on a side road parallel with Jones' Creek yesterday, Mr. O'Hara was proceeding southerly when, near the Jones' residence he lost control of his motor car. The vehicle turned over in the ditch and the car was abandoned. Provincial Constable William McIlroy investigated and reported the car wrecked beyond repair. "It was nothing short of miraculous how the driver escaped without injury," added the officer after completing his investigation.

FLOOR-SHOW FOR HUME DANCEGARDENS

An added attraction at the Arena Dance Gardens tomorrow night will be the opening of the club's enlarged novelty floor-show. This popular dancing rendezvous will open at nine o'clock tomorrow night and crowd is expected to attend. Bud Haines and his Canadian Serenaders will dispense the rhythms that class them as being one of the finest dance bands in Eastern Ontario.

PARK PIER FINISHED DIVING TOWER NEXT

True to their promise, members of the Parks Board have not only had the Victoria Park pier completed in time for the 24th, but the new swimming pool has been done. The new dock has been finished at the end of the pier and the final step taken only the installation of the diving tower, presented by the local Y.M.C.A. for the addition of two diving springboards.

CHEESE BOX MARKING MUST BE LEGIBLE

Cheese graders of the Dominion department have received notice of their intention of tightening up on the regulations regarding the marking of cheese boxes. Three complaints have already been received by the office at St. Hyacinthe, Quebec Dairy Commissioner, this season, regarding Ontario factories, and according to a bulletin, graders have been instructed to refuse to grade or at least to lower the grade on boxes that are not clearly stamped with factory's registered number and the making date of the cheese.

British buyers have been insistent upon legible marking and the penalty will be brought home to the factory responsible. It is pointed out.

MILK VOLUME HEAVY FROM EARLY PASTURES

Marmora cheese factory which started season's operations a week or so ago, is receiving a record quantity of milk for the time of the year. The factory at present is making seven cheese a day which is more than the average for several years past. It is reported. Pasture, according to local agricultural reports, is at least two weeks ahead of last year, and cheese prices so far have shown considerable promise.

MR. IRA SIMMONS ADDRESSES CLUB

At a recent meeting of the Rough Rivanis Club, Mr. Ira D. Simmons, manager of the Dominion Bank, Magog, Que., addressed the gathering on the Federal Government's Home Improvement Plan. Rivanian Simmons who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Simmons, Corbyville, Ont., spoke most interestingly telling of the origin of the plan and gave a detailed account of the method of its presentation. Mr. Simmons's address was keenly appreciated by the club as it gave a very clear outline to the entire plan and the benefits to be derived from it.

VICAR ADDRESSES SONS OF ENGLAND

Local Lodge Accompanied to Church Service by Two Bands

At St. Thomas' Church on Sunday two organizations attended service. At the 11 o'clock service the Sons of England, accompanied by the Collegiate Institute Cadet Educational School Band were present and were addressed by the vicar, the Rev. Rural Dean A. Beauchamp Payne.

In the afternoon at three o'clock the members of the Anglican Layman's Association in the Deanery of Hastings and Prince Edward assembled in the Parish House and led by the vested choir and followed by the clergy and the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, and the chaplain, marched to the church, where evensong was sung. There was a large attendance and the excellent and timely sermon delivered by the Bishop, the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M. A. D. D., was listened to most attentively.

Laymen Meet At St. Thomas'

Representatives from the Layman's Association of the Deanery of parishes of the deaneries of Hastings and Prince Edward numbering about two hundred met in St. Thomas' Church from the Parish House on Sunday, and, vested choir led by a crucifer preceded the laymen to the church who were led to the chancel by a verger.

The Rev. John Lyons D.D., Bishop of Kingston, delivered the message to the men in the pews. The Church needed the layman today to take a working interest in the Church and a spiritual interest in God, declared His Lordship referred to the Fifth Commandment "Honour thy father and thy mother" but stated that the father and mother should be honorable in respect thereto.

Other clergy apart from the Bishop and the Vicar were—Rev. A. B. C. Darwell, Marmora; Rev. C. G. Wright, Belleville; Rev. Anderson Macpherson, Shannonville; Archdeacon Amellasburg; Rev. Canon Sinton, Queensboro.

PRESENT RESTOCKED

Included in the list of waters of this section which are to be restocked this season is the Moira River in which a total of 35,000 fingerlings were placed last week by the local hatchery. The fry were liberated near Hastings.

SCIATICA
Sufferer plays baseball 3 Weeks after beginning Templeton Salt
Undergoing treatment one month; 51 to play baseball the next. Read what Mr. E. A. Sweetland says about Fyneon Salt.
"I want to thank you for putting me on my feet", he writes. "For months I suffered with a severe attack of Sciatica and used many kinds of treatments. All to no effect. Then I read of Fyneon Salt and tried it. In less than three weeks I was up and out, even having a game of baseball."
Fyneon Salt is doing as much for sufferers all over the country, as the constant stream of testimonials above. This treatment for Sciatica and other Rheumatic troubles is similar to a spa treatment at Home! A ½ teaspoonful of the sparkling crystals in a glassful of water every morning gives you the needed spring Salts of Lithia, Sodium, Potassium and Lithium, which gradually remove from your system the Acids and health-destroying toxins. With the cause of the trouble removed, and liver and kidneys working properly once more, you are soon fit again. At all druggists. Tin a large bottle.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It just decays in the stomach. You become constipated. Poisons are absorbed. Headaches come as you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Resolutely refuse anything else. 75c

TORONTO STOCKS

(Close)

Toronto, May 23 (CP)—The Toronto stock market closed irregularly higher, making little in the later days for the weakness displayed in the morning session. Industrials and Base Metals had a margin on the up side at the close and the golds and western oils showed little net change. Waite-Amulet was the trading feature, turning over about 70,- 000 shares on a rise of 40 cents to 2.69, holding the bulk of the gain. Aggregate trade was light with about 450,000 shares changing hands.

Utilities, steels and building stocks were the strongest of the industrials' shares. Anglo-Canadian Okalta and Brown were down a few cents each and other western oils were quiet.

Interest in Kerr-Addison, which sold actively in recent session for a long at 4.60 or 40 cents, quieted down and the price held around 1.50 to 1.55, practically unchanged from the last close.

Fractional gains were showing in base metals all the close for Noranda and Nickel and Ventures had about 5 cents gain. Silvers were steady in comparatively slow action.

Soft spots in the golds were mainly righted before the close. Hard-Rock advanced to 2.25 for a gain of 9 cents, and Obiska erased an early loss of 7 cents. The close was off moderately for Little Long Lac, Pamour, Sylvanite, Central Patricia, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Preston and McWatters.

Lake Shore held a gain of about ½ and McIntyre added ¼.

In the industrial list, Standard Paving firmed a point to 3½, and the class was up ¼ to ½ for the Canada Cement issues and Gypsum. Brazilian registered a half-point, same back and Dominion Preferred had a minor gain.

In senior oils International Petroleum and Imperial Oil losin gthe minimum fractional each.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, May 23 (AP)— A creeping rally lifted stock market leaders small fractions today, but many issues were unable to get along on the come-back.

Selected stocks, motors, coppers, utilities and specialities were favored. Scores of obstacles remained handicapping feature, transfers were about 400,000 shares. Numerous stocks were unchanged near the final hour.

Stocks attempted a mild rally in today's market but met with sufficient resistance to render the move indecisive at the test.

A few steels, motors, coppers, utilities and specialties picked up small gains in the morning in dealings that were extremely dull.

A run-up of more than a point in Dome stood out among generally quiet Canadian issues. Lake Shore advanced a minor fraction and most others were unchanged. Canada Malartic was a trifle lower. Montreal funds gained 20% of a cent to 99.06%.

Posting modest advances at one time were Republic Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Woolworth, International Harvester and Texas Corporation.

Trading dulled after the N.Y. Central, Goodrich, Western Union and Montgomery Ward.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, May 22—(CP)— Bacon-hogs prices advanced 15 and 25 cents at Peterborough today while declining 15 and 25 cents at London. Other markets held steady.

REPORT CASINGS , ARE MADE HERE

Belleville Foundries today confirmed the report that machinery of the plant was being used in the manufacture of Canadian munitions, but so far manufacture has been confined to "but a few experimental cases", it was reported at the management.

No full explanation of the new product being made was given, nor it is understood that the first "trial" order received by the local company is the manufacture of ice iron castings for the aerial bombs of Royal Canadian Air Force equipment, being fabricated elsewhere in the Province.

"The order isn't very big and the Dominion Department could sell you more than I can about it," stated Mr. Wm. J. Burgoyne, Foundries manager.

POLICE COURT

C. B. Boulsicel, 2nd concession of Sidney Township, was fined $25.00 and costs, amounting to $31.50 in all, in today's police court held before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., after being convicted of failing to return or remain at the scene of an accident, contrary to the H.T.A.

The charge was preferred by local police following an accident on North Front Street late last week when a car driven by Bonnie Shellington with an automobile driven by Dr. A. Walter of this city, resulted in considerable damage to both vehicles. Asa Sprague, local barrister, appeared on behalf of the defendant. The damages to Dr. Walters' car amounted to nearly $15.00," informed Crown Attorney H. C. Donnan K.C.

Two inebriates, both of whom tendered pleas of guilty to charges of intoxication were given time in which to raise the assessed fines. Today's pre-holiday court proceedings were the shortest in many weeks.

W.C.T.U. Plans Convention

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the Y.M.C.A., Friday May 20th at 3 p.m. The President, Mrs. (Dr.) Hopper, in the chair. Mrs. (Rev.) E. Farnsworth, president of the County of Hastings Union presided.

Much valuable information was gained as to the harmful effects of alcohol on the human system.

CONVERSION OF WESLEYS STUDIED

Bicentenary of Event in Lives of Famous Brothers Observed

In United Churches of the city on Sunday the conversion of John and Charles Wesley was referred to in sermons and the hymns of Charles Wesley were sung.

At Bridge Street United Church, on Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. Semple completed a series of sermons on John Wesley, preaching on the subject of the conversion of the founder of Methodism and at the evening he referred to the life of Charles Wesley.

Charles was the devoted younger brother of John and the world will never know the contribution he made to the cause of the religious revival in the eighteenth century, the minister said. Samuel was at Oxford the father of the John Wesley, a group of young men who met to pray, and taught personal religion in their homes and Dr. Semple commenting that today many people know religion as a community enterprise than as a personal matter. This club spent four evenings a week reading the New Testament in Greek. They partook of the Lord's Supper every Sunday and followed a very rigid rule. This was the age of deism when Oxford was full of scorn for enthusiasm and zeal.

Dr. Semple said he did not wish to offend but he thought "the modern Oxford Group" is merely child's play as compared to what they did in the Holy Club in the spiritual fervor.

The name 'Methodist' at first referred to the new method of teaching. John possessed the greatest gifts and soon became the father of the Holy Club.

Dr. Semple pointed out that Charles's conversion preceded John's by three days and indicated that Charles's took place while Luther's "preface" was being read. The minister indicated the place of song and music in religion, stating that where there was a Moody there was a Sankey, where there was a Tory there was an Alexander, where there was a Hunter there was a Crossley and where there was a John Wesley there was a Charles Wesley. In the Wesleys' the songs of the Moravans exerted a great influence. John had a mastery of the German language and knew their hymns of which Germany has given less than 100,000 to the world, for Luther had been the first evangelical hymn writer. Charles Wesley became the poet of Methodism and wrote nearly six thousand hymns on every human experience of a spiritual kind, the other writer of his time could equal him in hymnwriting, according to the judgment of those who should know. Charles often sent a letter with a hymn to a friend.

Both the Wesleys thought much of the masses of the people and desired to serve their spiritual needs. Whitfield, one of the leaders of the Moravans, is said to have been the greatest preacher in history except for the Master Himself.

Dr. Semple in referring to the open air work of early Methodism remarked "What would happen if the churches of the city would organize and go out to preach in the streets?"

He said that he did not think it was necessary to start at four o'clock in the morning to hold services, yet it is a fact that a minister in Japan held worship at 5.30 o'clock in the morning in Japan to reach his new converts on their way to work so that they might be inspired to avoid the temptations of the day.

During the services the choir and a quartette sang hymns of Charles Wesley.

GERMANS CHARGE

Czech Plane Crashes

Earlier today the agency said a Czechoslovak military plane crashed in flames just across the German frontier at Rumburg near the Erz Gebirge (iron mountains) district of Czechoslovakia and last night it was charged that Czechs attempted to dynamite a bridge linking the two countries across the river Thaya at Berhartsdahl.

Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta delivered the apology yesterday in Prague to German Minister Ernst Eisenlohr even before the latter was aware he be incident, the press bureau said.

Unauthorized Attempt Condemned

The Czechoslovak military commander condemned the attempt as "unauthorized." The official Germ an news agency reported yesterday German gendarmes found fuses and explosives in various sections of the bridge. Czechoslovak soldiers were said to have fled across the border when two German frontier officials approached.

The German news agency reported another border incident in which the Czechoslovak military plane with two occupants and armed with a machine-gun flew over German territory at Hainspach, Saxony.

Hitler at Munich

The agency said that after flying low over Rarrnsdorf, the plane returned to frontier but crash'ed shortly afterward and burst into flames. The report did not mention whether the plane was fired on while flying over German territory.

(The Havas News Agency said important leaders were gathered in Munich for a conference with Hitler at his Berchtesgaden villa tonight.)

Political observers close to the Wilhelmstrasse offered the opinion that the "future of Europe lies in the hands of the Praha government." They said Czechoslovakia has repeatedly voiced strong opposition to most members of Hitler's own race and prevent the spilling of German blood.

34th Battery Successfully Carries Out War Manoeuvres

Guns Placed in Position Near Point Anne And Four Rounds Fired

ANNUAL INSPECTION

Smub-nosed eighteen-pounder guns poked efficiently-looking muzzles from the cover of stunted evergreens. Steel-helmeted artillerymen dashed from screened cover to the comparative safety of protecting gun shields. Crouching gunners, tense and alert, awaited orders to fire.

To the rear of the gun positions, firm officers, field-glasses in hand, ranged orders to waiting gun crews. The wig-wag of signal flags flapped out a syblant message in the still warm air. Telephonists, secreted beneath the cover of protecting shrubs, spoke in low tones into field-telephone transmitters.

Then came the order. Orange flashes of flame followed by blue curling smoke leaped from hidden gun muzzles. Reverberating detonations crashed into the stillness of the morning tir as members of the 34th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, sent rounds of imaginary death into the approaching infantry and tanks of an equally imaginary enemy in a mythical attack staged yesterday afternoon on the property of the Canada Cement Company near Point Anne.

Annual Inspection.

The open field tactics that demonstrated the actual "going into action" of a field battery, formed part of the annual inspection of this crack unit of Belleville, militia forces. Inspection of personnel was held in the armouries prior to the tactics by Inspecting Officer Lieut.-Col. S. A. Lee, M.C., A.A. and Q.M.G., M.D. No. 2, Kingston. Colonel Lee was accompanied by Lieut. Col. L. F. Grant, D.S.O., officer commanding the 8th Brigade, C.F.A., Captain W. G. Evans, R.C.H.A., Kingston, Captain H. Ross Bogart, Staff Adjutant of the 9th Brigade of which the 34th Battery is a unit, and Major W. J. Van Steenburg, officer commanding the battery.

Go Into Action.

Perhaps for the first time in the history of Belleville residents received a glimpse of modern mechanized artillery meeting off to take up positions yesterday, when following the inspection of personnel, motor trucks conveyed members of the battery "to the front" while in new were the eighteen pounder guns and limbers equipped with rubber tires.

Following closely upon the heels of the advance party, the guns swept rapidly into position in the rough terrain of a field near the Canada Cement Works. Motor-cycle dispatch riders, from trucks and quickly swung guns into hidden positions. Menacing muzzles swept a road in the distance on which the "enemy" was soon to appear. Spotting officer for this battery of trained "civilian" soldiers, in a manner that bespoke intensive training, "prepared for action" in a way that would do credit to their professional counterparts.

Under the critical eyes of the inspection staff who watched proceedings from the O Pip Observation Post nearly a mile away, various shoots were conducted with observations and corrections given by the O. Pip. An enemy tank, armed with machine guns, and in reality a modern coupe, swung around a bend in the road in the distance. Quickly gun muzzles were trained upon the advancing tank. Gunflashes leaped from muzzles as the imaginary missiles screamed through the air to leave the "tank" a heap of imaginary wreckage.

Withdraw From Position.

Concluding the tactics, members of the battery as quickly as they had placed their guns in action, obeyed to withdraw from their positions. Guns were quickly made ready, taken from action positions and attached to their mechanical steeds.

At the conclusion of the field scheme, lunch consisting of sandwiches and soft drinks was served the battery in the quiet shade of nearby trees.

Officers and N.C.O.'s of the unit are Major W. E. Van Steenburg, Officer Commanding; Captain J. N. McLeod, Lieuts. Bert Wells, Ralph Bird, George Laughlin and Jack Spoutas; Battery Sergt.-Major William Lindsay and Sergts. P. Boyle, C. Bulter, D. Carr, J. Naylor, L. Noakes, H. Liddle and H. Plummer.

VICTORIA DAY

On Tuesday the thirty-eighth anniversary of the "Twenty-Fourth of May" since Queen Victoria passed away, will be observed as a national and empire holiday. At no time within that time has there been so much observed this anniversary be not observed.

It has been written into the lives of generations both those which have passed but also the older generations - and the rising generations who for it is over a century since a young girl the Queen ascended the throne. So for three and a half generations this day has been marked. The youngest scholar today has some knowledge of this occasion.

Many factors have caused this day to be set in letters of gold within the Empire, which developed greatly during that reign of over sixty-three years. The very length of the reign in itself and the impression the Queen made upon her age which may be seen in the tribute to her in the words of the poet-laureate Alfred Tennyson, and also factors in the fixing of that date in the Empire's mind. That the ruler was a Queen also helped to place that occasion among the national holidays. Britain made economic history in those days.

On the death of Queen Victoria, her successor and son King Edward Seventh asked that the date be observed as a holiday. So it has been and so it will be.

Today over a third of a century since the monarch loved by the people of the Empire look upon that rule as one of the greatest in history. In the lovely month of May it is set and it is not to be wondered that the day is observed.

THE WESLEYS

One of the great occasions in a modern age to honor the memory of a religious leader has fallen to the Methodist Church and in Canada to the United Church. That time has fallen these few days, which mark the two hundredth anniversary of the conversion of Rev. Charles Wesley on May 21st, 1738 and his famous brother Rev. John Wesley on May 24th, 1738. Therefore in churches of the Methodist Church ination, in the Anglican Church in which both were members of the clergy and in other communions the occasion was marked as one of great religous significance.

John Wesley has been called the greatest Anglo-Saxon religious leader in history. He was about thirty-five years of age when he felt the transforming power of the Spirit. Thereafter for half a century he was inspired to labor for mankind in the fields and within churches, to speak to colliers, to ride 250,000 miles on horseback to deliver 40,000 sermons. At times John Wesley had an audience of thirty thousand persons in days where there was no loudspeaker system. He applied the doctrines of revelation and charity towards all classes and creeds of men. He was one of the broadest of leaders for he knew no class. The rest of the eighteenth century was ruled by his work and by the strong influence of his brother Charles, the singer. Industrial reforms accompanied and followed his labors. He cleared the way for the abolition of slavery. It is recalled that today in many lands of the earth no fewer than fifty millions of persons follow his teachings and have been moulded through the inspiration of his view of salvation and the value of life.

Charles Wesley wrote six thousand hymns in his life, dealing with every phase of human life lived to the highest principle. Charles wrote hymns on every possible subject, on the inspiration of experiences in the lives of his friends and in every way gave vocal expression to religious experience.

His hymns were sung and his brother's great leadership were the subject of thousands of addresses in all parts of the world yesterday.

CANADINS HONORED

Canadians who merit well of their country have just been honored by the Royal Society of Canada, of Ottawa, whose special study on the part the Canadian novey has played in Canada's history has won the J. B. Tyrrell medal for outstanding work in history. Col. Wood has ten volumes to his credit on Canadian history.

Miss Mazo de la Roche, novelist, wins the Lorne Pierce medal for accomplishing in imaginative literature or critical literature some achievement of significance and conspicuous merit. The award does not require a Canadian setting for the work, and is awarded only when merited.

Dr. W. Lash Miller, chemist, receives the annual award of the Flowelle medal for original work in science or literature. He has pioneered in several fields and has made a name for himself within and outside Canada.

Such awards prove what merit there is in the original work of Canadians in different fields, where they make Canadian and world contribution to the arts and sciences.

SOMETHING WANTING

The cherry snows are drifting down the wind, and as of old,
The sky above the valley is a tent of blue and gold.
A myriad birds are singing, and the tangled paths are sweet
With scent of wild wood violets that cluster round my feet.
But O! there's something wanting in the beauty of the spring—
A joy I cannot capture, and a song I cannot sing.

Green solitude enfolds me. It was here I used to roam
Away from all the commonplace, familiar things of home.
'Twas here in youthful, wistful dreams I thought I heard Life call;
The city, magical and far, allured me most of all.
Nor was it all illusion—the enchantment
that I sought:
More glamorous were the thronging ways
than even I had thought.

But O! not all was glamour, not all! My eyes grew clear
To simpler, lowlier beauty in the homely things and dear.
In loving dreams I heard once more the thrush and whip-poor-will,
And saw the silver crescent hang above the forest hill.
Beyond the arc lights' gleam I visioned
fireflies in the dew,
And, lovelier than cave-romance, my mother's eyes of blue.

Sweet mother, angel of the home, and you who in the sun
And shadow tilled the good 13 inches, your toiling days are done.
Your fields lie fallow; all the place is lonely now and still,
And saw the sister lassies far away beyond the hazy hill.
And you, of all life's precious gifts my dearest, first and best,
In a hallowed place lie side by side, with folded hands, at rest.

No jewelled crown I covet in the City built of gold,
But fragrant, dewy blossoms and the ways and loves of old.
The King I'll laud and worship, but my raptured, first embrace
Will fold the dear old folks, new-clothed in fadeless youth and grace.
O! nothing will be wanting then in the beauty of the spring,
And all my heart will be out-poured in the song that I shall sing.

Lilian Leveridge.

THIS IS EVIDENTLY CANADA'S CIRCUS SEASON, several large circus organizations having declared intention of showing in Ontario this season. Cole Brothers and Clyde Beatty Circus, with street parade and all the old beloved circus features combined with the best of the new circus features broke the long circus silence in Ontario and visited Belleville last season shortly after an extended engagement in New York City, with satisfaction to all. Cole Brothers and Clyde Beatty are back in Ontario again, perhaps the earliest circus dating here in history, being billed for appearance in Hamilton May 24. The Small Boy is saving his pennies for the first circus—as for the others, if and when they come, let Nature take its course—miracles do happen.

I DARE YOU!

At 3.30 a.m. today, Arturo Ramos, ex-husband of Millicent Rogers, threatened to break a columnist's head if this story were printed. At midnight Ramos had brought a young lady into El Morocco. Another girl, seated at a nearby table, grabbed Ramos and his companion, and tossed three glasses—which broke—in their direction. She then started to hurl a chair, but was stopped, and rushed from the club. "Don't go again this," she told Ramos. "or I'll break your head. Newspaper men are the nosiest people in the world. A man tries to be a gentleman, and they print it. Then they wreck women's nerves for a story." The plate-thrower returned to the club. And Mr. Ramos, who protests that he wants to be a gentleman, escorted her home, leaving behind him the highly embarrassed young lady whom he had brought. Mr. Ramos isn't the gentleman—Leonard Lyons in N. Y. Post.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Medical and Diet Treatment is Used in Most Cases of Peptic Ulcer

A patient apparently in good physical condition consulted a physician because he could not eat solid food in fact he was living on milk alone because solid food gave him distress.

As he had formerly been sufferring with stomach ulcer the physician thought that perhaps the ulcer in healing had partly closed the passage from the stomach to the small intestine. An X-ray examination showed that the barium suitable meal which should pass from the stomach in six hours at least, was practically all present at the end of ten hours. Only a tiny stream, smaller than a slate pencil, was carrying some of the barium sulphate into the intestine. This meant that the operation was practically closed due to the scar tissue formed when the ulcer healed. As this should be relieved by operation, operation was performed by making another opening into the intestine from the lower side of the stomach. This was ten years ago and the patient, by means of a diet, enjoys good health.

It is mentioned here above case because many patients with stomach ulcer are afraid of sudden death from day to day undergo surgical operation, whereas most ulcers today are treated by medical treatment and it is only when diet and medical treatment do not bring relief that the above blocked opening or when there is perforation into the abodomen, or by severe hemorrhage that operation is performed.

Drs. R. C. Brown and H. S. Emory, Jr., Boston, in New England Journal of Medicine review 1428 cases of gastric ulcer of the stomach and first part of small intestine (duodenum) from the Peter Brigham Hospital from 1913 to 1932. They were able to trace all but 156 patients.

Of the remainder —372 cases—161 about 14 per cent, are dead, but only 87—about 7 per cent—died of peptic ulcer. The average age for the whole group was about 52 years, the average time they had suffered was eight years. It is noted that there was little difference in the prospect between those who had died of their ulcer and those who did not.

While more cases died after operation and their age was lower at the time, the chances of death after the "surgical" cases were more severe.

The thought then is that patients with stomach ulcer often live long lives by means of medical and diet treatment.

Drs. Brown and Emory suggest that medical treatment should be used for most cases and operation should be reserved for cases where medical treatment has failed.

ASIATIC HEADACHE

In New York a telephone is a convenience. In Tokyo it is a headache, a luxury, and an investment for old age.

Apply for an installation in New York and it is put in within two or three days. Apply for one in Tokyo and you wait for 10 to 20 years. That is, unless you will pay the price demanded by "brokers."

Telephone service, classed as a government monopoly in Nippon, the Japanese name for Japan, puts them in the whole country. Fewer than 50,000 instruments are now installed in a year, though applications in each of the last half dozen years have been in excess of 300,000. Asked why there is such a big between applications and installations, the telephone administration, insists that, even when the making installations, will leave it with a big jobless staff when, the present backlog of applications has been cleared.

No effort is being made to increase the staff to a number more adequate to meet the slack demand of the pre-war days. That accounts for the high price of applicants—and for a peculiar racket being worked by telephone brokers.

There is, in Tokyo a Metropolitan Telephone Brokers Association and it offers to provide a telephone in 24 hours, irrespective of much the same as with ordinary stockbrokers. They call it (the telephone installation) which you buy, a membership and refer to Nipponese regulations, a telephone connection is a title which they buy, a membership and refer to Nipponese regulations, a telephone connection is a title which they buy, a membership and refer to Prices paid for such titles range from around 2,000 yen to 3,000 yen, or from something around $37 to as much as $675. This company has a monthly charge of about $1.50 for the use of the telephone.

TELEPHONE ELEVATOR OFFICE

Mr. Bala, the shoe king of Czechoslovakia, is building a new factory at Zlin. When it is finished it is going to be the biggest concrete structure in Europe. Mr. Bata's architect has a big office and he has a private telephone in each floor, so that when Mr. Bata wants to have a conference all he does is push a button and presto, the conference is on. We hope this new development in office construction stays in Czechoslovakia.—TIME.

Newspapers and Novels

Mr. Glenway Wescott, the admirable novelist, complains, on his return from a sojourn abroad, that he is "disgusted" with his own writing, and that, anyway, "the newspapers are so well written nowadays that they take the edge off any novels American writers might produce." At first glance this might appear to be a rather rash statement by a discerning young man, but there probably is considerable truth in the observation. Certainly, on the better newspapers of this country the writing has improved. Gone are many of the old composites and circumlocutions, and in their place is a style distinguished by its clarity, terseness, pace and strength. It may sometimes border on originality, but as Mr. W. Somerset Maugham says in his recent book, "The Summing Up," that is not necessarily a fault. Indeed Mr. Maugham is inclined to give the newspapers much credit for the high quality of the work produced by the writing craft in America. It used to be said that writing for newspapers inevitably reduced a man's prose style to the dull and monotonous repetition of easy clichés merely that is not always true today. Indeed, depending usually upon the man, it is never true of necessity.

And then there is the question of circulation. The interests of newspapers have broadened tremendously. Never in the history of this country, it is safe to say, has there been such a wide, enlightened interest in international affairs, economics and our own political and industrial trends. This interest far transcends mere passing curiosity and headline reading. And the newspapers, more than ever before, give the readers a pretty comprehensive picture of what is really going on in the world. They are not perfect, to be sure, but the avid newspaper reader can hardly avoid being well and accurately informed on the main currents of human affairs. Facts and interpretations are both there in profusion. Our resident dinner parties once were devoted almost exclusively to what passed for small talk and banter. Now, at one dinner party, at which the guests are fairly representative citizens, the topics may range from the T.V.A. to censorship, from Hitler to President Cardenas, from Dorothy Thompson to Chiang Kai-shek. And they are discussed with considerable experience.

All this being true, and events moving as fast as they are, it may be that the novelist, to whom sober reflection upon the people and movements is important if he expects to portray the times in which he lives, is faced with new problems. Mr. Wescott may be right. Possibly novelists more than ever before, may find themselves turning to the long-dead past for their materials—materials which they feel they may handle with a free hand.—New York Herald Tribune.

The Calf Remains the Problem

The farmer's life, it is agreed, isn't what it used to be. He has electric lighting, radio, automobile and mail delivery, often electric light for his buildings and electric power on his. He has his automobile, and the rubber-tired buggy that was a pretty sight in 1913 is but a curio. He may have a tractor, a milking machine, running water, an electric range and refrigerator, a radio.

Many things have changed about the farm in the lifetime of this generation, but the Peterborough Examiner, which has its roots in the soil, points out with the pride of discovery one close link it has found between today's farmer and his grandfather. Science has done wonders, progress has been remarkable, the farmer, equipped with prodigious quantities of free advice from one quarter and the other—but, when a calf must be taught to drink out of a pail the procedure is just what it was when grandfather saw a boy.

"Grandfather used to say a calf was the cornerist thing ever made; some of them had a little common sense but most of them had none at all. Teaching a calf to drink was one job that he always turned over to his hired man. If there was anything in the government bulletins or the new books and rules that the hired man was always reading about how to make a calf drink, he never knew and was ready to have the thing tried out.

"It does seem a bit strange that with all the age of invention has done for the farm they have no new or better way for giving a calf scientific instruction on how to drink than in the pail. They are still bending that stiff neck, still holding fingers in it to learn the knack of the milk, and the calf is still knocking the pail over and flooding the floor.

That is something work-knowing. Those of us who were brought up on the farm like to think there is at least one of the farm tasks which has unaltered the face of progress. The calf still is an intractable and unlamed.—Ottawa Journal.

The Clan-Kail Franch

Let us discuss our allies, for Mr. Chamberlain has decided to the our military forces against the Germans.

Is Daladier, Prince Minister and head of all defence, forces of France, in fact, dictator? Is he the man who took like Napoleon the new Man On Horseback?

No, no more than President Roosevelt, called in times of circumstances almost as grave, can be described as the dictator of his country. Both Daladier and Roosevelt can be recalled if the people will it. Daladier may last long as Premier, or may fall soon.

Between the two we count upon her divisions will make a and mistake. If war should come again all France, from the Socialists to the Communists, would march.

The French are many races, Gaul, Basque, Breton, Fleming, Alsatian, Italian and Spaniard. All of those tribes speak their particular tongue and enjoy their special culture.

Yet France is one family, the first of the Continental peoples to become a modern nation. Any Frenchman who pokes fun at one of the quarrels of the French family will get a punch on it from the next-to-him members of that family.

It was war that hammered the French together—war against the Prussian King, war against Napoleon Hitler, she "heard voices," believed that the Almighty had sent her to save her country from and peril.

What a heart the French have for war! The French are the most goosetep in thousands, nor run and swim by numbers of thousands to defend some nations that give France up. A column of French marching in march in so many thousand slouchers.

But the spirit there, the soul of 1792, of the ragged army of Sambre-et-Meuse, of the Marseillaise-singers. Today the young Frenchmen are well fed, well-clothed, well-drilled, and every young French earth on the boots. But in those boots is the same stuff as the first armies of the Republic.

France is the most fertile province of the whole world. There is no "exhaustion" of the land in France. Nothing will grow but it is to dust such as America suffers.

Nor is France a country of one land such as Britain tolerates. Every strip of earth that can be snatched from the sea is fenced and watered. Every foot that can be won from the sea or from the marsh is drained.

The French do not spe our Mr. Morrison ("I might-never-happen") with "emergency plans" for growing food when it doesn't happen. With the French every farm is an "emergency plan," every working day on the farm is a "crisis."—London Daily Express.

NONE FOR PEACE

Professor Nicholas Murray Butler, recently published a statement of what might have been the result of the expenditure of the money spent on the World War. It cost, he tells us, about $0 thousand millions pounds, an astronomical figure which means nothing to most of us. Of this total Britain's share was about 10 thousand million pounds.

But it begins to mean something to us when we learn that it would provide

Five acres, a 500 pound house and $1,000 cash for every family in every family in Great Britain, United States, Canada, France, Italy and Australia, Germany and Australia—besides,

A $1,000 cash endowment Fund, paying for 125,000, teachers, and 125,000 nurses—besides,

As a final bagatelle—building up the whole of France and Belgium.

BLIND INSTINCT

Nine-years-old Jack Bunting, of Portland, Ont., showed pluck to save his brother Leslie aged seven. Leslie had fallen through the thin ice of a bathing pool with other boys when Leslie fell from a diving-board into the water.

None could swim.

Jack just jumped in and pushed his brother to a ladder. Other boys pulled Leslie out. They could not reach Jack. He was drowned.

We won't talk bathos about "supreme courage." We'll talk about Jack Bunting jump into the water to help his brother. Instinct made him protect a younger brother.

BOAT ACCIDENTS BLAMED FOR FIVE OF NINE DEATHS

Fishing Trip Near Peterboro Ends in Tragedy With Two Drowned

ONE BURNED IN FIRE

(By The Canadian Press)

Boating accidents were blamed today as the chief cause of loss of life in Ontario during a warm and sunny week-end that lured thousands of city dwellers to the outdoors. Nine persons died in mishaps, five by drowning. A man and a child were killed in traffic accidents, a woodsman was burned to death in a forest fire and another man suffered fatal injuries in a fight.

A fishing trip on the Otonabee River, 10 miles south of Peterborough, ended in tragedy Saturday night when James Murphy and Charles Joyes both 26 were drowned when a rowboat upset. Douglas Simmons, 29, swam to safety but became lost in a swamp and for more than two hours struggled through weeds and water, at times neck deep, before obtaining aid.

A capsized boat resulted in the death of William R. Beattie, 47-year-old Toronto butcher, near Barrie. Beattie was drowned in Little Lake. His fishing companion, Bruce Campbell, dragged himself aboard the boat and got ashore. The accident occurred early Saturday but it was not until Sunday afternoon the body was recovered.

Bike Slips Into Water

Ten-year-old Boris Kelly rode along the edge of a dock at Toronto last night. He was drowned in 30 feet of water when the machine slipped into Toronto Harbor in view of nearly 1,000 persons dancing from nearby ferry boats. The boy's legs were twisted about the bicycle when the body was recovered.

Ole Swanson, believed an employe of a timber or paper company was burned to death in a bush fire near Heron Bay, 175 miles east of Port Arthur on the north shore of Lake Superior. Details of the man's death were not known, but it was believed Swanson had been trapped in the flames.

Robert Barr, 36, is held in custody at Port Colborne on a charge of vagrancy, last in connection with the death early Sunday of Clarence Robins, 29. Police said Robins had suffered a fractured skull when struck during a fracas at a party in a house on the outskirts of the town.

Two-year-old Jackie Gibbs was killed instantly when he fell under the wheels of truck in Toronto Saturday. Allan Meighan, 3, was fatally injured in an automobile collision 25 miles south of Hamilton. Another man was seriously hurt.

MAY 24TH DRIVE SAFELY!

Last year the holiday traffic on our streets and highways ran up a terrible toll of seven killed and 215 injured in 145 accidents! We must not have a repetition this year.

One thoughtless move on your part may bring tragedy into your own or somebody else's home. Before you take the wheel, therefore, resolve to use the utmost care on the highway, and to observe every traffic rule.

—Drive at a safe speed at all times.
—Keep to the right hand side of the road.
—Never pass another vehicle on a hill or curve, or any point where the view is obstructed.
—Do not park on the highway.
—Signal the car behind you in plenty of time before you turn.
—Observe all road signs and signals.
—See that your car is in safe driving condition.

In the name of humanity drive safely on this, the first holiday of summer. Help make the highways safe for yourself and others.

If you drink, don't drive

The hand of the law is dealing severely with drunken drivers. The maximum penalty for driving while drunk is three months' imprisonment. If you have taken even one drink, don't drive.

GUIDES ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. G. G. Wright Addresses Girls on Ideal Christian Life

"The ideal Christian's life should be the ideal Guide's life." Rev. O. G. Wright assured 150 members of the three troops of Belleville Girl Guides, Brownies and Cadet Rangers when they attended divine service in a body at Christ Church yesterday morning. Dressed in their conventional dark blue and brown uniforms the members of the Girl Guides and its subsidiary organizations presented a natty picture as they paraded as a body into the church and deposited their troop colors in the chancel during the service.

Rev. Wright used two texts 48th verse of the 5th chapter of St. Matthew and the 2th verse of the 22nd of St. Luke as his text, speaking to Girl Guides and congregation on "service to others." "Be Prepared" is the motto of a Guide, but this might well be termed "Be Polite; Be Pure; Be Pleasant; Be plucky," but Jesus Christ would term it "Be Perfect," and that is what you must be to be a good Guide and a Christian.

"The real basis of judgment of one character is sometimes based on how helpful we can be to others. The more service we give to others, the more you will find real true happiness for yourself, for it is only in serving we can attain the true Christian ideal," concluded Rev. Wright.

The Guides were in charge of Commissioners Mrs. Ponton and Mrs. Riggs and Miss Corbet, with Company commanders Misses Boyce, Moorcroft and Dickerson. Mrs. Branscombe was in charge of the Brownies, while Miss Mary Roberts looked after the more youthful Ranger Cadets.

ALLEGED YOUTH RAN INTO SIDE OF CAR

Running directly into the path of a slow-moving automobile near his home west of the C.P.R. crossing west of Belleville, Glen Kimmett, R.R. No. 2, Belleville, was knocked to the pavement by a motor car driven by Malcolm English, Toronto late Saturday afternoon. Young Kimmett, according to investigations completed by Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine, was running along the side of the road in an easterly direction, when he suddenly turned and ran across towards his home directly into the path of Mr. Englis' slow-moving motor car. The boy was taken to the surgery of Dr. R. A. Flynn, where it was disclosed he had received a minor scalp wound, the result of striking the pavement with considerable force when knocked down. The injuries were reported to have been minor and no charges will be preferred, the investigating officer stated.

was carried on. Flaming gasoline sprayed her as she attempted to escape, transforming her clothes into a blazing mass.

Members of the family rushed to her assistance and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Dr. T. S. Efforts on the part of physicians proved of no avail, the injured woman dying of burns a short time after admission to the hospital.

TWO IN HOSPITAL AS CAR OVERTURNS

Clarke Fee And Leonard Birchill of R.C.A.F. Not Seriously Hurt

When the automobile in which they were riding became out of control and rolled over twice into the ditch along Highway No. 2 four miles west of Belleville on Saturday evening, two members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Clarke Fee, 22, and Leonard Birchill, 23, suffered from general shock and head lacerations. The pair were removed to the Belleville General Hospital, where medical attention was received. Dr. O. H. Stobie, in charge of the cases, announced today the men had not sustained serious injury, as at first was believed, shock predominating.

According to Motorcycle Patrolman Harry Caldwell, Trenton, the pair were proceeding easterly with Fee driving, when the driver decided to pass another motor vehicle in front, but later changed his mind and applied the brakes of the car, the vehicle swerving and becoming out of control. The car turned completely over in the south ditch coming to rest on all four wheels. The bouy top and fenders were badly damaged, while the occupants were bleeding profusely from multiple cuts and lacerations about the head and face. The car skidded and rolled a distance of over 200 feet, police stated today.

Madoc

Madoc—On Monday evening a very pleasant event took place at the home of Mrs. Alex Robertson, where about forty friends of Miss Eleanor Cochran (bride-to-be) met to honour the guest of the evening. During the evening Miss Marian Robertson presented Miss Cochran with a prettily decorated basket of gifts of linen from her friends. The evening was spent in cards after which the girl friends of Miss Cochran served lunch.

On Wednesday afternoon the Young People's Society of Trinity United Church held a very successful afternoon tea on Mrs. Leslie Ashley's lawn. Mrs. Ashley was assisted by Mrs. Chas. Johnson president of the Y. P. S. in looking after the guests, while Misses Margaret White, Betty Demorest, Edith Burr, Dorothy and Thelma Fluter and Mary Bronson served.

Mrs. Dan Golan is spending a few days in Toronto and is attending the graduation exercises of St. Michaels Hospital where her daughter, Carmel Golan graduates.

Let's sweep out the last DARK CORNERS!

The present control law of Ontario is a sound law because it is founded not on restraint but on reason! Because it assumes rather than denies the citizen's control of himself!

To date it has made a great progress. Yet for the good of the Province,, moderation must completely replace excess. True temperance assures liberty while it avoids excess.

Let's keep the principles clear:

Control differs from prohibition in two important points . . . It allows each citizen the greatest individual liberty of choice, while preventing him from interfering with the liberty of others!

And because it respects his liberty it can count on his co-operation!

The Industry therefore sincerely urges every open-minded citizen to join in helping the Government clean up such abuses as still exist. Assure your own freedom of choice by discouraging those of your friends who try to turn liberty into excess!

"We need not be the keeper of our neighbor's conscience but we must always be the guardians of his liberty."

A LOVELY hostess gown is something every woman in the world would like to own.

This one has dignity as well as charm, and is suitable alike to the older woman—the grand dame—and her daughter. It is a smoky gray silk chiffon coat, hanging loosely from the round neck, over a yellow silk slip, which has a pleated high-waisted halter bodice and a fan-pleated skirt.

Guy Wires May Strangle Tree

Killing a tree with a mistaken kindness

STRANGE as it may seem, people often plant a tree; go to all the trouble of putting on guy wires to hold it in place firmly, and then proceed to forget all about the tree, for several years after they have some of the branches are dying. Upon closer observation they discover that as the tree trunk has grown it has become choked by the guy wires encircling it.

This Garden-Graph shows just how such a tree trunk suffers. The rubber hose protecting the wires from cutting into the tree has rotted long ago and fallen away.

The bulge in the tree trunk above the wire is due to the fact that as the sap passes down, the flow is intercepted at the girdle. Here the sap piles up tissue above the barrier until the root, finally become starved.

Electrical Changes In The Body

Hospital Apparatus Records Variations in Potential

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE HUMAN BODY is an electric field, and changes in electric potential occur with many of its activities. In the modern hospital this fact is daily used by the employment of an apparatus which records the heart beat through the changes in the electric potential associated with contraction of the heart muscle." But many other, even subtler, changes can be recorded.

For instance, changes in the electric potential of the brain can be measured by an instrument known as the electroencephalogram. To obtain such a record, electrodes are placed close to the heads on the different sides and the oscillograph "records different waves. These were first described by Hans Berger over a decade ago and are called 'alpha waves'. They are also called the 'Berger rhythm'."

The most prominent waves that occur are regular as the rate of 9 to 15 per second. They are interrupted when the eyes are opened or if a light is flashed, if the experiment is conducted in a darkened room.

Caused by Brain Functioning

The waves evidently are the result of the functioning of the brain not just casual circulatory changes, because mental activity, such as solving a difficult arithmetical problem, will change or interrupt the rhythm. Slight mental activity, such as being read to or listening to a long conversation (unless this has emotional effects, as is usually the case) does not affect the rhythm. Intense emotions, such as worry, anxiety embarrassment, abolish the rhythm altogether. Sleep changes the pattern of the brain rhythm.

This rhythm does not make its appearance until the fourth month after birth. After that there is a gradual increase in frequency until the tenth or twelfth year, when the adult frequency is established.

When this apparatus is attached to people in a hypnotic sleep, the pattern of the waves is the same as that of an awake but resting person. Hypnotic suggestion of light abolishes the waves in a hypnotized person in the same manner as the actual stimulus of light. When, in a dayli room, it was suggested to a hypnotized subject that he was blind, the rhythm appeared; when it was suggested that he could see, the rhythm disappeared.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

M. S.: "I have been told that the continuous use of glycerine suppositories by adults will cause ulcers or other bowel trouble. Is this true?"

Answer: No. It is true that continuous use of irritative cathartics will do that and also the continuous use of enemas, but suppositories are harmless even when used continuously.

Poems That Live

THE ANGLER'S INVITATION

Come when the leaf comes, angle with me,
Come when the bee hums over the lea,
Come with the wild flowers—
Come with the wild showers—
Come when the singing bird calleth for thee!

Then to the stream side, gladly we'll be,
When the gay trout glide silently by,
Or in some still place
Over the hill face
Hurrying onward, drop the light fly.

Then, when the dew falls, homeward we'll speed
To our cottage where walls down on the mead,
There by the bright hearth,
Holding our night mirth,
We'll drink to sweet friendship in need and in deed.

Doctor Urges Good Care For All Mothers, Babies

By THOMAS PARRAN, M. D.
Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service

IN 1843 IT was quite a piece of effrontery for a young physician of Edinburgh or Harvard university to dare present a paper on the thesis that "the practitioner of puerperal fever is so easily contagious as to be frequently carried from patient to patient by physicians and nurses". He was challenged by "routine-ridden practicing artisans" of medicine who "ascribed the dreaded disease [childbed fever] to accident or to Providence, and disliked to have the dust shaken out of their traditions. But the young professor had assembled facts to prove his thesis.

History has proven Doctor Oliver Wendell Holmes right. This wise, crusading spirit and with unassailable logic, did he and his colleagues reform the midwifery abuses of his day. Today the same spirit is needed in fighting to save mothers and babies from untimely death or injury.

The war must be carried to the enemy, and the first enemy is poverty. It is well known that the largest families are found among the lowest social and economic groups, but not so generally of our people who are poorly housed, poorly fed, poorly clad, also get poor obstetrical care. Nearly 240,000 mothers were delivered last year by ignorant superstitious midwives and for at least as many births there was no attendant.

In many communities we have good doctors, safe hospitals well-trained nurses. But either we have not cared enough to use these facilities for good medical care in the prevention of maternal disaster or else we have not known how to do it.

We need a plan in the nation and in each community for the protection of good care on mothers and babies, from tax funds if need be, with the cost recovery, but we cannot afford the higher price of neglect.

Ignorance is the second enemy. Intensive studies throughout the country indicate that one-third of all maternal deaths are caused by ignorance or lack of co-operation on the part of the patient. Mothers and fathers take for granted that because childbirth is natural it should be normal. Too frequently such is not the case. Every mother needs to be watched by her doctor from the very beginning of pregnancy for the first signs of abnormalities or complications. If found early, these need cause little trouble but if allowed to continue until dangerous symptoms occur, it may be too late—as it was for thousands of women last year.

MEAT MUFFINS MAKE A GOOD SUPPER DISH

By MRS. MARY MORTON
Meat Hint

Ham and Veal Muffins
Cabbage Salad
Carrot and Lettuce Salad
Corn Sticks
Pineapple
Coffee or Tea

I am giving you the recipe for a very good ham muffin, but with a change in your menu. Ham and veal are particularly good together, as the ham gives a good flavor to the rather bland taste of the veal. The muffins will make a very good dinner, super or luncheon dish, and corn sticks will seem to me the very best sort of thing to serve with them. That is the way, how about a set of corn stick pans for the shower or wedding present for a bride?

Today's Recipe

HAM AND VEAL MUFFINS—Three-fourths cup milk, one-half cup pound veal, one small can spaghetti with tomato sauce, one egg, one onion, one egg. Have ham and veal ground. Chop onion fine and cut spaghetti in small pieces. Place all in bowl and mix well. Butter muffin tins well and fill with mixture. Bake about three-quarters of an hour at 350 degrees. Serves eight. Muffins are moist and delicious.

CORN STICKS—One-fourth cup butter, one-half cup sugar, two eggs, one cup milk, two cups flour, one cup corn meal, four teaspoons baking powder, one and one-half teaspoon salt. Cream butter; add sugar and beat well; add eggs, one at a time, alternately with the mixed and sifted dry ingredients. Beat well and pour into greased iron corn stick pans. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., for about 30 minutes.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Eat and Keep Slim

Reducing diets continue to be of top interest for both men and women. We all want to be slender. We all want to be active. And can we all want to eat! How can we solve this problem? Here's what Dr. Walter H. Eddy, director of Good Housekeeping bureau, says: "In all cases of obesity the first thing is to determine the cause. That requires expert medical diagnosis. So before you start any reducing regimen whatsoever, be sure to visit your doctor and let him prescribe a regimen which meets your individual requirements."

One of the factors apt to be missing in reducing diets is sufficient protein, the building stuff Dr. Eddy then when you reduce your calorie intake, diets often fail to provide sufficient vitamins and minerals to meet the body's daily needs.

How can you supply these protein and vitamin in your diet? By eating meat, says Dr. Eddy, because meat is a rich source of protein which contain all the essential amino acids we need daily, and in this respect is better than cereal protein sources.

Also meat makes the diet more palatable and interesting, and at the same time helps to appease the sense of hunger.

If your diet contains 10 to 15 per cent of its total calories in the form of meat, the rest of the day's calorie needs can be met by carbohydrates and fats, provided vitamin requirements are also met. Foods that supply these nutrients. And if you do not overeat in meat you need not fear disturbances from a considerable excess of protein in the diet. Moderate is the word limit provided, of course, that all other body needs are well met.

But, warns Dr. Eddy, for all diet undertakings — see your doctor first!

Clam Juice Cocktail

One quart clam juice, two tablespoons lemon juice, two teaspoons catsup, one pinch cayenne pepper, one-half teaspoon celery salt, one pinch ground mace. Mix all the intredients thoroughly by shaking them with cracked ice in a cocktail shaker or preserve jar, and serve very cold with crisp crackers.

Cherry Almond Mousse

One-half pound marshmallows, one cup milk, one-half cup maraschino cherries, cut fine; one-half cup cherries, blanched and chopped; one and one-half cups whipping cream, whipped. Place marshmallows and two tablespoons of milk in saucepan and melt over low heat, folding over and over, until marshmallows are half melted. Remove from heat and continue folding until marshmallows have formed a smooth, fluffy mass. Cool, blend in remaining milk and the cherries and nuts. Lastly, fold in the whipped cream. Makes 10-to-12 servings. Freeze in mechanical refrigerator.

How School Forum Is Directed

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Department Parent Education, Cleveland College Western Reserve University

I HOPE you listen in to the "Town Meeting of the Air". It illustrates the public forum, the beacon of democracy. In principle, the public forum is a revival of the old New England Town Meeting. From the earliest days of our country, there have been informal public forums at the village store or blacksmith shop; more recently in the sorority and fraternity house or college dormitory—"bull session".

As you know, the U. S. office of education has, for several years, sponsored or conducted demonstration public forums in various centers of our nation. It has been my privilege to serve as a leader in these demonstration forums, my subjects dealing with problems of citizenship and the family.

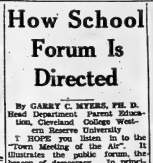
While serving for several weeks recently in Somerset county, New Jersey, I organized a public forum put on by representatives from Westfield High school before the high school assembly of North Plainfield. The students, of Westfield presented, briefly, some statements on propaganda. "The students of North Plainfield having been the audience, freely participated in the discussion. The forum program began with a salute to our flag.

Said the student-chairman: "This morning we are going to have a discussion on propaganda. Is there a propaganda menace in the United States? Before this the word propaganda had only a dignified meaning. Propaganda meant simply the spreading of ideas, such as in religious or political faith used to convince or convert. In loose popular usage it now means the next thing to a lie."

Propaganda During War

"This meaning developed during the World war, due to the type of propaganda used to inspire the people to fight. The United States the people developed such a dislike for it that in the United States, instead of calling their press bureau a Department of Propaganda it was called a Committee on Public Information.

"We will discuss propaganda this morning in both its sinister and the loose meaning. William Blount will start with the story of the Fascist Propaganda in Italy."



Following his brief statements, William Blount said: "The Fascists in Italy recognize the value of music as a propaganda method and gave the Giovanezzi—presented in part from a record. Eileen Farrell sings the Italian national propaganda in Russia, and we heard a part of the Internationale from a record.

Then Gerald Clark spoke on Nazi propaganda and we heard snatches from "Deutschland Erwache," a German song written more credit than any other piece of propaganda for helping Hitler's rise to power. Also from "Horst Wessel Lied."

Bieten Woodruff told of propaganda in our country during the World war. Then a Central High school band played parts of our national airs that have been brought back a mixture of emotions to me. I had marched to them, but the last seven years were all born since the war.

After some considerable discussion from the floor, one student said, "I guess it is all a matter of education that is most desirable for our democracy."

A sure sign that warm weather is on the way is the first polka dot-ted dress. A charming one we saw recently has the skirt and long blouse in red with white dots, while the loose three-quarters coat is in blue and white. The fabric is silk crepe with chiffon coat.

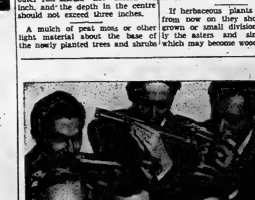
TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

IN THE WINTER we lure birds to our gardens with feeding trays, and in summer with bird baths for both drinking and bathing purposes. When we wrong and right ways of planning about a bird bath, and many people by making wrong planning unthinkingly endanger the lives of the very birds they wish to attract.

Figure 1 of this Garden-Graph shows a bird bath set in the wrong type of planting. It is surrounded by tall growing shrubs and perennials which are permitted to grow close to the bird bath itself. This is dangerous for the birds that come to drink or bathe since the tall, thick planting affords a screen in which their four-footed enemies can hide, ready to pounce upon the unsuspecting birds.

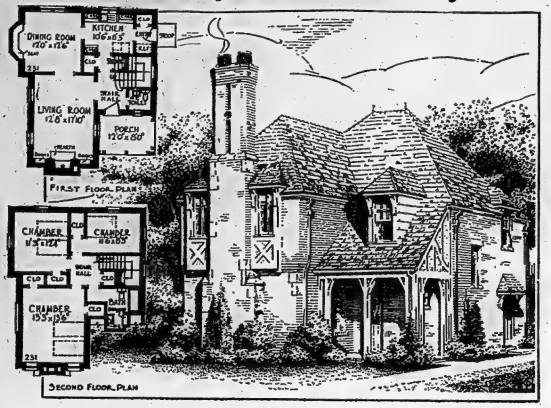
Figure 2 shows a decorative type of planting around a bird bath, and one that does not permit bird enemies to be hidden.



Wrong and right bird bath planting

When buying or making a bird bath do not select one which holds any great depth of water, as the small birds are afraid of deep water. The depth of water at the outer rim should not exceed one inch, and the depth in the centre should not exceed three inches.

A mulch of peat moss or other light material will help to keep the newly planted trees and shrubs which may become woody with age, and will conserve moisture and save labor.



Seeds of herbaceous plants may be sown outdoors from now on.

If herbaceous plants are moved from now on they should be pot grown or small divisions, especially the asters and similar plants which may become woody with age.

THIS HANDSOME brick house is in French design from the Norman period. It is a substantial type and will satisfy the owners for years.

It combines a well proportioned exterior with an interior that is practical.

There is a downstairs lavatory off the front hall, the living room has a fire-place with built-in bookshelves on either side. Back of the living room is the dining room with bay window, and the kitchen occupies the rest of the downstairs floor plan.

Upstairs are three well planned bedrooms, each with its own closet and the master bedroom with two. Built-in drawers are a convenient addition to the bathroom.

The cubic contents of the house proper are 32,156; porch is 700, making the total, 32,850 cubic feet. Size of the main building is 27' 8" x 33' 3"; size over all, 36 feet four inches by 36 feet six inches.

PEDICURE NECESSARY TO MAKE FEET SMART AND "IN THE SWIM"

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

POOT MAKEUP has gained its present popularity because it's the one thing that will make those drab, prosaic feet look smart and "in the swim". Some time ago this department gave a step-by-step home pedicure, but since the days for bathing suits and bare feet are now upon us, we thought that you might be interested in a few more tips on how to keep your feet looking chic and feeling fine.

True, rosy-red polishes are about the best bet for your toes because of their lively tone. A good shade is a true tulip red. Of course with a sunlamp you can wear browner shades like heather or robin red. There are lots of other good clear reds like pimento and red banana, and other brownish tones are flower-pot red and rust. So pay your money and take your choice.

If your cuticle has gotten beyond control and grown down over your toenails, or if it is just plain difficult to work back, this is a good point to remember. Dip pads of cotton in oily cuticle remover, but be sure it is the oily type. Place one over each nail and leave them on for three or four minutes. Then go to work with an orange stick wrapped around with absorbent cotton. Press your cuticle back gently. Don't try to push it back until it has become soft and pliable. Next rinse your toes and remove the loosened particles of cuticle with a soft towel.

Often the continual rubbing of the tops of your slippers against your heels causes an accumulation of skin just above the slipper line. In some cases where feet are neglected the skin will get so hard and heavy that it is almost a callous.

Bath Brush Helps

If you have only a mild case of this type roughness, the daily use of a stiff bristled bath brush will soften the skin and keep the heel smooth. It is often a good idea to rub a little hand cream on the area two or three times a week.

When the skin on your heel is really hard and rough it is best to use more drastic measures to get it back in condition. Put some of your oily cuticle remover on a piece of absorbent cotton and rub it over the rough spot. This will take off the hard, dry skin.

Try giving yourself a foot massage to make your tootsies feel as fine as they look. The point to focus on is the transverse arch which is across the foot just above the toes. This is where strain and pressure are felt, and the higher the heel the more the pressure. Most foot troubles start at this very spot. Use a non-greasy hand cream and go to work, with your fingers under the foot, and thumbs above the foot, using a round and round motion. This will relieve nerve strain, relax muscles and at the beach all summer long, pep up your entire system.

With a nice pedicure and these tips in mind, you can cool a smooth heel and wiggle a twinkling toe at the beach all summer long.

Gay Hues and Interesting Designs Add New Charm to Printed Dresses

SHEERS AND CREPES IN MULTI-COLOR FLORAL OR BIRD PATTERNS USED IN STUNNING FROCKS

By LISBETH

NEVER WAS greater originality shown than in the designs of this season's prints.

This is true whatever the printed material—silk, cotton or rayon. Silks, one-piece and two-piece frocks in fine printed rayons are important this season in both women's and misses' styles for immediate and later wear.

Large spaced floral and geometric patterns against dark backgrounds are lovely in dresses and jacket costumes in women's sizes. With flatteringly draped bodice lines and nicely balanced silhouettes, they are proof that prints, well chosen, may be used for slenderizing effects, as well as for undoubted smartness.

Touches of white, draped scarf necks, and clever yoke treatments add becomingness to these attractive styles.

Color Important for Youth

For afternoon and street costumes for misses color and yet more color is important. Vividly printed sheers and crepes show gay floral designs or dainty designs against dark or light grounds, as well as exotic patterns of Oriental influence such as Persian tiling, paisley motifs, India prints, and bold decorative designs that might have been taken from Chinese screens.

A bold Paisley print in warm Oriental tones is used for the simply styled dress shown here in smooth rayon crepe, which carries out the eastern atmosphere in a two-color braided girdle with long tasseled ends which knot at the waist, and fall heavily down the skirt front.

A high squared neckline is achieved by the use of horizontal pleats straight across the shoulders, and the sleeves are very brief.

Bird Prints Interesting

Figure patterns are interesting too in bird prints, showing your pet feathered friend, in polka dots and in small leaf or vine patterns, standing out in clear white against a dark background.

For tailored wear, there are nicely fitted street frocks cut on shirtwaist lines, with regular turn-back collars, or maybe high tied necklines.

The two-piece frock shown here is in a bold eastern print in four shades of blue rayon crepe. It is simply styled to accent the fabric. Above a slender, slightly flared skirt, the short-sleeved overblouse has a high, rolled collar and jacket-type closing smartly buttoned with white braid-covered buttons, to match the white braid belt.

Plaids are popular for these youthful frocks and can be found in tailored frocks in gay and subtle color combinations.

Lipstick Ought to Be Subtle

(By HELEN FOLLETT)

WHEN BUYING a lipstick, press the lower lip between your teeth until you have a good, strong color. Then do a little matching. You may not want the natural tint—possibly you like to look a bit scenic—but do select a shade that won't be startling. Make-up has gone subtle.

There must not be a violent color contrast between skin and lips. A pale complexion looks even paler if the lip pigment is a bright vermilion. If you use a soft shade of red or damask rose, the skin will take on a creamy richness.

For the tanned skin an orange-red is best. For sallow skin rasp-blonde with golden hair, blue eyes and rosy cheeks, the happy choice is a deep coral.

Buy lipstick at a beauty shop. You can pluck off little samples with your fingers, make a test application, remove it with cleansing oil that is at hand, then try another. It is the only way.

Keep your lips in condition by oiling them at bedtime. Don't nibble at them; they will become ragged. When putting on the rosy glow, see that you have a clear-cut outline, that the pigment is put on evenly and smoothly.

A perfect picture is a hat and coat for a little girl. The fabric is a smooth corset-cloth, the color a delicate pink. The coat has pleats in back, the pleats stitched to the waist, then released.

The Belle of the Spring coat world is a fill-skirted model of navy blue wool, the skirt gathered onto a set-in belt. A narrow band of white pique trims the front closing and also edges the hem all round. White pique also makes the rippling revers and lapel roses.

London Golfer Wins in First Rouud Of British Amateur Tournament

Ross Somerville Ends Match With Illingworth on 15th When He Scores Bogey Five

Both Golfers Cascede Holes, When They Drive Into Rough

DRIVING RAIN

All Favorites Have a Tough Time in First Bracket

Troon Scotland, May 23 (CP) — Sandy Somerville carried Canada's challenge for the British Amateur Golf Championship successfully through the first round today by defeating Geoffrey Illingworth of Woking, England, 5 and 3 in a driving rain.

The many-times Canadian titleholder from London, Ont., defied the wild Scottish weather in a rubber suit and beat the Illingworth's resistance with a steady iron play. Long, low iron shots that overcame the wind, changing capriciously and blowing rain in every direction, clinched the Canadian veteran's victory.

He turned two up and smuffed out the match with a bogey five on the 442-yard 15th. He gained his margin at the turn by taking the 13th and 14th when Illingworth exploded the sand and threeputted. He picked up another at the 11th and a bogey five was good enough for the 13th.

The match started uncertainly. On the first hole Illingworth sliced a shot to the rough and conceded. From the next tee, Somerville hooked into a yawning bunker and finally conceded, to begin the match.

After the lone Canadian in the big field had taken the fifth and sixth both got fours on the 436-yard ninth. Sandy started back with four straight par fours. The Englishman drove into whins-dog gorse patches—on the 12th and 13th.

Their cards:

Somerville	4	4	3 5 4 4 5 4 3 5 4—36
Illingworth	5	4	3 5 4 4 4 4 4 4 4—37

Somerville	4	4	4 4 5 3 5 4 3 5 4—36—72
Illingworth	5	4	4 4 4 3 5 4 3 5 4—36—73

First of the favorites to have a tough match, Gordon Peters, topranking Scottish star and British Walker cupper, squandered a two-hole lead and had to sink a 10-footer for a birdie on the 18th to best A. S. Anderson, one up.

F. B. Dyer, Mid-Am. and R. H. Bloomer 2 and 1, while M. J. Ryan of Australia beat P. S. Fenaux, former British Walker cupper, two up.

R. L. Mackenzie-Grieve of England won on the 20th hole from Bobby Dunkelberger of the United States.

The second American to go out was Abney V. Rogers, Jr., of Winchester, Mass., who lost to H. N. M. Fogg, three and two. A second year student at Oxford playing from a French Club, Rogers got away to a fast start and struggled without success the rest of the way.

Smart Money for Matched Race in On War Admiral

By Gayle Talbot
(The Press Sports Writer)

New York, May 23 (AP)— One of the most remarkable things about this War Admiral-Seabiscuit $100,000 match race at Belmont Park next Monday is the way all elements seem to be getting together to make it a natural-clashing of opposites.

The more fanciful are comparing the Seabiscuit camp to Snow White and Dempsey and Gene Tunney, though it seems a little tough on the Admiral to cast him in the Dempsey role before he has swung much at anything except speaking, though, there is a similarity, and even the rival jockeys fit into the picture.

War Admiral is a spirited, highstrung bundle of dynamite, who likes to come out swinging and get it over with. Seabiscuit doesn't work himself into a lather about any horse race. He feels the important thing is to have his nose in front at the finish.

That the Biscuit's nose hasn't been quite long enough on several important occasions is not fault of his reasoning. A number of busybodies, like Harry Grech, climbed all over Gene Tunney at one time or another, but he got his handsome profession under the wire first on each occasion that he sampled Dempsey's early foot.

Smart Money on Admiral

This is not to predict that the Biscuit mind will outgun War Admiral out of the big purse, because the smart money now is around 8 to 5 that Man O' War's handsome son will come bringing home the bacon. But it's an idea of the two oat-eater intellects.

Charley Kurtsinger, who will ride the Admiral, is a lot like his famous steed. He's a chatty, cocksure little guy who is busy every second when his horse starts running, though he never has laid a whip on War Admiral more than a couple of times.

"Sure, I'm going to jump right out in front and keep going," he says, confidently, "because I know War Admiral can outrun any horse on the track today. I hope Seabiscuit makes it close, though."

Red Pollard of Edmonton is different. He's tall for a jockey, towering nearly a head above Kurtsinger, and he's as quiet and contained as Kurtsinger is chatty. He'd think of to say at a recent conclave of horse sound movies was, "I hope we win."

Current Winning Streak of Boston Bees Bids Fair to Become a Real Sensation

Seven Straight Wins Best Record Since Team Changed Name

YORK HOMERS

Detroit Catcher Wins Game Over Red Sox With Four-Ply Swat

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr. Associated Press Sports Writer)

If the Boston Bees are a form of the vitreous fingers hold out Boston Bees are in the right way to get run for their customers in one of the best baseball cities in the big leagues. Likewise they're going to give a lot of other National League clubs a run for their money about the pennant situation.

It's strange enough to see both Boston Clubs up there in third place, their respective leagues, but the Bees' current winning streak bids fair to become a real sensation. Its overlooking various other events of importance that took place yesterday on one of the busiest baseball days of the season.

The Bees conquered Chicago's Cubs 3-1 in an 11-inning mound duel between Lefty Mitt Shoffner, this year's 31-year-old "rookie" and Clay Bryant. They ran their latest winning streak to seven straight, equalling their best string since they crossed being the Braves two years ago, they cut Chicago's second-place margin to one game, and they turned in their fourth triumph in six extra-inning games this season.

Had to Share Headlines

The Bees, however, had to share headlines with such matters as the biggest turnout of fans since the baseball year, a total of 194,887, the New York Giants, hitting comeback; minor injuries to Cleveland's Bob Feller and New York Yankees' "Iron Horse" Lou Gehrig, old Ted Lyons' 300th American League mound victory and Rudy York's game-winning homer with the bases full.

Shoffner managed to earn Boston the season's first victory, since he not only pitched seven-hit ball but singled home the winning run in the 11th inning.

The biggest crowd of the season and the two injured turned up in Cleveland, where 62,244 saw the Indians increase their American League lead by trouncing the Yankees 8-3. Feller, after pitching one-hit ball for three innings, retired when he began to feel twinges in the back muscles he strained two weeks ago. Gehrig batted a circuit clout in the ninth and retired but teammates expected him to start in consecutive game No. 1,993 today.

The Giants, who had scored one run in each of three previous games, whanged away at three Pittsburgh pitchers to beat the Pirates 16-2. Their 15-hit assault included homers by Harry Danning with the corners crammed and by Jo-Jo Moore with two aboard.

York's all-important homer was made in Detroit's first inning against the Red Sox and enabled Schoolboy Rowe to win a pitching duel to slit hits by Jack Wilson. Lyons, in his 18th year with Chicago's White Sox, pitched wisely to give the Sox a 9-2 triumph over Washington, allowing nine hits and pulling himself out of several bad spots.

The day's outstanding mound performances, however, were seen in Philadelphia where Pete Sivess of the Phils and Billy Rhodes of St. Louis Cardinals matched five-hitters. Philadelphia won 2-1 as all the scoring came in the last inning.

Cincinnati Reds, aided by Fred Goodman's 10th homer of the season, bowled over Brooklyn 8-3 and Philadelphia Athletics turned over St. Louis Browns 8-5 in 10 innings when Buck Newsom, who hurled a full game Saturday, couldn't hold the A's in a last-inning relief role.

The Up is up that Bunny Jordan Bottomley quite his manager's job at Syracuse over Do-Re-Mi . . . signed for one G's as playing-manager, but when he decided to hang up the spikes for good, toe pay as bench-pilot was cotton-and-cakes money in comparison. . . . Now he's taking up golf—and putts one-handed!

OTTAWA BRAVES NOW NEAR LEADER

Sudden Rise Due to Hurling And Hitting of Hughie Grabowski

By the Canadian Press

Cellar-dwelling, and except for one or two brief outbreaks, Ottawa Braves have always seemed content to occupy this lowly position. Last year most of their Canadian-American League life was spent at the bottom looking up and this season Braves slipped almost unconsciously into the same slot.

But manager George Army was not having it for long. Hustling for weeks before the schedule opened, he had rounded up a team that looked formidable in the preseason exhibition games and which still lacking punch at the bat when they again failed to pay dividends, he obtained behind Baltimore Orioles, who moved into second by Syracuse Chiefs. They've kept it splitting a pair with humble Syracuse Chiefs. They've added 3 to 2 behind Newark which rallied from its recent losing streak by trimming the Jersey City negroes 6-3 and 12-10.

Baltimore dropped the first game to Syracuse, 3-2, in the tenth after Ed Remorenko nicked Old Blubber Malone for a pinch homer with one aboard in the eighth. The Orioles came back to win 6-2 behind Johnny Wittig's five-hit pitching.

Montreal Royals belted Buffalo Bisons from second to fourth in the standings, winning both ends or a bargain 13-8 and 4-3 affair. Heavy hitting and Marvin Duke's six-hit shutout in the second game in the nightcap in the opener, knocking in five runs.

Sports Roundup

(By Sid Feder)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, May 23.—(AP)— Ivy Schoolboy, leading the Kentucky Derby with ten payoff pokes, was a hot one favorite in five parks already this year.

Story going around here has to do with boys chucking. . . . Seems when Lefty Grove was pitching their first series at Philly, Earl Mack got to talking to Joe McCarthy, said things were pretty fair, and that Darlo Lodigiani was a whiz around second base. . . . Couple of weeks later, the Athletics came to the stadium. McCarthy shook hands with Earl, and asked, "How're things going." "They're okay," says Earl, "except that we've got an awful big hole around second base".

A ROSY FUTURE FORECAST FOR BUNTY LAWLESS

Morrisey's Colt Wins King's Plate And Ties Record

EASILY BEST

Mona Bell Surprises by Finishing Second to Winner

Toronto, May 23—(CP)— A rosy future was forecast today for Bunty Lawless, little bay son of Ladder-Minstrina, who romped to victory at Woodbine Park Saturday in the 79 th running of the King's Plate. I t was feature of the Ontario Jockey Club's opening program.

Bunty did not register the smashing triumph of a Horometer nor a young Kitty but he came from behind to beat a field of 14 to win by 1-1-2 lengths, going away, from Mona Bell of the Cosgrave stable. Cabin Gal, carrying the silks of Harry Giddings, was third another four lengths back.

The winner, owned by Willie Morrimer, who sold newspapery, on Toronto streets in his boyhood, ran the distance in 1.54 2-5. Bunty Lawless broke swiftly and followed the hot pace of the surprising Mona Bell and Suffern until the three-quarter pole. As this stage Bailey gave his mount his head and Bunty went after the leading filly and caught her in the last sixteenth.

Bulk of the $7,500 purse and the King's 50 guineas, given to Morrisey by Lord Tweedsmuir after the race, plus nomination and starting fees and stud fee netted the colt's owner about $20,000 for the performance. Morrisey bought the horse-again-colt from Aldebet with a syndicate backing Harry Hatch's Suffern.

Suffern stayed behind the blazing early pace of Mona Bell until they hit the turn leading to the stretch where Bunty made his move. Then Hatch's jockey with which he was bidding for a third straight Plate victory, quit and finished ninth. Grand Dame took fourths at the start and never improved.

ROCHESTER LOOKS LIKE THE TEAM TO BEAT THE BEARS

Humble Toronto Twice And Only Short Distance From Second Spot

BISONS DROP

Royals Knock Them Over Twice in Sunday Bill

(By The Associated Press)

The more you look at it, from practically any angle, the more those Rochester Red Wings look like a team to beat. They've been a run in the International League pennant race.

Not only did they knock off Newark three games in a row last week, but they're running consistently now after a very poor start this season, and are right up there in the virtual tie for second place in the standings. They won 10 of their last 13 to get that far, and look to be hitting the ball with a better degree of consistency and may be the catcher's equipment for this important game. Green was always a good hitter, and his field general and should add strength to the "veteran" while directing play from behind the plate. According to press reports the Kingston "Locos" will be composed mostly of players from around the Limestone City. The Kingston C.O.B.L. players as listed are Harold Jerry, Arnold, Mingay Compeau, Abbey Joyce and Tommy Boyd being with the "Locos." Of course the "Orioles" will be the only seasoned players as Alex Weir, Sonny Greer, Bud Wilkins and one or two others to settle the less experienced kids last stepping up role. Incidentally the local management invited Johnnie Lalonde, Eddie Starr and Bill Callaghan. Ellis and one other player from the R.C.A.F. to try out with the local club this evening. Skipper Fanning is looking for one or two players who would like to pitch at the 33 clip, it seems

We observe the Belleville Yacht Club is building a first verandah on the west, or water side-of their club house on South Front Street. The erection of a verandah skirting that part of the building will doubtless, as it will provide the club members will be able to sit comfortably in it and enjoy the weekly punt sailing races, which will be inaugurated when Victoria Park is officially opened tomorrow.

Eddie Starr and Bill Callaghan, well known Peterboro baseball and hockey players, are expected to be holdouts with the Police. Starr is a scrappy catcher, who gets much fight into a team, while Callaghan will be missed off the Tait corner. They are both better than .300 hitters, but it is not known yet how to the summer urge and appear in a Peterboro uniform before the first of June. The reason for their removal to report for spring training was not made public by ex Lifflock sports scribe, however.

Have you heard that the Washington Senators have been trying to get Mickey Cochrane back, no matter what anybody may tell you to the contrary, the story is true. . . . However, to date, there has been no ground to the bargain counter. . . . It looks as if Washington is the last stop for Mickey in the major league. Given a couple of worth-while pitchers, the ghost of Griffith's would have a fair chance for third place. . . . This ball Lewis at third is a real sure-peg, and a grand ball player. . . . Harris could stand another big league outfielder.

Tommy Byrne, former Belleville athlete now in the service of the R.C.A.F., was added to the executive of the Belleville Tennis Club, that operates in conjunction with the Quinte Skating Club in the city. Tommy told us today the heads of the tennis club at Dufferin Avenue and Queen Street are planning a big tennis tournament for the holiday. They are promoting an open tennis tourney, with no charge and the public invited. We hope to stimulate interest, especially among the junior or younger set of the city. Singles and doubles will be held to terminate with the floodlights at night. It is free to all interested in tennis.

Roland Goodfellow who won the triple and high jump events at the annual athletic meet of Albert College, Belleville, is a brother of Johnnie Goodfellow, Kingston intersecond sacker. Young Goodfellow showed his heels to all and sundry in the track events, while N. Osborn excelled in the field events.

"Don't kiss girls ever stay at home any more to be the comfort of their fathers' declining years?" the doctor demanded pathetically.

"If ever any old man wasn't in a decline—" Victoria Herford, said with an unfeeling laugh. She got up from the breakfast table and went around to sit on the arm of her father's chair. Her father, finding the agreeable, dropped his paper and locked an arm about her.

"Is that all the breakfast you're going to eat?" he asked, diverted from the original trend of their conversation.

"I'm gorged, darling," Gloria said absently.

"Gorged on half a cup of black coffee and a slice of Melba toast!"

"I had an orange and grapefruit juice upstairs. Darling, I'm so glad bees here! I have it at seven, take my bath, do my exercise, air my bed—am I interesting you?"

"You've interested me, Glory, since you were a baby saying 'Listen!' at me. But how you're punishing me a bit, and your mother too. I don't go with her into all the things she wants you to do, but it seems to me—pretty girl of nineteen — other pretty girls in Junchonville—"

"Father," Gloria said in a dreamy tone, "what do you really want me to come out in society?"

"Isn't it the natural thing for a girl to do, Gloria? I mean—Margaret and Kitty and Joan—aren't all those girls going to the parties while gowns and have flowers sent you? Your mother and I have people we like the Perrylins, yet know—didn't she have a lot of that finishing?"

"Indeed she did!—More hot coffee, Dad?" . . . And pulled a chair close to his and was busying herself with the percolator. "Darling," she persisted, 'things have changed in the twenty-five years since Mother came out. Mother had one hundred and sixteen bouquets of flowers—I'd enrolled it wicked to let people waste money on me that way! About five hundred dollars' worth, I'd say, with cakeries, stepping on them and not air 'sitting them! That's quite a one detail."

"If you have a dad who's willing to pay the bills, Glory, what harm does it do? I mean—well, society hasn't changed much. You'll have my own friends. Sometimes I bet your mother drag me to something — It doesn't matter whether it's rich Hubert or the poor Joneses, But I'm an old man, my dear; I'm getting up to sixty. You're pretty as a picture, and your mother's rather set her heart on your making a little social splash."

"S-s-s!" said Gloria, with a shudder.

"Why not give your mother a year, dear? Go round with the other girls? Then, next autumn—early forty, work in the Junior League, all them, if you don't like it, drop how can you if you haven't met a man on whom you'd wipe your shoes?"

"Come now, that's rather hard on the boys."

"Well, you mention one, then one possible man."

"Why, I don't know them as you do, Glory. But there must be a few, here and there. Those Lindsay boys, the Knight boy. D'you mean to tell me that there's a single fellow—"

"Is—now you've said it!" Gloria interrupted, with her own delicious trill of laughter. "There isn't a single one. I've met them all, and aren't single—the only men I've ever liked, or met, that is. I could fall like a ton of soft coal for Joe Lightener, and I'm mad about Freddy Pronck. But they're married! The others are all pipsqueaks and boobies, and I'm the biggest pipsqueaks. So I'm going into business. I've finished my stenography course; now I'm going to take a hotel-manager's course."

The father looked at her thoughtfully. What he saw was not new to his eyes; he had but the one child, and he and she and her mother had been companions unbrokenly for the entire course of Gloria's life. In her babyhood he had managed even on his business days to have Gloria brought to him when she awakened in the morning. On Sundays she had accompanied them and her mother on country drives; on vacations to Havana or Hawaii, Gloria had been their joy. Now, suddenly, mother and Dad had been her world; she had been theirs.

Somewhere in Gloria's grammar-school years there had been a sort of a change in the status of the Herford family as a family. The Herfords were prosperous and busy and became fashionable as well. His pretty wife, gallant and serene in harder, earlier years, had developed new tastes and desires. Ada Herford's position in Boston was exactly in what fashionable suburbs she wanted to be; her house exactly who belonged and who did not belong to the set. And after all, she had been the daughter of a rich man 'a few years earlier; and that was still remembered. It was helpful to her, after a period of years of financial and social struggle, to emerge again, with a smart car, a maid, and appointed in neither large or pretentious home, but in a perfectly correct address. Gloria, whose mother had been her only nurse and very often the family cook as well when she was little, had been allowed at fifteen a privileged little person who went to one of California's finest schools for young women, and who had definitely fitted Ivy Cabin on Lake Tahoe, and had her own riding-horse in the Burlingame Club Stables.

She had taken it all easily enough, then. Social distinctions had meant nothing to her, would perhaps never mean much to her. But presently Mrs. Herford, ravishingly entrancing in this brimming river of pleasantness, had found herself on a snag. Gloria, at nineteen, had her own ideas about nothing to do.

Parties and girls' luncheons, golf and bridge and polo riding—these were dinners had not seemed a real occupation for Gloria. She had fretted and fussed under the restraint of a social career that she had said it was all silly. She had not wanted to go to Honolulu with the Watsons, nor to New York with the Petries.

"Those are nice people, Mummy! And you have to do something hard—some sort of work, before you can have a vacation. I want a year—some position."

Determinedly, Gloria had taken a course in typewriting and stenography, had graduated third in a class of ninety; it had been a foregone conclusion that she would be among the first half-dozen. Things came to her when she wanted to do them.

Then there had arisen the situation which was the cause of Gloria's father on this sunshiny September morning. Mrs. Herford had decided, once and for all, that Gloria must be introduced to society at a large party in the autumn number. Five hundred invitations to the tea; a dinner for about forty; a dance for perhaps two hundred. Gloria's photograph must be taken especially for the newspapers; the old school picture would not do. Gloria's frock must be straight from Paris; "Lucette et Cie" would import several for the lads of the year, and Gloria's must be early bespoken; she must have first choice.

These plans had been announced to Gloria herself only last night. Gloria had said, pleasantly enough, but with invincible determination, that she could not do it with them at all. She thought Mummy had understood how she felt. She was going to be a university at Berkeley for an eight-weeks' course in stenography.

With the unprofitable husband and father for witness, the two women had talked it out. Or, rather, they had only started to talk it out, for after a few minutes of it Mrs. Herford had retired from the scene in agitated tears. She had been dreading to go to the Landborgs for an hour of music when the conversation took place; she had felt until for any social effort but it went on; she had finally gone tearfully to bed. The doctor, reluctantly getting into evening clothes for the Landborg musicale, had scooped the change up into his wallet, alacrity, delighted to find himself with a free evening. Gloria had gone to bed, too, not at all comfortable, had sat for two hours on the foot of her mother's bed, maintaining good - naturedly but with an air unmistakably sureness that she would not do what they had arranged for her to do and that her own quite different plans.

"Why aren't you at Kilby's tonight?"

"Because I have a good book, Mummy, and I want to read it in bed!"

"Oh, read in bed! A girl of nineteen with everything in the world to enjoy, and she wants to read in bed!"

"You and your mother didn't have a good time?" the doctor presently asked, in the course of the breakfast talk.

"Break? Mummy and I? Oh then, good!"

"Well," he said, slightly reassured, "I thought not. You're going up to see her, then?"

"Of, certainly," Gloria had been arranging a day with Mummy now she put some letters, and a book or newspaper on it. Her father was sitting on the arm of the chair, girl, balancing her burden carefully, went through the hall, the hallways and knocked, with a cornet of the tray, on a bedroom door.

It was opened immediately. Had she been there, she had run her mistress's hair a few times with her brush, straightening the pretty, dim-lighted apartment. Mrs. Herford was back in bed.

"Mummy, I'm sorry I went with a while akin finely crinkled, and dark, wide eyes like Gloria's, her mouth and forehead disfigured with tracings of some wrinkle-eradicating plaster. Her hands were small and fine and heavily veined; she wore two big rings. She enveloped in a beautiful silk robe cut in plain straight lines, a quilted silk comforter was drawn neatly up to her armpits.

"Birds, bad girl," she said plaintively.

Gloria planted the tray steadily, seated herself in a chair facing her mother. "How's the head?"

"Oh, I'm all right," Mrs. Herford said, with a martyr's smile. She was a gentle, helpless-seeming creature, given to trifling complaints and protests and often "what she called "My awful blues," to which her nurse-boss she could be stubborn enough as Gloria and the doctor knew, but usually she was vague and sweet and easily amused, thinking her husband the most wonderful man in the world and Gloria the most wonderful daughter.

This morning she had changed her type of attack and was all the more powerful for being resigned and forlorn.

"Glory, I don't know why I want you to do things if you don't want to!"

"And I've been wondering why you made that I don't want to do them."

"It just seems that if we are lucky enough to be able to do this for you—a coming-out party and frocks and all the rest of it, as if it would be an injustice to you not to do it. It's a legitimate pride—darling, and what your poor fool of a Mummy can't understand is why you don't want to enjoy it."

"Still, if you don't enjoy it, Mummy! If it all seems like such stupidity—such waste, to you!"

"Surely it isn't any more waste than trying to get a job as hostess in a hotel! People will think you're crazy!"

"I don't propose to stay hostess in a hotel. I've said I wanted a hotel job because so many girls go in for bookkeeping and beauty parlors and interior decorating. I want something real, so that I may meet a man he knows, I have something to do, that I'm not just sitting around waiting for him to ask me to marry him!"

"Why don't think you'll meet any man you'd look at in the hotel business, I should hope," Mrs. Herford said, in an attempt to be withering.

"Mummy, He might be a corset drummer, come in for the night!"

Studying her daughter, who sometimes remembered with remorse that Gloria's paternal grandmother had run a boarding-house. Gloria probably was a throwback to this capable woman. She wanted something "real and hard, something I can't get out of, something that I may fail trying to do—to do she? Well, she'd find it fast enough if she ever really got a job! "As if," Ada thought, disconsolately and with an inspiration, "as if life didn't take hold of us fast enough and bring along troubles and responsibility!"

She eyed Gloria as the girl sat quietly studied the morning paper. "Are you going out this morning, dear?" Ada asked.

"Linda and Kitty and I are walking. Then we come back here to change, and Kitty drives us down to Burlingame to Phyllis's lunch."

"Oh, true, It's the day of the lunch! And then the polo." Ada brightened.

Presently mother and daughter were suitably discussing the events of the day, and Gloria could depart with one more kiss, and with the disputed question temporarily laid on the shelf.....

This was the prologue. The first act, properly speaking, opened some seconds later — in April afternoon, when Gloria Herford descended the steps of her father's landaulet-sedan in Sealiff, a suburb of San Francisco, and stood for a moment looking across the blue bay and the hills beyond the Golden Gate, the golden twilight have ignored the view and concentrated on the girl who was lingering for a last survey of the scene. Gloria Herford was a slight in pale browns; her cheviot suit and soft little sweater were in two shades of brown; her hat had a brown bow loose driving gloves, and low-heeled suede oxfords were brown. Her coloring was all warm, soft browns; tan, smooth, firm cheeks shimmered to what her father called pongee-color, hair of exactly the same shade in the sun, and curly, dark brown eyes behind brown lashes. Only on the lips was there color; the big, fine, sweet mouth was always ready to laugh was a line of scarlet in the varied creams and tans.

When the other girls called Gloria a beauty she quite honestly denied it; the sturdy figure of the collecting of her face made for beauty, but the features were irregular, the mouth too big, the space between the eyes too wide. But she had been known, in moments of extreme candor, to say that she liked the way her face looked, and she liked the way she looked this morning, loved the new suit, and, exalted in every fiber of her by the delight of being just short of twenty, and eager, and off to work for her first real job.

She drove through the city in the morning sunlight to the ferry-boat that churned its way back and across the bay. It was not just noon when her little car—among the herds of fanatic-lids and turned in at a weather-beaten wooden gate that stood wide open to a jungle of rough green grass and golden mustard tops. The garden and trees spread far beyond it up the hill were unkempt, but pleasant and friendly-looking. Presently they gave way to a graveled circle of drive and to an old wooden house, gabled and porticoed in the fashion of a Mississippi River steamboat of the many-windowed cupola which must command. Gloria thought, a magnificent view of the Bay and the Golden Gate. A faded sign, gold lettered, hung from the porch: "WOOD SANATORIUM."

Gloria, after hesitating in expectation, and in something of puzzlement and doubt, too, as she moored the car, walked up the steps, past rows of painting and rang the front door bell. She could see, through the tall colored-glass panels on either side of the open, an elderly woman, depending heavily on a short cane, limped across the back of the hall, disappeared into a downstairs room. No one else came in view, and after a short wait Gloria rang again.

This time a red-faced woman whose whole appearance said that she was a trained nurse, came out of a door under the turn of the stairs, and looked inquiringly at Gloria.

"If you want Miss Lockwood, she's sick," this woman said. "And Miss Barbara's gone to market."

"Miss Lockwood?" Gloria had tried to anticipate many things in connection with this first prospective agent's position in a private sanatorium, but this was not among those anticipated this. She had imagined a modern hospital, handsomely equipped, rumbling cars, and a steeled herself for an examination by a severe doctor, a Dr. Miss Lockwood.

"You are the Miss Herford of whom Dr. Merriam spoke?" Miss Lockwood would say . . . "Will you please step this way? Your position in this sort of work has been highly recommended, and I have a service in the Marshall Settlement House? Now I would like to talk with you about—"

Him! Well—we might try it—and if it, I'm sure—

This imaginary conversation was to have gone on in a setting of everything that modern sanitation and unlimited money could do to make it luxurious, and in addition what its catalogue implied it was. Gloria had expected tiled floors, spotless corridors, white walls, glimpses of gleaming white laboratories, sterilized plants, the glint of glass and silvered pipes and nickel. Instead, the only evident epicentiasm she had departed from home with written farewells that seemed to her now nothing less than exultant.

"Good-bye, dearest Mummy," she had written; "I've a job in the country, and I'm going to be living to tell you anything about it when I come home. Expect me when I'm $80 a month, so both of you can expect presents and me home for

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Old men and old women, some quite well, others agrd and feeble, these were Miss Lockwood's "pail cats". They were humble folk, some of them old servants whose rich employers pensioned them off.

The notes, written in a gale of excitement, had duly ended with promises and kisses. But they seemed to Gloria now to have had little characteristic, and that last one she was already regretting. It was a note of finality. Her only choice now was either to return to her accustomed life, or to accept this amused parents and their "I-told-you-so" reproaches, or to penetrate farther into the unpromising atmosphere of the Lockwood Sanitarium. Gloria chipped in. Of course. She said that she would wait for Miss Barbara; however that might be. The name sounded like a nice girl; whoever she was, she could tell Gloria something definite.

Her subject beside her, she sat in a rusty old parlor furnished with odd pieces; a few gold chairs with dull velvet seats, chipped away, a few comfortable old upholstered ones, a few rockers, whose coverings in some places had worn through, and showed the cane warp. The curtains were of lace, limp, torn here and there, and, it seemed to Gloria, never quite clean. The windows were not open. Altogether, the place was sinking spirits, the impression the first visitor made was decidedly not one for a sanitorium, but there might be some explanation, some reason for the dreariness that she looked to run down. Perhaps they were getting ready to move into a new building.

Presently a noisy little car rolled into the garden immediately below the parlor windows, and Gloria, looking out, saw a thin, middle-aged woman in a dark suit and red hat, obviously deserted, and carry several bundles, obviously bakery and grocery packages. Miss Lockwood. She was flushed and flustered when she came into the parlor She had Gloria's card in her hand.

Miss Herford—good gracious!" she said distressedly. "I didn't know—I'm sorry—Nurse Carrie—Miss Lockwood,' never said a word to me. Miss Herford, I'm a week that she had asked a couple of doctors to send her some one to help with the work, but I thought she'd written you. For heaven's sakes! Will I'll tell you all about it, and maybe she'll be well enough to see you herself. I'm sorry you went to a wedding Thursday night and she's been upset ever since. Nurse Carrie—Miss Lockwood, I'm sorry to have kept you waiting, but the taxi's ready, and I ought to get home, Miss Milligan has a sore throat. It was dark now; it was raining. Gloria, you come again always, slip quietly out of the house get into the car, abandon, the world forever and ever. Amen!

"Does she——?" she asked fearfully.

"Doe's she? She don't do much else," Ida answered. "She's a love when she's a smart woman, but she's certainly addicted. Her husband died years ago, and he paid a cent. She runs things that way. Miss Russell, who was here, had fifty-four patients in this place and never in help, beside Miss Russell, who was a nurse. Now we're down to seventeen, and Gloria, seriously shaking her head, sobery mounting ti her own room. Gloria, left alone, pondered all this uneasily. She had insisted herself, it was obvious, a surprise to everyone. Miss Wilson was going away, She had been offered a job in a rest home in Salt Lake City. Ida would be left, and the nurses the unseen head, Miss Wood. There were no other salaries the place must make money. One hundred dollars a month—seventeen to seventeen hundred dollars, when multiplied by the number of old people that were here; Gloria had vague ideas of the sum that would be certainly it did not seem as if the place should be in this condition.

But of course, with the manager lying in a darkened chapter in her bed, nothing could go right. Gloria must be in her own and before she had finished considering all these points, and almost immediately Miss Lockwood was in the doorway in dusty freshness and quiet slept in her accustomed room, and hear bost whistles on the bay, Gloria dressed in a mood of reflection. Today would decide her course. She would see her employer, and if the woman was sober enough to talk at all Gloria would find out exactly what was expected of her, would make up her mind whether or not it was possible to stay. If not—and she was rather sure that the decision would be to leave the Lockwood, and make as amusing a story as the night of it as she could when she would telephone her mother, who was seriously irresponsible, The marvel was that anyone stayed Ida and the old people, surely there must be a better job this, somehow and somewhere; surely this enterprise as crazy as the whole Lockwood outfit could not be expected to succeed in a week where efficience and modernness and expert training were so much in demand.

As she went downstairs at just before eight o'clock, Gloria through the fog and sparkled through the dirty windowpanes of the landing. Just below, in the basement out of sight in the hallway, she could hear Ida say good night and the broken laughter of several old men Cat wowed with regret.

"Get yourself fixed out in the sun, and I'll send you down your breakfast," Ida said to Gloria, new jacket. Did she bring you that? . . . Well, that a pretty!

Gloria, wondering who on earth this could be, and with pretty lighted spirits, came about the turn of the stairs and stood looking down at the cheerful group in the hall. She found with them a trim figure in nearly brushed gray curls of a woman of fifty-odd, and a man in a gardener's nurse's uniform and white shoes, and who turned fine, sparkling blue eyes and a humorous face into view.

"Ah, there you are, Miss Herford! I was going to find you and tell you you weren't to when I ran across all these children here. Go on out into the sunshine, every one of you, and get the good of this lovely old souls. "I'm going to have a surprise for you at lunch, Miss Herford, we can talk."

"Oh terrible luck!" Gloria said, bewildered. Who was this? Everything would go so much better with Miss Lockwood. Here was a new person in charge. The old people obviously loved her.

"You're not late at all. Your hours properly speaking, will be from nine to five, with an hour four, but now, of course, we're shortharrow room in the hospital. But I expect to get that all straightened out before long. Sit down here, you have your coffee; I'll talk to you while you eat."

"Are you——?" Gloria was sure she was wrong; she was sure she would be laughed at, but there was nothing else to think. "Are you Miss Lockwood?" she asked.

"I am, dear!" the other woman answered briskly, with a friendly, sympathetic manner that made Gloria like her at once.

to bring about "peaceful negotiations." He continued:

"Peaceful Negotiations"

"The government have represented to the Czechoslovakian government the need for taking every precaution for the avoidance of incidents and of making every possible effort to reach a comprehensive settlement between the racial representatives of the Sudeten party.

"His Majesty's government have responded to this representation with the assurance that they fully appreciate the interest which His Majesty's government manifested in this question and are resolved to seek an early complete solution.

"The views of the opposition in both Houses of Parliament were called together to go over the situation in detail. Present were Mr. Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary.

Clement Attlee and Lord Snell, Labor leaders in the House of Commons and House of Lords, and Sir Archibald Sinclair and the Marquess of Crewe, for the Liberals, arrived at the Prime Minister's residence a few hours before Mr. Chamberlain was to make a statement in the House of Commons on the weekend developments in Czechoslovakia which gave Great Britain her most anxious days since the Austrian crisis of two months ago.

Office on Sunday and anxious groups remained in Downing Street throughout the night.

During a conference with Viscount Halifax, the German Ambassador, Dr. Herbert Von Dirksen, is said to have charged Czechoslovakia with encouraging agitation against the Reich. He stressed the Reich's call of reservists to the colors, which is considered in Germany as purely mobilization measures. Dr. Dirksen is understood to have informed Lord Halifax, therefore, that Prague would be a better place for Germany's representative than Berlin.

This exchange, together with the remarks of the conference of the Prime Minister, Ambassador Dirksen and Viscount Halifax, is believed to be the cabinet.

The German propaganda against the Czech government has been followed by a campaign of terror. Reuter's correspondent in Berlin by maintaining contact with Henlein headquarters and parties of the Sudeten German Nationalists, has reported numerous instances of terrorism against the Germans.

The Manchester Guardian, commenting on the statement in regard to Germany is willing to allow Hungary and Poland to make a settlement by negotiation peacefully, to a settlement that may be considered just, but it is not willing to allow the security of Czechoslovakia or weaken the proposals on which it rests, "we may willy nilly."

Pearly Says Crisis Not Passed

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said "the causes of the crisis persist and must be resolved."

"Only the most imaginative optimism would persuade that the period of danger has been passed. The relative calm at least has been established and for this fair is there not only governments in Berlin and Praha, which are determined and strong but the persistence of British anti-foreign representations imaginable. Britain is not in Central Europe the urgent need for circumspection."

Sees No Major War

The Daily Express (Independent) said Great Britain would not let a peace-maker and there "will be no major war in Europe this year or next."

The News Chronicle (Liberal) said: "British representatives must seek to induce Germany to negotiate on a more reasonable basis. The basis for which has been provided by the minorities statute. The energetic steps taken in Berlin over the weekend must have convinced the German government that neither France nor Britain is prepared passively to watch, or to attempt to impose unreasonable terms either by organized disorders or by invasion."

Danger Seen in Situation

The Daily Herald (Labor) said although tension had been eased after the week-end, the events of Saturday and Sunday indicated the danger of the situation.

"It all depends on Hitler" said the Daily Mirror (Independent). "His methods are always the same. They are methods applied ever since the faked Reichstag fire. Get up a row, foment a grievance, provoke a reprisal, say 'we have been attacked,' then attack."

ALBERT COLLEGE CONCLUDES MEET

Little Benny's Note Book

My sister Gladdis and Harvey came around to play bridge with pop and ma after supper, and they was all talking about diffrent subjects such as the movies, and Gladdis said, By the way what's ever become of Valerie Vallence, I haven't seen her in a picture since she played opposite Ronnel Roonell in Fools in Love.

Ronnel Ronnell wasn't with her in that, it was Clyde Coleidge, and the picture was Fure but Dangerous, ma said. Roonnel Ronnell played with Viola Lelour in Fools in Love. He was featured and she was starred much to everybody's surprise ma said and Gladdis said O no, I beg to differ, because I remember the waterfall scene as if it was yestirday, and Valerie Valence pushing Ronnel Ronnel rite over the falls and Ronnel climbing out dripping wet and pushing her over with her while evening gown and everything.

That was in Fast but Sure, silly, and it wasn't Ronnel Roonnelin that pushed her over the falls, it was Randolph Dartwyn, only as a matter of fact it was a pond he pushed her in, ma said, and Gladdis said, O yeah him under the waterfall that wasn't Fast but Sure, it was Dangerous Curves.

I believe you're rite, ma said, and pop said, High ho Harrey, do you remember the big scene in It's Too Bad to Be Good, where Barclay Burton shoves Mabel East on the railroad tracks with an express train 10 yards away and coming full speed, and she saves herself just in the nick of time by rolling under the wheels, and he saves himself just in time to push her back under? and Harvey said, I remember very well, only it wasn't Barclay Burton, it was Gerald Travers and he didn't push Mabel East under a train, he pushed Rita Hayne under a motor boat, and the picture was Good Bye While Lights.

I believe you're rite, pop said, and ma said, Are we playing bridge or aren't we?

With pritty soon they was.

Mary Loring spoke angrily, red blotches mirred her smooth pink cheeks and dark sharp shadows lurked in her usually soft gray eyes.

"Well, George, if you've made an engagement—for this evening, and you know what date it is, then that's all there is to that. I think—"

"Better not tell me what you think," George shoved his hurt pride irritably from him. "Where's my coffee?"

Mary unfolded a napkin from a plate to disclose hot muffins, as George and began pouring about a brown coffee into an eggshell-thin cup.

"No, thanks," he said coldly, refusing the toast and eggs. "Where's my coffee?"

"But George," Mary's voice trembled a little, "I got up early to make your favorite huckleberry muffins—to celebrate. And now you won't even eat them." She put down the silver coffee pot, the thin egg half filled.

"I'm in a hurry. Where's my coffee?"

Mary took up the coffee pot again and with a shaking hand finished filling the cup. It was a beautiful cup with softly curving lines, a wreath of tiny roses with little dots of blue forget-me-nots around the rim.

Tears dimmed Mary's eyes as she reached across the table to hand George the steaming cup. But as her fingers closed over the edge of the rose-garlanded saucer quiet came seemed to calm her hot, troubled spirit. And as George's fingers gratefully reached out to take the coffee from her, they lingered lovingly here, on the fine china rim.

Just for a moment. Then he took the coffee and placed it beside his plate. In his usual pleasant voice he said, "Huckleberry muffins? Good work. I guess I've time for four or five." And he grinned as he helped himself generously to bacon and eggs.

"Mary," he said, "I was a silly ass. I now—it's our anniversary, our first. I knew all the time. And the engagement I have tonight is with you. To take you to the theatre. See?" And he leaned two tickets across the table. "But when you began to tease me because I'd forgotten what date it was, and took it for granted I had forgotten—"

Mary pulled her chair around the table and sat close to George. "I'm sorry, darling. I was the silly goose, not you. You're—you're perfect, George. I'm awfully sorry."

George put two lumps of sugar and some cream into the coffee, stirred it a time or two, and gave Mary the first sip. Putting her fingers to the pretty cup and saucer in her lips, she touched his warm firm hand.

"I'm awfully sorry, dear," she said. "Let's never—never—"

"Never!" said George, smiling into her eyes across the coffee cup.

It was the first anniversary of the wedding of Mary and George Boynton—fifty years ago. Sounds and odors of coffee and tea and of baked potatoes in preparation came from the kitchen.

"But," said Mary, "How very lovely and how sweet of you to get it for me."

Tom thrust out his young chest a bit. It was still wonderful to buy things for Mary. He nestled into the excelsior-filled wooden box on the living room table and pulled out another paper-wrapped teacup. Unwinding the wrappings, he placed it on the saucer in Mary's hands.

"Let's christen it for dinner. Not all of it—but let's have our anniversary dinner coffee in the cups."

"Oh—Tom. How lovely!" Mary clapped her hand small. "And how beautiful it is—so beautiful, so delicate."

"Yes—like you."

Mary blushed happily, then ran to the kitchen to tend the smoking steak. "Tom," she called, "I tried biscuits. But they were so hard, I threw them away But I'll try again—"

"All right," Tom called back, as he hung his hat and coat on the hat-rack in the hall. "If at first you don't succeed—"

Twenty minutes later her fingers touched Tom's as she passed him his second cup of coffee.

"Tom, you're so sweet."

He looked into her soft gray eyes, "Yes," he answered.

She blushed. "No, I mean the cups—the china!"

"Oh—yes. I'm glad you like it. All pink and white like you!"

"And Tom—isn't it funny? It's so thin and fragile and seems so delicate, yet—her eyes blurred for a moment :Isn't it funny? This cup may—I mean, maybe it will be here after we are gone."

Tom looked troubled, "Well—" he said. Mary ran around the table to perch herself on his knee. He put sugar and cream in his coffee, and lifted it carefully to give Mary the first sip. "Perhaps," he said, "You're a funny little thing—all pink and white and dainty" And he put a gentle kiss on her soft red lips.

Man Says He'll Never Again Live With Wife

Young Mother Fears Husband Will Also Take Their Two Babies Away From Her

By VIRGINIA LEE

LONESOME AND WORRIED is still a young girl—four years old—but she has been married four years and has two children. Her husband left her a week ago, and the poor girl is desperate she doesn't know what to do. The husband says he never will live with her again.

She charges that he goes with a gang of young men and does what-ever they say. If she wants him to go anywhere with her he says, "Wait until I come back", and then he doesn't come back. He loves the children and says he will do anything for them. It makes her feel dreadful when he comes to see them and makes a fuss over them, when her heart is aching with love for him.

The trouble seems to have started when the husband got into some kind of trouble and his wife, thinking it was for his own good, told on him. "That is one thing he hates me for," she writes in her somewhat incoherent letter. "Such has been a swell man to me," she says, until these last eight months, when he has done what his boy friends tell him. He wants to take the children away from me and she thinks she would die if he does. She can't eat now because of love and grief.

"Should I give the children up to him?" she asks, "or should I keep on loving him and then he might change his mind and learn to love me again."

No, don't give your children up, dear. No one can take them from you if you are a good mother to them. Little children need their mothers.

Go to the Domestic Relations court or to the Probate court and ask them to try to straighten the matter out. I can understand that your husband would be very angry if he felt you had told on him and made trouble for him, and it would be hard for him to think you had good intentions. But he won't stay mad forever—at least I hope he not. People don't usually; especially young people.

Keep on loving him, dear. Love never harmed any one—real love. Do everything you can for him and try to win him back. Try not to cry and feel so lonely when he comes to see the children. That does no good, only if it relieves your full heart. Couldn't his mother or a very good friend intercede for you—try to make him see that he should not treat you so, and get him to come back home to live?

Going out with the boys and leaving his wife and children is no way for a married man to act. He still is responsible for your welfare and should act more like a man. I suppose he does it because he feels you have not treated him right. Keep hoping for the best, little sister.

TOOTS is married and has been for four years. She is only 21 now, and her husband is 31. He doesn't like to have her go to visit her mother, and beats her black and blue when she does. Her mother lives near them and he goes there every day. He gives his mother money and does whatever she says.

Toots works and buys her own clothes and things for the house. Her husband also taunts her because they have no children, and she is tired of it all and thinks she had better either leave him or commit suicide. He doesn't allow her to have any company, she says, and she likes to dance and have fun.

I'm afraid, Toots, that I would not put up with a man who made a fuss when I wanted to see my mother, and who beat me. A man who takes advantage of his superior physical strength to beat a woman is the type of person I am very well count out of my life. I'm just a little afraid that if I got just one beating I would walk out and not come back. This is only theory, of course. I've heard of women who adored their men and stood by them, black eyes, bruises and all. It just seems that I couldn't take it, that is all.

You have just as much right to go to your home as your husband has to visit his, and you should do it, and if he keeps on in this way, why don't you leave? You have to work anyhow, why not have a peaceful place to live and some one? No use committing suicide. You are young and have many good times ahead.

As to the lack of children, that is as likely to be his fault as yours. I should think you would be thankful you have no little ones to call such a man father. I am taking for granted that you are not exaggerating your woes, you see.

G. H.: No, I do not charge anything for putting a letter in the paper. No answer to your other question, I do not know where the person of whom you inquire lives.

Threaten Open War With Japanese Fishermen Off Alaska

24 HIGH-POWERED RIFLES, MUNITIONS PROMISED CREW

'We Will Not Fool Any Longer With Japanese Situation' Says Ricker

15 JAP BOATS NEAR

Within 8 Miles of U.S. Shore Jap Cannery Vessels Have Nets Stretched

Seattle, May 25.—(AP)— Angry Alaskan fishermen prepared to arm today in light encounters with Japanese boats in one of the world's richest fishing areas.

The Pacific Coast Codfish Company announced it would provide 24 high-powered rifles and plenty of ammunition to its crews aboard two United States boats in Bristol Bay area of the Bering Sea in response to wireless appeals for arms.

Threat to open warfare between United States and Japanese fishermen spread quickly on the Seattle waterfront. The Alaska Fishermen's Union announced it would send immediate reinforcements aboard the ships Mt. McKinley and Le Merced today for southwestern Alaska.

"We will not fool around any longer with this Japanese situation," William Hicker, secretary of the Union said. "The fishermen are angry and will take action to drive the Japanese out. Our men going north will be ready for action."

He said he had been advised there were 15 Japanese boats within eight miles of the United States shore and that they were making trips to Japan with no one to be looking.

Other recent advices from Alaska said Japanese cannery vessels had their nets set and stretched out for miles in Bristol Bay.

Nazi Funeral Honors Bestowed On 2 Sudetens Killed on Border

By WADE WERNICK
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Prague, May 25.—(AP)—Nazi funeral honors were bestowed in the ancient and historic town of Eger today on two Sudeten Germans, whose deaths in a frontier shooting last Saturday provoked a grave national crisis.

The nation was tense, and among Czech patriots there was evidence of resentment that Chancellor Hitler of Germany gave no hint that the two coffins, and that two German officers were picked to plug them.

The Czechs fear Hitler one day may march his army into their nation to try to bring the 3,500,000 German minority into his greater Germany.

That the focus of Czech concern for today was on Eger turned back the history pages 300 years to something of a parallel.

For there on Feb. 25, 1634, was slain the famous general Wallenstein, who dreamed and planned for a great Germanic empire of which he would be the ruling power.

Wallenstein was slain by officers of the Archduke Ferdinand, when it became apparent he was preparing to desert the Emperor.

Today, the funeral cortege of today were Georg Hoffman and Nikolaus Kraus. They were shot when they sped past a police barracks near the German frontier, after, police said, they ignored shouts to halt.

The German officers selected to place wreaths in the name of Fuehrer Hitler were in the military and air attaches of the German legation here. Czechs also were resentful that Konrad Henlein, Czech Nazi leader, was asked to deliver the funeral oration.

Several Czechs described Hitler's gesture as impudence, and one referred to "reaching across the boundary of a foreign state, making bosom of a couple of Sudeten Germans who failed to halt when they were challenged."

Apprehension and bitterness grew in Czech political circles when reports from Berlin that Anti-Czech reports were being distributed in Austria, volume, reminiscent of the Anti-Schuschnigg drive before his removal as Austria's Chancellor by the Germans of Austria.

Some Czech observers interpreted all this as an indication that, even on the point of presenting an ultimatum to the Czechoslovak government, elements of Czech troops from the border region.

Close to the every hand a flerce flerce retaliation of Czech determination to fight, rather than submit, in the confident expectation democracies of the world would flatly refuse Czechoslovakia to preserve her independence.

UNIFICATION OF RAILWAYS URGED BY C.P.R. HEAD

Beatty Stands to Position Canada —Would Save $75,000,000 a Year

EVOLVED FOR KEEPS

Plan Would be to Have 15 Directors Govern Units

Ottawa, May 25.—(CP)—If the Canadian railways are not placed under unified management, they will have to move along in the path of voluntary economic co-operation, but drastic-individual reductions in operating expenses will have to be made, Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, believes. Compulsory co-operation would not work, nor would arbitral tribunal be effective.

Sir Edward spent all of yesterday giving evidence to the special committee of the Senate on railway problem. He disclosed no plan for unifying the railways, and advised $75,000,000 a year on the 1930 basis of earnings, unification would save Canada $75,000,000 annually.

Labor would not be dislocated nor is the abandonment of any main line of line which the scheme contemplated would any consumption as left without service. He reminded the committee these abandonments covered only lines that were redundant.

POLITICAL LEADERS AIR THEIR VIEWS IN EVENT OF WAR

Mr. King Says Parliament Dominant And Must Decide

TOMIH CRITICIZED

If Empire is Attacked, Canada at War, Personal View of Mr. Bennett

Ottawa, May 25—(CP)—Looking out over what Prime Minister Mackenzie King described as "a disturbed and seemingly chaotic world" party leaders in the House of Commons find widely differing conclusions as to the part Canada may play in the event of war.

After nearly six hours debate on foreign affairs yesterday the following general views had been register-ed:

Three Different Views

Mr. Mackenzie King: Canada is unlikely to engage in a war on her own account or to make sacrifices not now be drawn into war by the League of Nations, and will not join the empire in a war except on the decision of parliament.

Opposition leader Bennett: Canada, as a member of the British commonwealth of nations is automatically at war if the empire is attacked. The only alternative is separation from the empire which he believed would not be the choice of Canadian people.

"R. A. F. One of Most Formidable Fighting Machines In World"

London, May 25—(AP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain today answered labor charges of lagging air rearmament with the declaration the Royal Air Force, "if put to the test tomorrow, would prove one of the most formidable fighting machines in the world."

Addressing a packed House of Commons Mr. Chamberlain rejected the demand of Hugh Dalton, Labor, who led the opposition onslaught, for an independent inquiry into conditions at the Air Ministry and in the aircraft industry generally.

"In the air force as it stands today" Great Britain has a defense of which "any country might be proud," the Prime Minister said.

Dr. Dalton had charged that "if trouble came tomorrow" British aircraft would be "inferior plane for plane to both German and Italian machines."

He said Great Britain is at least 750 front line planes behind Germany whose completion is placed at 200 to 300 planes a month more than the United Kingdom's.

"British inferiority to German air power is the most grim and unwelcome fact which has come into existence during the past few years," Dr. Dalton said.

"Sometime in 1939 Germany passed us in the air and since then has been steadily forging ahead.

"The truth is that in the days when Lord Baldwin was Prime Minister, hopes were entertained of reaching within a short time parity with Germany. These hopes no longer are entertained by members of the government."

SOMERVILLE UP FROM BEHIND TO WIN THIRD ROUND

Defeats Bob Rutherford of England Three And Two

GOODMAN STILL IN

Truro, Scotland, May 25—(CP)—Sandy Somerville kept Canada's hopes in the British amateur golf championship alive today by coming from behind in today's third round to defeat Bob Rutherford of England three and two.

The wavy-haired Canadian plasterer from Brockville, Ont., after blowing hot and cold on the out-journey was one down at the turn.

However, he rallied on the homeward trip to shoot seven holes in one under fours.

The Canadian veteran lost his accurate touch at the start and dropped the first two holes. At the first hint of approach caught a bunker. A fine explosion shot left him only a yard from the pin but he missed the put. The second was lost when his pitch shot "leaked" into a trip.

LITTLE HEED GIVEN TO POORER WORKER SEN. GRAHAM SAYS

'If You Are Going to Look After Labor Sufficiently Will Be No Savings'

TELLS SENATE COM.

Ottawa, May 25—(CP)—Clouds lowered over the Senate railway committee today, its placid atmosphere was ruffled when chairman George P. Graham (Lib. Brockville) protested that in the 1937 estimates far presented "to save money for men who already are money" little heed was given to the poor man or the railway worker.

"There is no trying to avoid it," he said. "Every dollar saved must be saved out of some part of the estimates. The large part of these is for labor. If you are going to look after labor efficiently and sufficiently, you are not going to make any savings."

Letter From Hennepayne

Some members of the committee protested. "If that idea prevails, this committee might as well rise," said Senator James Calder (Lib. Edmonton).

Mr. Graham's statement came shortly after Senator James Murdock (Lib. Ottawa) had read a letter from a resident of Hennepayne, Ont., which set forth the added burden the proposed cuts would lead to bear if the railway was abandoned there.

"You hear Mr. Murdock's letter," he said. "You can understand we have to get rid of some of these letters. It's all very well for people who are well fed to sit around and figure out how we can doctor up the transportation system, mainly to help railway investment. Our whole aim is to aid the railway although suggestions are out. It is going to do to the man in Hennepayne."

Graham's Question

While other Canadians were enjoying all the facilities the modern city offered, "this man in Hennepayne would be an outcast," he said. "I do not know what you are going to do to him and a large number of others," he asked Senator Graham.

"No matter how serious the transportation problem is, are you going to help Canada by subjecting it up here and you going to injure them by making this land poorer than it is?

Strengthening of the authority of the Board of Railway Commissioners has been suggested, as a way to easier abandonments.

The Board was not established and appointed solely to protect the railways," he continued. "It is to maintain an equilibrium between the railways and the public and pay for the benefit of the public. Unless you change the act, you can't expect any board of the kind of railway Commissioners to tear up these lines because that would help the railway companies."

T'e Man Who is Going to be Injured

"I am speaking for the man who is going to be injured, "there are far more people going to be hurt than I can get benefited," Senator Graham said.

TWELVE PERSONS WERE DROWNED IN HOLIDAY MISHAPS

Six of The Number Lose Lives in New Brunswick Alone

THREE IN ONTARIO

(By The Canadian Press)

A death list of at least 12 was counted in Canada today, aftermath of Victoria Day accidents.

Twelve persons were drowned, six in New Brunswick alone. The 11th death was that of a man run over by a truck.

From Brantford, Ont., came the first report of a boating accident early last night. Thereafter the number of drowning victims mounted quickly. Overturning by a quadruple drowning in New Brunswick; the uncertain list was Georgy Comeau, 21, feared to have drowned off Meteghan, N.S. Comeau's body was found on the beach on a fishing trip was found floating off shore.

14 LB. CHANNEL CAT LOSES STIFF FIGHT

Believing his fish line had become entangled in a snag in the water of the Bay of Quinte fishing plant yesterday afternoon, Timothy Pearson, Belleville youth, reeled in, secured his shoes, rolled up his trouser legs and waded into the water to retrieve the last line. He left his bamboo rod lying on the bank while he waded out. Grasping the line firmly, he tugged to be rewarded by a tug which almost upset his balance. He then starting a see-saw battle which lasted for some ten minutes.

The fisherman emerged victor with a fine, white, fourteen pound channel cat, one of the largest caught locally, and victor of a previously hard fought battle it was testified by a length of sturdy line and a bamboo fish pole fully embedded in the solid jaw.

Cleveland, May 25—(AP)—W. A. Patterson, President of United Air Lines, said today that the terrific driver airline which dived into a suburban ravine last night, killing 10 persons, suffered "simultaneous power failure of both engines" just before the crash.

Associated Press Staff Writer

Cleveland, May 25—(AP)—Pitiful were the bodies of nine men and a woman on the bottom of a muddy ravine today alongside the torn and charred remnants of a twin motored airliner which plummeted inexplicably to earth last night, killing them instantly as scheduled landing.

The two pilots, the stewardess and all of the passengers died as flames leapt at the wreckage of the United Air Lines Mainliner bound for Newark to Chicago via Cleveland.

Among the passengers was John Chalmers, Republican State Chairman of North Dakota, returning to Washington from a visit with his Washington conference with his

Benson Sisters Of Wellington Hold Anniversary

Known to their intimate friends and the residents of the village of Wellington as the "Benson Girls", Mrs. Alberta Beamish, Miss Alwyda Benson and Mrs. Emma Bowerman, whose ages are respectively 86, 83 and 80 who have lived in happiness and harmony under the same roof for a number of years, celebrated the natal day of the latter two at their home on Main Street in the above village on Sunday.

Mrs. Beamish, all born in Prince Edward County, members of a family of seven children, raised by the late William Benson and his wife Abigail, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alberta Hamilton, pioneers of the county. The Misses Bowerman home where "girls" were born is still in use on the Picton-Wellington highway and is occupied by the present owner, house in the county.

The trio are sisters whose aged average eighty three years. Mrs. Beamish is a member of the Methodist, now the United Church. They spend practically all of their time together and derive great enjoyment from their books and garden. They grow and raise several varieties of flowers in a cultivated patch of grounds on their property.

They were the recipients of many congratulatory messages on Sunday, while a large number of friends called to offer their felicitations on the attainment of another birthday.

WANDERING WELSHMAN PAYS A YEAR OLD DEBT

Leamington, Ont., May 25 (CP) —Because it was against his principles to owe money, Thomas R. Jones, wandering Welshman, has reminded Mayor Wigle that he has never landedup for an unpaid board bill outstanding the last eight years.

The money was received by John Griffiths here, who forwarded it to his mother at Wallaceburg. The mother, Mrs. William Offler, formerly ran a boarding house here.

OLD LOVERS TO WED

Hornell, N.Y., May 25 (AP) — Love has bloomed anew after 50 years for Mrs. Rachel Root, 72, and an Andover woman, 78. Childhood sweethearts, John Wood and Rachel Root lived there, graduated to wed here May 31. Parted in 1888 when Wood left home and sent a letter from Wood recently. She said she failed to receive it. Wedding day was set. Mrs. Babcock had been married once and Wood twice.

Barking Dog Frightens Cow, Which Tramples Man Who Dies

Kitchener, Ont., May 25—(CP)—Suffering from injuries received when he was trampled by a cow after it had been frightened by a barking dog, Jacob Schweitzer, 70, Waterloo, died at the home of his son-in-law, Emil Albrecht, Welles-ley, last night. Schweitzer was taking to Fred Smith, a cattle buyer, to whom he was trying to sell the animal. The dog owned by Mr. Smith, rushed towards the cow and the latter ran around in a circle, knocking Schweitzer, to the ground and trampling him.

Man Trapped by London Police, Charged with Attempt on Nuffield

Oxford, England, May 25—(AP)— A man, trapped by police in a strange attempt against Viscount Nuffield, was formally charged today with possession of firearms with intent to endanger life.

The man, whose name was given only as Ernest Thornton, was remanded to jail until Thursday. Police secrecy prevented other details becoming known before the court hearing but it was learned Thornton was arrested last night on his arrival at the Cowley works of the Morris Motor Company where the 60-year-old automobile magnate was working as honorary director. Just before he had a chance to enter Lord Nuffield's office.

By a few minutes later the manufacturer entered a room near his office and found a factory hand was practising and said, "well, boys, I'm glad to see that. Two men have tried to kidnap me!"

Only one man was arrested. Whether another escaped was not divulged.

It is believed Lord Nuffield, one of the richest men in England, received a threatening letter the night visit. He is an obvious mark for extortionists because of his wrath and huge gifts. He has given away millions of pounds.

Oxford's chief constable later questioned another man, whose name was not divulged. Lord Nuffield visited the Oxford police station but declined to make any public comment.

German Population Near Border Uneasy Over Czech Flame Visits

London, May 25—(AP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that the Polish and Hungarian governments had joined in the search for a peaceful solution of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German problem and the attendant friction with Germany.

Answering a question, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"His Majesty's representatives in Warsaw and Budapest have already made clear to the Polish and Hungarian governments the importance which His Majesty's government attach to securing an immediate and peaceful solution of the problem and have secured satisfactory assurances in this sense."

The cabinet today deliberated further efforts to secure a peacefully settlement of the Czech crisis.

The cabinet session was the regular weekly meeting but the first Sunday's emergency gathering because of the quarrel between Prague and Berlin.

There were before the ministers two important reports: one by Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, on a talk yesterday with the German Ambassador. Herbert Von Dieckmen; the other by Prime Minister Chamberlain, who outlined the situation in an audience with the King yesterday.

OTIS SKINNER ILL

Woodstock, Ont., May 25—(AP)— Continued improvement was reported today by physicians attending Otis Skinner, veteran of the stage, seriously stricken by an undisclosed malady at his summer home Monday night.

Why the Weather?

Climate and early man! There is evidence in the Southwest of people having lived there 10,000 or 20,000 years ago. This evidence, found on the beds of an old lake, consists of chipped flints, knives, arrowheads, etc. This old lake, Mohave, was about 23 miles long and seventy-five feet three wide. Its previous existence indicates that the climate in southern California at that time must have been moister and cooler than at present to support life and to form the beautiful lake which the people used by these ancient people were found. It is estimated that the water that this old left may be at least 15,000 years old.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, May 25—(CP)—Synopsis: Pressure is high over the Great Lakes and eastern States also in the far west while there is a shallow trough of low extending southwestward from Lake Superior, and a moderate disturbance is centred on the north Labrador coast. The weather has been cool with local fair and quite cool over Ontario with light to moderate showers in the Maritimes and over northern and eastern Quebec. Scattered thunderstorms have occurred in Alberta.

Lake Superior—Fresh shifting winds; unsettled with showers. Thursday, moderate to fresh northwest winds; partly cloudy with stationary or a little higher temperature.

Manitoba—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday a few scattered showers; not much change in temperature.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Mostly fair and moderately warm today and Thursday with a few scattered thundershowers.

Board Praises Rev. W. T. Keough's Pastorate

At a meeting of the Official Board of the United Churches of Point Anne Crescent Wards and the Front Road held on Friday evening, May 20th, 1938, the following resolution was passed by a unanimous vote: That we, the Official Board of the Point Anne and Front Road United Churches wish to place on record our appreciation and thanks for the services of our pastor, Major and Rev. W. T. Keough, M.A., especially during the trying times of the depression and that we request the Editorial Board of the Day of Quinte Conference to continue the appointment to this charge for the ensuing year.

Local Anglers Catch Fine String of Trout

What is thought to be one of the most unusual catches of salmon trout in Hastings County in recent years was made over the week-end holiday by two local citizens, Mr. Jack McIntosh and O. A. Morton. Trolling for about two hours on two successive days in the Consecon lake, four large trout were landed which weighed eight, nine and a quarter pounds and thirteen pounds.

Mr. McIntosh hooked three of these including the largest one. Two other smaller trout were caught as well. Another trout which seemed larger than any of the others was hooked also by Mr. McIntosh, but in its struggle for freedom, managed to break loose. All of the fish were caught in comparatively deep water.

VICTORIA PARK IN NEW DRESS IS OPENED TUESDAY

Brilliantly Lighted, Buildings Resplendent in New Coat of Paint

NEW DIVING TOWER

A touch of a button under the hand of Mayor Jamieson, Bancroft, at exactly 8 p.m. large crowd of spectators, who braved the chilly breezes to the streets, and a new Victoria Park, gazed in a verdant setting of green, that flattened beneath the brilliancy of a diamond necklace of electric lights, made its debut to the general public yesterday that oddly enough was Victoria Day.

Despite the fact that the weather was more conducive to football or hockey, public open-air functions, a large representative crowd of citizens, young and old, braved the cold to bid welcome to a civic enterprise, that has been a long time in start. Automobiles, revelling in the fact, that at last they were allowed to use hitherto forbidden ground filled the grassy swards near the bandstand, where the ceremonial took place.

Following the official opening by Mayor Jamieson, who was accompanied by Chairman W. A. Woodley, and Commissioners Clarence Clapp, whose Maurice Callaghan of the City Engineer's Board, a splendid band concert given by the Bellerille Municipal Band under the baton of Bandmaster Harold Switch, that was enjoyed by the large crowd present. A feature of the concert was the solo work, "The Road to Mandalay" given by Harold Switch.

Told to Use Park

After officially declaring the park open, and pressing the switch, that flooded the park with electric light, Mayor Bone in a brief address told his listeners that "this park like its Hydro, is yours." He said, "Commissioners and members of the Parks Board on the splendid results of their untiring efforts, His Worship stressed the fact, that the park belonged to the public. "It is a much better park than most places can boast of," he said, "and the Parks Board have gone to considerable expense in making this park a thing of beauty and a place of enjoyment for the citizens of Belleville. They want the public to use and enjoy it. If this is not done, then it will be no fault of the Board."

Stern warning, however, was issued by the Mayor to those mis-use vandals, and others, who may have a yen to destroy property." We are not going to stand for rowdyism, vandalism and obscene language on the part of anyone in this park." Mayor Bone warned. "It has been brought to my attention that a number of young men have been committing these crimes here in the past. These people will be caught and severely dealt with in the future."

Mayor Bone again issued a cordial invitation on the part of the city and the Parks Board to the public to enjoy the facilities placed at their disposal in the new Victoria Park.

Inclement Weather

Chairman W. A. Woodley regretted the fact, that inclement weather prevented a larger crowd from turning out. The Parks Board has gone to heavy expense to provide a fine place of enjoyment that included a swimming pool, and a lifeguard, he said as he urged the public to take advantage of the park.

He added his warning to that of Mayor Bone regarding wanton vandals. "We intend to keep down all rowdyism" he said, "and those caught will be severely punished. Chairman Woodley paid tribute to Commissioner Clarence Clapp whose efforts were one of the main contributing factors in the present fine appearance of the park," he said.

BOOK PRESENTED TO MR. F. S. DEACON

A copy of the book, "Spirit of Methodism" by Rev. Dr. Bett, a leading British preacher, was presented at Bridge Street United Church by the Rev. Dr. Semple, minister, to Mr. Fred S. Deacon on the occasion of the bicentenary services observing the ordination of John Wesley. The occasion was naturally fitting in view of the 50th anniversary. Mr. Deacon's service to Bridge Street United Church as recording steward for years has been outstanding.

Victoria Day is Celebrated Loyally and Enthusiastically By People Despite Cool Winds

Cloudy Skies Do Not Lessen Ardor of Citizens on Holiday

SANE DRIVING HERE

Cloudy overcast skies with a hint of rain accompanied by strong winds that at times reached gale-like proportions ushered in the "Twenty-fourth" yesterday morning. An ugsple weather condition strongly reminiscent of March and its blustering ilee, the majority of residents of the city and district celebrated the holiday in typical Victoria Day fashion.

Clearing skies that sent the rays of old Sol streaming down from the patches of azure blue brought a ray of hope to sixty-odd-homes already dressed. Since aristocrats of motordom boasted a celestial parade that was by far the heaviest that has passed through the city since the March Lion gave way to March Hare the gambolling Spring Lamb. From far and near, they journeyed hither and roared their way to various destinations. From early morning until late evening the air resounded with the noise of moving automobiles enroute to or from holiday destinations. American cars, from several states were noted, especially a novel trailer that carried Florida license plates. Family chariots of all vintages were hauled from the home garages and put into motion as representatives of all classes sought the broad highways for their holiday diversion.

Camp, bungaw and stream likewise received their quota of amusement seeking people, and camp fire smoke that spiralled into leaden skies to be whisked into oblivion by the strong prevailing winds to herald early morning habitation of camps and cottages on the shores of the lakes and bays of the county.

Fishermen Out Early.

Waltonian addicts, astir early crept out of the city laden with fishing tackle and optimism, and long before the pallor of dawn had appeared in the east, they "crowded" their cars behind those the Arabs of old noisily stole away. But the wide expanse of water on the northern lakes were given wide berths. Gale-like winds that whipped the usual placid calm of these fishing grounds into mantling foam-capped white caps caused many a fisherman to use discretion and seek the comparative safety of the less trout-laden brooks for their sport.

Migration to Cheltenham

While the colonies and camp-loving populace of the city practically left the city en masse, there was little outdoor diversion sought by the golfing lovers of the game. Quinte Wood fires threw out billowing clouds of smoke from many a lakeshore domicile. Bathing suits of every Sisters, Handcuffed Together Walking to Vancouver B. C.

Do Not Accept Lifts But Sell Cards For Expenses

WALK 15 MILES DAILY

Julia and Juliette "Our last names don't matter") petite, French-Canadian twin sisters of Montreal, whose looks and bearing qualify them for the front row of any theatrical chorus, for the next five or six months will eat, sleep and hike miles daily along the route of their journey chained together with sturdy handcuffs.

Locked wrist-to-wrist in Montreal eighteen days ago by Mayor J. Adhemar Raynault, the keys of the handcuffs were then sent by the Montreal Mayor to Mayor Bone of Vancouver, which city is the end of the present transcontinental walk. Belleville last night and part of today was the visiting point of the two pretty dressed girls, reaching briefly here, while they sold picture post cards to defray their expenses as they go.

Trimly Dressed.

Trimly dressed in blue jackets and slacks, topped with small white and blue pill box hats, the two good looking sisters tanned to a deep bronze from the sun-kissed days, declaimed any "stunt" in connection with their cross-Canada journey on foot. Reaching in the city hall early this morning after a refreshing night's sleep they made plans for a brief invasion of the city's business section and a visit to the office of the Mayor for the purpose of securing his signature on the postcards carried. Later today "We don't do this as a what you call it . . . stunt," declared slightly built Julia. "We do it because, well because we wish to see this most beautiful country. We walk this. We see things. We are not bothered. It is our own idea."

Former Waitresses.

Former waitresses in a Montreal restaurant, the lame job pulled on the two girls, they explained. Now they are out to see the country. The tides of handcuffing themselves together was a good one—so still pictures of themselves, they smilingly admitted.

"Many people might think we are not really locked together. But we are. We have a certificate of our cities and towns try to open the locks. They can't. They are good locks and good handcuffs," corroborated Juliette.

So far the two girls have not been bothered on the road by other wanderers. "Maybe in Vancouver, Panama, try to speak with us. But we do not answer," they said. "Just, not to hear anything." declared Julia. "At night we stop at boarding houses and hotels. On the road, if it rains, we find a tree, maybe a barn. People have been very kind. Many times we do not earn a cent or much clothing."

Average 15 Miles Daily.

Averaging from twelve to fifteen miles each day, the twins were bothered by their handcuffing during the first week or so on the road. Now they have become used to walking and enjoy it. They accept no rides and so far have had no offers from automobile motorists who might wish to pick them up.

"It is the safe this way," explained Julia, brandishing her part of the heavy handcuffs.

Thus the girls visit offices of the mayors and heads of the various cities, towns and cities through which they pass, to add to the list of those already secured since their start in Montreal on May 6. They admit the signature list will be a lengthy one by the time they reach Vancouver.

"And after Vancouver, what? Will you turn around and start back on foot?" asked the reporter of The Daily Ontario Intelligencer.

"After Vancouver we do not know. That is many miles. When we get there maybe we stay. Maybe we come back. My sister and I do not know as yet. Just now we are in Vancouver. We do not worry," states country Juliette.

Obituary

PHILLIP SCRIMSHAW

After an illness of several years duration Phillip Scrimshaw, late residence, 23 Strachan Street, Belleville, died in hospital at Kingston, on Tuesday morning, May 24th.

WALL STREET

(Close)

New York, May 25 (AP)—A steady dribble of offerings were down the stocks today in the absence of a aggressive buying support for the market.

Losses of fractions to more than a point left leading shares around the final hour at the lowest levels of a slow retreat from the April-May rally tops. The market tried to rally feebly in the forenoon but again encountered apathy among traders.

Transactions were about 500,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, May 25.—(CP)— The Toronto Stock market brought only narrow swings today and closed lower with trading to small volume. Only 400,000 shares or fewer changed hands and much of the trade was in the cheaper issues. Golf shares held their group or improved narrowly while the other three index groups finished on the down side.

Noranda was up a point or more while other Base Metals were unchanged to lower. Gold Shertitt Smelters and Waite-Amulet were down. Silvers also were a bit heavy.

Sold, spots in the Western Oils included Okalta, Royalite, Dalhousie, Home, Anglo-Canadian and Calgary-Edmonton.

Changes in the Golds represented gains mainly. Dome, Lake Shore, Macassa and Pickle Crow all improved narrowly. The shares of Teshota Goldfields Limited were delisted by the Exchange today.

Waite-Amulet set a new high at 2.72 and closed around 2.50 against 2.59 at the previous session. Kerr-Addison took a net loss of ten cents or more.

Noranda held a gain of about a point and Nickel lost a point or more. Base Metals were about two points and Sherritt closed around 96 for a loss of 1.

Albitbi common was offered down to 1.50, off 20 cents.

MARKET COMMENT

The action of the market has been discouraging, to say the least. A number of times it appeared as if the list was about ready to embark in a forward movement but in every instance these rallies did not carry through. Consequently, a show of strength for a day or two does not attract the usual public following, and the market will have to record a substantial rise for at least three weeks to a month before the average speculator will become convinced that a rising market is in the offing.

A Canadian broker who is presently in England has written his office to the effect that for the first time in history, the Bank of England is trading against gold. In conversation with the editor of the London Financial Times and several other important financial authorities, this broker gleaned the opinion that an increase in the price of gold to approximately $40 an ounce was not far off.

A better demand has been noted for the senior golds of late. Some months ago, talk was heard of a possible reduction in the price of gold, while today the reverse is the case, with many authorities forecasting a higher gold price. It is interesting to point out that our senior gold shares are today returning yields above the average. There is no good reason why stocks such as Lake Shore should yield 5 per cent.; Hollinger 8.15 per cent.; Bralorne 11.24 per cent; Sisco 10 per cent; Tuck Hughes 9.78 per cent; Pickle Crow 8.7 per cent; Wright Hargreaves 8.21 per cent; etc. etc. Looking at the "golds" from any angle they are attractive, and in the event of inflation, the Canadian gold shares will be in greater demand than ever. We are currently passing through a period when values are entirely disregarded, and this applies to the market as a whole. Storage and faith in the future must be restored if business is to improve.

Top lambs today were priced at $8 to $8.50 with tops at $9. Common yearlings ranged down to $4.50.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $10.25 to $10.40.

BRUSH FIRE NEAR GLENORA EXTINGUISHED AFTER MUCH TROUBLE

What might have been a repetition of the disastrous fire that swept the wooded country in the vicinity of Glenora two years ago resulting in heavy damage to farmers and timber lands, was averted by the timely action of residents of that district over the weekend when they noticed a timber blaze that temporarily threatened the country side.

Thought to have originated from a carelessly thrown cigarette, fire started in the bush land on the farm of Dr. S. H. Roblin, Neighbors noticed the blaze and the wind that threatened a large windmill on the property, and fought the fire unassisted. Concerted action by the fighters resulted in the extinguishing of the fire before it did more damage than the destruction of a small area of underbrush.

McGuire was returned to the office of secretary, and John Murray and Marshall West were named auditors.

At the first boarding on Saturday, cheese were received 12 v ts and 222 colored cheese. All sold at a price of 14 7-16 cents.

HOLIDAY PASSES WITHOUT INCIDENT

No Fatal Accidents Reported in Belleville District— Little Sailing

That no near-drowning accidents occurred in this section over the 24th holiday was made most incredible by the fact that the day was devoted to fishing by a large part of the city's residents, particularly the younger ones who sallied forth with rod and line at the dawn, to spend the full hours of daylight on the bay and nearby streams.

Shores on the bay were lined with patient fishermen, particularly along the bay bridge road where nearly every foot of space available held one or more anglers. Even the tiniest zone entered into the spirit so emulated by their elders.

A few boats ventured on the open waters of the bay, but the result was not encouraging. Many public ideas of good fishing, except in the sheltered coves, imply the more venturesome of the sailors sailed out with their craft in the races scheduled by the local Belleville Yachting and Athletic club. Two boats only competed in the "A" class race which Duke Smith won handily over C. Hay.

Ordinary business of the city came to a standstill as the populace observed the holiday with a spirit which however appeared quieter than in years past. Many public buildings and fine residences were decorated with flags commemorating the 119th anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria, but along Front Street noticeable decorations were lacking. Only a few of the larger flags had been set out.

In spite of the passing of the overcast weather, many motorists up and about early, took advantage of the day to visit northern lakes and summer homes, while railway trains passing through the city were also observed well filled with holidayers.

Sales of firecrackers and fireworks were apparently as heavy as in years previous, but they were handled apparently with judicious care and due caution, the discharge of the limits of the city last evening being confined to dazzling display of rockets as other fireworks.

British Freighter Sunk by Bombs Near Valencia

Valencia, Spain, May 25—(CP-Havas)—The British freighter Thorpehall was hit by incendiary bombs today and sank just outside the port of El Grao, close to this city.

An officer and one member of the crew were injured, the injured men and other members of the crew were rescued before the ship sank.

Police Blotter

What nearly constitutes a record in police circles was established over the holiday when not a single complaint was laid to the police blotter. Motor car drivers were observed the holiday in a quiet way, no accidents being reported to the district by city or traffic constables.

The cool weather, however, drove the "knights of the road" from their spring quarters, thirty-odd transients applying for and receiving lodging in the police cell block over the holiday.

The light-fingered fraternity, however, were not idle. Two cars stolen from Toronto from a car parked on East Bridge Friday night, Saturday morning, a city resident told police.

Herbert Johnstone Latta, walked away from a yellow cab driver's fist and left his purse containing money, car license and driver's permit lying thereon. The purse was returned from a desk where he had addressed letters of the previous evening. A man and a girl were in the police office at the time, Johnstone told police officers, but they returned to the wicket the girl made a hurried departure from the police office are investigating the affair.

Charles Cook reports the theft of a green colored 1938 Chevrolet sedan bearing license number 56-F-1, from the city on Saturday morning. Local police have been asked co-operate in the recovery of the stolen vehicle.

ORIOLE OUTFITTED FOR TORONTO TRIP

With her full complement of crew aboard, the Canadian Interlake yacht, Oriole, is being outfitted and given the final touches this morning for the departure from the government dock for Toronto tomorrow. Officials of the club entrusted regret the departure of the fine ship which for several years past has made the Corinthian her home port. Though no statement has been made by Captain Strachen of this city, it is the general feeling that the ship may find new owners ship shortly.

FAREWELLS SAID TO REV. KOFFEND

Addresses Congregations at West Huntingdon And Stirling

Stirling, May 25 (Special)—Delivering his final messages to the congregation of the pastoral charge of Stirling and Huntingdon, Rev. J. A. Koffend addressed large audiences at all three services. Special musical numbers were offered by the choir under the guidance of Mrs. R. H. Williams who presided at the organ. The services of Miss Grace Phinan, well known local musician who assisted in duet work with the organ and piano added greatly to the services in the Stirling Church. A piano and organ recital of carefully selected numbers served as a fitting prelude to the services. In the morning service special music included an anthem by the choir and a duet by Mrs. Roy Eggleston and Mr. William Dermody. In the evening the choir offered an anthem, Mrs. Roy Eggleston and Arthur Duncan sang as a duet "I Know Whom I Have Believed" and the latter sang a solo. The services of St. Paul's United Church were withheld to enable those desirous to attend the farewell service. Rev. W. J. Scott occupied the pulpit along with the departing minister assisted in the service and also delivered a sermon of his church to Mr. Koffend and his family.

West Huntingdon.

At St. Andrew's Church, West Huntingdon, the church was well filled to hear Mr. Koffend's final message and directly after the service Mr. Howard Ashley presented Mr. and Mrs. Koffend with a lovely quilt and Mrs. Wallace read the following address:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Koffend:

We are occasionally called upon to do something which if we could but follow the dictates of our hearts we would leave undone. Today brings home to St. Andrew's very forcefully the knowledge of the last we as a Sunday school and as a church are called upon to perform.

We are sure that you both will find splendid opportunities for service in your new place of labour and we shall always be glad to hear good reports of your success and faithfulness.

"Someone has said that "the more we love the better we are, and the greater our friendships are the nearer we are to God". In the new sphere of usefulness which you are entering, we trust that the "old" friends of St. Andrew's will not be forgotten and we hope that many new friendships may be added to that we may all go into greater paths of service for Christ and His cause.

"We are both always willing to render every service in our church and we feel grateful for your merited success in your labours in this district.

"We, the members of St. Andrew's Church, feel it our duty to show some appreciation of your diligent and painstaking effort in our church work. We bring to you this token of our sincere regard that it may prove useful to you and be a visible expression of all we have left unsaid.

"Beautiful thoughts are those that bear
On the wings of love a silent prayer
Over the mountain or over the sea
That like a dove may ever abide with thee.

"Abide with thee when the shadows fall,
When the day is done and the night birds call.
When the morning comes and the shadows flee,
I know He still will abide with thee.

"Signed on behalf of the members of the congregation: Mrs. J. Wallace, Howard Ashley."

BUSINESS IS QUIET AFTER THE HOLIDAY

The even tenor of business as usual in the city's commercial life was again taken up by city offices and business houses this morning with a more than ordinary quietness it was observed. City Hall officials were more than ordinarily calm, with no accidents, or untoward incidents reported over the 24th, "it was one of the quiet holidays we have had to report," it was stated by officials of the city departments.

German Press Reports

There was an unconfirmed report in Berlin, however, that was circulated with the Ambassador before the German press attacks on British diplomatic action.

Berlin editorials indignantly held unnecessarily the representation of Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador to Berlin, remarking many of the gravity of the situation this weekend when it was feared Chancellor Hitler might order a march into Czechoslovakia.

Berlin, May 25—(CP-Havas)— Germany today lodged a strong protest to the Czechoslovakian government over alleged violation of the German frontier by Czechoslovakian military planes.

The Foreign Ministry instructed Dr. Ernst Eisenlohr, German Minister in Prague, to make the protest in the strongest possible terms.

The official news agency charged Czech planes had crossed the German frontier four times during the last 24 hours.

Evened Match

Sandy evened matter by tailing the next two with fours, the third was Rutherford's approach strong and the fourth when the Englishman found sand. However, the many-times Canadian amateur titleholder drove into a gorse patch on the seventh for a loss, and dropped the 12th-yard eighth when Rutherford lofted his tee shot a yard from the hole and collected a four.

Somerville came right back to reduce the eighth to one up with a birdie four on the 456-yard ninth.

Their cards:

Somerville out	554	435	534—38
Rutherford	445	535	425—37

Somerville came into victorious by shooting seven holes in one under fours for a three and two margin over Rutherford. The silent Canadian squared the match at the 16th when the Englishman drove into the gorse whins. Rutherford forgot back to take the 372-yard 18th with titleholder drove into a gorse patch a nine-foot putt for a birdie.

HEAVY SQUALL UPSETS LOCAL SAILING CRAFT

Perched high and dry on the gunwales of their boat the "Sonnys" after the lad forgotten to dock a particularly heavy squall, and lay on her side wallowing in the swells of the bar off Schuster's dock yesterday morning, Douglas Rowebach and Bill Calberry, were lewed to row home the worse for their experience. Lauraine and Gordon Cook.

The gale-like wind that swept the bay practically all day yesterday apparently proved too much for the "Sonnys" and her crew. Starting out shortly after ten o'clock a heavy squall struck the boat, promptly turning it over on its beam. Responsible for the starboard gunwale, the boys "without a foot wet" rode out the squall in safety, until help came from shore.

CUTTING DOWN ROAD ACCIDENTS

Enthusiastically commending the current campaign of highway safety being sponsored by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario minister of highways, the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations is this week making a cooperative contribution in furthering the move to reduce motor accidents and deaths.

According to R. B. Morley, I. A. P. A. general manager, his organization is distributing 25,000 copies of a safety booklet entitled "Many Happy Returns—And How To Enjoy Them." These pamphlets will be distributed to employers and employees of more than 5,000 industrial plants throughout Ontario.

"If you want your returns to be happy," says this booklet, "be as generous as possible to other motorists. If they annoy you, it's probably because they're tired and worried—or just possibly because you are."

Some other suggestions are:

"And please don't forget that to the crazy driver in front you may be the crazy driver behind. It isn't your fault if all other road users are completely daft, but it is your fault if you aren't prepared for them to be so.

"Be extra helpful to motorcyclists. They're mostly young, and they're much more vulnerable than you are—in fact there's nothing much between them and almost anything.

"And be as kind as possible to bicyclists. Many of them would give a lot to change seats with you, especially if you drive past them rather close and rather fast.

"Remember, too, when you dim your lights, that the cyclist you run into isn't the one you see—but the one you don't.

"Be extra considerate to pedestrians—This may include your parents, your children, the fellow who is going to save your life some day, people who have just fallen wonderfully in love with each other, and, on occasions, yourself.

"Be especially kind to old people. They don't always hear so well or see so well —which is sufficient hardship without trying to cope with traffic.

"If it should happen, the fact that you may be exonerated from blame won't make you or anyone else much happier."

ANTON LANG

Anton Lang, long known as the German type of conception of Jesus, and an outstanding player in the Passion Play as given at Obergammergau, has gone. This man was a potter by trade and came of a family who had been actors for generations in the folk drama of the life of Christ. One writer speaks of his face as the ideal face of Christ, as conceived by the great Italian masters, gentle, meek, and humble with no trace of weakness or effiminacy. Another writer spoke his impression in these words. "His features are soft and straight, his brown hair falling in silken waves across his shoulders. With the eyes of the young man he has always maintained a strange, mild, almost superhuman humility. He has gone every day to his workshop, where one may find him shaping his little pots and vases, pressing molds about his stone, ready for other hands, smile with rare cheer, but unwilling to speak much upon subjects which are outside his small village street."

He lacked the grandeur of the great actors, it is said, but in its place was a very human, very quiet tenderness, not without a sense of exaltation. Those who had seen him felt no disappointment in encountering a living representation of Jesus.

His house was the finest in the village but he received only about eight dollars a performance or a total of about $2,500 for the six months of rehearsing and playing.

His face evidently revealed the man. His own confession has a message for Christians everywhere, for he said that he felt that the role he assumed kept him on a straight road. "It is as if one had taken up a priestly existence and could not do anything unworthy. I really always am happy that I was chosen three times for the character of Christus, because it is always taken by a man selected by the committee of the villagers and the one who is known to have had a blameless life from childhood." His eldest son did not wish to play the Christus role as he feared the responsibility would disturb his soul too much. He too, felt the great responsibility but "when I played it felt as though I was lifted above the earth," said Lang.

There is a difference of view as to the exact likeness of Christ. Medieval Italy gave the general conception which prevails to this day but a more rugged conception was developed by the Dutch painters. Lang came from that part of Austria where the folk passion drama had been played for generations and the conceptions of the characters were handed down from age to age as a tradition. The influence on the lives of these people living with the hope of filling the role must have been very ennobling. The words of Anton Lang explain much of such a life influence.

JOHN WESLEY'S PRAYER ROOM

When to the haunts of industry we go,
Or at the dawn, or when the stars appear,
Echoes of toil fall fast upon the ear—
The singing shuttles passing to and fro,
Or rhythmic hammers dealing blow on blow,
Or whirl of belted wheels; and when we see
Science in charge, and clothed with energy,
The source of all this moving life we know.

So when I sought the secret of his life,
Whose brow so late in early strength abode,
Whose name is still as incense rich and rare;
And heard one of Time's warders as he showed
That trysting place; "Here, far from human strife,
He came, and oft"—I had my answer here.

FIRE WIPED OUT OLD CHICAGO AND A NEW AND GREATER CHICAGO

rose from the ashes. Great oaks from little acorns grow and great events spring from very minute causes sometimes. Widow O'Leary was so ambitious that she rose before dawn to milk her cow, and perforce to get a kerosene oil lamp to see by. Widow O'Leary's cow kicked over the lamp and started a small fire which grew and grew and spread and spread until all of the great city of Chicago was in flames and the citizens were fleeing with what scanty goods they could salvage and carry to the lake shore for safety. Some wiseacres doubt the authenticity of the Widow O'Leary legend, and would fain supplant it with some romantic incident—but why? It's a good story so let's stick to it and it is probably as true as some of the other alleged origins. And now Hollywood has adopted the Widow O'Leary and her historic cow and coal-oil lamp and retells the tragic story of the great fire in Old Chicago's real film thriller. Old timers will recall E. P. Roe's great story of the Chicago fire in "Barriers Burned Away."

NO ONE EVER WON AN ARGUMENT,

says Dale Carnegie, the chap who has won fame and fortune reminding folks of the things they knew all the time but forgot to put into practise. Dale tells of travelling salesmen who were proud of their knowledge and argumentative ability. They won many arguments with customers but lost the customers. Dale teaches that the smile is the greatest new to offer yet he can fill the largest auditoriums in New York City telling folks just what is the matter with their technique in their daily walk and conversation and reminding them of homely truths which have been so soon neglected or forgotten in the everyday business and social contacts. WHO WAS CHRISTOPHER (KIT) MARLOWE? QUERY FROM A MEMBER OF THE SIDELIGHT FAMILY.

The following encyclopedia reference should answer the question:

Christopher Marlowe, (1564-93) a dramatist and poet, was the son of a shoemaker, was educated at King's School, Canterbury, and Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. Presently he joined the Earl of Nottingham's theatrical company by which most of his plays were produced. He wrote about 1587 the great blank verse tragedy, "Tamburlaine" and followed this with "Dr. Faustus," "The Jew of Malta" and "Edward II." It has been asserted by competent critics that he was part author of Shakespeare's "Titus Andronicus" of the second and third parts of "Henry VI" and of "Edward III." As a poet he is best known as the author of "Come Live With Me and Be My Love" published in "The Passionate Pilgrim" (1559). It was declared that Marlowe was an atheist, and in 1593 Privy Council issued a warrant for him to be brought before them. Before it was served Marlowe was killed in a drunken brawl at Deptford, in which it was alleged he was stabbed in the eye by a woman.

F. band and the Rathbun Band, Deseronto, furnished the music during the day and early evening.

ON RETIRING

If a man enjoys his work, and he is physically and mentally equal to doing it well, there are very good reasons why he should go on working. And these reasons are reinforced in the case of men who have so simplified that their work is also their hobby. But for the most part, and particularly today when the incidence of recreation and amusement are so readily available in so many different forms, the average man, one imagines, will be happy to retire at 60 if he were able to continue living in modest comfort. The old conception of the dignity of labour has been weakened by the introduction into offices and factories of machines that can do as much work in a day as a man can do in three. Work has become for many less satisfying to the individual than it used to be. Craftsmanship has decayed, and one cannot expect a workman to take the same pride and pleasure in operating a machine that manufactures a single unit as his grandfather did in making the whole job himself by hand. —Glasgow Herald.

OLD-FASHIONED HOE - DOWN

Only rarely does one now hear of an old-fashioned barn dance. One recently took place, however, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Warwick near Blenheim, in a vast building which replaced one which had been burned.

Though the fiddlers were there with their violins and square dances were the order of the day, some old timers missed certain features which accompanied barn dances of earlier days. A reporter on the part of one was that there was no barrel of whisky in the corner to add zest to the "hoe-down."

In pioneer times, when barn raisings were frequent, barn dances were commonly attended by a poor barn indeed that was not supplied with a jolly "house-warming." In those days, there was usually the new-laughed-at word "fiddle." Charleston or the even more modern Lindy Hop and Big Apple. There was the occasional dignified waltz, but generally speaking it was "up and down the middle and grand chain," with the booming of the caller's bass voice keeping time to the music as he sang out "And now you swing your pass her by, and kiss the next one as she goes by."

It is easy for the older folks to look back with pride today about keeping late hours. It would not be so easy for them to explain, however, what kept them stepping it off until daybreak at a rural barn dance! And the curious fact of it was that in those days it was not considered that dancing was for people who insisted on the fiddlers keeping at it until the music until it was time to go home and feed the cows.—Windsor Star.

FACING RUIN

Japan is a poor country by comparison with her European rivals. Already she is faced with the gigantic task of consolidating her occupied territory of China, territory considerably larger than the whole of Japan. This process required rehabilitation of the country, repair of devastated areas, the setting up of strong, authoritative government. That is where Japan will be up against it when peace comes and that is why a quick victory is essential for her. She may finance the war, but can she finance the peace? All of Japan's most eminent financiers and economists are agreed with their foreign colleagues that Japan's task in China is impossible without foreign assistance, and that realization, and that alone, is responsible for the change of tactics regarding foreigners in China. All talk of the "honor of the Japanese Army" is mere eyewash.—Hong Kong Press.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barker, M.D.

The Sun is a Great Healer and Must Be Avoided in Active Tuberculosis of the Lungs

It must come as a shock to many to be told that the rays of the sun may not only not be of help to everybody but can be actually harm ful to some individuals. And yet there is one disease where we have thought the rays of the sun were helpful, it is in tuberculosis.

Dr. R. Hudson, London, in Tubercle states that the sun is a powerful means of treating certain diseases, particularly those in case of surgical tuberculosis and certain other chronic surgical conditions, but that in the tuberculous, but "patients with tuberculosis of the lungs should never be allowed to take sun baths, as they are definitely dangerous."

Sun bathing however may be used when of the surgical type—the kind, for example, of bone disease and just in the one place; it is also useful in some conditions when the process is quite slow. Unsupervised sun bathing can certainly limit or make it impossible to get the expected tuberculous spot on the lung.

Sun treatment consists in the gradual exposure of the body to the light, before the public or in private, and patients who are taking sun baths should be surrounded by a circulation of free air. This is why sun bathing on the beach is so helpful to those who are free from tuberculosis. Sun treatment should however be supervised and controlled by a medical practitioner. The sun is an agent that is also burning but tanning. Gradual tanning, not burning, is thus the keynote of the treatment as sun burning rapidly poisons the system.

Remember that health is of the sanitered type—different spots in the lung, and especially if the patient is a child, before the particular ray of the sun should be strictly avoided, as it is likely to spread the condition.

However, even in tuberculosis of the lungs, when a patient whose progress is slow in becoming cured, the judicious use of the sun's rays give a little stimulus or increased action which, by stirring up the body forces, sometimes bring about an earlier cure.

Now this above information does not mean that the sun is not helpful to those who are well, for it does do not get enough of it. The sun builds up the blood by increasing the number of red cells in it, stirs and removed congestion everywhere in the body, increases appetite in children, and raises the morale and well being of all of us. But, when active lung tuberculosis is present, or any condition causing a rise or temperature, the patient should not be exposed to the direct rays of the sun.

TALKATIVE CANADIANS

If there is one thing a Britisher is traditionally noted for, other than his fondness for overdone roast beef and his hatred for ice water, it is for his diffidence and reticence in speech, his reluctance to loosen a stiff upper lip. That, as we say, is traditionally speaking.

We thought we saw the first sign of collapse in a recent cable, when an international telephone station was released from censorship. What the statistics showed was that Canada, a bulwark of the British Empire, leads the world in telephone conversations per capita and in the entire country in the world. The Canadian Press, national wire news service, reports proudly. Canada is reported to be the most talkative people in the world and they are getting even more so."

The figures were these: Canada, 2108 telephone conversations per capita in one year; the United States, 1972; Denmark, 1,000; Sweden, 1532."

So much for the facts of the case. So much for tradition. But the facts do not explain why Canadians disregarding his British heritage, should be so communicative. What have Canadians to talk about? They haven't the depression the United States; they haven't the wars or war threats of Asiatic and European nations; they haven't the civil strife of Mexico. None of these or similar things is a fertile topic of the telephone conversations in a year of every man, woman and child.

True, Canada has the Dionne quintuplets, but it is hardly likely that they are just so much about them and you get tired of talking about them. Maybe that is so or had, the social credit plan as propounded by Major Douglas Canadians who understood that sufficiently to carry on a telephone conversation about it were very few. What, then, do Canadians talk about?

We can't answer the question; we don't know if Canadians do talk but we would like enlightenment from our friends across the border. What makes you so talkative, Canadians? Hello, Canada—are you there?—The Pathfinder.

Good Weather for Whiskers

One night have launched a boat on the billows of whiskers (note to printer: don't make it whiskey) and have sailed from the platform right through to the back door.

Those were whiskers that were whiskers. Many a weak chin hid behind a mass of foliage that was camouflage even before the boys friends as a couple of bare-faced rascals. This beard-growing business, which, no doubt, will include the moustache, the mutton chop, the Van Dyke, the long straight Ontario drop, the chin whisker, and the Bavarian roll, has been under way for something more than a week and early reports are regarded as satisfactory by the committee in charge. Moisture conditions have been good, the seed-bed has been well worked, and rough cultivation around the home pools and the worst weeds in said to have produced a well-rounded effect that our French friends call by the name of the tool ensemble.

The Leader-Post extends best wishes to Swift Current hay and alfalfa producers. We suggest that prizes be awarded for length, texture, percentage of clover, freedom from weed seeds and tobacco, and yield per acre, and Hon. Mr. Gardiner of Agriculture could be appealed to set up a marketing board to ensure stabilization of the crop.

As a sideline, we have always been an active interest in whiskers. In Ontario in our youth we were soon audience at the Farmers' Institute meetings where the whiskers rose and sank and tossed like the waves on the sea;

MINE HOST BRADDOCK

James J. Braddock, former heavyweight boxing champion of the United States, is buying a restaurant business in New York. It is reported that the receipts for the first week were $12,000, while $2,000 would take care of the overhead. If Mr. Braddock's accounting system is dependable, Jimmy netted a profit of $9,000 in the opening week. He must have a marvelous business of these fortuitous events, that he was a lucky man to be knocked out the fight business.

There are a number of reasons why those who know anything of Braddock's record will be pleased that he is getting along so well in business, but the most appealing is that he showed a commendable streak of honesty and gratitude when, after winning the world's heavyweight championship he paid back to the government of the United States a considerable sum of money that had been given him while he was unable to find employment. The circumstances suggest that Mr. Braddock possessed admirable traits of character and most people are pleased when such an individual succeeds in life.

AFTER WAR, WHAT?

Said Premier Daladier of France to the French people in a radio broadcast:

"Our economic position is bad. Work is not getting its legitimate profit. Our economic equipment is worn. The statistics of production are a disgrace to our country. The budget is again in deficit. The country is in a position which the present government cannot tolerate."

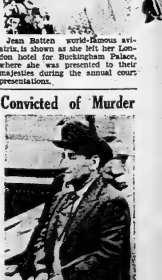
Yet France, the while devaluing the franc, felt called upon to increase by three more millions for armaments, more men for its army and navy.

People ask: What will happen if war comes? A equally distressing question is what will happen if war doesn't come. All Europe (and much of the rest of the world) is arming at a rate never known before. Even if war does not break out part of the total of the European and American wealth will be diverted to military preparations, but that it is very large no one doubts. It is a condition that must end one way or another, within the next few years. Either there will be war or the world will have to start decondilizing a war industry. That much is certain. But after that, what?—Ottawa Journey.

TOO MUCH RADIO

A survey of a thousand high school children finds them spending more than two hours a day listening to the radio, which is almost twice the time they devote to reading. This is sad enough in itself without injecting the problem of the movies, which, of course, they would probably show an average of two trips a week to the picture theatre, for a total of possibly five or six hours.

Radio and movie preoccupation for the schoolboy involves something more than time ill spent. It involves also counts. Two hours of radio and four days means that amount of time indoors. An hour a day at least the movies is that much time away from the fresh air and sunlight. Thus mind and body both suffer from the two entertainment requirements. Reading can be done out of doors. In fact, the recreation age most of the forbidden reading in the form of dime novels can also be done out of doors to escape detection and confiscation. Nick Carter and Old Cap Collier kept one out in the open air at least.



Today school lessons are neglected in order that youth may hang over the radio listening to the Swing King.—New York Times.

MADOC FAIR BD. HONOR S. ROLLINS

Presentation Made by Members to Treasurer of Society

Madoc—On Thursday evening a special meeting of the Board of Directors of Madoc Agricultural Society was held in the Community Hall for the purpose of appointing a treasurer to succeed Samuel Rollins, who has been given a leave of absence for one year owing to ill health. Mr. Robert Woods was appointed to fill his position. Mr. Fair of Stirling, government Agricultural Representative of this district, addressed the meeting. After the meeting the president, John McCaffrey, Secretary W. J. Hill and Treasurer Robert Woods called at Mr. Rollins' home and presented him with a gold headed cane and the following address as a token of appreciation; they also presented Mrs. Rollins with a fountain pen and pencil.

The address:

Dear Friends.—

We, the members of Madoc District Agricultural Society meeting tonight in the interests of the Fair, feel that this is a fitting time to express ourselves as we would have liked to do many times in the past regarding the eminent success of this institution and the man who, we might say, is also responsible for its progress up to the present.

Mr. Rollins moved to town at a time when it was almost undecided whether to continue as an organization and due to his efforts as an organizer and to the energy with which he went to work the present Fair Association was organized. Each year has been a year of success and from a meek beginning with heavy obligations the association has progressed until at present the grounds are paid for, extensive buildings have been completed and there are sufficient funds on hand to meet any requirements. This all stands out as a monument to the efforts of Samuel Rollins, the man who had a vision into the future and due to whose untiring efforts and aid without reward or recompense of any nature, the Madoc Fair has risen until it is second to none among the Agricultural Association of the Province.

With a great personality and a thorough personal contact and friendship Mr. Rollins has attained this goal which none other could have done. The Fair Grounds will be a reminder all of his untiring industry, working without pay with the workmen, and his unswerving loyalty to an ideal which he had conceived. Toiling with his intellect, toiling with his hands, doing a work that others would long ago have tired of or not done at all he labored to make a perfect fair grounds.

We cannot let this opportunity pass without mentioning and thanking you most cordially for the generous gift of the ticket office and Junior Building which you and Mrs. Rollins so kindly donated to the Fair. Words cannot express our appreciation for all that you have given and done for us.

As a token of the esteem in which you are both held we trust that you will at this time accept these gifts not for their value but as an evidence of the good will in which you are held.

We wish you both good health and happiness and trust that you may long be spared to "see even greater Fair Grounds than the present."

Signed on behalf of the Madoc District Agricultural Society,

John McCaffrey, Pres.
Will J. Hill, Sec'y.
Robt. A. Woods, Treas.

Mr. Rollins on behalf of himself and wife thanked the Board of Directors for the gifts.

MADOC COMMUNITY CLUB

The May meeting of the Madoc Community Club was of an exceptional nature. In the first place it was Ladies' Night, and the program was full of unusual merit, being provided by Sergeant Major Wilberry and Sergeant Major Alldridge. Following an excellent dinner, President Bob Bristol called Sergt.Major Wilberry to lead the Community Singing.

Two songs were given by the Sergeant-Major, "The Village Pump" and "Oh, My, What Have We Let Slip."

Two excellent violin solos were given by Charles Leonard, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Danny Boy."

During the business session the feasibility of a "Sports Day" was discussed and the matter left to the executive.

S. M. Wilberry gave two more solos, "The Egg" and "Little Old Granny Mine."

Charles Leonard featured with the old favorite, "My Wild Irish Rose" on the violin.

The program was closed with a community song and the National Anthem.

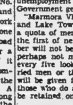
Marmora-Harold Highway Work

According to the Marmora Herald: "The Routley Construction Company have started work on No. 14 Highway between Marmora and Harold. A few men are at work covering the first cost of stone with fine crushed stone and a road roller is levelling it out. Over a mile has been improved and it makes a wonderful difference compared with the condition of the road a couple of weeks ago. A large gang is making a fill along the Chisholm farm just south of the village. The level of the road is being raised about four feet in some places. A steam shovel is at work on E. K. Neal's farm and about half a dozen trucks are hauling the earth to the place where it is dumped. A team and grader and a steam roller are levelling the earth and packing it down.



"A few other men are drilling the rock in the hill directly west of the railway tracks. The hill is to be cut down considerably. Work has not been started at the rock quarry.

"The Department of Highways has not yet issued complete instructions as to the work which is to be done or when it is to be completed if it is not known how many men will be employed for the next few weeks.

"It appears quite certain that not nearly as many men will be employed as last year. The completion of the road is not primarily to provide employment, but rather for the convenience of the travelling public and to put it in good condition at a reasonable cost. It has been found that road construction is an expensive way of providing unemployment relief and that the Government gets very little thanks.

"Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Township will each have a quota of men; probably starting the first of next week. The number will not be large, unfortunately, perhaps not more than one for every five looking for work. Married men or those with dependents will be given first chance, but only those who do satisfactory work will be retained on the job."

Adult Behavior May Puzzle Him Unless Motive is Explained

(By LIDA GRENELLE)

When he was alone with Joey, or when just members of the family were present, Mr. Frankford was a regular fellow", not too grown-up. He usually showed an interest in Joey's collections or hobbies and expened to be Joey's chief interest at the moment.

But when company came, Father was no longer Father to Joey, but someone very different. Mother, this stranger wore Father's face, although with a different expression. But he had not Father's friendly spirit, definitely not. Father in the presence of company was a very grown-up and indifferent stranger, whom Joey would unaware of Joey's existence.

Puzzled Joey

It puzzled Joey, bothered him, irritated him, finally frightened him. Maybe Father would stay that way some day he reasoned. Maybe "company manners" would change for good, so that he wouldn't ever see Father any more. Maybe Father stopped liking to be just a fun-up stranger, who didn't like little boys, but loved his own little boy.

Worry about losing Father nearly drove Joey frantic. At a party one day he flew into a rage and tried to bite and shove away guests gathered around Father.

The punishment meted out to Joey, though appropriately severe for such inexcusable behavior, seemed really almost painless compared to the nightmare the child had already endured, and it was no serious matter. Joey could not again humiliate his parents in the manner. For what punishment was there that Joey feared at much as losing Father—having Father ignore him, seem without interest or liking for Joey any more?

He Deserves Day Off

Still, no father can be a father all the time. Like Mother and other grown-ups, Father has a right to enjoy life. He deserves pleasure without interference. And is there anything more unthinkable than those households in which no adult can say a word without being interrupted by the children's questioning?

Children, being human, will take the advantage, too, and claim all the attention, if they can get it. However there is a way of assuring children without spoiling them. No child should be allowed to interrupt grown-up conversation, but that does not mean that his father or mother need "cut him dead" just because of "company" being present. Smiles are cheap, and most reassuring. Then, too, a little explaining beforehand is helpful, and a wise insurance against all such contingencies.

GOOD MANNERS

Use of Calling Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Some writers on etiquette say that it is not correct to leave joint cards when paying a call unless there are two. Is it correct. What is your opinion?

2—When paying a formal call and I leave a joint card, isn't it optional whether I leave my husband's personal card?

3—If my husband and I receive an invitation to a formal tea or meet Mrs. Blank, and we are unable to attend, should I send one or three of my joint cards, or is it optional?

4—When travelling to Europe or going on a cruise, should I wear my hat to dinner the first night, if I wear an afternoon dress, street length?

5—When one is invited to a tea and the maid answers the door, should one enter without saying anything, or should she say something to the effect that Mrs. Jones is expecting me?

6—When saying goodbye to the guest of honor, should I say that I am very glad to have met him, or is this necessary as he is an elderly gentleman?

C.

1—It is correct to use the joint card . . . Mr. and Mrs. Brown . . . for formal calling.

2—When you are paying a formal call, and you leave a Mr. and Mrs. card, it is necessary for you to leave your husband's individual cards also.

3—Sending one of your joint cards is enough.

4—On the "first evening out" on shipboard women usually wear afternoon dresses, but no hats.

5—The maid who opens the door usually has hours given on the invitation to tea will take for granted that Mrs. Jones is expected at a receiving guest, and therefore it is not necessary for a guest to say anything to the maid.

6—When saying good-bye to the guest of honor, a gracious to add to your good-by the pleasant comment that you have "very much have met" the guest, or that "it has been a great pleasure to have met" him, or that you are especially delighted to have had an opportunity of talking with him. . . .

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Having Brothers Helps Girls in Love Affairs

Have you any brothers? If so, rejoice. For when a girl is familiar with brothers, knows sometimes they appear to be not an unmixed blessing, she understands boys no better than girls who haven't any.

Hearing the jangle of the telephone bell—some girl inviting brother to call, dine, join a movie party; go hiking or any one of a dozen other bids— and hearing brother turn them out of these invitations will warn sister that "chasing a boy" is poor policy.

Again, if there are boys around the house, that means know how human boys are. These untidy creatures, who leave their belongings all over the place for mothers and sisters to put away, are also goodlies being seen from afar by the brotherless girl.

But the most valuable lesson acquired by the girl with brothers is that men like to do their own courting. She learns from them to think they're doing their own courting. And no man who is pursued with invitations, showered with attentions and harassed with jealous demands, can ever be under the illusion that he is doing the courting.

Escape is the instinctive impulse of every creature in danger. Psychologists inform us that we do not run from danger like rabbits, but we're frightened because we run. And it's mighty poor policy to increase the danger of any startling powers in direct ratio to your pursuit.

As the same psychologists, pundits, experts and whatnots tell us, women really do the bulk of the courting, but so wisely and subtly does the clever girl spread her silken coil, that all the while the wuzzy victim is sure he's doing the roping himself.

To illustrate the adage that all is fair in love and war, I offer the following letter, not as a recipe for bringing the young man to the point of proposing, but to illustrate the dangers of direct pursuit.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

They always used to be a brainsmaid, when, if I hadn't been so hopelessly stupid, I might have been the bride. A certain Prince Charming was very attentive to me for nearly a year. We were not engaged, but everyone expected we would be.

"My best girl friend (though she has behaved more like an enemy) got Prince Charming right under my nose by the following underhand methods. She almost lived at our house and made herself highly agreeable to P.C. Evenings when he didn't call she'd say to me: 'Let's ask him to come over.' She'd get up all sorts of party arrangements and have me invite him. In short, I did all the chasing, and she did all the wishing.

"Well, it was a short and decisive courtship on her part, and now they've asked me to be a bridesmaid! Mother said to me: 'Have nothing to do with her, my dear. If you'd ever had any brothers, you never would have behaved so foolishly.'

"Wiser But Not Much Older".

Dear Wiser:

Your mother's advice is sound.

CARMEL Y. P. U.

The regular meeting of the Carmel Y. P. U. was held on Wednesday, May 18th. . Miss Olive Howes was in charge of the Worship-Service. Hymn 30 was sung. Miss Monna Wright read the Scripture, followed by prayer led by Miss Edna Lapp.

Mr. Harold Brintnell, Christian Citizenship convener, then took charge of the meeting. He gave a talk on the topic, "The Maritime Provinces." Miss Mildred Jones gave "The Life of L. M. Montgomery."

The meeting closed with the singing of "O Canada", followed by the Mizpah Benediction.

Miss Perne Patterson conducted the recreation period.

CARMEL W. M. S.

The May meeting of Carmel W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Hicks with a good attendance and was opened with the Call to Worship by Mrs. Simmons and Hymn 28. Mrs. Moorman conducted the Worship Service. The business of the meeting was discussed. Mrs. Hicks took charge of the program. Hymn 30 was sung. Readings were given by Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Percy Reynolds and the Study Book was taken by Sisters Holman. A Bible contest put on by Miss Margaret Reynolds closed the program. Mrs. Hicks served a delicious lunch.

Chronic Fatigue
Tells of exhausted Nerves

In health, rest soon overcomes fatigue. When a chronic condition gradually tired there is an underlying cause.

Perhaps you cannot rest or sleep because of the irritability of the nerves. Memory and power of attention soon weaken when the nervous system is exhausted. It is difficult to concentrate the mind and the daily task becomes a worry and a burden. Indigestion and sleeplessness ruin your temper, and you become depressed and discouraged.

Whatever may have been the cause, there is a way in which to regain health and that is by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Nerve Force is created to restore the functions to the bodily machinery and ensure the healthful working of the mental and physical organs.

Council Will Discuss By-Law To Pay Commissioners; Zebedee's Tender Accepted

Recommendation Respecting Remuneration Well Discussed

SHORT SESSION

Council Turns Down Request of Relief Recipients For Open Voucher

Awarding the garbage collection contract to Bert Zebedee for a price of $4,100, passing a recommendation that a by-law be prepared to pay the Chairman of the Public Utilities $400 and each of the Commissioners $300 and allowing the Welfare Department to fix the maximum price to be paid for commodities for relief recipients as they see fit instead of the open voucher were the principal items disposed of at the regular meeting of the City Council held on Monday evening. The session was a short one with Mayor Bone, Aldermen Wills, Thompson, Logan, Kennedy, Barlow, Rollins, Cushing, Jennings, Lewis and Marshall in their places and Alderman Barlow being in the chair for the committee of the whole. Three by-laws, two for conveyance of property and one for an agreement between William Reynolds and the City respecting a sewer were passed through the various stages and finally numbered.

Discuss Garbage Contract

Alderman Lewis opened the discussion on the tender for garbage collection when the matter was before the committee. The council at their committee meeting had already passed the recommendation but Alderman Lewis wished to refer it back for further consideration but in the final vote he was among those voting for a standing by the vote taken at the committee meeting. In speaking to the motion Alderman Lewis stated, "I believe Zebedee failed in his last contract with the city and that it cost us more money. I have also been informed that the equipment he plans to use is not as large as some of the other equipment, and I am also informed that some have cast aspersions on the man's character. His was the second lowest tender. I find these expenses to be untrue. I also find that the man who had the highest tender is still using to tender lower and to use the new equipment that the council is requiring."

Satisfactory is Claim

Alderman Thompson: "Some of the statements made by Alderman Lewis are quite untrue. Zebedee proved to be satisfactory and he fulfilled his contract according to specifications. I am in favor of the tenders again I am strictly against this proceeding."

Alderman Lewis: "I did not say that Zebedee was not satisfactory. I see no reason why we should not accept the lowest tender, when the Mayor and Mr. Dan Golan have necessary equipment."

Mayor Bone: "I think we have as good and conscientious councillors as any city in Ontario but are we going to change our tenders every wind that blows. This matter was decided on Monday night after a full discussion and I think we should go on with our contract."

Ald. Jennings: "I wish to state I am in favor of Alderman Lewis in this matter. Zebedee has not done work done by Zebedee. I have been reliably informed that Zebedee was paid for two weeks."

Ald. Barager: "The last time that Zebedee had the contract and that year there have been numerous complaints about the collection of garbage and I have always felt at this point that the council as they now could not satisfactorily do the work and I am at the same opinion. I approved the tender for the money with better equipment because we are only getting service in part in the present system."

Stick by Vote

Ald. Rollins: "I am inclined to back up the Mayor. I think we should stick by the vote made on Thursday night. I am in favor of better equipment and I will vote on a tender that calls for less than $5.00."

Alderman Lewis: "I understand the man, who has been given the contract will have to place a man in his wagon to shovel back the garbage and I don't think the Medical Officer will stand for that."

Ald. Kennedy: "We have been bickering with this question for a month and I have not changed my mind in the least and let us have the vote and get it over with."

Ald. Cushing: "If Alderman Lewis would look at the plans in the Engineer's office of the equipment to be used by Zebedee, he would not make the statement that he did a short time ago."

Ald. Logan: "These Thursday night meetings might as well be done away with if the Council is going to come out on the floor and fight the question all over again. I think some consideration should be given to the second man but the council accepted the tender of Zebedee by vote and let's carry out our part of the agreement."

Explains Position

When the recommendation came before the committee of the whole, Alderman Wills explained his position in presenting the motion. "I put this recommendation before the council at the request of the Public Utilities but I wish to state quite clearly, that I am not in favor of this move for this year" said Ald. Wills. "I simply wished to get the question before the public so it can be discussed. If the change is made it will change the entire policy of the City, which has been in force for many years."

Ald Rollins "I am strictly opposed to this move at the present time if it takes any money away from the ratepayer.

Ald. Marshall "I might say that I am opposed to this move. The commissioners, accepted this job gratis and they should not be paid any salary this year and if they are to receive money for their services then let the voters decide the question."

Ald. Baragar "How often do the commissioners meet?"

Mayor Bone "On the first and third Tuesday of each month."

Ald. Lewis "Does anyone know how much has been taken from the Utilities by the government?"

Ald. Wills "Approximately $18,000 last year.

Ald. Lewis "Wouldn't it be just as well to take the money as the government?"

Keep Down Expenses

Ald. Baragar "I think the city would be further ahead if they were paid and I won't hesitate to say that the Aldermen should be paid but not this year by any means. The Commissioners and Aldermen have to devote considerable of their time serving on committees, being called from their business to do city work, attend meetings and if anybody deserves more, some recompense but if they are to be elected by the voters should be the deciding factor not this council, that was elected to keep down expenses and decrease the tax rate."

Ald. Thompson "I don't think this move should be made this year. I have heard some Commissioners for office from a public platform say they would be willing to serve as long as the Aldermen were in debt yet they come right back and ask for a stipend.

Ald. Wills "The proper place for the question to be settled is at the polls and I would be agreeable to a question to be put but I am not in favor of passing a by-law to that effect this year."

Ald. Lewis "I agree with that proposal."

Mayor Bone "I don't want pay, am not looking for pay and don't need the pay, but when you say that Aldermen have not been paid, I have been paid every year although the Utilities have been paid for the last some years. The grant asked for is only $1,000 while the government is taking considerably more. The action of the government in taking our surplus to build up a fund in Toronto is nothing more than "a steal."

No Open Voucher

After a letter from the unemployed and relief recipients had been read by Alderman Barlow requesting that an open voucher system be given to the Welfare Department was in the matter and Ald. Barager stated the inspector was in favor of the open voucher but that the city should be divided in four zones and that was not favorable to that plan. Ald. Lewis stated he was opposed to the open voucher and Ald. Thompson agreed. The members were of the opinion that the larger stores would pay all the business and the corner grocers get only a small amount of the system. Mayor Bone stated he was alarmed at the relief payments and that the municipalities could not stand it much longer, "it is gradually growing worse" said the Mayor. Ald. Marshall thought it would be a hardship for the Welfare Department to set the prices they would pay and that the store keepers would accept the rate as they would know they were going to get paid. The motion above mentioned was then carried.

The council authorized the purchase of 100 feet of rubber sewer hose and referred the request of the Fair Board for a grant back to the Estimate Committee. The fire chief will attend the convention of Fire Chiefs at Sault Ste. Marie.

BRITISH LAW GAVE WORLD FINE EXAMPLE

Rotarians Hear Vivid Description of English Law Court in Operation

Before Belleville Rotarians Monday at the Hotel Quinte an interesting description of a session of the English Law Courts was given by Alan Brown Sprague, who recently attended with the law firm of Cameron and Cameron, from impressions received during his stay in England after graduating from Dalhousie University, and being called to the bar. Mr. Sprague is the newest addition to the local bar and recalled that just eleven years to the day he had been privileged to appear before Belleville Rotary Club on the occasion of having won a public speaking contest repeating the winning address for the Rotarians. He appreciated the honour then and doubly appreciated the gesture of the spirit of Rotary goodwill which prompted the present invitation. He was introduced by Rotarian Archie Cameron, and Rotary appreciation was voiced by President-Elect Mack Haig and President Fred Douglas.

English law courts with their solemn and impressive surroundings, ceremonial robes, and all the trappings and dignity of British jurisprudence handed down and perpetuated for the past thousand years is a large and awesome subject which could only be sketched briefly in the short time allotted the speaker, but glimpses were given of the law reforms which swept away the delays which Charles Dickens pictured so stark and terrible for all the world to see in "Little Dorrit," "Pickwick Papers" and other novels of the day which started needed national reforms. Law court reform in England included the elimination of the death penalty for theft especially sheep stealing which the wealthy landlords through their legislative influence had placed on the statute books. It also was made an axiom of British justice that a man was to be held innocent until proven guilty.

The ceremonious opening of Michaelmas term of an English high court of justice was described by the speaker with the lords of the land attending service in Westminster Abbey, then solemnly marching to the huge hall where court was held the dignitaries all in order of precedence and wearing wig and gown as befitted their station—the opening of the court with solemn and dignified ceremony—thus ending the first day, the actual work of the court not beginning until the second day. British Law set a splendid example to the world in that it always upheld its position as above and independent of all the legislative branches of government and on occasion even during to defy a king and send him to the block.

Pioneers from the Old Land who crossed the ocean and built up a free and enlightened nation out of the wilderness that was Canada brought from England that deep respect for English law and justice that was one of the best bulwarks this young nation could have had in the formative years and has been privileged to appear before Belleville Rotary Club on the occasion of having won a public speaking contest repeating the winning address for the Rotarians. He appreciated the honour then and doubly appreciated the gesture of the spirit of Rotary goodwill which prompted the present invitation. Madoc

Madoc—On Monday evening a very pleasant event took place at the home of Mrs. Alex Robertson, where about forty friends of Miss Eleanor Cochran (bride-to-be) met to honour the guest of the evening. During the evening Miss Marian Robertson presented Miss Cochran with a pretty decorated basket of gifts of linen from her friends. The evening was spent in cards after which the girl friends of Miss Cochran served lunch.

On Wednesday afternoon the Young People's Society of Trinity church met at the home of Mrs. Cecil Patterson and Mrs. Thelma Foster and Mary Bronson served.

Mrs. Dan Golan is spending a few days in Toronto and is attending the graduation exercises of St. Michaels Hospital, her niece and daughter, Carmel Golan graduates.

UNIFICATION

Plan For All Time

Sir Edward's plan was evolved for keeps, he said. Once the concern was scrambled it was not intended it should be unscrambled. A board of fifteen directors would form a new company which would operate the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. as one going concern. Five directors would be appointed by the C.P.R., five by the C.N.R. and the other five by the ten directors already named. All services with the exception of the ocean-going steamships, the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corporation and the C.P.R. lands projects, would be thrown into the amalgamation. Sir Edward did not say the steamships would not form part; he declared their inclusion "had not been considered."

Rates Not Increased

Under unification the roads would also go into the motortruck and bus business. They would not increase rates, Sir Edward believing the railways would lose more than they gained.

A great deal of work would still have to be done on the railways under the plan for railway construction never ceased. The new company would need a working capital of $200,000,000.

The labor situation would not be difficult. Turnover of employees was about five per cent a year. The process of "attrition" reflected on the retirement of aged workers, low extension of the formative period of the unification plan from five to seven years, and limitation in taking on new employees would solve the labor situation without any ill effects.

Basis Not Disclosed

Sir Edward did not disclose the basis on which net earnings might be split between the unified companies, beyond saying that up to a certain point there would be a decision in conformity with the value ascertained by each. After that the division would be 50-50.

He did not ask any guarantee to the C.P.R. shareholders or shareholders believing so firmly in the successful share of unification that demand for such guarantee was unnecessary.

The directorate, he believed, would entirely remove the railways from political influence. He could not see any danger of their wielding political authority by reason of their controlling the livelihood of nearly 200,000 employees.

He himself had never known how C.P.R. workmen voted; and he was not interested. They were at liberty to exercise their franchise as they pleased.

Closely Interrogated

Sir Edward was closely interrogated by the members of the Special Committee throughout the day. Toward the close of his hours before the committee government leader Dandurand asked the railway knight what the two railway systems would do "if faced with the fact the country will not accept unification."

The Senator asked would it not be the duty of Parliament then to see that the Railways, through co-operation, brought about the economies Sir Edward saw through unification.

The railway president replied that if unification is definitely out of the question the railways should co-operate as far as possible through the 1933 enabling statute. If traffic continued depressed drastic individual economies would be necessary for both railways.

He did not believe in compulsion. "I don't think the intervention of the railway board with a compulsory coercive way would be effective," he said. It would have responsibility for management without responsibility for results.

While the C.P.R. was competing with the C.N.R. he thought it unwise and, perhaps, unfair, that it should be subjected to the orders of an independent board on matters of administration.

Idea Excellent One

The idea of cooperation was an excellent one. But Sir Edward was not surprised that under the "Ryrie System" adopted in 1933 more progress had not been made. However, he did not think progress was at an end. Economies could be effected by voluntary cooperation and he doubted if any were possible under compulsion.

In submitting his plan Sir Edward set forth five points he considered as vital to unification. They were:

1. The railways should continue to own their present properties, the securities remaining in their present ownership.

2. The Canadian Pacific should be given no guarantee of a return on its stock or other capital issues.

3. Each railway should continue to receive under unification the net earnings past experience showed they would have as the dependent institutions, the remainder to be split evenly.

4. Provisions should be made to prevent the unified company from neglecting its duty as a public utility and depriving any community of necessary railway facilities.

5. Provisions should be made to protect the rights of railway workers.

Five Advantages Listed

Sir Edward also listed five advantages of unification. They were:

1. Considerable relief to the treasury of Canada.

2. The Canadian Pacific would be permitted to earn a fair return on prudently invested capital.

3. The saving under unification would permit the railways to carry on inevitable remodelling, modernizing and improvements.

4. Railway labor by industry unification would aid in freeing the railways of the imminent danger of forced operation of light traffic, lines to an increasing extent.

5. It would permit the stabilization of the employment of railway workers.

TWELVE PERSONS

Three men and a boy were drowned in Lake Utopia, near St. George, N.B., in the day's most tragic accident to date. Sidney B. Mills, 40; his son, John, eight; Colin F. Hayward and Clarence Collins, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Hayward and Mrs. Collins swam to safety when the boat in which the party was cruising on the lake overturned.

Gathering Back Wreckage

Charles Mitrick, 45, and 36-year-old John Rukiu, set out in rowboats to cross the Restigouche River, Newcastle Creek near Minto, N.B., to collect bark wrenched from Dougall's mine yesterday. Both were drowned when the boat they occupied. A companion, Joseph Durzilek, escaped.

Three persons were drowned in Ontario's holiday mishaps. Charles Critchlow, 14, fell through the ice in Libbys Lake, near Brantford, Ont., and his uncle, Ernest Maddison, 31, jumped into the water in an attempted rescue. Both succumbed quickly to the chill of the lake waters. Lucien Jodoin, 27, died under similar circumstances in Lake Sesekinika, in the Kirkland Lake district. Two priests, with him were rescued.

Eight-year-old Patrick Hubert fell into the St. Charles River at Quebec City and was drowned. The boy was attempting to board a rowboat. The body of an unidentified man was pulled from the St. Lawrence River at St. Lambert, Que., while at Turner Valley, Alta., three-year-old Patricia Lamont fell into flood-swollen Sheep Creek and drowned.

One of the motors was shrewd off and left atop a side of the gully, while the four plane, which landed in a mass of wild grape vines. A wing was left 75 feet from the two trees it clipped off.

Department of Commerce inspectors searched the wreckage for some clue that might throw light on the cause of the crash.

Downdraft Causes Wreck

Prince George, B.C., June 25 — (CP)—A sudden downdraft that struck their airplane while circling a small lake in British Columbia's isolated central interior was blamed for a crash that took the lives that brought death to one person and serious injury to three others Sunday.

Air Engineer Bill Martin of Vancouver, was hiked 25 miles through wild bush country to water where he improvised an Indian dugout as a motor boat and set out for aid, but before he reached the lake, had killed Dan Miner of Fort St. James.

The plucky Martin was the only one of the party able to walk. Mrs. Allan East of Fort St. James suffered internal injuries and badly cut and bruised arms and legs. Pilot Charlie Elliott of Vancouver had internal injuries and badly cut and bruised arms and legs. Pilot Charlie Elliott of Vancouver had internal injuries and badly cut and bruised arms and legs.

Without Food 7 Days

From the Martin party left them for aid until Pilot Russ Baker of Canadian Airways picked them up yesterday. Roy East and himself were without food or matches to light a fire. All their belongings were in the wrecked plane.

The plane left Fort St. James Sunday with its two passengers for Germansen Landing, near Takla Lake.

Sixty miles north after their take off, Martin said, they were circling an unnamed lake when the treacherous air current struck the plane and sent it spinning to the water.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blocks up your stomach. You get constipated. Poisons from your decaying food are absorbed into your blood, and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

You need a liver and intestinal tonic to keep you feeling right. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse substitutes. They are the favorite of millions but have no relation or resemblance to Carter's Little Liver Pills. Don't accept substitutes because they can't supply you with the same.

Boston Bees' 10-8 Triumph Was Blow That Hurt

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland Indians, who haven't won the American League pennant since 1920 may turn out to be a tough lesson to beat this season in spite of everything.

In this case, everything includes the fact that Oscar Vitt, their new manager, hardly expects to turn a "pennant-plate club into a pennant winner in one season; that toey have had the habit for years of falling apart in mid-season, and, looking like serious contenders; that they're a notoriously weak road club, and that those murderous Yankees still are hanging around waiting to break those some fine day.

The Indians, however, have accomplished a couple of notable feats during their current home stand. They climbed back to the lead after dropping to third place, while they were in the east. They won six out of seven games from Eastern rivals, losing only a 13-inning battle to Washington, and they turned back the Yanks twice in succession.

The pitching of Johnny Allen, a former Yankee, and the clouting of Earl Averill enabled the tribe to beat the Yanks 9-5 yesterday and drop the New Yorkers into third place. Boston Red Sox, who took over second with a 5-4 triumph over Detroit Tigers, invaded Cleveland today for a two-game series.

Reds Head to Third

The only other game which altered the standings was Boston Bees' 10-8 triumph over Cincinnati, which sent them back into third place, a half game up on the Reds. New York's league-leading giants belted over St. Louis Cardinals in a six Stick Outfielder, who hasn't started a game since last August, came back and proved his back is no longer ailing by limiting the Cas Hoosiers to eight blows. Chicago's Cubs kept pace 2 1-2 games behind, by trimming Brooklyn 10-4.

Chicago White Sox got some good news for a change when Monte Stratton, laid up since March with a lame arm, came back to pitch them to a 10-3 decision over Washington.

Lynn Nelson's five-hit flipping and a well timed attack enabled the Athletics to whip the St. Louis Browns 6-4 in the opening game of Philadelphia was rained out.

ARMSTRONG AND ROSS ARE READY FOR TITLE BOUT

Both Conclude Training And in Splendid Condition

OPINIONS VARY

Armstrong Has Designs of Holding Three Titles at One Time

New York, May 25 (AP)—Trained for fighting-canks, to quote their respective managers, Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong did little more than flex their muscles and get hair-cuts today in final preparation for their 15-round battle for the welterweight championship tomorrow.

Both completed their training without mishap, and unless one of them trips over his scales at the official weighing-in tomorrow they will enter the ring at the big Madison Square Garden bowl in shape for the scrap of their careers.

Ross, the Jewish lad with the flaming spirit, remained a shade-fast favorite of 1 to 2 to defend his welterweight crown successfully against the sensational negro featherweight ruler, whose fearsome record of knockouts during the last two years is unparalleled in modern ring history.

The experts looks show that Barney, at 38, will be giving away some four years to his ever-challenging, powerful opponent. His noggin is sprinkled with gray hairs and his legs, naturally, aren't supposed to be what they were a few years ago.

But those who have watched the clean-cut boy from Chicago fight say that Ross has still enough to can whip Armstrong or anyone else around his weight.

Ross the Great

New York, May 25 (CP)—A triple championship unknown in boxing annals since the days of freckled Terry McGovern, Ross will put his little Henry Armstrong who hopes to add the welterweight belt to his collection of featherweight titles, Barney Ross in Madison Square Garden bowl Thursday night.

Already ruler of the featherweight division, the dusky gymnasium bee dabbles on the welter and lightweight crowns. Should Armstrong defeat Ross he will get a chance to complete his dream here late in July. He has been master of a match with Lou Ambers, lightweight king.

Thirty-five years ago Pitzsimmons held the saddle, lightheavy and heavyweight title at one time. But since then no champion even has had a "double" crown and there have held more than one crown at but not simultaneously. Most of them lost second title after losing or relinquishing the first one.

STURDY "JOKA" AN EASY WINNER

Only Two Boats Tackled Wind-Swept 12 Mile Course

Plunging her snub-nose into the foam-crested white-caps of the Bay of Quinte, her close-reefed sails straining under the drive of a ripping nor' wester, Frank "Duke" Smith's sturdy "A" class "Joka" showed a clean pair of heels to Roy Hay's "Spray" yesterday afternoon, in the only event sailed on a program scheduled to inaugurate the 1938 sailing season of the Belleville Yacht Club.

Rough weather prevented other classes from competing in their scheduled races.

A typical "rough-weather mans parasdise" the twelve mile course off Government Dock looked anything but inviting as the gale-like wind whipped the water into spume-covered waves. Four boats were scheduled to start in this event, but only the "Joka" and the "Spray" headed for the starting line when the minute gun sounded. Maurice Callaghan's "After You" and Harry Semark's "Anna C" remained at the dock.

A fairly large crowd lined the Victoria Park sea-wall as the two boats, with sails close-reefed headed for the starting line shortly after three o'clock. Both boats leaped over the line with seconds between them when the gun sent them away on their twelve mile jaunt around the course. "Spray" grabbed the windward side and drew slowly into the lead shortly after the start, as "Joka" lost wind through hugging the leeward shore.

"Spray" had pulled into a two hundred foot lead when she rounded the buoy on the first leg of the course. Over-shooting her mark somewhat, she lost ground while "Joka" in a churning cloud of spume gradually closed the distance between the boats. On the reach to Outlet Beach "Joka" showed her sailing qualities, narrowing the gap, until she caught and passed the Hay boat before the next buoy was reached.

From this point, "Joka" was never headed, romping home an easy winner by the comfortable margin of eight minutes and forty nine seconds. The elapsed time of the winner was 1 hour, 43 min. 34 seconds.

OTTAWA BRAVES GAIN TOP RUNG IN CAN-AM LOOP

Drubbed Auburn Boulevs 20-9 to Gain Coveted Position

CORNWALL DOWNED

Floodlight Fixture Broken Up in Eighth by a Homer

(By The Canadian Press)

Ottawa Braves, Cam-Am cellar-dwellers through most of last season, are atop the heap today for the first time this season.

Off to a bad start again this year, Braves rallied and their drive for leadership ended yesterday when they drubbed Auburn Boulevs 20-9 in a slugfest that they won the circuit today when they meet the New York State team.

In the other games played the champion Oddfellows Colts clouted a 5-2 win over Cornwall to increase an enthusiastic home town gallery while at Cornwall Rosemeds scored a 12-9 floodlight victory over Bisons. Rain forced postponement of the Amsterdam-Owego fixture.

Braves knocked Boulevs all over the lot with a 19-hit blast. They drove Ross Barkwell and Ben Koenig to the showers and hammered Walter Balash for 12 hits. Bill Powley former New York State outfielder paced the vicious Ottawa attack. In five trips to the plate he walloped a brace of homers and a single.

Chris Scheerer hit four-for-six and included a homer. Duke Deuble rapped in five runs with two doubles a single and a fielder's choice.

Gloves got Ottawa off to a good start with a brace of runs in the first inning, but Colts held them scoreless afterward and added their eight runs over five frames. Hurler Wall Lacey was off to a shaky start but tightened up after the first session to register seven hit pitching. Tibbets drove in four runs with two hits to pace the winners.

Cornwall's floodlight fixture was broken up in the seventh when Frank Jonika's homer with three aboard knotted the count 8-8. Colonists added another run in the eighth and three in the ninth.

"The home-grown, hard-spanked, bare-footed, hard-fisted country boy" is much taller lighter in the battle of life than does the pampered, high-collared, creased-trousered youth of towns and cities where athletics have been coated with a whisk broom instead of a shingle."—Wartsworth Journal.

SYRACUSE CHIEFS COMING ALONG

Won Four Out of Last Six Since Change of Managers

By the Associated Press

Richard Twilley Porter, who took over the managership of Syracuse Chiefs of the International League last week, is one fellow who'd probably be glad to eat his words.

Three years ago Porter, who had been in the big leagues for a brief year, was released to the Chiefs by Boston Red Sox. He refused to report to the minor League club.

The Chiefs sold him to Newark but a year later Porter was back in Syracuse and taking it. The Chiefs won four of their six starts since the 36-year-old outfielder took over the reins of the last place club, and are heading out of the cellar. They clouted out a 12-7 victory over Baltimore Orioles last night while the three Syracuse pitchers limited the league leading Newark Bears again scrambled the first division.

Rochester Red Wings moved from third to second by splitting with Montreal Royals, losing the first game 6-3 and taking the nightcap 7-3. Buffalo also divided a holiday twin bill with Toronto Maple Leafs winning 6-5 in the matinee and losing 6-1 in the night ball. The double pairing of the day saw Jersey City Giants stop the Bears for the second straight day 2-0.

We are reliably informed that the chief bait of the Social Credit leaders of Saskatchewan is the $1,500 a year.

Now that people have begun to laugh every time $25 a month is mentioned in public, Premier Aberhart has been forced to change his tune. So as $1,500 is more monthly than a pittling $25, the Saskatchewan farmers who haven't had a crop for seven years will be offered the $1,500.

Between the Lines

By Ken J. Colling

In spite of a strong wind which handicapped all players, the finest exhibition of tennis ever presented in Belleville was given before a large gallery at the County Club courts yesterday afternoon. Local players and net enthusiasts were given a real eye-opener as four Canadian tennis stars took part in the exhibition. Grant "Pinky" McLean, third ranking Canadian player, and Bill Pigeot, Canadian indoor champion, Maurice Margeson and Leo Hutz, well known Toronto players played singles, and doubles matches later taking on leading Belleville netsters for short games.

After winning the district doubles championship tourney, the Murray Mitchell - Art Cole doubles combination at the springs is proving a match against McLean and Pigeot before the Toronto pair ran out the set. Trailing 4-1 before they overcame their stage fright, the Belleville pair came to life and pulled up to 4-4 with some smart net play. Chasing the ball which raised them to their top-ranking position, McLean and Pigeot turned it on to run out the set 6-4. Another Belleville player who attracted favorable mention was Freddie Baines, who took on Maurice Margeson in a singles match. Baines and Margeson gave the fans several thrilling rallies, and the Belleville player showed a relly fine backhand as Margeson concentrated on that usually weak side of the court.

All in all, it was a great day for Bay of Quinte tennis circles. Hardworking Ernie Whelpton, tennis convener at the County Club who arranged the matches was the man behind the guns. His effort did more to elevate the increasingly popular summer pastime in one day's play than has been done in many seasons. Indicative of the interest aroused in the exhibition was the fact that players and spectators from Trenton, R. C. A. F. and Belleville gathered to take part in and watch the matches.

Officially opening the season at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, the golfers ensured yesterday morning in a kickers' handicap. Allowed to pick their own handicap, twenty-three golfers took part in the tournament. Despite the high winds that swept across the level course, O. H. Scott, after deducting his handicap, had to be only three above par. On the 18 hole handicap, C. E. Spalding proved the best with an 82. In the afternoon, a fourball couple went off with the prize in the two-ball foursome tournament. Holing out with an 86 for the eighteen, Dr. and Mrs. Pedley led a field of 28 mixed players.

Old Jupiter Pluvius wrought havoc among the ranks of the baseballers and softballers of the city over the holiday and surely dampened their aspirations to an small end. The Belleville Softball Association opening was literally washed out, when all three initial games of the season had to be postponed owing to the continued deluge of rain on Monday evening. The "softballers" will take another try at it this evening with their official opening of a game at Coleman Flats, Point Anne and Napanee. They are hoping for a better break in the weeks that time out.

Just when Alex Weir's local intermediate hopefuls were ready to take the measure of Jimmy Arthur Kingston "Locos", they had hoped, rain turned the diamond at the Fair Grounds into a sea of mud forcing the postponement of the opening of the Bay of Quinte League here. Just a suggestion we offer—why not have the Kingston wield open the season with a twilight game in Belleville next Monday or Tuesday? Daylight saving time into effect on Sunday next, thus the baseballers could usher in the season with a twilight game.

While the weather man was busy spoiling the opening of the Bay of Quinte baseball Loop here-abouts, Jack Turner, starry right-hander for the Oshawa Green 1937 C. O. B. L. champs, spoiled an otherwise perfect day for the Peterborough squad yesterday when he dunked the Lift-Lock laddies, in the June of 7-5 to officially put the lid off the 1938 C.O.B.L. baseball pot. Turner's masterful saving things likewise chucked a good brand of ball but his mates failed to come through with the hickory when most needed. Oshawa scored their first run in the second innings and completed the scoring in the seventh, when they showed another across the plate. Some new faces were noted in the line-ups of both clubs with a generous sprinkling of veterans adding color to the 1938 editions of these ancient enemies.

Idle yesterday because of the wet, soggy condition of the various diamonds, four teams of the Belleville and District Softball League are slated for action tonight to officially open the softball season here. Coleman Flats, the National Grocers will battle Point Anne, while Coleman Flats, the National Grocers will battle Point Anne, while Coleman Flats, the National Grocers will battle Point Anne, while

"You poor child!" Miss Lockwood said, as Gloria turned from the kitchen with her breakfast tray to find her sitting open letters at the dining-room table. "You've had to take things very much as you found them, I'm afraid. I'm going to get two good mo'st—I've been promised one for this afternoon, and the other tomorrow, but it's frightfully hard just now, when all the resorts are opening up. And my being taken ill just at the wrong moment. I was tired to death, and starving, and at this wedding I ate everything that was offered me to eat. It was the lobster I think. If people knew how much work and grief their weddings they'd serve milk toast and baked apples instead of the menus they plan!

With her red cheeks and crisply curled silvery hair, with her amusing manner and pleasant voice, she really was charming. Gloria felt an instant victim and began to see the Lockwood Sanatorium might have advantages that more strictly managed places often lacked. Caroline Lockwood, despite her gray hair, was only forty-one; she was witty; she was extremely attentive to Gloria, offering her old charges and trying to keep them about her. She was quick, speaky way of solving their problems that made life bearable and even interesting.

She wanted Gloria to keep her rooms for her, and to take her meals in the house running on a budget. Nobody seemed to have much real money went. It was disgraceful to persuade Gloria in this way, and Miss Lockwood did not propose to do it. Barbara Wilson was a completely reliable and a completely delightful person; why, in old Mrs. Webster's day, Miss Lockwood had to turn down income from the place two or three times a month. The house must be filled again and a thousand things must be done. Miss Hereford must have noticed what ought to be done.

"What I'd like to do is to put on a temporary camp," Miss Lockwood said. "And then tear all this down and build a new sun-parlor, with cream-brick, modern, sanitary hospital walls we can hang with linen-duck and ten persons. We can only take fifty-four now.

Gloria listened, almost impressed. She hoped that she was entirely impressed. She was not at all in this restless of doubt left in her mind, and her honest desire to like Miss Lockwood and believe every word she said in her behalf could not get a secure footing because of it.

"We promised them a surprise," Miss Lockwood said, "and there's what'll it be?"

Gloria could only look at her with a blank yet sympathetic smile.

"My dear, anything at all. They're children. That's what you have to remember. Anything at all. I'll tell you what you do, you go to market and get paid them anything you see that seems cute."

"As, for example, chocolate bars?" Gloria hazarded.

"Chocolate bars are wonderful; they'll adore them. Only I'll tell you what you do, you go to market, but she's all wrapped up over this Salt Lake City plan, and I can't stay; she'll come right back—all my people do. But she needs a change . . . . D'you know that I think you're one of the prettiest person I ever saw!"

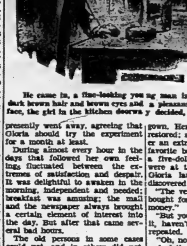
That came unexpectedly and abruptly, with a smile that made the fine Lockwood's bright eyes, Gloria laughed and blushed, and turned away without any response, but deep in her heart she was pleased. She was pleased and interested and busy. "And that," she said to herself, "is a lot more than some of the girls are, even if things are rather odd here."

Her father and mother came at about eleven o'clock. She had thought they might and had prepared Miss Lockwood for their call. Her employer met them gaily and pleasantly, explained that things were all a rather "between stages" point at the Lockwood, showed her most charming side to them. Even Gloria, with a sort of wonder, thought her parents just a trifle simple in that they accepted the situation with simple faith, if without enthusiasm. It was not for her to undeceive them; they presently went away, agreeing that Gloria should try the experiment for a month at least.

During almost every hour in the days that followed her own, this thing fluctuated between the extremes of satisfaction and despair. It was delightful to awaken in the morning, dress and eat a good breakfast was amusing; the mail and the newspaper always brought a certain element of interest into the day. But after that came several hours of dread.

The old persons in some cases could not, and in others did not, take adequate care of their rooms. They were almost as bad as children in their unending disorder, and Gloria and Miss Lockwood were busy all day hanging up coats and sweaters, putting away games, straightening chairs, wiping out washbowls, carrying away plates and magazines and newspapers

Even in the afternoon matters quieted down. Almost all the old people took a nap or sat silly dreaming with open eyes under the trees. Gloria could take a bath then freshly, lie down for a while herself, or walk down to the village and take in a movie, as she and Ida arranged the menus together, supper was always a pleasant hour, and in the evening there were the radio, long animated talks with Miss Lockwood. If she were home, and a good-night look into the kitchen, where the under stars caught in the wide darkness of the bay, and the sweet thought: "Well I'm getting away with it!"



Gloria attempted to persuade Miss Wilson to stay, it was no use. Barbara, having all the work of the household, threatened to go away, too. Miss Lockwood rejoiced and invited Gloria to rejoice in that her dear old Larkin was coming back. Mrs. Larkin had been one of her own sort, handsome and dignified, a widow with a small bit of fine, definite plans for running the house, but with the besetting weakness that took her and Miss Lockwood off on some mysterious junketing for two or three days each week.

When Gloria went home for her first overnight holiday she was so tired and so confused that she was mediately established in her own room and mother knew of the Lockwood Sanatorium only what had just been seen on that brief call and what she told them. But after all, Dr. Merriam had spoken of her to Miss Lockwood, and Dr. Merriam was an old friend of the Hereford's. He knew the truth about it, Gloria reflected, they would bring her home at once. The question was, should she tell them the truth?

"It's an old-fashioned place but it's nice," Mrs. Hereford said.

"Had enough of it, sweetheart?" the doctor asked his daughter at dinner.

If he had asked her this a few hours earlier Gloria's answer must have been a vvarted affirmative. She had come home so tired that she could not have held out for another minute. But she had had a bath and three hours' sleep and Bess Hungerford and the two Howell boys had come to dinner; Gloria was wearing a new evening

He came in, a fine-looking young man in a dark suit. He had dark hair, dark eyes and a fine, tanned face, the girl in the kitchen doorway decided, but a very strong one.

gown. Her spirits were completely restored; she had gotten her mother into extraordinarily hospitable mood, favorite bath salts and her father a five-dollar book; these privileges were at their places at the table, and Gloria listened excitedly as they discovered them.

The very first thing I've ever bought for myself in two whole months!"

"But you've had about enough of it, haven't you?" Gloria's father suggested.

"Oh, no; I'm going back."

And the next day she drove back to Lockwood, drove slowly and with distaste in her heart, but steadily enough, to the Lockwood Sanatorium.

Mrs. Larkin, who had been doubly busy in Gloria's absence, welcomed her abstractedly. Her eyes were bright and her face was rather pale; Gloria noticed a certain restless incoherence in her manner. She said she was glad Gloria was back; Caroline had to go right to bed after; she would come home on the late theatre boat; would be all right? Would that be all right? Caroline had to see a friend—yes, a very sick friend—soon things—but to these terrible attacks—

Gloria looked at her in some matter; she felt chilled and dubious at the change in her room. She simply couldn't go on in this way. It would become actually dangerous. What could do? would be to feel her way to another job, secure it, and then tell Caroline Lockwood that she was going.

She changed into a fresh uniform, faced her white shoes, descended to the dining room. It was four o'clock on a hot May afternoon, but the table was set for twenty. Gloria found a message from Ida:

"Have gone to sisters in Berkely. She said OK. Glory, you are her can get this dinner; back on night," the note read.

Gloria's heart failed her. Then her spirits rose to the challenge; she studied the written menu on the wall, decided upon certain changes.

In the pantry doorway, looking at the contents of the medicine cupboard, Miss Lockwood the kitchen door said. "Excuse me, but d'you do?" said Gloria.

She came in, a fine-looking young man in a dark suit. He had dark hair and brown eyes and a pleasant smile. Not a handsome face, the girl in the kitchen doorway decided, but a very strong one with a well-modeled hard mouth and a square jaw and a general air of being on top of life rather than under it.

"You wanted to see Miss Lockwood?" she said. "She's away today."

"I thought I wanted to see caroline," the man answered. "But now it all seems different. Could is have you?"

Gloria laughed and, coming back into the kitchen, stood close to him, looking up at him. She was rather a good height for a girl, but he towered above her.

"Sit down," she said, "or I'll get a stiff neck. What did they do to you when you were a baby? You much spinach and top milk!"

INSTALMENT 4

"Who are you?" the caller demanded. They had come out to the shady yard then, now, and were sitting side by side.

"I'm Miss Lockwood's assistant. I was supposed to keep books and audit bills and write letters and order meals. But, to tell you the truth—" Gloria began, and laughed.

"To tell the truth, you do everything is that it?"

There was already magic working between them. Their eyes, the tones of their voices were saying things that their words did not say. Gloria, slim and fair and tranquilly brown of eyed, looked at him in unsmiling childish confidence; the man was in those years a little flushed and sometimes a little pale; sometimes he laughed awkwardly, at other times was sure of himself flo the point o being quite masterful.

He told her that his name was Peter John Armitage Rodd and that what brought him to Lockwood Sanatorium was his friendship for old Joe Appia.

"I know—the darling with the complexion! Silver hair!"

"That's old Joey. "He was my aunt's. Mrs. Marshall, coachman and then her chauffeur—oh, well, thirty-five years, I guess."

"Auntie sounds prosperous."

"She is—or was. She arranged an annuity for him, and he wants to stay here."

"But why, why do any of them want to stay here?" Gloria wailed. For by this time she and Peter had entirely discussed the sanatorium and Miss Lockwood and Peter had admitted that he knew as well as Gloria exposed by "Every little while the old girl had like orgy and simply had to go on a bender."

"Really, I'll tell you, Gloria," said Peter. And through the quick, excited beating of her heart she noticed that he called her Gloria. "Honey how it is," he said. "She makes them feel that they're at home, that they can do as they please. Other places don't. See? Even in the homes of their own sons and daughters they aren't free to do that. They're afraid to be drunk or belle letters or eat between meals. Here they have complete freedom, and they put up with all the rest because it's the best they can do."

"If a place like this was will run, Peter," she asked him, "don't you suppose it would pay tremendously?"

"Pay! Old Mrs. Weber had it five years and retired rich. Of course it'd pay! But the trouble is you either get a regulation manager, who insists on sanitation and won't let them smoke in their rooms and weighs them and card-catalogues them, or you get some one like Caroline who'll be depended on. You'll not stay," Peter said.

"I would, if there was any chance of decent management."

"Ah, well, that's the exact point."

He helped her cook the supper, and ate with her, and left her at last until the eleven o'clock boat. Gloria walked with him to the gate, where his car was parked, and waved him good-by in a white dazzle of moonlight that had somewhat excited the senses of both. After her weeks of banishment from all men, it was new and flattering. Gloria found this man's admiration strong wine, indeed. Peter appeared almost a little dazed. He told Gloria that he would see her again in a few days, and Gloria went upstairs completely absorbed in the thought of this new element in her life.

"Mummy," she said on the next visit him, "did you ever know anyone named Rose Marshall— Mrs. Philip Marshall?"

"I knew Phil Marshall," Mrs. Hereford began promptly. "Yes, he married a girl named Armitage, Boston girl."

"There's a man named Peter Rodd," Gloria began. "He's a university graduate and he's in business. He must be good, too, for he's been there only a year and he's had two raises."

DO YOU EVER HAVE that "ALL-GONE" FEELING?

You needn't—nor if you follow the lead of the millions who know the health value of Eno's "Fruit Salt". Just about some times of sun, gastric indigestion, acces are caused by some form of constipation. Incomplete elimination causes headaches, dizziness, sours your stomach and many other minor and major ills. Nature's purgative—Eno's Fruit Salt, of which Eno has no trace, are likely to more than do good. A dash of Eno's "Fruit Salt" in a glass of water sparkles right soon gets at the source of the trouble. Eno safely rids the system of these toxic poisons which slow a man up and make him miserable. Doctors prescribe Eno and take it themselves. It is both effective and safe—for young and old. Eno is pleasantsing, acts mildly—a simple, natural way to good health. Life today calls for Eno's "Fruit Salt". Order a bottle from your druggist now. Handy size, 90c Household size, $1.75c.

"Extremely good," Gloria's mother said, in sudden and surprised interest. "I remember his name, too! The eldest son. The John Peter Rodds—Phil Marshall introduced me to them. That would be his father and mother."

"Father both dead now, and he's got a job here in a bank."

"Where'd you meet him, darling?"

"At the Lockwood Marshalls' one to see the Marshalls' one evening."

"Really?" Mrs. Herford murmured, pleased. "I'd like to meet him."

"You will, Mummy. He's coming to dinner."

Dr. Herford smiled at his daughter. The lad must be you girl's a bit."

"Oh, he does. He likes me because I've got something to do; I'm not sitting around waiting for him to ask me," Gloria told her father in satisfaction. "Peter comes in and we talk about real things, about his work and mine. We're together in the chart, because we have so much to say and to laugh at, and to advise each other about. I'm writing out a regular budget for a place like the Lockwood and before we leave this home day I may get a Crotine to use it, and if not Caroline I'll get some one else to do it."

"Well, you're a stubborn beggar!" her father said, grinning. "I suppose you're smart!"

"Oh, Dad, you think I'm stubborn? Gloria asked, a little hurt.

"Why, you're not a sweet, amiable little mule!" the doctor answered.

"Oh, you don't think so!" Gloria said.

"Well, a certain amount of stubbornness is good, Glory. It makes for action. I'd say you were setting and executive and capable—I don't think you are. Stubbornness goes along with them.

"Dad, do you know, I feel years older than the other girls! What's you've taken responsibility and given an old man their medicine and their meals!"

"Well, I hope you'll not be there long, honey," Mrs. Herford said significantly.

Glory flushed and laughed. This was summer. She and Peter hoped to be married early in the new year.

But even before that time there was much to do. Peter's mother and sister would come from Boston, and presently Glory found herself short of a job.

The changes began imperceptibly with a general retrogradation in every department of the sanatorium. Gloria might once have thought that it was impossible for that any change must be for the better, but it was not so. Caroline Lockwood's falls from grace occurred oftener and were more lasting; Larkin called from kitchen to pantry and was almost no use when she did come back. Meals were not served well; were not paid and patients began to leave. New prospects did not materialize. Old ones went away. Ida Wilson died; five went away; the number in the house was reduced to twelve. It was ridiculous to keep going a place that would accommodate four times that number, but Gloria struggled along gallantly, hoping for better times.

Quite suddenly, on a wet November afternoon, when Peter had come over to call and he and Gloria had a small fire in the room called "the office," authorities arrived in the shape of state investigators, trustees, stockholders, all sorts of officials, and Gloria found that had never suspected before. There were eight of them and when they had finished with the Lockwood, which took nearly all of some two weeks, everything was changed.

Miss Lockwood and Mrs. Larkin were dismissed; the shadowy accounts were checked, omissions rectified, expenditures sternly questioned. Gloria was offered the position of linen-room woman and second assistant manager of the New Bayview Home and Sanatorium soon to be opened on this same site. Fully equipped with everything that the most critical could desire in the way of baths and showers, lockers, laboratories and kitchens, it would still somewhat follow the comfortable lines of the old house; it would stand in the same, although in an entirely reconstructed, garden.

At the head of it would be a Dr. Reynolds, who said pleasantly to Gloria that he wished she had had more experience. His assistant would be Miss Weathers, a trained nurse and one trained out of the nurses' hospital school, who asked Gloria why she had not taken two years of training, as she would then be infinitely more value.

"For things naturally will not be run here as they have been run!" Dr. Reynolds said. "My wife and I shudder when we read over those old accounts. As a matter of fact, they weren't accounts at all!"

Things that Miss Weathers added, "our people are getting eighty thousand dollars into a new home," and that she would be interest back. They will. It's a beautiful home, and Peter could pay five thousand a month here, we'll gross ten. We've got to pay four thousand a month. Think of that, here, every year."

Gloria hadn't heard of the high ice plant and the refrigerating system, the new laundry machines, the tiles, saw the orders for linen and linoleum placed, read over the new schedule of salaries that Peter had generally. Her old charges had been placed in the Lockwood by temporary shellers; many of them had departed and left no address. She thanked Dr. Reynolds and Miss Weathers politely for the opportunity, to double Peter's income for Gloria. If she had gone back to the sanatorium she would have been paid $25 a week; this was not much more, and she certainly would earn it in the new Bayview Home.

Peter somewhat hesitatingly accepted the plan and Gloria, feeling anxious with the arrangement, Gloria considered settled; with wedding plans and housekeeping balance in the bank, and Gloria's quite substantial unspent allowance, they felt themselves rich.

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent bitge but the modern way is to get just done up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't relieve—stall—until they get the cause of constipation!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you call today what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. Then they eat don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that be you, your ticket is a trusty cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need, and in delicious form. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and eat a ration the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

POLITICAL LEADERS

Here herself from obligation to fight any war but a war in defence of her own shores. If war did come wealth as well as men should be conscripted.

Policy of Friendship

In presenting his review of world affairs and his long-promised statement on foreign policy Mr. Mackenzie King said Canada's policy was to be friendly with all nations and to refrain from warlike talk or actions of other countries.

Into this calm pool of thought Mr. Bennett dropped a bitter denunciation of Japanese invasion of China and its destructive effect on that was "undeclared, unwarranted and unprovoked."

When Mr. Bennett assumed that the government was condoning Japan's action the Prime Minister hastened to deny it and to declare that he agreed entirely that Japan's action should be denounced.

Japan Menace Debated

Mr. Bennett had preceded his remarks with the statement that he was speaking for himself and not for his party which Mr. Mackenzie King had declared was free to adopt new policies including one on foreign affairs.

Japan also figured in a brief debate during the hour for private bills. One measure designed to directly prevent Japanese immigration was defeated on division by 73 to 41 votes, another to effect the same end indirectly, was talked out. Both were sponsored by A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni).

Canada Not Consulted

The debate also furnished a stormy welcome for Baron Biuh Tsuji, new Japanese Minister to Canada who arrived in Ottawa Monday night. Bennett strongly criticized the Minister's reported statement to newspaper reporters in Niagara Falls, Ont., that Canada had recognized China. Mr. Mackenzie King said that the statement was entirely wrong.

"I deny the right of any man to come here, whose country and nation has signed a document guaranteeing with the Dominion of Canada the integrity of China, and talk about the fact that China is a war which was not declared and with respect to which there is no justification," Mr. Bennett said.

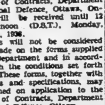
Mr. Bennett's View

"I am not one of those who believe that you serve any useful purpose by forgetting your own integrity and the honor of your own country in order to placate any power, however powerful it may be.

"I feel perfectly certain that in our efforts to maintain amicably the Canadian people have no desire in the interests of trade expansion to obliterate, to submerge the sense of national honor and of the decencies of international relations."

The Tsusui incident was brought up early in the day's proceedings, prior to the foreign policy statement of the Prime Minister, by Mr. Woodsworth who asked the Prime Minister if he had communicated to him the reported observations by the Minister.

Mr. Mackenzie King had not seen the report and his agreement with Mr. Bennett's remarks was that he after he had read the article.



Britain Prevented War

Justice Minister Lapointe contributed to the debate the statement that, since the Great War, Britain has saved the world from war twice.

He said that when there was imminent conflict between Italy and Abyssinia nations had urged them to go to the League of Nations and somewhat help they would give had declined to furnish any.

Mr. King Likes Title Danger of Attack

With respect to relations with the empire, Mr. Mackenzie King said Canada did not offer advice to the SEALED Tenders, enclosed in envelope marked "Tender for Dredging and Extension, R.C.A.F. Trenton," and addressed to the Director of Contracts, Department of National Defence, Ottawa, Ontario, will be received until 12 o'clock, noon, (D.S.T.), 1st. June 6th, 1938.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein. These forms, together with the plans and specifications, may be obtained on application to the Director of Contracts, Department of National Defence, Ottawa.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of National Defence for ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the tender.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be retained should he decline to enter into a contract for the work as detailed in his tender, accepting the contract, to complete same in accordance with the plans and specifications.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

KNEES WENT STIFF IN HIS SLEEP

Agony to Move Them When He Awoke

"For eight years," writes this City man, "I suffered with pains across the lower part of my back. Sometimes the pain with kneeso so stiff that it was agony to move them. Special treatment would relieve the pain a little while —but that was all. Then a friend recommended Kruschen which my doctor said I might take. I began with about a quarter-spoonful first thing in the morning in a cup of prize I found my rheumatic aches and pains disappearing. I kept on with Kruschen, and although I am more than middle-aged I have not been free from pain for two years, and able to go to my office every day."

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel the dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

United Kingdom and did not feel that United Kingdom legislation declares.

"Our foreign and external policy is one of peace and friendliness—a policy of trying to look after our own interests and to understand the position of other governments with a view to their dealings," the Prime Minister said in his general statement.

"It is not and cannot be a headline policy. It is simply the sum of the decisions which, from time to other countries, the general result of our effort to act justly and in hope of receiving the same treatment from others."

Canada had set ambitions regarding aggression or expansion for their fulfillment. We pledged no enmity and no desire to interfere with the destiny of other nations, but only to live in the world known that we have neither the power nor the will to attack others, or to pursue such ends. Nor are we inclined to organize for such purposes.

"Any danger of attack upon Canada is minor in degree and secondary in origin. It is against chance shots that we have to defend ourselves," Mr. Bennett said.

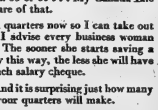
AT THE BELLE

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper, Hollywood's newest comedy and romantic team, top the cast of the new supercomedy hit, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife", which will be seen starting today by patrons of the Belle Theatre, Belleville.



In a long line of recent productions, capped by Mae Clarke in "Public Enemy", Colbert has become the most successful example of the virtue of underplaying. Remembered in films, while Mr. Cooper comes to Belleville fresh from the success of "Beau Geste", from a number of soldier-of-fortune roles, including "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and "Souls at Sea".

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" is a gay, frivolous role in the picture in which Miss Colbert as "Mr. Deeds" than any other.

The story, a new version of the famous French farce by Alfred Savoir, concerns a young American multimillionaire who, after marrying and divorcing seven wives, marries an eighth who succeeds in finally bringing him love for the first time. Miss Colbert, in the role of a penniless French girl who also marries him for his money, accomplishes the unique feat of making him understand that she is one woman he cannot wrap around his finger. Her weapons of resistance are indifference and stubbornness work wonders, also, when nearly bored him by overplaying her hand, she brings sanity and love to Gary's aid at last.

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" continues the tradition of smart comedies laid against a continental background, which has been so successful in the long line of outstanding examples being "Champagne Waltz" and "I Met Him in Paris". Gary Cooper who starred in piece by Director Ernst Lubitsch, has been cast in the latter's directorial production to the screen. Some of Europe's most glamorous pleasure spots figure prominently throughout the picture. The meeting and wedding of the couple take place along the shores of the Riviera, while their honeymoon takes them to such gay resorts as Venice, the Tyrol, Vienna, Switzerland and Paris.

"Oh Say Can You Hear", a smart musical revue with a host of characters and Night Club entertainers, and an interesting topical reel of "Time", revealing a fashionable Parisian, precede the feature attraction. Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.00 and 9.00 p.m. Feature attraction starts at 3.00, 7.30 and 9.35 p.m.

"I'm Saving QUARTERS now ... I'll Take Out DOLLARS Later"

"I've been working for a few years . . . still single. And I'm single however, I am going to have an income of my own which I can enjoy to the full when I am 55 or 60 . . . My Canada Life policy will take care of that.

"I'm putting in quarters now so I can take out dollars later . . . I advise every business woman to do the same. The sooner she starts saving a little of her money this way, the less she will have to put by from each salary cheque.

Sound advice. And it is surprising just how many "future dollars" your quarters will make.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows was sitting on my front steps talking and arguing about different subjects and as who have the most fun, fellows or girls, and what kind of work we would pick out to do if we had to work and everybody asked us to choose. Sid Hunt saying, I know what I'd be, I'd be a barber.

You're crazy, imagine shaving leather off of other people's faces all week, I said and Pete Sims also said, Sure, good nite, who'd want to stand up all day long looking in other people's faces sitting down?

But just thing of how much fun it would be to be able to cut your own hair in front of a looking glass instead of having to sit there suffering while somebody ells was pulling it with a comb and telling you to keep still Sid said, and I said, I know what I'd be, I'd be a dog catcher.

Holey smokes that's a heck of a job, grabing your little dogs just because they happen to be out looking for a home, Sam Gross said, and Gilmore Magee said, Boy, you ought to be ashamed of yourself for even thinking of such a thing.

No I oughtn't, either because the reason id want to be a dog catcher would be just the opposite reason, because I'd accidently on purpose open the back door of the dog wagon and leave all the dogs escape every time the driver wasn't looking, I said and the other fellows said, O, that's different, that's a pritty good of a idea, and Shorty Fudge said, I can tell you what I'd be, I'd be a weather man that,s the cinchiest job there is, all you have to do is just sit in your office and say rain every day, and finely it's sure to rain some day and everybody will say how wonderful you was for guessing it rite, and the days it dont rain nobody will be so glad they wont give a darn what you said.

Sounding like the best idea of all, and we got up a game of cops and rackteers.

Centenary

Centenary—Mr. Don Garrison was a week-end guest at his home. Mrs. Judson Kelley's many friends will be glad to know she is improving nicely.

Mr. J. Hannah has taken over the Glover farm for the season.

The apple trees throughout the district, by their gorgeous display of bloom promise a good crop.

Mr. Gordon Garrison called on friends at Hallowy on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clapp called on Mr. and Mrs. D. Holton on Wednesday evening.

Miss Mary Roblin is spending the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Roblin. Her friends were glad to see her again.

Some of the older members of the congregation were at choir practice on Friday evening and the direction of Mr. D. A. Thrasher, choir leader, were preparing for special music on Sunday in connection with the Wesley celebration.

Mrs. F. Allens, Mrs. J. Kelley, Mr. J. Ray, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. H. Garrison, Mrs. Wm. Waterhouse, Mrs H. Roblin and Mrs. D. Holton attended the W. A. convention on Thursday at Foxboro. It was a most successful and helpful convention.

Most of the seeding has been completed in this district and the recent rain will undoubtedly prove beneficial.

Mrs. George McKinnon who is convalescing after an operation in Kingston General Hospital, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Alma Keene.

The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Salter and family in their recent bereavement.

Mother Saves Nine Lives

If you count the lives of the heroic mother and the baby she saved, the total comes to 18 saved by this cat and caught in the act by the photographer. The kitten was playing by the curb, chased a piece of paper into the roadway among the speeding traffic and would very probably have become a highway victim if mother had not dashed to the rescue. Here, the erring babe is brought back by the scruff of the neck despite his struggles.

Triplet Calves Make Bovine History

Twin calves are unusual, and triplets are almost unheard of in the bovine world. But a cow on the farm of Fred Mitchell, near Oxford O., gave birth to three heifer calves and they're all healthy as you can see. The whitest calf was born a week before the other two.

Rumor Links Names of Hitler and Italian Princess

Following the visit of Chancellor Hitler to Rome rumors are flying in Italian court circles that the German dictator has asked for the hand of Princess Maria, 23-year-old daughter of King Victor Emmanuel. It is also rumored that Italy's King and Queen may return Hitler's visit and the Princess may accompany them. A marriage between the two would cement the Rome-Berlin axis tighter than any treaty.

Protests Chimpanzee Comparison

Martha Raye, Hollywood screen actress, no longer wants her public to think of her as "that funny girl with the big mouth". Henceforth she desires to be known as a screen "glamor girl" with beautiful legs. So she asserts in suit filed in Los Angeles against a picture magazine asking an injunction against use of her photograph beside that of a chimpanzee, both with mouths wide open. Since she posed for publicity pictures like the one at RIGHT, ABOVE Martha says she has gone on to bigger things in the movies because of her singing voice and the shapeliness of her legs. Martha, the glamor girl, is shown at LEFT.

Abbe Maurice, RIGHT, of Quebec, is shown with Father H.J. Markey, of Detroit, as they attended the first annual conference of the Catholic Youth Organization in Chicago.

Tiny Dutch Princess Christened

Quebec Fascist Party Split

The ranks of the Quebec Fascist party were widely split by the announcement that Dr. Gabriel Lambert, RIGHT, and J. E. Lesard, chief officers of the party have been expelled for insubordination by Adrien Arcand, LEFT, chief of the party. Lambert and Lesard claim a large following amongst the Fascist element and have announced they will reorganize the party along their own lines unless Arcand capitulates to their demands.

Cat Restores Sight

Dr. Socrates, Persian-alley cat restored the sight of Mrs. J.G. Barker, Atlanta, Ga., when he clawed her eye-ball, thereby draining a growth which had impaired her sight. Two years ago doctors had advised an operation to save her sight, but Mrs. Barker refused to undergo it.

Chicago on Eve of Relief Crisis

Cleveland is not the only American metropolis that is feeling the pinch of a shortage in relief funds. These two little fellows, members of Chicago's Italian quarter, are shown carrying home a supply of food they received from a federal surplus commodity depot after their families' relief cheque failed to arrive. Chicago relief funds are reported to be exhausted and relief recipients were forced to accept alien rations, including such items as dried beans, prunes and celery.

Revolt Flares in Mexico

The peasant army of General Saturino Cedillo, former Mexican army general, LEFT, has taken to the hills and commenced guerilla warefare against the forces of President Cardenas, RIGHT, in the province of San Luis. Cedillo, rightist opponent of Cardenas, has held the dominant power of San Luis for twenty years and is reported to have a private army of 18,000 to 20,000 peasants.

To Wed Administrator?

Though only acquainted a few weeks after they met at a New York party, it is expected that Mrs. Dorothy Hale, ABOVE, beautiful actress, and Harry L. Hopkins, W.P.A. administrator in the Roosevelt government, will shortly announce their engagement.

Brazil Revolters May Face Firing Squad

Students Clash with Socialists in Mexico

Students of the National University in Mexico City are shown filing into the building after Socialists with whom they had clashed, had been ousted by police. Socialists took advantage of the students' absence on vacation to take possession of the university buildings which they consider a right wing stronghold. Revolvers and knives were used in the hostilities and combatants on both sides were injured. The disturbance was part of the general unrest sweeping over Mexico in the wake of the government's oil expropriations action.

In Some Cases German Planes Reported in Formation

Praha, May 26—(AP)—A government spokesman said tonight that a German warplane had been sighted on a flight directly over the great munitions plant, the Skodka factory, at Plzen (Pilsen).

The report cast a shadow over the prospects of a German-Czech colowak settlement.

The flight over Plzen, some 50 miles from the German border in western Bohemia, was said by the spokesman to have been one of three border violations yesterday.

German Minister Warned

Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta had assured German Minister Ernst Eisenlohr that Czechoslovak government had taken measures to prevent such violations as the seven planes after Eisenlohr cited three cases.

Krofta cited 14 instances of aerial trespassing by Germany, involving 24 planes, since last Friday until yesterday. He said that in some cases the planes flew in formation.

Military preparations for Czechoslovakia's defence continued without respite.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen (Chief of the Meteorological Service of Canada)

Aeronautics and weather! It is eleven years since the famous flights of Lindbergh and others aroused public interest in the air travel that half a million people are carried annually as passengers. This large transportation service requires the best weather information possible. This is given by the U.S. Weather Bureau, whose Bureau of Civilian, the aerological, deals mostly with the air service, the Weather Bureau to give the air line pilots up-to-the-minute data and advice as to future weather. In many of the the Weather Bureau has two stations, one in the heart of the city and another at the airport.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, May 26—(CP)—Synopsis: A trough of low pressure extends northwestward from South Dakota over Saskatchewan into the Arctic, with high pressure in the Hudson Bay region and off the Nova Scotia coast. A deep disturbance is centred off the North Labrador coast. Light to moderate showers have occurred in many parts of Ontario and northern Quebec though in other districts of Eastern Canada the weather has been fair. It has been somewhat warmer in the west with light to moderate showers in the parts of Saskatchewan and southern Manitoba.

Lake Superior: Light to moderate winds; partly cloudy and cool. Prairie, moderate easterly winds; partly cloudy and cool with scattered showers.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan: Partly cloudy today and Friday with showers in many districts; not much change in temperature.

Alberta: Mostly fair today and Friday with not much change in temperature.

'Would Extend Poll Tax to Single Women

London, Ont., May 26—(CP)—Collection of a head tax from all single persons between the ages of 21 and 60, who are "gainfully employed" was unanimously approved by the City Council Finance Committee last night. A resolution will be forwarded to the Minister of Municipal Affairs, asking for the repeal of the present statute Labor Act which imposes a $6 poll tax on single men between 21 and 60 and an amendment to the Assessment Act to effect the proposed change.

This amendment would bring single women under a tax the same as single men. The question came before committee in a resolution forwarded by the Kitchener City Council, where the move originated. The levy would amount to the same thing as if the present poll tax were extended to women.

UNION ORGANIZER ADMITS SLAYING

William Brown, President of Union Victim of Friend

Minneapolis, May 26 (AP)—William Brown, 43, president of powerful General Drivers Union 554, was shot to death in his office by police said today they had a confession from a man who had quarrelled with him over union funds.

It was the second labor slaying here in six months. Echoes of the unsolved Patrick J. Corcoran killing here, 17 still were reverberating as Brown's body was found slumped in the front seat of the Union chauffeurs headquarters. A coroner's jury reported two days ago Corcoran, an officer of the Drivers Union, was killed by "a person or persons unknown."

Police Chief Frank Forestal said Arnold Johnston, 33 an organizer for Local 544, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, confessed he had shot Brown twice, and then driven into a nearby tavern and reported the killing to Miles Dunne, a trustee of the Union.

Commission Request Inquiry of Charges

Peterborough, Ont., May 26—(CP)—The City Council was asked last night by the Police Commission to pass a resolution requesting Judge L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg to inquire into charges against Police Chief Samuel Newhall.

The Police Commission acted after discussing a letter received from Harold L. Garner, Managing Director of the Peterborough Examiner. It was expected the council would grant Mr. Garner's request at its June 6 meeting.

The Garner letter charged that Chief Newhall assisted Arthur Kingpling, Examiner reporter, of persecution of Angelo Augustinello, union leader in a textile strike here late last summer. Newhall was acquitted on an assault charge.

Judge O'Connor also would be asked to investigate certain charges made by a former constable, Joseph Wheeler, the nature of which were not made public.

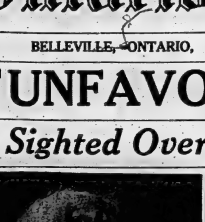
Captain Sends Message 'All's Well' To Owners but Since Then—Silence

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 26—(CP)—Disappearance of the Vancouver-bound freighter Anglo-Australian is added to the mysteries of the sea. Belief that Lloyds posted a ship "missing" with so many doubts.

On March 14 Captain Fred Parsons flashed a message to the owners in the London owners from the vicinity of the Azores. But since then—silence.

The Anglo-Australian sailed in ballast from Cardiff March 9, conduled to pick up a general cargo at Quebec and Montreal. Carried a crew of 39 and their relatives have now been told all hope is abandoned.



Shipping experts can give no reason for the vessel's disappearance beyond a theory she was engulfed by a huge water-spout. When last sighted she was in calm seas. She was equipped with two radio sets and all modern safety devices. When completed 11 years ago she was regarded as a perfect ship.

A Deep Mystery

"I have had 30 years' experience in shipping and I have never investigated so deep a mystery," said Sir John Latta, chairman of the company that managed the Anglo-Australian for her owners. "I make no she must have been destroyed by something which left not a signal has been received from her since March 14, not a trace of wreckage, not a boat, not a bucket has been found.

"We have spent a large amount of money searching for her and every ship on the Atlantic has been told to be on the lookout. The captain of the Anglo-Peruvian that was coming the other way about the same time said the sea was like a mill-pond during the time the Anglo-Australian disappeared."

Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, said his department was collecting information preliminary to a possible formal investigation of the mystery.

Callander, Ont., May 26—(CP)—Though they won't be four until Saturday, the Dionne girls speak both French, their native tongue, and English. Not much English, it is true, but plenty if French folk could understand it all.

They demonstrated their bilingualism yesterday before a crowd of several hundred tourists who watched them playing at the Dafoe Nursery—the advance guard of 400,000 persons who are expected to visit them this summer.

Nurse Yvonne Rouselle, their leader, beckoned toward their nursery at the end of their play period Annette ran to the wire fence in front of the building at a point in view of

MEMBER STARTLES CONGRESS WITH BROAD ASSERTION

Says He Had Information Speech Was Made Against President

'IN NAZI CAMP'

Claims There are 32 Camps in U. S. With Membership of 480,000

Washington, May 26—(AP)—Representative Dies (Dem-Texas) told a startled House of Representatives today he had information that at "one of the principal Nazi camps" in the United States a speech had been made in which plans were progress advocating the assassination of the President of the United States."

The Texan did not identify the member or amplify the charge.

He made it at the start of debate on his resolution to authorize an investigation by a seven-man House Committee of the extent, character and objectives of unamerican propaganda in the United States.

Dies said he was not an alarmist but that he had had "shocking" information supplied to him concerning the extent of a Nazi movement in the United States.

He said there were 32 Nazi camps in the nation which claimed a membership of 480,000, and that he had seen photographs showing men "marching and saluting the swastika."

"I have information," Dies added, "that certain individuals and groups have contributed funds for the purpose of encouraging a Fascist or Nazi movement in this country."

The proposed investigation will not be directed at the German-American Bund, Dies declared, because "there is no more loyal class" of citizens. He added his own motto is a German.

Nor, he added, would the investigation in any way abridge the right of a person to "express an honest opinion and enjoy freedom of speech."

Far From Satisfied On Air Policy Says Times

London, May 26—(CP-Havas)—Last night's debate on air rearmament left the House of Commons far from satisfied, the London Times (independent) said today.

Newspapers generally accepted with confidence Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement that the Royal Air Force were tested tomorrow it would prove itself one of the most formidable war machines in the world.

The Times was willing, however, to accept government arguments in favor of continuing the present air policy.

Surprise was expressed at the absence from the House of discussion of Winston Churchill and other members likely a ministry of supply will be formed.

Russ Girls Display More Curves For Russian Union Eats More

Moscow, May 26—(AP)—Old timers in Moscow remark that every year the scantily clad girls in the physical culture parades display more curves.

Famine stalked the land five years ago, when the peasants were being gathered into collective farms. But now Russians are eating again, and enough. There seems enough food, such as it is, for everyone. The peasant gets along on black bread and cabbage.

In the cities there are temporary shortages of butter, eggs and meat it is true, but they are lacking only for short periods. Some days the housewife finds only beef in the markets; other days only pork. Still other days there is nothing but mutton.

The "right to work" is promised the Soviet citizen under the Stalin constitution. Work and food appear to be the main concerns of the Russian.

JAPAN'S CABINET TRANSFORMED TO MILITARY GOV'T

Drive Will be Made For Capture of City of Hankow Today

INTENSIFY DRIVE

Tokyo, May 26—(CP-Havas) — The Japanese cabinet was transformed today into predominantly military government with Japan's will be to push forward the war in China with all possible energy and to drive for the capture of Hankow, provisional capital of the Chinese government.

Koki Hirota, Foreign Minister, stepped down to be replaced by General Kamahige Ugaki, former War Minister and Governor General of Korea.

General Seishe Araki, another former War Minister, is head of the so-called "Shinpeito" faction in the army, entered the government as Minister of Finance and Commerce, replacing Okinobu Kaya and Shinji Yoshino.

General Hajime Sugiyama, War Minister was replaced by Lieut.-General Seishiro Itagaki, who has been on the staff of the army.

Slow Pace is Cause

Dissatisfaction with the slow pace of the war in China and the reluctance of the civilian ministers to proceed with plans for national mobilization as embodied in the national mobilization act are believed behind the bottom of the cabinet reshuffle.

Prince Konoye, is has often been rumored, desires to resign, but has been prevailed upon by friends to keep his post because he is regarded as the ideal link between the military and non-military elements.

While the Japanese forces in China have been registering formal victories, these have been won only at huge cost and with heavy losses extending over campaigns of many months' duration.

Intensify War Drive

This has caused increased pressure for the creation of the "war cabinet" which has been demanded long after many weeks of behind-the-scenes negotiating between the military leaders and the cabinet and other political leaders.

Observers believe that the changes mean an immediate intensification of the drive at home and on the battle-fields of central China.

Scientists Study Fluid Swirling To Aid Streamline Problems

Ottawa, May 26—(CP)—Close tie-up between the mathematician and designers of streamlined methods of transportation was forged by the Royal Society today following presentation of a paper giving a new value for turbulence—the phase where boiling and swirling of a fluid takes place.

This turbulence occurs, in the case of water, when pressure on the water flows through a narrow pipe, or at a rapid rate. Prof. J. L. Synge of the mathematical department, University of Toronto, explained the phenomenon in a paper. He applied a fluid any accurate estimate of turbulence, according to the report. Prof. Synge expressed his new theory in mathematical equation.

The turbulence paper was one of a series presented as the elite of Canadian scientists and literary men gathered for their annual convention. Another paper concerned a new type of charcoal that can convert carbon dioxide brought into contact with it into the deadly carbon monoxide.

Prof. Synge said that for most

R. SOMERVILLE IN QUARTER-FINALS BRITISH AMATEUR

Defeats Walter McLeod And R. C. MacGregor of Scotland Today

MEETS HATTERSLEY

Troon, Scotland, May 26—(CP)—Sandy Somerville, Canada's amateur golf champion, marched into the quarter-finals of the British amateur title derby by defeating Leonard G. C. MacGregor, Jr., three and two this afternoon.

Other survivors of the field of more than 200 which started out among the traps and gorse patches full of hope last Monday included Charley Yates, lone American survivor, Jock Stevenson, native of this golf-mad bit of Scotland, and Australia's H. W. Hattersley.

Somerville tomorrow will match strokes with the Australian, champion of that Dominion in 1930.

In par-cracking form, Somerville raced into an early two-hole lead over MacGregor.

The London, Ont., veteran fired birdies on the fourth and fifth holes, both for wins and finished the job on the 7th, one under par.

Beats Par

After beating par on the 445-yard fourth and 180-yard fifth, on each of which MacGregor lofted approach shots bunkers, Sandy won three up at the sixth when the Scot took five to reach the green. MacGregor got one back at the short eighth when the Canadian lifted his iron from the lee into the sand.

Third morning Somerville eliminated Walter McLeod, Scotland, by one up.

St. Catharines Dark As Cat Tangles In Tension Lines

St. Catharines, Ont., May 26—(CP)—Darkness fell on the city that was plunged into darkness for approximately ten minutes early today.

Cause for the power failure was a cat, which leaped to its death on the high tension lines at Vine Street sub-station of the Public Utilities Commission.

The cat was electrocuted when it missed a direct hit. Flashes and lightning arresters of two 13,000 volt lines caused the fire. The short circuit was accompanied by a loud explosion that sparks heard in several sections of the city.

No damage was caused. Employees at the station worked quickly in the switches to resume the power supply.

OBSERVER IDEA IS STILL INDEFINITE, STRANG TO REPORT

Strang's Reports Expected to Give Clearer Picture of Issues

QUESTION OF MEASURE

Aim is to Patch up Differences Between Praha And Berlin

London, May 26 (AP)—Great Britain today sounded out both Germany and Czechoslovakia on a plan to send British observers to their troubled border as a means of lessening tension.

Germany was understood to be not unfavorable to the plan.

Authoritative sources disclosed William Strang, head of the central European Department of the Foreign Office, would report on the proposal after visiting British diplomats in Berlin and Praha.

Unofficial Enquiry

The observer idea was said still to be indefinite. It was assumed, however, it would entail unofficial "enquiry" into who would give Great Britain unbiased reports of border incidents and help her in the role of peacemaker.

Mr. Strang left for the continent Tuesday, it was disclosed, because it was considered inadvisable for the British envoys to leave their posts in Berlin and Praha at the height of the tension.

His reports were expected to give

CITY TOURIST CAMP GETS EARLY START

With a registration of fifteen visitors so far recorded, the city tourist camp on East Dundas street which was opened a week ago, has been given an auspicious start for the season. Among the visitors who have been registered in the official camp log is one car bearing the Saskatchewan license plates and containing a party who has made an early start on the summer tour.

At present the park and camp site is being given a thorough overhaul and cleaning up by camp caretaker, George Wilder, appointed for the present season, and his trim appearance has been the subject of favorable comment on the part of many visitors.

TRENTON EDITOR HAS FLY REPELLANT RECIPE

Harry Meldrum Moore, naturalist-editor of the Trenton Courier Advocate, who has recently invaded the front streams of the northeast section of this county to find the season's crop of black flies "just about as bad as I ever remember them", dispenses along a fool-proof recipe for a fly repellent which can easily be made at home.

He recommends one drop of oil of tar to ten drops of sweet olive oil, thoroughly mixed and applied to the exposed skin.

"It may not smell as nice as other mixtures but it does keep the flies away," he commented.

BOAT HOUSE AND BOATS SWEPT ACROSS BAY BY HEAVY WIND

During Tuesday night's heavy wind blow at Wallbridge, containing the power boat, skiff and dock boat were swept off the property of George Wallbridge, Consecon, Ameliasburg, and without mishap floated across Muscote Bay to the property of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, who, coupled with an extremely heavy blow on Tuesday night are responsible for the boat house becoming loosened and later floating across Muscote Bay. Efforts to float the building back are being made by Mr. Wallbridge today. The power boat, skiff and dock are all contained in their accustomed positions thereon undisturbed and were found intact when the boathouse was finally located on Ship Island. When it was first learned the boathouse was missing, however, some anxiety was held, as a heavy sea rolled across Muscote Bay all Tuesday night.

REFRESHMENT BOOTH OPENED ON PARK

As a further effort to create new interest among residents of the city and district in Victoria Park, members of the Victoria Park Band have granted authority for the opening of a park refreshment booth, similar to James Cook who will occupy the stand in the main house being modified for the purpose, during the season. The stand has been opened this week.

TRAFFIC LINES REACH RESIDENTIAL STREETS

Painting of traffic lines has been extended to residential streets, it was learned by employees of the city works department this week, following the completion of this work in the down town areas. It is expected that the complete job of painting with the special waterproof marking material will be finished about the end of this week.

DEBENTURE ISSUE FOR NEW TRENTON SCHOOL

According to word from Trenton received late yesterday by the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs has granted the authority for the Trenton by-law to raise the sum of $130,000 through the issuance of debentures for the construction of a new school in Trenton to replace the present College street school. This authority follows considerable effort on the part of the council and board of education of Mayor Cory who visited Toronto this week.

WORK IS RESUMED ON APSLEY-BANCROFT RD.

DAMAGE REPORTED IN DISTRICT GARDENS

Gardeners of the section waiting for perennial milder weather to make a report on the condition of their vegetable plots following the sudden dip to near freezing levels earlier in the week, today were of the belief that no general damage had been suffered tender potato plants and others which were threatened by the frost. In the western section of the province the blight, however, has declared more serious nature. In some cases covering of the tender plants by strips of cotton and building paper was reverted to to forestall the threat of freezing.

THIEVES CUT CHEESE IN MADOC FACTORY

Thieves believed to have been transients, broke into the Coldspring cheese factory near Madoc on Sunday and made away with part of the cheese, it is reported by Thos. Of steel structure with cement base reinforced with steel, the bridge will be viewed by hundreds of visitors expected to attend the final day's festivities of the Re-union.

COOL WEATHER SLOWS UP ASPARAGUS GROWTH

Trout and whitefish offered at stalls comprised the bright spot in seasonal low, headed a slim offering of produce at the city market today.

Asparagus was not as plentiful as usual, vendors claiming that the cool weather of the past few days has proved a deterrent to growth, but prices remained unchanged from the high quotations.

Rhubarb, lettuce and spring onions completed the display with odd lots of late potatoes offered at sixty-five cents per 90 lb. bag. Eggs were quoted at twenty cents per dozen for ungraded stock, the only kind available today.

AGRIC. ADVISORY BOARD MEETS

Recommendations for the annual grants to schools, rural and urban fairs comprised the time of the Agricultural Advisory Board for Hastings County that went into session in Shire Hall today.

With Chairman Thomas Cranfield presiding, members discussed the matter of grants fully before framing recommendations to the County Council, that will be presented for approval at the June session of that body.

NO TALE TO TELL OF GOOD FISHING

Not all the stories that emanate from the fishing grounds in the northern part of the country, tell of the big catches, and of the monster that got away.

For instance there is the yarn of the two prominent Belleville business men of the city who spent the Victoria Day holiday in search of the elusive brook trout.

It appears that one of them removed his expensive watch from its fixed position on his left arm and placed it in his hip pocket, for safekeeping and protection against splashing water. A few minutes later, wading eight inches of water, and laughing uproariously at his companion's discomfiture after the latter had inadvertently stepped into a deep hole in the creek bed "up to his neck", he suddenly lost his footing and sank down heavily in the water, immersing the south end of a perfectly good pair of trousers that contained an expensive wrist watch in a hip pocket.

Rev. E. N. O. Kulbeck Becomes Pastor of Evangel Temple

Woodstock, Ont., May 26.—(CP)—A special congregational meeting at Grace Tabernacle last night accepted the resignation of Rev. E. N. O. Kulbeck, who has accepted a call to Evangel Temple, on Bridge Street West, Belleville.

He will be succeeded here by Rev. H. J. Granton, of Tillsonburg, a native of Brandon, Man., Rev. Kulbeck has been pastor of Grace Tabernacle for the past five years.

Pastor J. C. Kleinsteiber, who came to Belleville, five years ago in September, to establish the work here, told The Ontario Intelligencer that he has received a call to Pentecostal Tabernacle at Ontario, Calif., and will leave this city for his new field with Mrs. Kleinsteiber, about June 20th. "Our work has had splendid growth. There was no organization here prior to our coming to Belleville. We have now a good congregation and a Sunday School of 175 members. It has been a blessed six years of work while we have been in Belleville."

Mr. Kulbeck will arrive here about July 1st.

'EMPIRE BAY' IS SUBJECT OF TALK

Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne Addresses Members of Kiwanis Club

"The British Empire will continue to flourish as long as the inhabitants continue to be willing to sacrifice and service to the cause of Empire building," said Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne in addressing members of the Kiwanis Club on "Empire Day" at the weekly luncheon held Wednesday at the Queens Hotel. Rev. Mr. Payne also stated that member nations of the British Empire had ideals and traditions for its guidance. They were fostered through the centuries, and to the members of the club to stand firm against the "isms" that prevailed and which if they should gain dominancy would destroy the Empire. Rev. Mr. Payne is an ardent Imperialist and he gave a most interesting and instructive address on how the British Empire was built and has been since maintained through the years.

Albert Boynton, president of the club, presided, with Jack McVeigh as song leader. Two weeks ago, Jack McVeigh, in charge of Empire Day again started the popular boosts and made the request that the booster of the day should name the member who should give the boost for the following week. This plan was instantly adopted and George Perdyce was named for the boost on Wednesday, but was unavoidably absent and will be in charge of the next meeting. Jack McVeigh in giving his boost related the method by which the Bata Shoe Store employees for important positions in the organization. The men are started in the stock room, then moved to the floor as a buyer for a number of departments. He also spoke, "later they are given more authority in buying and then made floor men and from there to assistant managers and thence to managers of branches."

Inclesate the Yeoths

The speaker was introduced by Ross Silver and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Harold Lindon. Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne told of witnessing an Empire Day celebration as a youth and was impressed with the display and loyalty to the crown and he stated the youths of today should be inculcated with the qualities of the British Empire, because "we have much to learn and much to do." He praised the loyalty that is shown to the throne and Royal Family and remarked that members of that family were only human and wished to be treated as such.

Speaking of Empires, the speaker showed how some empires were built by force and dominated by force but explained the British Empire was built on the idea of advancement, commerce playing a big part and that sacrifice and service also played a big part in the building of the Empire, ideals of kindship which dominated those who travelled from the Motherland to other parts of the world did much to bind the Empire together. Before closing his talk to the present time, the speaker admonished all to "keep the flag flying, keep their eye to the ground and rely on the Magna Charta, the bill of rights for all British subjects. He expressed the opinion that British Empire Day was a great place for at the present time she was preparing to guard her possessions and at the same time keep peace in the world. Also expressed the opinion that as long as God was the leader, the British Empire would not fall.

FRANCIS GRAHAM OF TWEED, HURT

Sustains Head Lacerations When Car Strikes Oil Truck

Suffering from multiple head lacerations sustained in a motor accident on the R.C.A.F. base on Highway No. 2, Miss Frances Jean Graham, Tweed, was taken to Belleville General Hospital late yesterday afternoon, being in a serious condition, suffering from shock. Dr. G. H. Noble attended the injured young lady at the hospital and today reported Miss Graham had not been as seriously injured as at first reported.

According to reports submitted by Constable Graham of Tweed, Miss Trenton, Miss Graham was proceeding in an easterly direction in her car out of the line of traffic and directly in front of the gasoline tanker truck driven by E. C. Runge, Clifford, Ont. The entire left side of Miss Graham's automobile was demolished, while the driver suffered lacerations as the result of flying glass. The side of the truck was also damaged.

According the matter of charges, Constable Caldwell stated the accident was still under investigation and no charges had been preferred as yet. The injured young lady was towed into a garage at Trenton and later taken down to the hospital in an ambulance. Her dazed condition and the presence of considerable blood at the scene resulted in numerous erroneous stories being afloat.

Red Cross Campaign Reaches Objective

The Red Cross campaign not only reached this season's objective of $1,000, but exceeded same considerably, according to announcement made today by the president of the L. O. Yeoth.

This response on the part of the local Red Cross committee and also to the local committee and shows the keen interest taken in this worthy cause by the people of Belleville. With this splendid sum the Red Cross will continue to support the many fine projects which it sponsors in the community and in the province.

The vice president, Mrs. Simon Leader, her committee of women workers, the campaign chairman, Mrs. Howard Clarke and his committee, the campaign treasurer, Mr. J. W. Imlah, were praised for their successful efforts by the president.

Tent Caterpillars Menace Fruit Trees Of Rural Sections

The menace of tent caterpillars which have already denuded wide areas of foliage along the county's roads and concessions in the rural sections of the district has become recognized by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The caterpillars, believed to be at their highest level this year are more numerous than ever observed. Weather conditions this season are favorable to their growth, according to Mr. A. B. Baird, chief of the local Dominion Entomological Branch.

"This caterpillar is one of the easiest to control if the people will only do a little work," stated Mr. Baird. "Spraying the orchards and shade trees with lime will greatly in keeping them under control.

"From a survey of the Belleville district, the tent caterpillar appears to be more plentiful this year than in 1937. The pest may be stated by Mr. H. L. Fair, agricultural representative for this district.

MILFORD MAN OWNS CHESAPEAKE RETRIEVER

"Sandy" a nine months old Chesapeake Bay retriever puppy, weighing in the vicinity of eighty pounds and possessing webbed feet is attracting the attention of dog-lovers at the home of Hugh Bogart, Milford, Prince Edward County.

Sandy, Chesapeake in the county and one of the few in Ontario, is remarkable because of a kindly disposition. His outer coat consists of a weather-resisting quality of fur that sheds water like the feathers of a duck. A thick oily hide completes the ensemble that resists the most severe weather conditions.

This particular breed of dog is descended from a pair of dogs that were discovered on a shipwrecked vessel off the coast of Maryland in 1807. Later, descendants of these dogs were carried as part of the crew of the vessels of early days. Excellent swimmers, this is their duty in case of shipwreck to go ashore carrying a line to the would-be rescuers on the beach. Oftimes these dogs successfully negotiated heavy breakers and icy water in which no human being could live.

Obituary

MRS. GEORGE HOLLINGER

(Moira)

The community of Moira was shocked to learn of the passing of one of its most esteemed residents, Mrs. George Hollinger, on Wednesday, May 25th., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Foster, after one week's illness of pneumonia.

The deceased was born at Ivanhoe and prior to her marriage, as was Thereza Mirth, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mirth. For the past fifty-three years the late Mrs. Hollinger resided at Moira and took an active part in all church work. She was a life member of the W.M.S. and for many years served faithfully as a Sunday School teacher and was a leader in the service of song. She was a devoted wife and mother.

Surviving to mourn her loss are her husband and four daughters, Mrs. Blake Ketcheson, Moira; Mrs. Will Shaw, Ivanhoe; Mrs. George Foster, Moira and Mrs. Fred Campbell of Foxboro, also nine grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Two brothers also survive, Mr. Caroline Mirth, Halloway, and Mr. Charles Mirth of Ivanhoe. A younger brother, Joseph Mirth, of Ottawa, predeceased her in February of this year.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

CATCH OF LARGE SPECKLED TROUT BREAKS RECORD

Walter Wiggins, Bancroft, Displays One of Record Fish at Hotel Quinte

WEIGHED 4½ LBS.

He sprocketed beauty brought out by an attractive bed of cracked ice and green grass, a record-breaking speckled trout weighing slightly over four and one half pounds and measuring 19½ inches in length was the exposure of hundreds of eyes at the Hotel Quinte yesterday.

Caught in a small lake a short distance north of Bancroft the finny beauty was but one of a catch that is expected to break all existing records for this particular type of fish. Two trout together weighing about seven pounds were that tipped the scales at two pounds each, and another big red pit another weighing two and one half pounds constituted the haddock catch that fell to the lures of Walter E. Wiggins, prominent Bancroft insurance agent.

Mr. Wiggins brought one of his record fish to the city yesterday to present to Mr. Gerald Jenkins of the Hotel Quinte. Placed on display in the lobby, the speckled beauty was the centre of attraction, with a party of American tourists showing especial interest in the finny ambassador of the lakes of North Hastings.

"Mad About Music"

Four Stars and Then Some

★ ★ ★ ★

Deanna Durbin, the Winnipeg girl who flashed across the screen heavens as a new and greater star in "One Hundred Men and a Girl" has proven abundantly that her initial success was no accident by her delightful work in "Mad About Music", now playing at The Capitol Theatre to crowded houses. Once in a while a screen play emerges from the great mass of production constantly flooding the movie market and instantly calls particular attention to itself by reason of different treatment and unusual merit. Such a one is "Mad About Music", in which Deanna Durbin has the leading role ably supported by Herbert Marshall and a splendid cast. The story of the play is a simple one and gives this bright little Canadian star full scope for her splendid talents and fine voice. The music is catchy and fits in perfectly with the plot which centres principally in a fashionable girls' school in Switzerland with many glimpses of the pupils, everyone of whom is a picture in herself. "Mad About Music" is one of those four star supervision productions which are distinguished by their scarcity and which one can not afford to miss without regretting it ever after. "Mad About Music" has everything in rich volume and quality, laughter, tears, music, well acted and splendidly directed.

First 'Seeing Eye' Dog Dies of Old Age

Morristown, N.J., May 5—Buddy, the first "seeing eye" dog, died Monday at the home of his blind master she had guided for ten years by hand and sea, train, subway and plane.

Eleven and a half years old, the German police dog died of complications of old age.

Morris S. Frank, pioneer in the movement to train dogs to guide the blind and Vice-President of the "Seeing Eye" school here, said he was broken up by the loss of Buddy that he hadn't given a thought to it being a successor.

Buddy was the first dog from Chicago, with her master a week ago to die, passed away peacefully in Frank's office.

"Never once did she fail me," said Frank. "I'll need a new 'seeing eye' now, but I'll miss her always."

Buddy was brought from Switzerland. She was operated on last at Christmas for a tumor, fatal of a growth. Frank who had her with him at Nashville Tenn. for a Yuletide visit took her—not to a veterinary—but to a surgeon.

She came through the operation successfully but failed rapidly thereafter having outlived the usual working span of a "seeing eye" dog seven to nine years.

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Was there ever a more distressing ailment than Rheumatic aches and pains? Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Sciatica—what does it matter what you call them? The root cause is generally the same—Uric Acid in your joints—and the usual treatment of Uric Acid is a liver that's out of order. Strike a blow at the cause and begin to enjoy real relief.

Take a glassful of water. Stir a ½ teaspoonful of Fynnon Salts into it and drink before breakfast every day. Soon those painful aches and pains will begin to "let up". They'll become less frequent.

Remedy lies in the combination of Sodium, Potassium and Lithium in Fynnon Salt. These elements are similar to those from Mineral Springs which have brought fame to Spas the world over. But Spas cost time and money to visit—Fynnon Salts comes to rheumatic sufferers in their own homes. Start to-day, get relief from rheumatic pains the Fynnon way. the departing crowd.

"Hello! Hello!" she cried, waving eagerly to the delighted visitors. In a matter of seconds, Marie, Yvonne, Cecile and Emilie, the other quints, were at Annette's side joining in the greeting and waving eagerly.

"Non, non—bon jour, bon jour," Marie's thousands admirers cried. The youngsters immediately reverted to their tongue of Daily Bread and chorused a gay "bon jour" to the crowd before being led off to a private room.

Demonstrate Ability

Earlier the famous five had demonstrated their ability at spring cleaning before their audience of visitors. Miss Rosebelle was busy buzzing filling pails of water and providing cloths while the quints cave their playground toys a workmanlike going over.

Yvonne, natural leader of the sisters, first filled her sand pail with water and marshalled her forces in the clean-up campaign. Immediately the others went to work industriously.

Marie applied herself wholeheartedly to scrubbing the rear of her red and black hobby horse. Annette polished the paint of her tricycle until it glistened in the sun and the others went to work on the garden swing.

The major catastrophe of the day came when Cecile tripped and upset her pail of water. The crowd chorused anxious "ohs" and "ahs" but the little tot was all smiling. They wore becoming strawberry-colored coats with matching hats, each trimmed by a wreath of the bright blue.

Marie Still Smallest

Marie Dionne's title as the diminutive quint remains unchallenged. Detail measurements of the famous Dionne children, who will be four years old Saturday, today disclosed Marie is smaller in all respects than her sisters.

In glove size, she takes 2 1-2 while the remaining quartet wear 6 sizes. Per shoes, her fitting is 9A. Cecile and Annette require 9 1-2B, Emilie 9 1-2A, and Yvonne, 10B.

The measuring was undertaken to aid in the planning of the youngsters' motion picture wardrobe. About to begin work on their second feature length film, the Quints' plans among the best dressed children in the world will be strengthened by long designed for them by Hollywood experts.

All youngsters take a size 6 sock. From underarm to wrist the typical quint measures 10 1-2 inches. Circumference of ankle is 6 1-2 inches; circumference of calf, 9 inches; neck to shoulder, three inches; circumference of neck, 8 3-4 inches; of waist, 21 inches; of hips, 21 3-4 inches; of chest, 22 inches.

Bayside—Mrs. Alfred Wickett has been visiting after spending the past two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jeffery.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Hunt returned home Friday for a month's vacation from Cold Lake, Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Rush and family visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. M. Jeffery.

Born, Friday, May 20th to Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Palmer, a daughter, Edna May, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Fair.

Miss Marian Daniels spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferguson.

The Bayside Women's Institute met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Holmes. About 30 were present. The Women's Association held a dinner at the home of Mrs. W. Jeffery on Thursday.

The Young People's Union of Centenary and White's were entertained on Wednesday evening by the Wesley Young People's Union. Quite a large number were in attendance from each appointment. A good program was presented from Whites and Centenary. Lunch was served by Wesley Young People.

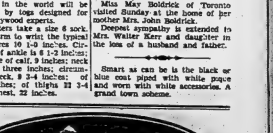
Itching Burning Feet

Go to Doyle's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil. Don't worry—this powerful penetrating oil brings such ease and comfort that you'll be able to go about your work again, happy and without that almost unbearable aching and soreness.

Rub on Emerald Oil tonight — feel it does and stained accompanied. Money back if not satisfied. Get it at Doyle's Drug Store and good druggists everywhere.

6th Tyendinaga

6th Tyendinaga—Miss Heen Boldrick has returned to Toronto after spending a week with her mother Mrs. John Boldrick.



Miss Lottie Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goodman and family spent Sunday at Mr. Fred Goodman's of Prince Edward.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Treverton and Hilda visited Sunday evening at Mr. Roy Boldrick's.

Miss May Boldrick of Toronto visited Sunday at the home of her mother Mrs. John Boldrick.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Walter Kerr and daughter in the loss of a husband and father.

A BETTER RECORD

Last twenty-fourth of May the Province of Ontario had a record of seven killed on roads. This year there was one death in Ontario as a result of an accident.

On Monday the Minister of Highways made a plea for sane driving on the holiday. He pleaded that there be no repetition of such a tragic tale as that of last year. Thousands upon thousands of drivers and their friends have had "many happy re-" turns to mean a phrase made popular and striking by the Accident Prevention Association.

In and immediately about Belleville there was no accident at all. Police on traffic patrol commented favorably on this and gave praise and credit to drivers for their help in making so good a record.

A few days ago there appeared in this Happy paper some hints from the Many Happy Returns booklet of the Accident Prevention Association.

This is Mr. McQuesten's advice:

"One thoughtless move on your part may bring tragedy into your own or someone else's home. Resolve to use the utmost care on the highway and to observe every traffic rule.

"Drive at a safe speed at all times.

"Keep to the right hand side of the road.

"Never pass another vehicle on hill or curve or any point where the view is obstructed.

"Do not park on the highway.

"Signal the car behind you in plenty of time before you turn.

"Observe all road signs and signals.

"See that your car is in safe driving condition.

"If you have taken even one drink, don't drive."

These are more bits of advice from the booklet from the Accident Prevention Association:

"Please remember that children seldom behave like grown-ups. Children are carefree, not careless—and it's hard that they should have to suffer just because they are children.

"Don't forget that when travelling at 40 miles an hour you can hardly pull up in less than 100 feet—and a child that runs out suddenly, or from behind a post or tree, may not know these figures.

"Remember, too, that it isn't the regular road-hog that causes all the accidents: it is only too often the average person of average experience who takes average care, when he happens to relax his average attention.

FINDS A LEGISLATOR A READER

The New York Times says that people like to get a look at a legislator in his private hours. Then he is in his library in a time to catch him. This time it is Hon. Charles Plumley, Vermont Congressman who gave an address before the Columbia Historical Society at Washington. The Times says of him: His hobby is books. "It was Amanda Wynne who said:

"A little gate my book can be.
That leads to fields of minstrelsy;
And though you think I sit at home,
Afar in foreign fields I roam.

"How true that is." After eloquent reflections on Cicero and Boethius, Pope and Horace, he confesses that reading dull law books has spoiled his enjoyment of novels with the exception of historical novels. From them he has derived more knowledge of history than from textbooks. He has read practically all of the so-called historical novels, but to save my soul the only one I can remember are "The Green Mountain Boys," "The Rangers" and Winston Churchill's series. Of course I should include "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and James Fenimore Cooper's works.

Why should he? Our heart goes out to any man who read Judge Thompson's "The Green Mountain Boys" and its sequel, "The Rangers." He is classed as a follower of Cooper, but he didn't need to follow anybody. He was steeped in the story of Vermont. His books sold in Heaven knows how many editions. One hopes they are selling yet. Mr. Plumley's taste in poetry is shown by the books at the head of his bed:

Whittie's poems, Longfellow's, Tennyson's, a copy of Shakespeare, the last number of Driftwind.

He has "found some wonderful poems in Driftwind," and he likes the "homeliness and perfect understanding of the New Englander as found in Longfellow and Whittier";

I should say read Emerson some. The essay on Compensation always intrigued me. When I want to cry I read "David Harum". When I want to waste my time I read Edgar Wallace, Oppenheim or Fletcher detective stories.

Then follows the expected "tribute" to Shakespeare. Tastes differ, and some of us don't want to cry, and love to waste our time on detective stories. Anyway, it's a comfort to find a Congressman who reads.

TORONTO RATEPAYERS HAVE GIVEN SERIOUS THOUGHT TO MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT REFORM in view of constantly increasing taxation, and the idea of City Managership has taken root there as one way of solving the problem and probably the only sane way. The Globe and Mail is running a series of articles on the civic government of Cincinnati where notwithstanding a recent flood disaster worst in the history of the city civic government has functioned in such a way as to maintain a record of constantly decreasing taxation. The following facts in regard to Cincinnati civic management together with comparisons with Toronto civic management form interesting reading:

x

In striking contrast to tax-burdened, debt-heavy municipalities, the City of Cincinnati shows how a civic government can get out of a slump and make efficient progress—without piling up a load on the taxpayers.

x

In the last seven years Cincinnati has reduced its city debt by $24,503,994.

x

In that period its tax rate has never been higher than 23 mills. And it has cut its assessment figures by $326,098,450.

x

Assessment in 1933 was $1,125,927,580 and the levy was 22.10 mills. For 1938 it is operating with a levy of 21.78 mills on an assessment of $799,829,130.

x

Toronto's tax rate of 36.05 for 1938 is on an assessment of $969,686,055. In 1930 the assessment here was $1,011,970,429, and the tax rate 31.80 mills.

x

While it took a tax rate of 35.70 mills to run the City of Toronto in 1937, Cincinnati operated on a rate of 18.88 mills. And, according to the Cincinnati city fathers, it operated very efficiently with that taxation charge.

x

The setup in the Ohio municipality differs from that here in that it has a City Manager. This administrative position is considered to be one of vital importance in terms of the progress of Cincinnati. Back in the early 1920's Cincinnati was confronted with increasing taxation and mounting debts. So the citizens took stock, changed their system of government to representation by population, and empowered the appointment of a City Manager. This new system came into effect in 1926.

x

A city can't just step overnight out of the ditch and onto the highway to progress. It takes time—so that is how Cincinnati explains an increase for a year or so in civic debt. But the plans for the future, made back in 1926, began to bear fruit in 1930, and have been successively successful ever since.

x

In its form of government, Cincinnati also has certain Commissions which have no counterparts in the Toronto picture. While Toronto has its Department of City Planning and Surveying, headed by Tracy D. LeMay, Cincinnati has a City Planning Commission. And Cincinnati has a Boxing and Wrestling Commission with powers comparable to those wielded by the Ontario Athletic Commission in this Province. This Cincinnati Commission controls all public bouts, takes a chunk of the gate receipts for city revenue, and added $38.661 to the Cincinnati Treasury in 1937.

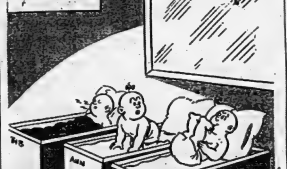
x

The area of Cincinnati is more than double that of Toronto. It covers seventy-two square miles and therein live 475,000 persons. In Toronto's thirty-four square miles there are 650,000 persons.

x

Comparison must include the area as well as the population for mileage is an important factor in the costs of certain city services. In Toronto there are 762 miles of sewers—in Cincinnati, 752 miles.

x



Toronto—pround of its parks system—has 2,402 acres of such grounds. Last year the Park Department's maintenance bill was $983,000. Cincinnati has 4,063 acres of parks and playgrounds, and its maintenance expenditure in 1937 was $399,792.

x

This should not suggest that Cincinnati's parks aren't cared for. Cincinnati, too, has its flowers. It has prize-winning tulips and dahlias and chrysanthemum—and the displays at the Krohn Conservatory in Eden Park attracted more than a third of a million persons.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 26th, 1918.

Mr. James Hill, a C.T.R. brakeman of this city, has left to spend some time in the northern part of the county.

Miss Olive Clark, B.A., of Montcalm View, spent the week end in the city the guest of Miss Jessie McIntosh, Great St. James Street.

The Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Peterboro, and a former pastor of Bridge Street Church, Belleville, will ask for superannuation at the next meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The school children of the city responded liberally to a call for potatoes to be used as seed at the children's shelter. Each pupil brought one potato or more to school and more potatoes than were required were received. They will, however, come in handy as any potatoes are used daily at the shelter.

30 YEARS AGO

May 26th, 1908.

Miss Turkey Conway, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Scott, College Hill.

Mr. W. C. Hall of the Intelligencer bindery staff spent May 24th in Toronto.

Mr. P. Bonard spent May 24th in Toronto.

The horse Jim K. owned by Lee Ketcheson of this city won second money in the 2.18 class, trotted at the races in Kingston yesterday.

In a baseball match at the Belleville Driving Park on Victoria Day the Wellington team defeated Belleville, the score being 3 to 2. The line followed composed the teams: Belleville: Cottaman, O'Neil, Gee, Wellington: Young, Smith, Hyland, Watkin, Wilson, Hyler. Wellington: Wilder, McMahon, Thompson, Foster, Pratt, Ward, Brown, Cornell and Clinton.

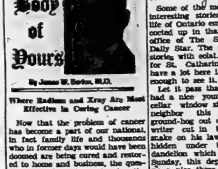
Mr. William Patterson, Church Street, is in Toronto today.

THE YELLOW PICKEREL

One of the most confusing things with which the fisherman has to contend in his attempts to familiarize himself with the various species of fish is the similar sounding nomenclature by which they are known in various parts of the Continent. The scientific names are invariably the same but these are beyond the understanding of the average person and too grandiose to be popular; on the other hand, the local names are so numerous as to be confusing. The subject of our sketch, which bears the scientific name of Stizostedion vitreum and belongs to the perch family, is a good example of the difficulty which exists in identifying species when referred to by its local name. In the United States, it may be found under one or more of the following appellations, pike, pickerel, walleyed pike, yellow pike, blue pike, jack salmon, pike salmon, and pike salmon, and probably some others, while in Ontario it is known as pickerel, pike-perch and dore. We are told that it was named vitreus in allusion to its large vitreous or glassy eye. This probably accounts for the name wall-eyed pike or glass-eyed, but we can find no resemblance either in form or habits between the pickerel as it is commonly known to Ontario anglers, and the pike. It is probable that it has been called pike because of its trim, slender "pike-like" appearance. On the other hand, in the United States, certain members of the pike family are called pickerel, so you see the whole business is confusion worse confounded. However, as in the case of the rose, which continues to smell sweet by merely even if called onion, Stizostedion vitreum will provide just as much pleasure and taste just as sweet no matter what it is called. As our regulations refer it as Yellow Pickerel, we shall conform with this usage.

"The Yellow Pickerel", according to Nash, "is found in all the large bodies of water throughout Ontario, more particularly in the Great Lakes and rivers failing into them." It has become very plentiful during recent years, and an ever-increasing number of anglers find it in search of which the angling fish and because its wide distribution makes it available when other species fail to rewards the patient.—Ont. Game and Fisheries Bulletin.

THE SEVEN CHEESES



The Monitor finds itself in a very happy position. We have just had a letter from a Reader which demands a helpful answer. Here in his own words is his story:

"We've been eating cheese at our house lately. Quite a bit of cheese in fact. But these eaters-in-chief at our house is ready to quit. Enough! It's good cheese, mellow melange of cream and cottage cheese, but some mischievous character preserves, it's great, and it's fresh; the milkman brings it to us. But it is nearly every day.

And that's the trouble. Cheese accumulates. It's no fun to raid the refrigerator and find a dozen and a half pieces of cheese that should have been eaten. Why not stop buying it? But that would stop the glasses. They are beautiful, big glasses—each with a genuine Snow White or one of the dwarfs, and on the other side a dainty princess. Now my son girl at our house think of dwarfs only in connection with the soft cute, lovable dwarfs.

Now we can offer at least seven cheese comfort: There is no truth in the report that Walt Disney's next picture is to be "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves."

Where Blackness and Xray Rays Meet

Discovered by Dorling Cancer

Now that the problem of cancer has become a part of our national, in fact, family life and discussions who in former days would have been doomed are being cured and restored to health and soundness, the question may be asked why is the knife used to remove cancer in some cases, whilst in others radium and the Xray seem to be just as effective. Generally speaking, radium is used if the cancer can be easily reached.

Dr. Aniotze Lacassagne of the Radium Institute of the University of Paris in an article in Canadian Medical Association Journal says, "The mechanical effect takes place on the body—often determines the choice as to what method of treatment should be used. Two locations where radium is the choice because of their accessibility are mouth and the uterus."

"The great bulk of cancers on the mouth were incurable until radium was used. The front part of the tongue permits a correct implantation of radioactive needles; in others, such as the floor of the mouth or the hard palate, a small radiating apparatus can be applied without great difficulty; in the lining surface of the cheeks excellent results are obtained by radium."

Cancers arising in the forward part of the uterus can be easily reached and an effective cure obtained by radium. Unfortunately cancers in the back of the neck, adjoining the mouth are not reached effectively by radium, the tumor must be removed by surgery.

In cancer of the front part of the uterus the results obtained by radium have been excellent. In other cases, such as cancer of the rectum and in some forms of rapid growth cancers the Xrays give effective results.

Dr. Lacassagne has this to say of a great many cancers. "The many cancers, among the most frequent, do not respond to the satisfactory manner to radium, notably cancer of stomach and intestine, of the bladder, and of the prostate, about at neck of bladder."

From the above information we learn that radium is a decided cure (in early stages) of surface cancers—skin, mouth, uterus; that Xrays are useful in some other cases of cancer, but that in cancer of the stomach, intestine, and bladder, surgery is the best method of cure.

WAR BLINDNESS

During the Great War, about 2,000 soldiers lost their sight. There were approximately 60,000 Canadian soldiers killed. The blindness of 2,000 is considered fortunate as in the neighborhood of 600,000 men served. Every year, however, a war, can be relied upon to be as dangerous as the last and the incidence notices seem to indicate that it will at least maintain that average. Then, there is the army prospects to determine their chances. They have about one in 10 of being killed and one in 400 of being blinded in action. Considering the number of course, a number of soldiers who, through the effects of gas, have lost the sight of one eye is about 200. The number of totally blinded soldiers is nearly equal to the number of new cases, so that, at the present time, there are still living 147 blind Canadians whose disability is the result of war causes. Only one out of 60 of the blind population of 9,000 is the number added in addition to this war.—National News of the Blind.

RADIO TRIPS

Radio programs are falling into two classes, either they are excellent or a waste of time and effort as an affront to taste and intelligence. The latter class is bulking much too large. Some programs and even quack remedies are terrible, nauseating to the last degree.

But the crime avials being put on are coming in for rightful condemnation in homes where there are children thoughtful parents are certainly curious at a strict censorship.

But what about homes where they don't and where censorship may be more essential?

In the old days our fathers abhorred the "dime novels", and glamorous though they were, these were innocuous and even meritorious compared with some of the stuff that goes over the air and inflames the the imaginations of young or excitable children and adults.

Boys and girls of tender years are being blinded as a result of plots of robbery and murder. Their minds are being perverted and agony, and the groans of the tortured are made public.

The noises of battles between police and gangsters become familiar to homes.

And in the end they are bound to become hardened and terrified or calloused and brutalized.

There are anyone who wouldn't tolerate the stuff handed out in these ultra-modern and up-to-date radio invention, well calculated to benefit mankind by being constructed on a scientific americalism.—St. Catharines Standard.

Past Winter Reported Favorable for Dairy Farmers of Canada

In its quarterly review of the agricultural situation, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics says in part:

In many respects the winter period of 1937-38 was a most favorable one for dairy farmers. The winter was moderately mild throughout Canada and the absence of extreme temperatures and heavy blizzards offset the feed shortage. Low feed prices tended to normal proportions. Most sections benefited from a generous carrying of hay, and in those parts of the west where pasturage had been particularly scanty during the past few years the increased snowfall presented more satisfactory conditions for pastures. Due to the depletion of the cow stock from Prince Edward Island and parts of the Maritime provinces, more feed is left on farms for winter production. Nevertheless, higher prices paid for butter-fat encouraged farmers to give more attention to their dairy herds, so that during the first, crop and low quality feeds in some parts, the milk supply was reasonably well maintained.

The butter position during the winter period was featured by a 6 per cent. decrease in production and a 2.8 per cent. increase in the domestic disappearance over the same period a year ago. The total production was reduced to 25.7 million pounds. The consumption figures recorded increases of 5.1 per cent. in December and 8.7 per cent. in January. The total consumption developed in February when supplies ordinarily are at the peak of the season, was 4.6 per cent. below that of February, 1937, and for the three months it would be 4.6 per cent. above that of the same period of 1936-37. Prices also played a part in the February decrease, increasing from an average of 30½ cents and 31¼ cents in December and January, with a decline to 29¾ cents from last year of approximately 8½ cents in February, representing an advance of 8% cents over that of February 1937.

The cheese position reveals a substantial reduction in the quantities of cheese which moved out of storage during the winter months as compared with the same period of the preceding year. Stocks decrease at December 1 were 27.6 million pounds, and at the first of each month from December 1, 1937, to March 1, 1938 stock increases over the same dates of the preceding year ranged from one-half million pounds to 3.1 million pounds. On the other hand, production during the winter months fell 1.1 million pounds or 23.8 per cent. from last year.

The Editor Turns Naturalist

Some of the most intriguing and interesting stories about the wild life of Canada emanate or are connected up in that mass-production office of The Star, Toronto's Daily Star. The world reads these stories with relish, but Happy Algonquin and for St. Catharines readers? We have a lot here if we choose to search for it.

Let it pass that C. M. Lampard had a baby young skunk in the cellar window sill a year ago. A neighbour had this pet among the ground-hog out of her tulips. The writer cut in two bits a garter snake on his lawn, the snake had hidden under the foliage of a dandelion which was dormant. On Sunday, this dependent also kicked up a nice three foot garter snake (harmless) within 20 yards of the Glen Ridge School. Looking out from the office window at Public Library, Saturday night, the writer saw a six-week old cottontail playing, safe of course, within the precincts of the Scottish Knox Church. We have the staff at Ridley feeding the pheasants and the latter make their usual row about. We have a motorist on the Port Dalhousie highway driving his windshield ruined in dispute with a cock pheasant. There is a goose on Carlisle Street which struts daily on the bank behind the Lawn Bowling Club. The writer has seen the crow looking for feed at 8 a.m. on Scarit Road. All that is needed to this contribution is a supplement by the esteemed correspondent of The Standard who tells of the birds which he notes in the Rosedale Woods, and it may be said here that his observations are highly appreciated by Signor Standard and readers.

If any interest lies in what has been said, it might be enhanced by a true story. A nest of cottontail rabbits had been unearthed on the golf grounds, A Glen Ridge girl, knowing that after the disruption of the nest, Mother Rabbit would be scared away from functioning, retrieved the family, one greater than the Dionnes, six in all. They were tucked, head and the odd hair or two. The girl fed this outfit on eye-dropper for a few days; within two weeks the rabbits were hopping around on the household carpet. It was impossible to get the litter anywhere near housebroken, they were finally transferred to the Glen Ridge Bowling Green. And the progeny is there now.

We have told nothing but the truth. The schoolboy who knew that when they put up a cabin for the rabbits in her garden, that Father Wren first has to make a nest and then sing all day long to attract his mate to it, or to get a mate? In other words, if the nest is not to his satisfactory, Father Wren might be jilted.—St. Catharines Standard.

Letters to the Editor

"Dear Sirs,

I have the article in your paper by Maud Pringle Fox about Mrs. Ida Ketcheson Wright of the 14th S.S. of Madoc. I would like to correct the statement that Mrs. Wright was in the U.S.A. Though a resident of Miami, Florida, for six months each winter, I never was a citizen and have lived (since my marriage in 1897 to Dr. W. Wright), in western Canada, except for four years we spent in Toronto. My husband had the intention of going back out of Miami, and we went down first for a holiday, and I suppose of the land, if we didn't like it well enough to live there. We did find it a climate very trying to me, and urge to be under the good old Ontario sky, once more brought us back to a farm three miles from Napinka. Anyone of the old pupils who knew me from me, it will be a pleasure to renew old friendship, and review old times. Many changes have come in my life, some very sad, as my husband and some of my children have been taken from me but I can still say my childhood memories are precious to me, and I like to write or talk to them. I believe me ever a Canadian, proud of my birthplace, and my British heritage.

"Yours sincerely,
"Mrs R. D. Wright."

Plainfield

Plainfield—Rev. George A. Williams, field man for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the United Church of Canada gave three very inspiring addresses to the congregations of Plainfield pastoral charge on Sunday. Mr. Williams emphasized the idea of being co-workers together with God. He said, "God cannot build his kingdom in the world without the help of man. Some twenty-five thousand older workers and givers in the church die each year. The young folk must come up and take their places if the church is to go forward in the discharge of its task." Mr. Williams urged young people to give that the churches their fathers erected with much hardship and sacrifice might fulfil the purpose for which they came into being. In the United Church, said the speaker we work on a budget system. All funds are pooled to make a budget to carry on the work of the home church and another to carry on the work undertaken by the various departments of the church. This saves several appeals being made each year and is the result of expressed desire on the part of the people. At the evening service Mr. Williams spoke on "The Romance of Christian Missions," and drew a number of impressive word pictures outlining the great change the gospel message had wrought among the people of Formosa, where he had worked for a number of years as a missionary.

Graded CANNED FRUITS and VEGETABLES

THE Canadian housewife may buy canned fruits and vegetables without speculation. Long before the can is opened . . . as soon as she sees it on the grocer's counter . . . she can know exactly the type and quality of the fruit or vegetable inside. The Dominion Government grade mark, printed on the label, is her guide!

All varieties of Canadian canned fruits and vegetables are graded according to standards established by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. There are three grades: "Fancy Quality," which indicates first grade; "Choice Quality," which indicates second grade; and "Standard Quality," which indicates third grade. The correct grade mark as printed on the label of each can . . . so, ask for the quality you want by its grade name; then examine the label on your purchase and be sure the grade mark printed on the can corresponds with the grade you requested.

LIST OF GRADED CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Apples	Blueberries	Loganberries	Pumpkin
Apple Sauce	Cherries	Mushrooms	Raspberries
Apricots	Currants	Peas (one set indicates all grades of quality)	Rhubarb

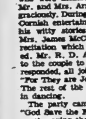
Mark 25th Anniversary Of Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William Arnott, observed their 25th wedding anniversary in Conservative Club rooms on Monday evening, May 23rd. The first of the evening was spent in playing euchre, bridge and peanut euchre, were enjoyed. The following were the prize winners: first lady, Mrs. W. Spencer, second, Miss Margaret, Worrell, third, Mrs. H. Curtin, fourth, Mrs. C. Kellett; Men's first, Mr. W. Warham; second, Mr. Frank McEwen; third, Mr. Gillespie; fourth, Mr. J. Cormier. Peanut euchre winner, Miss Winnie Allen. Then lunch was served.



The tables were formed in "U" shape, with white linen cloths. The side tables were centred with low bowls of lilacs with tall pink candles. The end table was centred with the three layer wedding cake, and tall candles. The favours were dainty pink rose shaped cups with a tiny rose bud tied with satin ribbon on the handle and filled with candies. The ladies made a very pretty picture.

Mrs. R. D. Arnott presented Mr. and Mrs. Arnott with a beautiful silver cake plate with $25.00 in it—the silver dollars on behalf of the guests, who were members of the ... Mr. and Mrs. Arnott thanked them graciously. During lunch Mr. George Cornish entertained with many of his witty stories and recitations. Mrs. James McCluskey also gave a recitation which was much enjoyed. Mr. R. D. Arnott gave a toast to the couple in which Mr. Arnott responded, all joined in the singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows". The rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

The party came to an end with "God Save the King" with all the guests saying they had a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnott were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. There were about sixty-five guests present including school chums of Mrs. Arnott from Toronto.

They also received a number of beautiful anniversary cards.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Should a Girl Marry to Suit Her Parents?

Parent-Teacher Associations all over the United States are increasingly worried over the ever-widening breach between parents and children; between the ideals of one generation and the next. But it hasn't got to the point where they'd only go back a little, they'd find that human nature is not worried about the same conditions as Moses in the time of Julius Caesars.

It seems there are parents and parents, also children and children. Some parents are abnormally strict, and wish to lead their children's lives for them. Other parents are so busy, having Indian summer love affairs of their own, that the children seem bereft of any family influence whatever. Let this letter for instance:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm 21 and wish you'd write a piece to make my family realize that girls of my age are entitled to a few friends—both girls and boys. I suppose this because they always read your column. I feel that I may be entrusted to go to an occasional party, and I think that my mother would declare a moratorium on her overintense naggings, for at least a month.

"The unforgivable thing I did was to break my engagement to a man who had grown utterly distasteful to me, and who would have spoiled my life. But the family wanted him for a son-in-law because he was a 'well-fixed'.

"He was the type of man who always introduces the lecturer when he comes to town. He always writes his opinion to the newspapers. He's married, worried, third. Mrs. H. E. Curtin, fourth, Mrs. C. Kellett; Men's first, Mr. W. Warham; second, Mr. Frank McEwen; third, Mr. Gillespie; fourth, Mr. J. Cormier. Peanut euchre winner, Miss Winnie Allen. Then lunch was served.

"He wanted to tell me what to do, what to think, what to wear, what to eat; wanted me always to bear in mind that I was to be his wife, and never, never to do anything that might reflect on that proud position. When I finally got fed up on all this teaching, telling, guiding, philosophizing, I broke my engagement.

"And then the family acted as if I had committed murder. They demanded that I crawl and make up. Told me it was my duty. Told me I was bringing their gray hairs in dishonor to the grave. And finally, they insisted upon my marrying this admirable Crichton, even though he was utterly repulsive to me.

"I fled to the house of my grandmother, who is much more understanding and progressive than her son, my father, and I got a job, a very tiny one in the local library because I had never studied library science. Grandmother says I may live with her.

"And now my father is not being as docile and obedient to his mother as he says children should be to their parents. In fact, the letter he wrote her about having me is distinctly sassy. Granny and I had a good laugh over it. Nevertheless, she says I may stay with her, and I intend to stay until mother stops nagging, and my home becomes a real home where I can see my friends, and have a little liberty of action.

"I wouldn't marry any man if I didn't love him, and I think mother and father are absolutely wrong in trying to force me to marry a born fuss because he has money, and is known as a prominent citizen.

"Jane"

If conditions have not been restored too deeply by your own feeling of injustice, my dear Jane, you have my entire sympathy. You're quite right not to marry a man for whom you have no affection, simply to the contrary, notwithstanding what mother thinks. And thank goodness for that grand old granny the fates have given you!

Place Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine has been asked to make hand-lettered place cards for the tables at a reception following an evening wedding to take place very soon.

1—Will you please tell us what form to use on the place cards; should the name be lettered in full, such as Miss Mary Evelyn Smith or Mr. John Allen Smith, or should they read simply, "Miss Smith", Mrs. Smith or "Mr. Smith"?

2—Should the woman guests wear hats at such a wedding . . . at 6 o'clock in the church, and at the reception afterward?

G.

1—If there are but few guests, and the use of the last name is enough identification, that, with the title . . . Mrs., Miss, Mr., is enough. That is the place card would read: Mrs. Smith, Miss Smith, Mr. Smith. But if further identification is needed . . . as . . . as . . . be with "the Smiths" . . . the first name would also be used. But it would not be necessary to add the middle name.

2—Whether or not the women wear hats at the church ceremony depends on the degree of formality of the wedding, and whether or not the bride considers her six o'clock wedding a day-time wedding. Between seven day and evening hours (six o'clock, and half after six o'clock are definite hours for the guests to determine what they are expected to wear. So, before a wedding, the bride, or her mother, decide whether she considers her wedding a day-time wedding or an evening one, an she will be expected to make her choice clear to her guests.

If the wedding is to be an informal one, a day-time one, the women guests will wear hats to the ceremony and to the reception afterward. If it is to be a formal wedding, and is to be considered an evening wedding, the women guests would wear formal evening dress and would not wear hats, unless to the ceremony, if the church denominational tradition demands head-covering for women.

Bridal Attendants' Duties

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine is to be best man at an informal wedding this week.

1—Please give me an idea of what should be said in proposing a toast at the reception? Should the toast be proposed to the bride or to the bride and groom?

2—The bride-to-be has asked me to hold her coat. Should I stand at the back of the church all through the ceremony, or sit with the group after this duty is performed? I am to be a guest.

P.

1—The toast should be proposed to the bride and bridegroom. It may be as simple as "To the bride and bridegroom" or "To Mary and John", or it may be a bit longer to say, "May they always walk with happiness".

2—It will not be necessary for you to hold the bride's coat during the ceremony. After you have helped her take it off, you can find a place, I am sure, where it can be left in a room near the vestibule or in the vestibule, to be taken up after the ceremony. If you apparently are a close friend of the bride, she would ask you to have you stand at the back of the church during the ceremony . . . or you should take your place with the guests.

Do Not Laud Youngster Too Much

Encouragement is All Right But Don't Let Him Feel Superior

(By LISA GRENELLE)

When Bobby was eight he wrote a poem, a lovely poem about birds and flowers, yet not too sentimentally drastic. Even Father liked it, and, of course, Mother and Aunt Em went into raptures over it.

You know what it is to discover a poet in the family—it's like treasure found in the cellar. It's quite a shock, perhaps—things are never quite the same again; nobody is quite natural after that.

Too young to feel ashamed of a sensitivity to beauty, Bobby was more than pleased at the reaction of his public, as the exclamations of the various and sundry persons to whom Mother read his poem aloud.

Liked Admiration

Being a bright boy, Bobby recognized admiration when he heard it and saw it, and, being human, he belonged and radiated under its warmth, and glow. Now did it take him long to be sold on Mother's and her friends' point of view that he, Bobby, was something remarkable, very superior to the ordinary run of children, something wonderful and gifted and special.

Bobby's teacher read the poem aloud in class. The children were not as impressed as Mother's audience of grown-ups had been. Bobby himself was impressed, also the teacher. From then on Bobby, even at school, was on a different footing—something special.

His attitude of superiority did not improve his poetry. Quite the contrary. Bobby wrote more poems of any special merit after that first one, which he wrote because he wanted to and not for a purpose, or as a pose.

Critikan Helpful

Real talent thrives on the rough and tumble of life, on pain and humiliation, on contempt and experience, on living. The more you live the more you have to say, and the more you have to say the better the poems or the pictures. Parents who excuse the girl child from life, separate him from ordinary experience by making him feel set apart, are not only stealing up personal unhappiness for him, but are depriving his talent of the only food which can nourish it.

I'm a great believer in praise and encouragement. If Jamie or Janie has dope a work of art, is between Mother and Father to show some interest and appreciation. But it's not necessary to run in the neighbors, or to make the child feel he is unique and superior. Better, after Mother's praise is in, to get him to criticize it a little himself. Suggest that next time he might do better.

Fashion Flashes

(By ALICE ALDEN)

On the coast many of the smartest women are sponsoring dashing suits. A beauty is a two-piece shirt-in dusty pink suede, the collarless jacket having a wide belt and self-covered buttons down the front. Sleeves are short with turn back cuffs.

Something different in fur bolero is a model made of vertical skins each dyed a different shade of blue, ranging from the brownish blue of natural blue fox to navy blue dyed fox.

We'll be seeing you in one of those chiffon scarf hats, judging from the wide acceptance of this fashion.

A typical model is a capeline with brim cupped in the centre front and disc crown. The fabric is shantung straw in an old gold shade, and the chiffon scarf-fichu scarfs are brought through the brim to tie or drape under the chin.

Well-matched glove and bag sets are selling well. Pin dotted white pigskin with stitching of blue and a binding of blue kid is used for such a set, with accessories of it of blue kidskin with appliques and stitching in red and white.

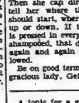
Just right for smart daytime wear is a black-and-white set of navy blue sheer woollen. With the skirt is a short little cape that may be folded across or left open to hang in jabot revers. The blouse is of white chiffon with a printed red fish design.

Just about the loveliest evening wrap we have seen this season is of skins of white fox for mounted on black lace. Long V-shaped bands run down the back and front in skin curved bands of the fur.

Give Hair "Own Way" For Best Wave Pattern

JANE REYAN is proud of her lovely, lustrous hair

(By HELEN FOLLETT)



Women who fly from one beauty shop to another and have different operators arrange their finger waves, need not be surprised if their tresses go on a strike and won't stay put. The wave goes slinky a few days after the shampoo. The permanent gets the crown for this state of rioting and that isn't fair. The difficulty hinges on the fact that hair has ideas of its own, likes to have a say-so in its arrangement.

Many an operator who is conscientious, experienced and skilful is not successful in giving finger waves that endure for any length of time. They haven't learned that hair must have its own way. By combing it out straight by and by pushing the strand onward, a pattern comes to light. When that is followed, the wave will be secure. Even brushing won't demolish it.

If a woman will interest herself in the matter, she will discover the idiosyncracies of her precious wool. Then, when she goes to the operator, tell her where the finger wave should start, where it means to go up or down. If the same pattern is pressed in every time the hair is to call in the neighbors, or to make the child feel he is unique and superior. Better, after Mother's praise is in, to get him to criticize it a little himself. Suggest that next time he might do better.

A tonic for a simple black frock is a brimmed hat of pink felt, the upturned brim to one side showing a black lining. A matching bolero of quilted felt completes a grand pick-up.

Here comes the bride in a beautiful frock of white satin with a corselet girdle of pearl-studded rhinestones with points in front and back. High neckline, draped across, and a skirt widened by a full panel train starting at the waistline in back and embroidered in pearls are details.

Water Is a Great Aid to Beauty

(By HELEN FOLLETT)

MARY CARLISLE

Drinks plenty of water for health's sake.

Water is a good friend to the beauty seeker. She needs it inside and out, plenty of it. Two-thirds of the body weight consists of water. If the body is to be properly nourished and cleansed of its waste, there must be a considerable intake of liquids each day.

This may not interest you, little one, but remember that the complexion reflects the condition of the body. The skin is a health barometer it tells how things are doing. As your wise doctor will tell you. Splendid health and vitality keep the texture of the skin fine, helps it to retain its youthful coloring.

Six glasses of water a day are considered the right allowance, not so many are needed when other liquids are taken. Even the girl who drinks a quart of milk a day needs some water.

Start the day with a glass of water, warm or cold. It washes out the intestinal organs, gives a sense of refreshment.

The daily bath brings grand beauty returns because it stimulates the functions of the skin, sets blood streams skipping.

Are you a pretty walker? How do you carry yourself? Do you slink along or chug? You should walk as lightly as if you were dreading on air. Few women do.

It can be done. Keep your backbone tall. Tuck in your tummy. Let shoulders and arms fall naturally and easily. Put spring in your step. Keep toes pointed straight ahead and downward.

Beauty shops sell eyelash curlers. They look like miniature curling irons but they aren't heated. That wouldn't do. Careless girls would burn their eye fringes. You place the tips of your precious winkers in the iron, give it an upward roll. The tiny shafts are stretched, day up-tilted and curly for an hour or more.

Boston Bees Travelling In High Gear Being Third In Loop

Winning of Overtime Games Gives Boston Bees Tight Hold On Third Rung in National

Four Such Contests Out of Seven Games Played Won by Bees

INDIANS ADVANCE

Associated Press Sports Writer

If baseball can find out how visiting team can win an extra inning game from the Bees in Boston, he probably could make himself a nice piece of change selling the secret to seven other National League managers.

It's getting so the fans in the National League park want to main their rain checks good for the next day if the Bees finish a game in the regulation nine innings.

Casey Stengel's outfit has played four overtime engagements at home in the last seven games, and has finished on top of each one of them. And that's one of the larger reasons why the Bees haye a tight hold on third place in the National League.

They aren't hitting much harder than the size of their shoes, as usual, so they're relying on the art of turning in fine pitchers. Deacon Danny MacFayden, Jim Turner, Lou Fette and Lefty Freddie Mitchell Shoffner.

The combination resulted in two victories in 25 innings against the Pirates on consecutive days, an 11-inning decision over Chicago Cubs, and, as recently as yesterday, a 9-3 win over Cincinnati Reds for another 11-inning affair. In this one, MacFayden turned in a seven hitter to defeat Derringer and boost the Bees 1 1-2 games in front of the Brooklynites. They were going at a merry clip until they rounded Boston for their current series.

The Cubs, sparked by the three-hit pitching of Larry French, handed the doddering Dodgers a 7-3 setback. For the Giants Hal Schumacher hurled six-hit ball and beat the Cardinals 3-1.

Over in the American League Cleveland Indians gained a full game on their nearest rivals by knocking off the second-place Boston Red Sox 6-4.

The Yankees, staggering in third place, continued to look like champs of form as they dropped a 7-4 decision to the Tigers, with four home runs, two each by Rudy York and Hank Greenberg, accounting for all the Detroit runs.

Rookie Howard Mills hurled 13 full innings as the St. Louis Browns outlasted the Senators 4-3. The White Sox closed three homers to topple the Athletics 7-4.

N. GROCERYMEN WIN OPENER IN SOFTBALL LOOP

Defeat Booth And McCrea Squad by One-Sided Score

POINTERS WIN

Come From Behind to Beat Corbys by 9-8 Count

Softball was officially ushered in the Belleville and District Softball League with two games last evening, the National Grocers nine taking a one-sided 30 to 1 verdict over Booth and McCrea, and the Canada Cement club eking out a belated 9 to 8 victory over the Corbys A.C. at Point Anne.

His Worship Mayor Jamieson Bone officially opened the softball season at the new Coleman Field ground by throwing the first ball, other league officials assisting in the opening ceremonies.

Behind the batting pitching of their new-found pitching ace, Freddie Visall, the National Grocers pounded the offering of two of Coach Hank Ryan's Booth and McCrea hurlers. Visall limited the Cowleyed to six scattered hits and was always on top. Both games were of the seven inning duration.

Down at Point Anne, however, Connie Harris, hurling for Corbys, had the Pointers completely at his bits, but his wildness walked in nine runs and allowed to give the hookisters a 9 to 8 victory. Johnnie Hawkins, veteran of the Point nine and was pitched for eleven safeties, but hurled superb ball in the pinches, when the Corbys had wielded potent bats for the losers, Point ace struck out seven batsmen per more than one safety off the deliveries of Harris. The winners scored five runs in the fifth on a combination of a hit in the second inning, walks and errors according for these tallies. Point Anne came from behind to score three in the sixth and clinched the decision, when Hutchings, Bawden, Generaux and Stern got hit in succession, Green getting the remaining fifth tally.

The line-ups—Point Anne—Loft, Generaux, Stero, Green, Dickey, Hutchin, Whitehead, Stevens and Bawden. Corbys A.C.— Barriage, Miller, Kilner, Reid, Cox, McMartin, McGuire, Grey and Harris.

Score by innings:

Corbys A.C. 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 3—8 runs
Point Ane.. 1 5 0 0 0 3 x—9 runs

Umpires—Hawken and Maracle.

Presentation Made

On behalf of the Belleville Softball Association Harry Rollins presented a pen and pencil set to Presidents William Todd, thus showing a slight token of the appreciation of the league in recognizing the efforts of Mr. Todd in making the league the success it is this early days. Numerous speeches from other league officials followed, prior to the presentation by Secretary Pitt, and President Todd, who now resides in Kingston, thanked each and everybody his thanks to the general gathering.

Limiting the Booth and McCrea nine to four scattered hits, Freddie Visall pitched the National Grocerymen's nine, was in rare form, Visall striking out seven and walked two, while the Grocerymen cuffed the offering of two Booth pitchers for thirteen safeties and seven runs. St. Louis hit for the circuit, while Visall, Hawkins, Bill Bowden and Sager hitting well in the pinches.

The line-ups— National Grocers Ltd.—Hems, Cy Barriage, Tuttle, St. Louis, Barriage, Fowler, Sleger, Jenkinson, Sine, Sinfield and Visall. Booth-McCrae — Knott, Sager, Howell, Lundberg, Thompson, Jenkinson, Thrasher, Mansfield, Hawkins, Smith and Bland.

Home by innings

Nat. Grocers 0 7 7 3 0 3—30 runs
Booth-McCrae 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 run

Umpires—Ehnler and Hardwick.

Prep and Juniors Stage Swim Meet

Some 20 members of the Prep and Junior groups at the local Y.M.C.A. pool took part in a swim meet in addition in the "Y" pool for the benefit of those who are learning to swim. The seating facilities were filled to over-flowing, over 100 interested adults being present to see the demonstration, under the direction of instructor Fred Thrasher.

Some of the events capably demonstrated by these youthful members of the Association included the flutter kick, porpoise dive, flutter kick, back crawl, side stroke, breast race, exhibitions of diving, all types, water polo and medley races. Jimmie Weeks assisted in the program.

Softball

Three Juvenile games in the K-Y league saw two decisions handed down while the other game went the way of the Wee Enders battled to a draw with the Lucky Strikes, the game being terminated by darkness.

At Q.A.S. grounds the Cubs won from the Westerns by default, the latter not fielding a full team, while at Q.M.S. grounds the Bearcats downed the Cubs by the score of 10 to 1 in a loosely played game.

COMMENT FROM THE COACH

Watch Head and Hands For Swimming Success

By Lloyd A. Percival

With swimming days just around the corner, let's discuss a few fundamental swimming faults and their remedies. The most common fault is in most sports is the expenditure of too much energy. There is too much awe-inspiring thrashing of legs and arms resulting in utter exhaustion for the impatient lubber.

To swim well you must swim easily and without apparent effort. Eliminate all false motions, all needless drain on the muscles; every single action, in fact, that does not contribute to your objective—a smooth, flowing movement. Good form is cultivated, not for show, but for efficiency and is essential to good performance.

Burying the Head

Here are a few common mistakes in swimming. Many err in burying the head too far under the water during the crawl. The eyes should be kept on a level with the water. If you go deeper than that you will pull the shoulders under and spoil the whole arm stroke. If you have trouble getting the head down enough out of the water to breathe, it is probably because you turn the head back in the water too soon after the inhale, pulling the shoulders of the water too under and causing a body roll. Hold the head on the side until the next is ready to drive again. Submerging the face too soon makes it impossible to get three kicks in for each arm movement.

Many swimmers bring their hands out of the water, palms up. Don't. This causes a waving arm, which compels the body to roll on that side as the waving motion can be accommodated. The hand must flip over from the wrist just as it emerges and then the wrist drop limp from the wrist. Don't cup the fingers; extend them naturally, all touching.

Fingers First

Don't reach too far forward. Make sure the fingers enter the water before the elbow and you will be in the pit. Keep the shoulders square, at ease, and not stiff. Don't let the elbow on the drive or follow through. When you drive you should feel the body lift upward and forward as you push the water away. Master the knack of keeping the arm completely limp on the recovery—if you tense, it creaks, a roll.

If you are troubled with the common problem of "feet sinking," you are, in all probability, lifting or bobbing the head too high. If you lift the head to breathe—instead of pivoting—your feet will automatically sink. Don't kick frantically or save needle—three kicks to each arm movement are enough. Arm like beach, relax and watch the head position.

Breathing in the water is a lot different from ordinary breathing. You must inhale deeply but with a sharp suck; exhale completely with a forceful blow. Slow, normal inhalation will throw you all off your timing — quick half-breaths are just as fatal to good form. Another bad mistake is taking too deep breath and holding it through a number of arm movements. This only tires you.

Lessons in Learning

Henry Picard visited me in New York recently. He brought many interesting stories about his victory in the Masters' tournament in Augusta, also about his experiences in teaching the game to others.

The story that amused me most was the one about the man who had driven a hundred miles to get lessons from Henry at his home course in Hershey, Pa. He was natural at the course the player told Picard that he didn't want his grip changed, that at least once in every mile he travelled he had promised himself that he would not be talked into adopting the interlocking grip. His mind was set against it, the new grp that he insisted upon studying further would only hold on the club and advised Henry to concentrate on other parts of his swing.

Nine Out of 13

It seems that this was one of the rare occasions when the instructor thought more about the club he is done for the player than he did about the player's self-prescription. Mr. Hagen and Mr. Picard and Mr. Pupil that he could either adopt the interlocking grip or fight back into his car and drive on, no doubt muttering.

The pupil allowed his hands to be arranged in the new way and this one step was sufficient to change distance and accuracy than he ever had known, he said. If you have what your feelings prompt about golf you'll never enjoy consistent success.

New York, May 26—(AP)—Unless the advance sale shows a brisk pick-up today, Ross and Armstrong will be lucky to draw $125,000 . . .

St. Louis Browns are operating in the red for the first time in 1932 when the Reds were a short time the next year, but didn't stick. He's with Cincinnati to stay this year if his 5-0 five hit shutout over the Giants is any criterion.

ARMSTRONG-ROSS BOUT A NATURAL

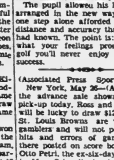
Likely One of The Greatest Fights in Boxing History Will Result

By Gayle Talbot

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, May 26 —(AP)— Chances are that one of the great fights of boxing history will be met tonight in a big smoken saucer out on Long Island, when Barney Ross defend, his Welterweight championship against the negro Featherweight king, Henry Armstrong.

There have been a lot of bigger fights, but it would be difficult to recall one that promised more action than this 15-rounder between the two best little men in the business.



Neither Armstrong nor Ross has been knocked out, and between them they virtually have cleaned out the lighter divisions. Only Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion remains to give them a real argument. The winner tonight is due to fight Lou later in the summer.

Such betting as there was today still favored the 24-year-old Barney to fight off his younger antagonist, since Henry's lunging, swinging attack, and win. Scarcely one of the experts thought there would be a knockout, despite Armstrong's record of having stopped 35 of his last 37 foes.

This negro's trail of destruction did not lead him through men like Ross, who has been fighting the best of the lightweights and welterweights for the last four years. Barney has stood and slugged for a total of 125 rounds with Vanscourer's Jimmy McLarnin, Tony Canzoneri, Lou Ambers and Cleferino Garcia. Armstrong hasn't met that kind.

Ross' knockdown came when Garcia conked him for a three-count in their first meeting. Barney got off the floor to beat him.

Heath Hitting

The Cleveland Indians have Earl Averill, Bruce Campbell and Julius Solters for outfield duty, and apparently hard to break into the lineup, but Jeff Heath is hitting better all the time is Jeff Heath, ABOVE. Jeff is a six footer, born in Port William, Ontario.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

It may not be news to some but, but do not be at all surprised if the senior O.R.F.U. blacks in Peterboro don't win this coming season. As a matter of fact all signs somehow have practically been completed, closing the negotiations. It seems that the Montreal C.R.A.C. team, runners-up to Ottawa Senators for the O.R.F.U. title, decided there must be a jumping off place between Sarnia and Montreal and recently chose Peterboro as the logical spot. A meeting of O.R.F.U. officials recently visited the Liftlock City, even if the Peterboro scribe was snoozing beneath a willow tree along the banks of the Otonabee, and offered an 10-man senior O.R.F.U. team to operate in the Liftlock City. We're passing this bit of exclusive news along to the Peterboro scribe at no cost what-so-ever.

Apparently they are keeping many secrets out in Peterboro. It seems the reason Bill Caldwell and Eddie Starr are not playing this year is due to some slight financial misunderstanding. The centres around Doug Brennan. Frankly speaking, Starr and Caldwlise do not realise Brennan was the difference between the Petes winning the O.R.F.U. and the Flyers—still it's high time some person signed these gentlemen off and let them in on the secret. Most any hockey fan saw the difference, once Brennan joined the club—his stocking of the Puck, as an ice artist, was unequalled all over the circuit. But why Starr and Caldwell take their hockey differences out on the ball club is the question that is not answered. Incidentally the Petes new third sacker, Bobbie Dell is a smooth fielder with a beautiful throwing arm and Calladine will have to be watched.

Observed by Bill Dooly of the Philadelphia Record. "Joe Krakauskas, willowy left-hander who won four games for the Senators when brought up from Trenton last fall, is registering a heavy kick about being sent back whence he came. If the Senators don't see in him something of it, Joe claims he is too good a pitcher for a town like Trenton . . . Paul Dean and Leonard's style of throwing the baseball by gripping the ball with his finger tips originated in the major leagues with Eddie Rommel.

Crossroads

by Kathleen Norris

The house details included a wedding dress of creamy satin so delicate and beautiful that it actually could be passed through a bracelet without a flutter, the ridiculous bridesmaids' frocks simply a trifle warmer in tone; a veil and its crisp veiling, and a Juliet cap all faintly browned but that had adorned Ada, Herford's bridal costume twenty-four years earlier and her mother's before.

Gloria forgot everything except that she was a woman and beloved and going to be married. She flashed about the house like a gleam of sunshine; her mother's attempts at little serious conversations with her always ended in a burst of disrespectful laughter that Gloria's apologetic hug and kiss did their best to soften.

"But, Mother, you're terribly solemn!"

"Life is solemn sometimes, Gloria."

"I don't see why it need be!"

"Because you're not a child any more, dear. That changes everything for a woman. She doesn't belong to herself anymore; she belongs to her husband and if she loves him she wants to. It's a happier way, Marriage will always demand a greater sacrifice from the woman than from the man, Gloria, and to forbear—that's her duty—and to be agreeable when she's cross, and patient when she feels tired. There will be many adjustments, little differences will seem important, little faults will be exaggerated, but remember—"

"For that matter," Gloria said, when she had listened dutifully to some time, "for that matter, Peter and I have terrible faults, Mother. We had an awful one last night, when I wanted to go to the Dillingham brawl and he didn't. And I was too tired."

"Gloria, how could you be so unreasonable, when it was only to save your wearing yourself out?"

"Oh, I liked to get him mad and try to boss me!" Gloria said with a shamefaced giggle.

"You are a woman now, Gloria, dear, to take the upper hand, dear, and show her when she is foolish and prevent her from making mistakes."

Gloria, lying flat on a couch, with all the little necessaries for manicuring close at hand, flashed a little at the alleged unfairness of it all. "Well, I didn't mean that!" she said.

"But I noticed you obeyed; you didn't go out again last night," Ada reminded her loudly.

"I didn't want to. Anyway, the last time we scrapped I got my way," she countered, as if talking to herself.

"That's exactly the spirit that you can't take into marriage, Glory. You'll never, ever succeed. There has to be a head to a house, and Nature decrees that it shall be the man. Jep married life runs long without its ups and downs, and when they come cases one has to give way."

"Pah!" said Glory tartly, "it won't be me!"

"Then your marriage will be one more failure!" Ada said, displeased.

"Not necessarily, Peter, now, Gloria exhausted, "was absolutely white around the gills over this silverware thing, but I stuck it out and got a little mad, and he came right to heel."

"What allowance thing?"

"Dad giving me seventeen hundred a year."

"Peter objected?"

"Objected! He just about wrecked the whole thing. He was going to support his wife or get out and I was a pampered poodle and I don't know what all!"

"But Peter gave in?" Ada asked.

"Of course he gave in, the darling, and he'll always give in unless I do, and I love him so much I'm always on my head for him!" Gloria, all giddy girlhood again, said, laughing. "And that—sounds like him downstairs! Oh, Peter!" she screamed, running out into the hall. "Darling, I'm up here; I'm not dressed—I'll be right down. Go silver's here; wait until you see it!! Don't open anything! I sifted them on the library table, I don't even look at the outsides. I'll not be two minutes!"

Comforted, Ada helped her hurry into the dressing room Hilda dress, the sturdy little shoes, the shaggy little coat. She and Peter were presently going for a walk. Ada would have been even more comfortable if she could have heard their long talk as they went.

"Peter, d'you know what you are? You're wise," Gloria said. Her gold-brown hair, her dark eyes and landrils about the glowing young face into which the foggy wind had whipped high color; Gloria's eyes were shining. "I admire you," she said.

"Oh, cut it out!" protested Peter, but complacently. He was not holding her tightly by one elbow, against the wind; now they began to walk again, laughing, clinging together.

"You're smart," said Gloria, "but you're wise. There's a big difference. I can balance a hospital bed, gets and order groceries; I can go right ahead without reasoning. But you can see what you want much sense there is, or isn't, in things."

"You offer me that as a year from now."

"Uh, I'll always think you're the wisest person I've ever known, Peter." Gloria went on suddenly, with a sigh, "I suppose I'll miss Dad, I wonder if we ought to let him help us out with our finances. Listen," she added, crowding up against him in an engaging fashion quite her own, both small gloved hands locked about his arm, "listen before you say anything. It would have meant that we waited, you know, it might have meant years. Would you have been happier that way?"

"Just a bird's brains, that's all," Peter said indulgently.

"No, but seriously, Pete. I'm getting to love you so! Gloria said, bright tears suddenly in her eyes, "that everything you desire seems to me right. It's weariudded; I know it; but I can't seem to stop. Was I wrong about that? Only, listen, Peter, don't speak yet. "It would have seemed mean to Dad when he wanted so to have a finger in the pie, to refuse it. Or, at least, would it? Wouldn't it have seemed mean to Dad? No, wait. Don't speak yet. It seemed to me—"

"I can see I'm never going to speak. If you'd only let me say it, you'd learn." Peter said with a laugh, "that I'm not at all sure I was right about it. There are two sides to it, anyway. If a man can't support his wife comfortably, then why shouldn't her father, if he has him, step in and help? It gives him pleasure, and it smooths the way for us. I suppose what I'll like best," Peter went on, finding his words slowly, "is that if there should be children, they'll have a part in it, and you and I were alone in the world, we'd have your chances on thirty-five a week!"

"Plus twenty-five a week, and I'm reminded that—" Gloria began, reminded her.

"Shh! heck, Glory, you'd be married to me."

"Yes, what of it? Loads of married women are in positions."

"But suppose she preferred it to dishwashing and scrimping and worrying?"

INSTALMENT 6

Peter was only twenty-five, but his darkened face suddenly looked years older.

"What if she did—" he began, on a hard quick tone. But at Gloria's sudden sob, he broke off, took it in him, his manner changed and he burst out laughing. "Aw, listen, Glory, I can balance a hospital bed, gets and order groceries; I can go right ahead without reasoning. But you can see what you want much sense there is, or isn't, in things."

"You offer me that as a year from now."

"Uh, I'll always think you're the wisest person I've ever known, Peter." Gloria went on suddenly, with a sigh, "I suppose I'll miss Dad, I wonder if we ought to let him help us out with our finances. Listen," she added, crowding up against him in an engaging fashion quite her own, both small gloved hands locked about his arm, "listen before you say anything. It would have meant that we waited, you know, it might have meant years. Would you have been happier that way?"

"Just a bird's brains, that's all," Peter said indulgently.

"No, but seriously, Pete. I'm getting to love you so!" Gloria said, bright tears suddenly in her eyes, "that everything you desire seems to me right. It's wearudd

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife"

Mr. Deeds got taken to town by a girl who met him in Paris!"

That, in a nutshell, is the new Claudette Colbert-Gary Cooper comedy, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," a Paramount picture which had its local premiers last night at the Belle Theatre.

Set against the background of Europe's gayest pleasure spots, the picture tells the mad story of a millionaire multi-millionaire who runs through a series of seven wives in rapid succession. He meets his match in the lovely French aristocrat who frankly marries him for his money and tames her "shrew" with the most unexpected means.

Cooper, in his role of the blase Crosnia who does not become interested in his wife until he almost loses her, is a new person and bears out the predictions of many of his admirers that his ideal part would be that of a man-of-the-world. Miss Colbert, playing the urbane and resourceful daughter of the French artisocracy, tames her husband and she tamed her two in "I Met Him in Paris."

Throughout their hectic honeymoon in Nice, the Tyrol, Vienna and Paris, Mrs. Bluebeard makes it clear that it is only a business relation. She pays no attention to her husband's overbearing ish, refuses his advances and generally has the upper hand most of the time. Cooper is "surprise" her in various ways and finally succeeds in having his bride sworn off every woman, falls madly in love with the one who ignored him.

In the belief, however, that her husband will already divorced her, Miss Colbert still refuses to give in, and realizes that she has carried the game too far when she allows Cooper to "surprise" her in the room with himself. Then hoping to make him more jealous than ever, she proves the last straw, and Cooper goes ahead with his plans to make the eighth ex-wife.

With the tables turned, Miss Colbert realizes she is in love with her husband and plans a second honeymoon to about Europe in the hopes of winning him back. Ernst Lubitsch, the producer and director of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife", has turned on the famous "Lubitsch touch" full force and the picture has all the comic subtlety and gay sophistication that have made his name a watchword. With Colbert and Cooper at the wheel, it should strike off next year's list for screen entertainment in the comedy line.

"Oh, Say You Can Hear," a smart multiple-reel musical comedy and an interesting topical precede the feature picture. The entire program will be repeated again tonight and Friday, matinee and evening.

MONTREAL TEAM IS MOVING UP

Only Two Games Removed From First Division

(By The Associated Press)

Plenty of noise is heard from the cellar of the International League these days where the weak sisters of the circuit are staging the old worm-turning act.

Montreal Royals are the latest club to refuse to take it on the chin. Royals trounced Rochester Red Wings 14-6 yesterday, thus making threatening gestures towards the first division from their seventh place berth.

Rabbit Maranville's men have won four of their last five games, and despite their lowly position in the standings are but two games behind the fourth place Red Wings who occupy the second spot.

Bufalo Bisons took over the Red Wings, runner-up spot by whipping Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 while Baltimore Orioles, who along with Syracuse Chiefs are tied for the third. Fifth place Jersey City Giants lost a chance to move into second place when they were beaten 8-2 by the league-leading Newark Bears. Three hits, two errors and 13 in holding the Giants to six hits.

Window Cords and Washers

By MADELEINE DIAZ

Sixty-year-old John Henderson was the handy man who came to the old jobs for repairing at 47 Gordon place, once a sedately fashionable private residence, now a tenement apartment house on the lower west side of town.

"Don't mind me!" he told Daphne Jones, as he puttered over her kitchen sink. "All this house here needs is a new washer. You just go along with your tidying up and I'll be through in no time. I came early so as to get done before you had to start to work—figure's how most of the parties in this house is office jobs."

Daphne straightened hooks and magazines in her comfortable room and dusted before the open glass between her two song front windows.

"I don't have to leave for fifteen minutes," she said. "You were considerate to come early."

"Well, it's like that," Mr. Henderson admitted without reluctance. "Always planning how I can do a good turn to someone whether I know 'em or not. And just now I was saying to myself as I came in that it was just too bad you couldn't live in the country enough here for young married folks but for a few young girl like you. There's a whole lot pleasanter in one of them new girls' homes. I was living here till one yesterday, up in the east sixties. Rooms are awful small there, but, ashes, they don't need much room! There's reading rooms and reception rooms and every thing downstairs, where the girls can get together and have a jolly time in off time. It's a heap jollier and safer, seems' to me, for a young girl like you. Living here all alone, and probably 'wouldn't cost any more, either, unless they have parties every here and there where the girls can fix up their own cooking."

"But I really do like it here—I'm sure I do," Daphne told Mr. Henderson, taking his suggestions in the spirit in which they were given. Of course there wasn't any use in trying to explain that she would very much rather be lonely by herself than lonely with a lot of other girls, or even just as lonely as she—in a crowded, noisy host.

"Well, of course you're fixed up nice here," said Mr. Henderson, looking about the small studio arranged supply of pots and pans and the small kitchen. "Interested in cooking?"

"Why, yes, I do like to cook."

"Yes, I do," said Mr. Henderson, soothingly. "Just naturally a home body eventually, who won't be in office. That sort of explains things. Well it's only right and natural a girl should like to cook."

Ten minutes later Daphne was on the floor of her office and Mr. Henderson had gained entrance to the window sash. Right above the sash.

"Don't mind me," he told the young man who, shaving brush in hand, had opened the door for him. "Cause I'm up this high I haven't cord of yours and thought I'd get here before you'd left. I always like to be as obliging as I can. You just go ahead with your shaving and I'll be through in no time."

"That's nice," said Robert Shaw, the young man under discussion, as much as a shaving brush can be said to have a voice.

"Well," said Mr. Henderson, "I can't blame you if you came in. You're natural for a young man like you to want to get about a bit, and say, I was just thinking that's much handier it would be for you if you had a car, with the girls and the new Y.M.C.A. places. They've got swimming pools and billiards and everything. You can have all the fun you want and not have to worry. You probably could save money, too."

"I'm not so fond of going out," Robert told Mr. Henderson. "Fact is, I wasn't out late last night at all. Just sat home and read after 9 o'clock."

Lonely, lonely, I suppose. Well it was that way too at your age. Lonely and kinda shy. I remember just how thirty-five years—Sarah and me. Took a couple of years before I could get a word out to her and all the time was wondering what she thought of me that I kept thing about young folks."

"Not so funny sometimes." Robert told Mr. Henderson to himself as to the handy man.

"One day I up and one it isn't," said Mr. Henderson. "There's a girl down below here in the building, so pretty and sweet and good looking as a bunch of sweet clovers, that I've come to love her and I told she'd like home of her own. She says to me, 'I'd like nothing better.'

"Second floor front!"

"Sure thing," said Mr. Henderson with a chuckle and still chuckling went on with his tinkering.

"But why don't you tell me—you were willing to have me come back?" Robert Shaw asked, forgetting for the moment his shyness and the fact that he had summoned courage to ring her door bell and had found a conventional place in her friendly room.

"Thought you'd have to know because I didn't think you cared," Daphne told him. "I didn't want to know how you knew I was lonely and wanted you back."

"Well, I'm one of washers and window cords" said Robert with a quite like Mr. Henderson's thing explanations didn't matter.

Making a bit with buyers in Paris is the fashion for feather evening coats. Chanel makes a beauty of white marabou, while another model is in gray marabou with a lining of shirred georgette in pink.

You will like the smart little dresses now on display. Done in solid tone silks such as beige, gray or blue, these frocks have a tailored air about them and tucked skirts. Grand for general afternoon wear.

Pals

By JOHN R. BIDWELL

Jack Drake, sished heavily crossed like legs, uncrossed them, groaned.

"What," asked Amy Morton "has be the matter with you? Sunburn?"

"Amy," whispered the accused one, "I'm so much in love I'm nearly daffy, I've tried so hard to keep it from myself, from everyone. But I must know what my chances are. I'm leaving tomorrow for the South."

Jack's eyes were unseemly riveted on a boat docking at the wharf. Otherwise he might have seen the sudden pallor of the usually gay Amy, the tightening of her lips.

"Are you sure, Jack? Very sure? I thought—that is, you do flirt so with every girl you meet."

"But this is the real thing!" he said, "and I must know."

"Then," Amy breathed gently, "give me until tomorrow. I'll let you know then. But I'm sure, quite sure, you'll be feeling better when I see you."

And kissing him quickly, the girl ran indoors.

"Well, of all the—!" Words failed Jack for the moment. He sat staring out blankly into the moonlit night. He and Amy had all that in common. Childhood days the line he could remember he and Amy were inseparable friends, now, while he was trying to tell her of his love for Charlotte Blake he had gone and taken his attempt, as a proposal of marriage to herself.

"Good heavens!" he groaned. "From the way she took it, her answer to my proposal will be 'yes!' The more he thought, the more bewildered he became.

If Jack was in a daze, so was Amy. She had always looked upon marriage as a most respectable and almost universal custom to which, some day, she might possibly be called upon to conform. But now it jumped from the realm of the abstract into the realm of the concrete with a suddenness which left her breathless. There was Jack Drake suddenly changed from a life-long friend and confidant into a would-be husband. In her dreams Amy had often visualized Jack Drake, but only in the unexpectedness of the fact left her quite bewildered.

"Amy, question!" cried Charlotte. "I think it's something great—To be desired, of course—provided you get the right man. And I expect to be married myself before long—but I'm not going to be. But you mustn't tell a living soul until I tell you to."

"Oh," gasped Amy.

"How do I know?" retorted Charlotte, "how do those figures in the barometer know when to come in and go out in advance of the weather? I am so sure Jack Drake is going to propose to me tomorrow as I am that I'll marry him. Hasn't he told you he was in love with me? You and he are such chums and confidants that I supposed he had."

Amy spent the night sitting at her open window, relieving the time between. But this summer it had been her confidant! Jack had been trying to tell her. Jack's share on the porch, that he wanted only advice from her—advice on how to win Charlotte!

She waited to run away, to hide from those two who would on the morrow be no longer friends, but she went instead for a swim early, because she knew Jack would in all probability be on the beach, He was.

Those two knew one another, or is this a rendezvous and I'm the unnecessary third?" she lipped at him.

"I—" he started, "I thought, that you, too and—"

Jack," she grinned at him impudently, "I'm going to give you two friends better call it another summer romance—both being such flirts. But I think, in the interests of beneficial effort to appease any pleasantly serious fit, it's OK. You'll both understand that each must have his light moments. And so, my blessings, and may you be very, very happy."

"Race you to the raft," she added gaily. "Nothing like a good swim to prepare you—for the coming ordeal."

Jack Drake swallowed this "hook, line, and sinker" as the saying is. And he could not remember having mentioned Charlotte Blake's name in his attempted confession—but then, of course Amy, must have known. Also his admiration for Charlotte had been rather pronounced.

"Coming, Pal," he cried, diving from the raft. "I'll race you anywhere. One of these days you'll fall, and always confident. Oh boy! will I give you the rasp!"

Yeah," she mocked him, "and in the meantime I beat you swimming!"

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know the real cause of piles in the inside?

Do you know how you can be cured from inside?

Do you know you must get at the cause of Piles, to get rid of them?

Do you know cause of pile is poor circulation—a congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel, which causes veins flabby, full of impure congested blood and weakness in the walls?

So if you would have relief from piles you should use an internal medicine like HEM-ROID, a prescription written by Dr. J. S. McKeown. HEM-ROID banishes piles by relieving the cause. It relieves congestion, eases the pressure of blood in the veins—of the lower bowel and helps to heal the inflamed parts, sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is so successful in relieving piles, even cases that Dr. J. S. McKeown or any other good druggist is authorized to make good our promise to you that if you are not completely satisfied with the results from one bottle, you may have your money back.

MONTREAL TEAM IS MOVING UP

Only Two Games Removed From First Division Berth

(By The Associated Press)

Plenty of noise is heard from the cellar of the International League these days, but two games behind of the circuit are staging the old worm-turning act.

Montreal Royals are the latest club to refuse to take it on the chin. Buddy Hassett's fourbagger Red Wings 7-0 yesterday and are making threatening gestures to- wards the first division from their seventh place berth.

Rabbit Maranville's men have won four of their last five games, and, despite their lowly position in the standings, are but two games be- hind the fourth place Red Wings who dropped a twin bill to Toronto.

Buffalo Bisons took over the Red Wings, runner-up spot by whipping Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 while Baltimore Orioles, who along with Syracuse Chiefs were tied for last money, were third. Fifth place Jersey City Giants took a chance on more lowly Syracuse and they were beaten 8-2 by the leag-e-leading Newark Bears. Syracuse has lost 12 in holding the Giants to six hits.

Window Cords and Washers

By MADELEINE DIAZ

Sixty-year-old John Henderson was the handy man who came to fix it! He stood repairing at 47 Gor- ton place, once a sedately fashion- able boarding house, now a row of genteel apartment house on the lower west side of town.

"Don't mind me," he told Daphne Jones, as he puttered over her sash cord. "All the help here female needs is a new washer. You just go along with your typing and see if I'll be through in no time. I came early so as to get done before you had to start in work—figuring as how most of the parties in this house is office folks."

Daphne straightened hooks and magazines in her comfortable room and then perched on the pier glass be- tween her two stag front windows.

"I don't have to leave for fifteen minutes," she said. "You were con- siderate to come early."

"Well, I'm like that," Mr. Hender- son admitted without false modesty. "Always figuring out how I can do a good turn to someone whether I know 'em or not. And that how I was saying to myself as I come in it was just the same as though I was a friend. It's nice enough here for young married folks but for a single person, girl like you, it would be a whole lot pleasanter in one of them new girls' clubs. I'll be through fixing in one yesterday, up in the east district. Rooms is cheaper and rates alive, they don't need much room! There's reading rooms and reception rooms for every- thing downstairs, where the girls can entertain their beaux in a nice pleasant time. It's a heap fuller and safer, seems to me, for a young girl like you than living here all alone, and probably 'twouldn't cost you no more, neither. They have parties every here and there where you get in touch with many new friends and—"

"But I really do like it better here than that," Daphne told Mr. Henderson, taking his sugges- tion in the spirit in which they were given. Of course there wasn't any use in telling him that she would very much rather be lonely by herself than lonely with a lot of other girls, and that just as lonely as she—in a crowded, noisy hostel.

"Well of course you're fixed up nice here," went on Mr. Henderson, knocking about at the small neatly arranged supply of pots and pans that Daphne kept in her kitchen- ette. "Interested in cooking?"

"Why, yes, I do like to cook."

"Yes," said Mr. Henderson, soothingly. "Just naturally a woman's born with it you can tell in an of- fice. That sort of explains things. I'm glad to hear it, for cooking is a girl should like to cook."

Ten minutes later Daphne was on her knees in her office and Mr. Henderson had gained entrance to the bedroom. "Nice room, I must say," Daphne's.

"Don't mind me," he told the young man who, shaving brush in hand, had opened the door for him. "Came to see as that there window cord of yours and thought I'd get here before you left for the office, so to be as obliging as I can. You just go right on with your shave while I'll be through in no time."

"Thanks a lot," said Robert Shaw the young man, with the shaving brush. "I overslept a bit or you wouldn't have had to call me."

"Well," said Mr. Henderson, "I guess I'm early to bed and early to little late. Natural for a young man like you to want to get about a bit after work. Me, I'm a married man, much handier it would be for you to have a wife to see to some of them here Y.M.C.A. places. They've got entertainments and billiards and everything. You can have all the fun you want and not have to spend a penny-piece! Saving money, too."

"I'm not so fond of going out- doors," said Mr. Henderson. "Fact is, I wasn't out last night at all, all I did was here reading till two o'clock."

"Reading lonely, I suppose. Well I was that way too at your age. Lone- ly and lonely. But I've been mar- ried now thirty-five years—Sarah and me. Took a couple of years be- fore I could tell I cared for her and all the time was wondering who's mind on that I was. Plumb thing about young folks."

"Not so funny sometimes" Rob- ert said, as much to himself as to the handy man.

"Now the job is and one it isn't," said Mr. Henderson. "There's a girl down below now and I'm building. As pretty and sweet and good look- ing as a bunch of roses and I'm crazy to court as much as said she'd like home of her own. She says to me, 'Mr. Henderson'—

"Second floor front!"

There came a knock Henderson with a chuckle, and still chuckling went on with his tinkering.

"But why don't you tell me—you were willing to have me come back?" Robert asked Daphne that evening after he had summoned courage to ask her to dine with him and take his accustomed place in her cheerful living room.

"I didn't tell you to know be- cause I didn't think you cared," Daphne said with a blush. "I didn't know how you knew I was lonely and wanted you back."

"It's a matter of washers and window cords" said Robert with a smile that Daphne thought the explanations didn't matter.

Making a bit with buyers in Paris is the fashion for feather eve- ning coats. Chanel makes a beauty of white marabou, while another model is gray marabou with a lining of shirred georgette in pink.

You will like the smart little dresses now on display. Some in solid tone silks such as beige, gray or light cocoa, others in navy or light cocoa and tucked skirts. Grand for general afternoon wear.

Jack Drake, sighed heavily, crossed his legs, uncrossed them, groaned.

"What," asked Amy Morton "can be the matter with you? Sunburn?"

"Amy," whispered Jack, scowl- ous, "I'm so much in love I'm near- ly daffy. I've tried my hard to keep it from you in fact, from everyone But I must know what my chances are. Will you accompany me to the South . . ."

Then you were unseemly rir- ected on a boat docking at the wharf. Otherwise he might have thought you were looking at the usually gay Amy, the effort as it lightness in her voice.

"Are you sure, Jack? Very sure? Because I don't ever do flirt at . . ." she ended lamely.

"But this is the real thing!" he said, "and I must know."

"Then," Amy breathed gently, "give me until tomorrow. I'll let you know then. But I'm sure, quite sure, you're feeling better when I see you."

And kissing him quickly, the girl left the room.

"Well, of all the—!" Words failed Jack for a minute. Then he sat staring out blankly into the twilight night. He and Amy had been friends from childhood. From the time he could remember he had loved her. Loved her, he knew now, while he was trying to tell her of his love for Charlotte Bligh. And had gone and taken his attempt as a proposal of marriage to herself.

"Amy," he groaned, "I'm a widower."

If Jack was in a daze, so was Amy. She had always looked upon marriage as a most respectable and almost universal custom to which, some day, she might possibly be called upon to conform. But now it jumped from the realm of the abstract into the realm of the concrete with a suddenness which was startling. Amy thought that Jack Drake suddenly changed from a life-long friend and confidant into a would-be husband. In her dismay she had often visualized such a change in the more unexpectedness of the fact left her quite confused.

There came a tap at her door. It was Charlotte Bligh, who had stopped for a chat with her dear friend Amy on her way to bed. Amy had forgotten all about Charlotte's marriage?

"No question!" cried Char- lotte. "I think it's something great- ly to your credit. Because I know you get the right man. And I ex- pect to be married myself before I'm much older. I'm going to be. But you mustn't tell a living soul until I tell you to."

"Oh," gasped Amy.

"How do I know?" retorted Char- lotte, "how do those figures in the barometer know when to come in and go out in advance of the weather? I am as sure Jack Drake is going to propose to me tomorrow as I am that I'll accept him. Hasn't he told you he was in love with me? You and he are such chums and confidants that I supposed he had."

Amy sprnt the night sitting at her open window, relieving the evening. So this summer it had been another flirtation! Jack had been trying to tell her, and there on the porch, that he wanted only advice from her—advice on how to get Charlotte!

She wanted to run away, to hide from them all. She would on the morrow be so jubilant, but she went instead for a swim early, when the fisher folk would be all prob- ability be on the beach. He was.

"Jack," she said certain, as this a rendezvous and I'm the un- necessary third!" she lipped at him.

"I—" he started, "I thought, that you, you said . . ."

"Jack," she grinned at him im- portantly—I was certain you two had better call it another summer romance—both being such fickle souls. But I have made a successful effort to appear only pleasantly ser- ious. I think it's O.K. You'll both understand that each must have his right number, and then, be blessed- ings, and Charlotte's a grand girl.

"Face you to the 'aft,' she added, "and, breathing like a true swim- mer, to prepare you—for the coming or- deal!"

Jack Drake swallowed this "hook, line and sinker" and, starting to do True, he could not remember hav- ing mentioned Charlotte Bligh's name as his attempted confidante— but then, of course Amy, must have felt sure that Charlotte Bligh's had been rather pronounced.

"Coming, Pat," he cried, diving into the water. "And no more cracks. One of these days you'll fall, and then, Oh boy, I'll be there to save the race!"

Fresh" she mocked him, "and in the meantime I beat you swim- ming!"

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know the real cause of piles is on the inside.

Do you know they can be doc- tored from the inside?

Do you know you must get at and remove the cause of Piles, to get rid of them?

Do you know cause of piles is poor circulation—a congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel, which makes the veins flabby, full of impure congested blood and weak- ened intestinal muscles.

So if you would have relief from piles you should use an internal medicine like HEM-ROID, a pre- scription written by Dr. J. S. Leonhardt. HEM-ROID banishes piles by relieving the cause. Relieves congestion, decreases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is so powerful in over the most stubborn cases that J. S. McKeown or any other good druggist will know I'm getting be- hind our promise to you that if you are not completely satisfied with the results from one bottle, you may have your money back.

TORONTO STOCKS
(Close)

Toronto, May 26 (CP)—Today's Toronto Stock Exchange session resulted in a further scaling down of prices and the market closed at practically the low for the day. Medium-price golds especially looked heavy in the closing stages with volume picking up a little on the decline. All indices closed down for the day. Turnover was about 100,000 shares greater than in yesterday's session at about 476,000 shares.

Base Metals reflected the drop of metal prices. Smelters were down 3½ dowm and Noranda and Nickel about a point down. Coast Copper lost 26 cents. Sherritt Gordon came set new low for the year. Rl. Hardrock was heavy around 2.05.

Kerr-Addison held off to a new low for the year at 123 and Macdonald-Cockshutt declined 50 cents to 8.10.

Little Long Lac was encouraged by the optimistic atmosphere of the annual meeting, held today and the price registered a moderate advance.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, May 26 (AP)—An early run-up in aircrafts gave the stock market a brief lift today but the prop eventually gave way and the top marks of fractions to a point or more converted into declines of as much near the final hour.

The aviation group was popular for a while on reports that Great Britain was negotiating a large order in the United States for war planes. The British Air Mission left for home yesterday without giving any clues as to what recommendations would be made.

Principal losers at the session drew to a close included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Allied Chemical, Aircraft Corp., Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum and Union Carbide. Aircraft, rails, utilities and oils moved over a narrow range. Transfers were about 600,000 shares.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Crawford By Financial Service MARKET COMMENT

Considerable attention has been given the gold stocks in the Toronto market, and the Kaffirs as well as the Canadian senior golds have been in demand so far, however the junior producers in Canada have been selected although many bargains abound in this group. Thaf of a slight price for gold crop up periodically, but the average investor has accepted the "show me" attitude in this connection. One observer has expressed the opinion that it would be to the interests of the United States to Righer the gold price rather than to continue the "pump priming" operations.

Comment on the market these days is difficult for the reason that one session is very different from another. To say that many bargains are available today is only repeating previous statements, but nevertheless sooner or later investors will wake to the fact that the soundest Canadian companies are good investments and the high yields make their junior securities attractive.

Produce Prices On Montreal Market

Montreal, May 26—Trading was active in both spot butter and butter futures yesterday, with prices steady to a shade easier. The egg market continued strong, with offerings light and demand good. Cheese was traded at the Commodity Exchange for the first time in a long while. Receipts were 2,531 cases of eggs, 47 boxes of butter and 220 boxes of cheese, excluding truck arrivals.

Sales at the Canadian Commodity Exchange were 200 boxes of Quebec fresh 92 score butter at 25¼c, 300 at 25¾c, and 200 at 25¾c; one November butter future at 27c; and three at 27¼c. Sales of Quebec fresh white cheese at 14½c. Spot butter was quoted at the close at 25¾c traded for Quebec fresh 92 score. Quebec while cheese was quoted 14½c to 15c, the open spot butter market was 25¾c to 26c. The open spot cheese market was 15½c for No. 1 Ontarios. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted by jobbers at 27c for solids and 27½c for prints.

On the egg market graded shipments were selling in used fine cases at 26c for A-large, 23½c for A-medium, 20c for B and 21-21½c for C.

BEAU LAC CAMP CAMPERS MEET

Forty-Five Young People From Many Points Hold Reunion Here

A reunion of past campers and those who were interested in attending Beau Lac this summer was held in the Y.M.C.A., here, over the past week-end. Some forty-five young people gathered from Toronto, Oshawa, Trenton, Berwick, Brockville and Ottawa, for the Reunion.

Saturday evening a splendid banquet was much enjoyed. A special welcome to all was extended by Mr. Bert Orr, chairman of the promotion committee. Mr. Gerald Latham, of Brockville, led in a lively sing-song. Members of camp, an interesting, illustrated talk by Mr. Stanley Gomme of Oshawa, was enjoyed by all. Miss Emilie Tylnick, secretary of the Girls' Work Board of the O.R.E.C., gave a splendid conference on Thd Significance of Ontario." Rev. E. R. McLean, secretary of the "Ontario Religious Education Council" introduced the leaders for this Summer's Assembly. After a brief business period, games and fellowship were enjoyed.

Sunday morning at 9.45 the delegates met at the Y.M.C.A. and Rev. E. R. McLean outlined the complete programme for the summer's camp, giving the study courses and their directors.

At 11.00 o'clock all attended Victoria Avenue Baptist Church in a body, where Rev. E. Sigsbee extended a most cordial welcome. Rev. E. R. McLean replied to the address at this service.

The afternoon was held at the Y.M.C.A. at 1.00 o'clock. In the afternoon delegates enjoyed trips to Consecon Lake, Mohr Lake and to the Royal Air Force Camp near Trenton.

Beau Lac is an interdenominational leadership training camp for young people interested in Church and Sunday School work, and is being held at Mohrs Lake August 21st to 28th.

Mrs. J. E. Sibert and Mr. Bert Orr, secretary and chairman respectively of the camp promotion committee would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who so kindly contributed by attending the delegates during the reunion.

DOLLAR A MILE SAVINGS SEEN

Figures Under Unification Are Presented at Senate Probe

Ottawa, May 26 (CP)—The estimate of a saving of 1,500,000 passenger train miles under the Canadian Pacific Railways's unification plan was reduced to 1,000,000 miles and, if current pooling arrangements were considered, to 1,300,000 miles by R. G. McNeille, assistant passenger traffic manager of the C.P.R., before the Senate Railway Committee today. This represented a saving of $1 mile.

The 7,500,000 mile estimate, made in 1931 on the basis of 1929 traffic, was 20 per cent. too high, while other factors operating would further cut down the estimate.

Col. C. M. Bigger, committee counsel, was proceeding to examine witness on the details of the mailpay, section of the unification bill, prompted Mr. McNeille to revise the figures downward, when he was interrupted by Senator A. D. McRae (Con. Vancouver).

Question of Details

This committee would become confused with all these figures and complex details, he said. He himself would be satisfied with the general statement, supplemented by a memorandum setting forth the particulars. Government leader Dandurand and reminded the committee the task before them was to "make a case." Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R., in a general statement, had given 1,000 miles as the final figure.

Senator James Murdock (Lib. Estevan) aligned himself with Senator Dandurand. The country had been told repeatedly by "certain individuals and certain people like Carthy that $75,000,000 would be saved," said Sen. Murdock.

Hepburn Hobbles Into Office Wearing Slipper

Toronto, May 26.—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn hobbled into the office at Queen's Park today wearing a slipper on the foot he injured more than a week ago, and plunged into the work that has accumulated during his absence at his farm near St. Thomas.

The premier called a cabinet session for Saturday to dispose of accumulated business. He is expected that at Saturday's meeting the commission to investigate career formulas would be named. Two new magistrates for Toronto will also be appointed and the government will consider the problem of County Park, former residence of Ontario Lieutenant-Governor which was offered for sale but has had no takers.

MUST DELIVER SACRED VESSELS

Dismissed Greek Clergyman is so Ordered Under Court Ruling

Toronto, May 26—(CP)— Rev. Mastro Charito Chawtzi, dismissed clergyman of the Greek Orthodox Holy Virgin Mary Church, Oshawa, must deliver to the trustees of that Church all the sacred vessels, vestments and church seal as well as the key to the building, under a judgment given in an action finally settled at Osgoode Hall today.

The action followed the Court of Appeal finding that the dismissal of Mr. Chawtzi was justified.

C. D. D. Watson appeared to take exception to the ruling concerning the delivery of the chattels. He expressed his satisfaction when it was ruled that the trustees must deliver only those things which belong to the trustees.

SINGLE WORKLESS CONTINUE SIT-DOWN

Vancouver, May 26 (CP— —Single unemployed men continued their sit-in dowm protest strike in two downtown buildings today although a spokesman said they lacked funds for food.

Police arrested 109 men yesterday on charges of obstructing police when the men appeared on downtown streets soliciting public contributions with tin can labelled: "We want a work program. Arrested men said they were acting as individuals and not as an organization.

Today's Garden-Graph

BY DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Canadian

FLOWER, HOUSE-MAIDS SWEET PEA

Perennial sweet pea vine

LATHYRUS is a perennial sweet pea vine which has many possibilities for garden use. It is very hardy and blooms from June until frost comes. It is useful for planting against sunny walls, arbors, fences or to make a screen over unsightly banks, fences, old tree stumps or any rough or ugly places. It can be planted from seeds or roots of the plant can be purchased.

As illustrated in this Garden-Graph, the flowers are arranged in clusters, each one being very resemble sweet peas and come in showy colors. Unlike the annual sweet peas, however, the flowers of the perennial sweet peas are not fragrant. Their colors are white, clear pink and a reddish purple.

The plant is a rapid climber and spreads in most any soil and location. It will even do well in partial shade. The seed pods should be removed as they form, to increase the quantity of flowers.

Pot-grown vines may be planted for effect this year, though only the annual vines will grow luxuriantly the first season.

As fast as the cold frames or open beds become available they may be utilized for sowing the biennial and perennial flowers to produce plants for use in the borders this fall.

Outdoor pools may now be filled and planted with tropical plants, but if often pays to keep the tender lilies indoors until July 1.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

Toronto, May 26 (CP)—Struck by a freight train as he walked along the Canadian National Railway tracks in northeast Toronto today, William Mellor, 55, was killed.

Government Action On Mental Hospital To Await Report

Toronto, May 26 (CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn indicated today that any action the Ontario government may take on legislation concerning mental sanatoriums and control of private mental hospitals will not be decided until the report of Commissioner F. H. Barlow on the Homewood case, now at Guelph is brought down.

Mr. Barlow, special commissioner appointed in the Homewood probe, concluded lengthy hearings at Toronto last week and his findings will not be available for some time.

250 Killed, 1000 Injured At Alicante

Alicante, Spain, May 26 (AP) — Reasons due steadily today in the ruins of Alicante's shattered market place, extricating victims of yesterday's most disastrous single air bombardment of the Spanish civil war.

At least 20 persons were killed and 1,000 injured when six huge insurgent bombing planes circled suddenly in the city and dropped their missiles squarely in the market place, where a throng of 10,000 persons men waited in queues to buy food.

The explosions and detonations toppled towering masonry into dogouts into which men, women and children had crowded for refuge.

Many bodies were tangled and torn in the debris.

The casualties in the city of 70,000 which is 130 miles south of Valencia, exceeded in proportion the disastrous series of air raids in March upon Barcelona, a city of more than 1,000,000 when there were 3,000 fatalities.

More than 100 of the victims were found in the market place alone. Another 100 of the 50 were killed and hundreds injured.

CHURCH GROUP BLAMES METHOD

Governments' Use of Public Money For Support Under Fire

(By Carl Heinke, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

(Advance) Ottawa, May 26 (CP) —Many of Canada's present financial difficulties are due to the "unsatisfactory" methods of governments in using public money to win popularity, the Rev. Lloyd Morgan today before the Rowell Commission.

The accusation was made in the course of a presentation by an official of the Social Service Council of Canada, which represented the views of its 21 members "working in cooperation with committees in communities and in various parts of our church."

"We believe that only a solvent state can adequately maintain the welfare of its people," the commission said. "We would urge that governments must realize that they are trustees practically of resources.

"We would ask for recognition in all government policy of the fact that the welfare of the state of Alberta is moral and that the bribing of people with public money, the making of false promises in election contests, the unwise administration of public funds, the attempt to spend money far beyond the nations' ability to pay, spell ruin".

Views of Mr. Morgan and Dr. Salem G. Bland, principal of Victoria University, Toronto, and representing the views of its 21 members "working in cooperation with committees in communities and in various parts of our church."

The commission voiced its view on the question of unemployment opportunity, public and private welfare work, pure the unemployment relief and insurance linking of financial and administrative relationships, economic theory and its effect on the prairies, other relief representations.

It made clear the commission did not intend to express opinions on this artificially compounded state on a basis of full local autonomy in those districts where a majority of the population is of the German race.

ONTARIO REAL ESTATE

Ontario is the only province of Canada in which the average values of farm land increased uninterrupted during the past five years. The Bureau of Statistics' estimate of $48 an acre as of last is exceeded only by British Columbia which is in a class by itself. B. C. farm lands average $68 an acre now, after a steady drop from $175 in 1930.

The true value for Ontario in the past 18 years was $70, also in 1930 Motion reached in 1929, at $83 an acre. The present valuation of $48 compares with $40 for Quebec, $26 for New Brunswick, and $15, $16 and $17 for Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba. For all Canada the average is $24 an acre.

Prairie land was valued at $23 to $39 back in 1930. During the past 10 years the greatest decline in land values per acre have taken place in the West, and the smallest declines have occurred in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The average value per acre for Canada in 1937 was 65 per cent. of average value in 1926.

The rise in Ontario is contrary to the trend for the Dominion as a whole. Average land values in Canada have been declining since 1926 when they were reported as $28 per acre. The figures here cited include improved and unimproved land, together with dwelling houses, barns and all other farm buildings.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

Brain Pressure Relieved

Sitting up in his bed at children's hospital, Washington, D. C., is two-and-a-half-year-old Adele Yonkin, whose skull was split open by surgical means a week ago to relieve pressure on the brain. Under his turban of white bandage Adele's cranium is ever now held by clips, staples, which hold the parts of the skull apart to give the brain room to expand. In time doctors say, the special crevices will be closed and the child will be in a perfectly normal condition.

May Succeed Cardenas

General Maximo Avila Comacho ABOVE, brother of the secretary of war in Mexico, may succeed Lazaro Cardenas as president of Mexico should the latter resign under the present pressure. The reports of his possible succession followed visits to him by three former presidents of Mexico.

Spends $7,000,000

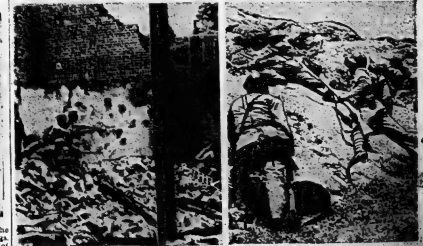
Mrs. Maria Kramer, once known as one of the world's best-dressed women, who threw aside a career in opera for one in business, is pictured ABOVE. She has paid $7,000,000 in cash for the Hotel Lincoln, one of New York city's largest, and plans to operate the hostelry herself. She expects to double her money.

Red Sox Success Brings Smiles

Tom Yawkey, owner of the gold-plated Boston Red Sox, explains to his wife and daughter, Julia, how the team is doing, and everybody is quite happy about everything. And well they might be, with Cronin, Foxx, Wilson, Cronin and Co. clicking, and the team right up in the heat of the American League pennant race. Early foot doesn't mean a pennant, but it looks as if the Yawkey investments will return dividends. Although Julia seems more interested in the cameraman than the good news about the team.

Appointed Orderly Officers to the King

For the first time since the great war four Gurkha officers have been appointed as the King's Indian orderly officers for the next year. The four officers, Sub-Adar-Major and Hon. Lieut. Shamsher Singh Bohra, Subador Shawsaing Rai, Subador Balbahador Khatiri and Subador-Major Dalbir Chand, are shown LEFT to RIGHT as they arrived in London to take up their new duties.



Grunt and Groan Men Take to Air

If there is any kind of warfare the wrestlers can't indulge in, inside the ropes or out, it has never been demonstrated. Aerial combat was given a work out in a Cleveland ring recently, the "flying area" being The Great Mephisto, LEFT, and Bert Rubi. Each shot the other down, and, needless to say, the referee also, and the whole business was called a draw.

Chinese Put Up Stiff Resistance Against Japanese

Met by stubborn Chinese resistance and handicapped by the rocky terrain, the Japanese were forced to pour thousands of reinforcements into Shantung province, in their effort to subjugate the Chinese. Reinforcements are shown, TOP, after being landed from barges on one of the many canals of the province. A surprising defeat was inflicted on the Japanese at Tsierchuang during a 13-day battle when the Chinese routed the Nipponese forces. Chinese troopers are shown, lower LEFT, mopping up in the ruins of Tsierchuang. Stinging under the defeat the Japanese retaliated by capturing Suchow after a series of hard-fought battles. Well protected behind a rocky redoubt Japanese troops are shown, lower RIGHT, as they started the attack on Suchow.

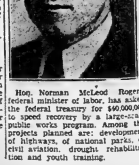
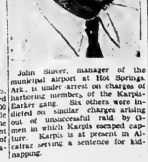
Daniel C. Dodge, heir to over nine million dollars of the vast Dodge estate, will marry Loreen MacDonald, ABOVE, 18, telephone operator, of Gore Bay, Ont., according to an announcement made by Dodge's mother in Detroit.

Japan's Prize



His wrists bound with cord, Hu Yun-chuan, first brigade commander in the army of Ma Chan-shan squats on the ground at Shanghai after his Japanese captors had taken him there from Central China, a valued prize of war. His fate is unreported.

To Greet B'Nai B'rith



Golden-haired Joan Bronstein, age six, of Toronto, has been chosen "Sweetheart of Toronto B'nai B'rith." She will greet delegates and visitors from Eastern Canada and United States to the 86th annual B'nai B'rith convention in Toronto, May 28-30. ABOVE she is seen with B'nai B'rith's key to the city which she will present.

Asks $40,000,000

Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, federal minister of labor, has asked the federal treasury for $40,000,000 to speed recovery by a large-scale public works program. Among the projects planned are: development of highways, of national parks, of civil aviation, drought rehabilitation and youth training.

Indicted as Karpis Aide

John Slover, manager of the municipal airport at Hot Springs, Ark., is under arrest on charges of harboring members of the Karpis-Barker gang. Six others were indicted on similar charges arising out of unsuccessful raid by G-men in which Karpis escaped capture. Karpis is at present in Alcatraz serving a sentence for kidnapping.

After supper it was raining cats and dogs and I could hear it beating against the windows, proving it was coming down hard, and pop took out a cigar and quick felt his head pocket again, saying, Yes gods, one lonely cigar to pull me through a long rainy nite, it's too much to ask of one little cigar. Of course, I suppose I could remove those slippers and put on my shoes and then my rubbers, and get into my overcoat and all the odder to and ballance an open umbrella over the whole ultrative picture but my whole being cries out against such an expenditure of effort. Another alternative suggests itself, but that would involve sending my only son, still a young child, out into the downcoming wet, a thing not even to be thought of, pop said.

Aw (), pop, why not, I love to go out in the rain, I said, and ma said, Willyum Potts a,ren't you ashamed of yourself for even entertaining such a thought?

I didn't entertain it. It came busing in and I threw it out on the car, pop said, and I said, Aw (), pop, I can put on my gum boots and my raincoat and not a drop can touch me.

The subject I acloued, pop said I dont know how much an idea ever occured to you, unless something I said suggested it to you, he said, and ma said, Really, Willyum, I mean really, I believe you would take delight in seeing that boy risk his death of pneumonia just for one selfish cigar. I'll call up the drugstore and maybe they'll send some over, she said.

It's an emergency you can tell them so, pop said.

Wich ma did, and they sent the colored boy over with 6 Queen Billies.

Conciliation Defense Plans

By WADE WERNER

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Praha, May 26—(AP)—Hardheaded military preparations for Czechoslovak defence continued today without respite.

Troops mobilized for defence of the German frontier remained in the border region. It seemed unlikely the customary military parade would be held this year on the President's birthday next week. Edvard Benes will be 54 on Saturday—because the nation under arms had more pressing assignments.

The high command of the civil air defence had a reminder to house-holders to test their "blackout" equipment to make sure that they really were prepared for emergency.

Gas Masks

Another reminder of the undercurrent of anxiety lest Chancellor Hitler of Germany, try to bring under his domination the nation's 3,500,000 German minority, was an announcement gas masks for public employees could be paid for on the instalment plan.

All residents of cities are expected to acquire gas masks before June 30. The idea is to make their purchase as easy as possible for people who must remain at their post in emergency but can not spend to the sparsely settled countryside at the first alarm.

Today was a holiday, Ascension Thursday, and government offices theoretically were closed, and likewise theoretically there was a tendency toward relaxation and pressure on National and international politics.

Prolonging Quiet

Nevertheless, it was certain that this young republic's responsible leaders were engrossed in grave and delicate tasks of preparation. The period of quiet which followed last week's inconclusive municipal elections in part of the country.

There will be another series of municipal elections Sunday. While the balloting will be watched with interest, it appeared today that, granted that followers of Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party, will get their usual overwhelming majority of votes, the main votes, while in communities with predominantly Czech population the government parties also will show that they are increasingly stronger.

Police Investigate Alleged Attempt To Damage Property

Two "tear-gaed boys were apprehended by Traffic Officer Lindsay Sitting and Police Constable Taylor early last evening while engaged in tempting to destroy city property in Victoria Park.

The youths were taken to the police station and later released. Charges are pending against them as a result of this morning.

"Ample warning as to what would happen to the culprits if people being caught destroying property in the park was given by Mayor Gordon and myself during the opening day celebrations," W. J. Sexton, chairman of the City Parks Commission, stated today.

"We are going to do our best to check any vandalism in the park and exercise a repetition of the destruction of and damage to property that was occurred during the past few years."

Police Blotter

Continuing their extensive investigation looking into the wholesale theft of seed grain, that has terrorized the farm district of South Hastings for some months, two brothers, Floyd and Murray Wood, Sidney Township, were arrested by local and Provincial Police late yesterday charged with the theft of a motor car and also held for further investigation regarding the theft of seed grain.

The arrest of the Woods brothers came directly after apprehension of Floyd Deline, West Huntingdon, on charges of theft of seed grain on Wednesday. Statements were given police by those now in custody, authorities revealed today. The Woods boys will appear in Prince Edward's police court.

Two male residents of Tweed were arrested in Belleville yesterday afternoon on charges preferred under the L.C.A. police state the men were found in possession of a portion of a bottle of native wine. They will also appear on Friday.

Seven transients were given shelter at the police station last night.

Then coat bristles in cold water, drain out surplus water and hang brush to dry.

How Gas Collects In An Auto

Carbon Monoxide Causes Dizziness, Tests Show

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS REPORTED that the inside of 5 per cent of automobiles tested on highways contain enough carbon monoxide to produce symptoms of dizziness or even collapse.

Carbon monoxide is a by-product of the combustion of gasoline. It come out from the exhaust of an automobile in high concentration. Many fatalities have occurred when the engine of automobile has been allowed to run inside a closed garage. On a cold morning it is largely tragic case was that of a man who sat in his car with the motor and his daughters in the back seat. A leak had occurred so that the fumes of the exhaust entered in the back of the car. When he started the car at his journey he looked around for the first time in about an hour and found that all three of the little girls were dead.

Here we have tests to show that a somewhat similar condition may occur simply by driving with the windows closed. Any muffler that is leak in the exhaust or not. It is known that as soon as carbon monoxide is allowed to mix with air it diffuses rapidly, so that there is no danger in the open even when crowded with automobiles

Breathing is Gas

Experiments by Gephes have shown that even 0.02 per cent concentration of 30 per cent carbon monoxide in their blood and drowsiness and inaction ensue. He tested drivers by having them breathe mixtures of carbon monoxide and air. Then he tested them in simple reactions such as measuring the time required to remove the foot from the accelerator at a signal, the time required to put the foot down on a brake when a red light flashed, etc. He found 0.02 per cent saturation they reacted in a normal way. When the percentage reversed a repetition of the destruction of and damage to property that was occurred during the past few years.

Whether the 5 per cent atmosphere of carbon monoxide in the closed cars would give them this concentration is doubtful. At any rate, the danger is there.

The lesson is fairly obvious that ventilation of the inside of a car always should be a matter of concern, no matter how cold the women in the back seat are.

Trenton Woman Attends Party At the Palace

(By Mollie McGee, Canadian Press Correspondent)

London, May 26 (CP Cable)—Six Canadian women were among hundreds from all British parts of the Empire who attended last night the first evening party of the season at Buckingham Palace as guests of the King and Queen.

The party created a precedent in that invitation gave each guest the same standing as if presented at a formal court. However the women wore ordinary evening dresses and their only uniforms or decorations were with breeches. The party was for invited women and their husbands.

The Queen wore a silver lame gown embroidered with diamonds and diamond and ruby tiara and necklace.

Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner, introduced the Canadian women who were:

Mrs. Leslie Brown wife of Admiral commanding Atlantic Trade Commissioner in London; Mrs. Robert Cameron, wife of Flight-Lieutenant Cameron of Trenton, Ont.; Mrs. Gerald Loggie, wife of Lt. Loggie of Ottawa; Mrs. Guy Turner, wife of Lieut.-Colonel Turner of Ottawa; Mrs. Duncan MacDonald, wife of D. A. L. MacDonald, former Montreal newspaperman, and Mrs. Arthur Purvis, wife of Arthur Purvis of Montreal.

Clarify Marriage Laws, Equalize Status of Sexes—Proposals Made at Inquiry

By CARL REINEKE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, May 26—(CP)—Clarification of marriage laws and greater equality of status between men and women—with more uniformity of status among the different provinces—are proposed before the Rowell Commission today by the National Council of Women.

Specifically, the council asked for an amendment to the British North America Act so that women throughout Canada "may demand complete recognition of the full marriage status upon the solemnization of marriage by any person who has been duly authorized to perform the marriage ceremony."

Swedish Professor Heard

As the commission resumed hearings here yesterday it first heard privately from Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, professor of economics at Stockholm University and member of the Swedish parliament.

Then Miss Charlotte Whitton, speaking for the Canadian Welfare Council, presented a plan for providing up contributory social services where emergency was predictable, to be administered by the Dominion. The non-contributory services under the provinces, and the remaining many would be the responsibility of the local authority.

Marriages

The National Council of women's resolution the Supreme Court of Canada in 1912 declared the marriage of two non-Catholics and a Roman Catholic and a Protestant before a priest of the Roman Catholic Priest, was valid. The Privy Comncil at that time, however, held that the Dominion parliament did not have power to pass a law declaring such marriages binding. In 1921 the Privy Council held that "religious impediments only affected the private consistory, the civil law," and confirmed the previous decision of the Supreme Court, the council said, "Since then a Justice of the Quebec Superior Court has refused to follow these judgments and has annulled such marriages."

The council noted also that in Quebec a marriage, even though annulled, is considered by article 1115-4 of the civil code to be a putative marriage "if one of the parties contracted in good faith and, as such, produces civil effects in favor of the party in good faith and the children, issue of the marriage."

Plea Pauline Beyond Carli

"Despite this fact, when the wife and children go to reside in another province after annulment, the incrimination has been to consider such children as illegitimate and the parents as unmarried, although Quebec law the children are legitimate, have a right to support and to succeed their parents, etc.," the council declared. "It is therefore expedient that the legal position of such women and their children be placed beyond cavil."

It was recognized by the Dominion constitutional jurisdiction over marriage and divorce but the provincial rights exist regulations regarding solemnization which might affect the validity of marriage. A province, however, could not, according to established cases, deny validity to a marriage celebrated in another province according to its laws. Nor could a province by law regard to inherent capacity to contract marriage. It could, however, legislate regarding consent precedent to marriage.

On the homestretch Somerville won the first pair of holes and the first of the afternoon was lost. He took the 10th when MacGregor drove into deep rough and lofted the ball to the 313 yards, by canning an eight-footer. The boy fought back to take the 12th with a 10-foot putt and added the 13th when Sandy only judged his second and wound up with a bogey five.

COMBAT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. The blood impurity should be removed by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Then is the time to help your kidneys by using your kidneys to good condition. Take Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills—the half a century the favorite kidney remedy.

Somerville's Bid for British Crown Fails in Semi-Finals

LONDON GOLFER LOSES TO EWING BY MARGIN 2 UP

Somerville at One Time Was Four Down to Irish Champion

EWING MEETS YATES

Charley Yates of Atlanta, Georgia, Wins in Other Bracket

Troon, Scotland, May 27—(CP)—Sandy Somerville's gallant challenge for the British amateur golf championship ended this afternoon when Cecil Ewing of Ireland beat him in a bitterly-fought semi-final match this afternoon by a margin of two up.

Charley Yates of Atlanta, Ga., house lawn of the great Bobby Jones—gained other final bracket by edging out a one up victory over Hector Thomson of Scotland, 1936 British champion, after 19 holes.

Three down at the turn, the dour Thomson fought back to even terms at the 15th and was one up with one to go. Yates rallied to win the 18th, then took the 19th and match with a nine-foot putt.

Ewing and the clean-cut young American will meet at 36 holes tomorrow for the crown, extinguished by Tom Sweeny of London and New York, in an early round.

He Just Showed Up Here

For Somerville, marking his third bid for the championship, it marked his best showing. In 1933 he reached the sixth round but in 1935 he went down in the first day's firing.

Four holes after only that many had been played, the six-time Canadian amateur champion and former Walker Cup player Somerville surged back to square the match

Says Zinc Sulphate Solution Destroys Sense of Smell in Rats

Ottawa, May 26 (CP)—Rats given a few drops of zinc sulphate solution—similar to the means used in the Charlie last summer to combat the infantile paralysis epidemic—lost their sense of smell, the Royal Society of Canada was informed today in a paper prepared by Dr. Carl G. Smith of the University of Toronto Anatomy Department and tabled by Dr. E. Horne Craigie of the University of Toronto Biological Department.

The zinc sulphate was introduced into the nasal cavities of the rats and destroyed the sensory lining of these cavities.

It was found the damaged lining was eventually replaced by a layer from which the sensory cells are absent and a permanent loss of the olfactory nerve fibres and parts of the regions of the brain where their end was brought about, resulting in loss of smell.

Dr. Smith's experiments were confined to rats and have not been applied specifically to humans pending completion of data on treatment of infantile paralysis being collected by the Ontario Department of Health. A detailed study of the zinc sulphate remedy has been made by the department and findings have not been made public.

There is no mention in the paper of the zinc sulphate treatment given thousands of Ontario child-

METRAZOL USED AS TREATMENT OF DEMENTIA CASES

Directly Opposed to Treatment Practiced With Insulin

TIME GREAT FACTOR

Toronto, May 27 (CP)—A drug formerly used as a heart and breathing stimulant, called Metrazol, is being successfully used now in various Ontario hospitals for the treatment of dementia praecox cases, it was announced today by Dr. Norman L. Paton, Director of Research for Ontario hospitals.

The metrazol shock treatment is directly opposite to the new treatment being practised with insulin. The insulin treatment in each case is a coma treatment but the metrazol shock technique produces convulsions, facial and physical convulsions, Dr. Paton explained.

Patients are given the new treatment at New Toronto, just west of here, and London, and plans are made for treatment at Kingston and Brockville. Later the treatment will be extended to hospitals at Whitby, Toronto and Hamilton.

Canadian Press Correspondent

Callander, Ont., May 27—(CP)—Before the Dionne quintuplets are five years old—they'll be four tomorrow—they may disappear from the front pages, cease to smile from the ads and end their screen appearances.

Completion of their fourth year of life has brought renewed consideration among the quint guardians, whether it would be wise to withdraw them from their public and give them a chance to grow up in comparative privacy as they age do.

Indications the guardians are leaning toward a policy of shelter-ing them more than in the past are seen in arrangements for tomorrow's birthday celebration. It will be a quiet affair and the international broadcasts that have marked

EXPLANATION OF CZECH PROBLEM IS NOW STARTED

William Strang, British Expert, Confers With Officials,

CZECHS FEARFUL

Reports of German Planes Over Czechoslovakia Bring Uncertainty

Prahs, May 27—(AP)—The chief of the central European Department of the British Foreign Office, exploring the possibility of posing observers in the troubled German-Czechoslovak frontier region, conferred today with the British Minister to Czechoslovakia.

Reports of this British expert, William Strang, after visits here and at Berlin, are expected to give Britain a clearer picture of German-Czechoslovak issues than that of British policy.

Mr. Strang arrived last night and started his exploration of the problem with the British Minister, Basil Newton. He arranged for conversations with Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta and other Czechoslovak officials.

His route to Berlin Mr. Strang will visit the Sudeten German region, storm centre of Nazi demands for autonomy and outbursts of violence.

Fireman's Wife Beaten to Death

Chicago, May 27 (AP)—Mrs. Freeman Goldbeck, wife of a city fireman, was raped and beaten to death early today by a negro who entered the south side apartment through a window. Her body was found by her husband, who went with a paving brick nearby.

Police said Miss Margaret Witten, 28, sleeping in an adjoining room, heard the negro scurrying through the hallway and jumped out of the window.

A few minutes later police seized a negro near the building. He identified Miss Witten and Thomas Crosby, 18, as automobile walker, Sergt. Daniel Fogarty said Crosby's hand bore scratches and his clothing was bloodstained.

Mayor of Cerbere Asks Protection 'Against Italo-German Aviation'

Cerbere, France, May 27 (AP)— Anti-aircraft guns were wheeled into position today to protect this France Spanish frontier town from repetition of last night's air attack by planes unofficially identified as Spanish insurgent bombers.

The Mayor of Cerbere telegraphed Premier Daladier that the population protests against insufficient measures taken to protect it against Italo-German aviation."

Reassured by arrival of anti-aircraft batteries, the inhabitants of Cerbere came out of hiding. Many of the residents had huddled in underground refuges while eight planes bombarded Cerbere's railway terminal.

From Paris, Naval Minister Cesar Campinchi ordered destroyers of the Mediterranean fleet to cruise off Cerbere to help repel any new attack.

POLICEMEN FORGE RING OF PEACE AROUND PLANT

Tear Gas Loosed Among Pickets at Goodyear Plant in Akron, O.

EIGHT INJURED

Akron, May 27—(AP)—More than 100 policemen, some with tear gas guns at hand, forged a ring of peace around the sprawling plants of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company today in the wake of nightlong violence and rubber strikers, at least 80 persons were injured.

The disorder, which reached their height at midnight when police wielded nightsticks and loosed tear and nauseating gases into a crowd of 2,000 strike pickets and sympathizers, tapered off hour by hour until at dawn only a few score curious persons remained at the scene.

Police reported several hundred workers of the 8 a.m. shift, which ordinarily includes about 2,000 men, entered the plant without difficulty, in the face of a Committee for Industrial Organization strike call.

SEAMAN'S LETTER TELLS TRAGEDY OF LONG CRUISE

Dr. McLellan of Aberdeen Writes to Glace Bay of Incidents

7-MONTHS JOURNEY

Landed 1606 Whales And Put in 119,000 Barrels of Oil

Glace Bay, N.S., May 27—(CP)—Five men and five others went insane on the whaler New Sevilla during the seven months in Antarctic waters, according to a letter received here from Dr. McLellan of New Aberdeen, writing after the ship had arrived back in Scotland.

The New Sevilla left Halifax last fall, bound for the Antarctic.

In his letter McLellan writes in part: "I spent the past seven months on a whaler in the Antarctic. The trip was a nightmare, five men died and five others went insane. We landed 1,606 whales, ranging in length from 50 to 115 feet. We put in 119,000 barrels of oil.

Died in 3 Months

"I received no mail or word from the outside world for four months. We went south as far into the Antarctic as Graham Land on the west and went right to the ice barrier. I cannot possibly explain all that I have seen, but if I am able to write, there was surely material for a useful book after this trip from the day we left Halifax until we reached Scotland."

Michael O'Brien, another member of the crew of the New Sevilla, returned to his home in Halifax and told the same story of the voyage aboard the mothership of the flotilla of whaling vessels.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Tree growth and rainfall! Tree growth as found by an examination of tree rings is not a factor of rainfall alone. There are many factors: rain fall, temperature, sunshine, humidity, cloudiness, and the amount of food material stored in the wood. These must be carefully analyzed. The water supply may vary not only in amount but in time way it is distributed throughout the year. Temperature may or may not be favorable as to duration and range. Then are extremes of weather which either check the growth or injure the tree. Such as temperature extremes, excessive snow, sleet or wind, lightning, and fire.

Use of Music in British Factories Increases Production 10 Per Cent.

BY GUY RHODES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 27 (CP)—Experimental use of music in British factories as an antidote to fatigue and monotony has increased labor efficiency, production may be increased ten per cent, but the treatment is dangerous to office efficiency.

This is the finding from which broadcast radio music in its plant noticed an increase of ten per cent. in production. By "worn out" they mean by its office staff considered the music a nuisance.

An investigator for the National Institute of Industrial Psychology found women laundering shirts and collars in Scotland to the strains of Martial Music. He described this output as "astonishing, even alarming."

Don't Like Jazz

Scottish workers refuse to listen to jazz, but many women employees in Birmingham prefer it to the place marches second on their list of choice.

Industrial psychologists say it is dangerous to generalize on the question of music at work. They favor introduction of music but suggest each case should be considered on its separate merits.

Investigation of women workers were these: "Music makes you work better because you like your work" and "Music at job music helps you forget and it stops you grumbling."

Dr. C. S. Myers, principal of the National Institute of Industrial Psychology, agreed the effect of music on office staffs was likely to be one of a nuisance than a blessing. In industry, he suggested also, it should be administered in intermittent doses rather than continuously.

Belleville Woman's Voice Spans 15,000 Miles of Space By Telephone and Radio

Mrs. Marshall, Wife of Bishop Marshall, Answers Son in Australia Who Inquires About Health of His Father—Good News of Improved Condition Borne by Latest of Modern Communication Methods

A son's anxiety, a mother's love and the wonders of modern science combined to span half the globe and link two continents together on Tuesday, when for the first time in the history of Belleville, telephone communication was established between this city and Sydney, Australia.

A telephone bell tinkled in the home of Mrs. Marshall, wife of Bishop Cecil Marshall, 32 Victoria Avenue, shortly before noon. Her second daughter, Joan, escorted her mother, at conversing with her son, Weller Gordon Marshall in Sydney.

15,000 Miles Bridged

Fifteen thousand miles or practically half way around the world was bridged instantly by ether. Radio and telephone linked mother and son. The boy she has not seen in thirteen years.

From Sydney, in New South Wales, Mr. Marshall had cabled his mother that he was to hear via telephone on Monday. All day long Mrs. Marshall anxiously awaited the thrills of the call that would bring her son's voice to her. Then it told the waiting mother that atmospheric conditions prevented communication. Three more days of disappointing message were relayed to Mrs. Marshall. Then, on Tuesday, at the hour, the voice of her son trickled over the wires and telephone wires to the care of

Eardley Weller Dies

Following the conversation with her son, the voice of her daughter-in-law came over the wire to gladden the heart of Mrs. Marshall with its "wonderful" she told The Ontario Intelligencer, following her conversation. Mrs. Marshall said their voices as plainly as though they were in the room. Every work spoken was clearly distinguishable and both of us understood just what was being said."

For three minutes on Tuesday, Australia and Belleville were linked by the magic of science.

A mother's heart was gladdened to hear once again the actual voice of her son. Mrs. Marshall, speaking from his home, a son's anxiety over the condition of a father who is 73 years of age was relieved by the news that his condition was improving.

Son to Pay Visit Next Year

Following the conversation of Pastor and Clerk, Maidstone, the Peak, Penn Company, two outstanding English manufacturing firms, Mr. W. G. Marshall has not visited his home here since 1935, his mother declared following the telephone conversation. "But he is coming home next year for a holiday," he told me over the telephone. He added, a slight break in her voice testifying to the joy that it was in her heart.

LIFESAVING CREW HAS BUSY DAY

Goderich Crew Rescue Occupant of Canoe, Which Capizes

Goderich, Ont., May 27—(CP)— The Goderich lifesaving crew under Capt. Bill Young had a busy day yesterday.

Life guards were called to remove a seaside woman who had been fishing off the outer harbor break wall.

No sooner had the woman been taken aboard the lifesaving launch than reports that a canoe was seen to upset at the mouth of the harbor. Driver, the yacht discovered, its occupant, Bert Huckins, was rescued.

By the time the launch returned to port the woman had recovered from the seaside incident.

But one of several passengers on the Lake Erie yacht suffered from a sprained ankle, received when he tripped and fell during rescue operations.

STABBED BODY FOUND

Buffalo, N.Y., May 27 (AP)—Body of an unidentified man, stabbed 19 times in the neck and shoulders with a knife, was found on the shrubs was discovered today in a field here.

Police said the body was badly fragured and that two iron "fish-hooks" were used in securing ruptures, lay near the victim's head. The victim was believed between 45 and 50 years old.

Toronto, May 27—(CP)—William G. Yelland, for many years a familiar figure in the Land and Titles office in Queen's Hall, celebrated his 80th birthday today.

Mr. Yelland was born at Peterborough and educated at Belleville. He worked with his father in the carriage-making and blacksmithing business before entering the Ontario Civil Service in 1902.

HEPBURN SEES DIFFICULT TIMES

Believes Gov't. Will Have to Bear Larger Share of Relief Costs

Toronto, May 27—(CP)—The Ontario government is preparing for the possibility of an even greater burden of relief costs, it was indicated at Queen's Park today as Premier Mitchell Hepburn declared that "more difficult times are coming."

Premier Hepburn explained he did not want it assumed that he was taking a pessimistic view but he felt that the government must face facts and he expressed the belief that Canada was beginning to feel the repercussions of the business recession in the United States.

"There is good reason to believe that the Province will have difficult times to cope with," the Premier said. A large unemployment list with its consequent increase in purchasing power and purchasing power industry activity in this province might alleviate the situation, he suggested but the government is nevertheless preparing to meet darker days.

Closer Inspection

In order to conserve relief funds as much as possible the Department of Municipal Affairs has instituted a system of closer inspection of relief expenditures in the larger municipalities, Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs of Ontario, declared today and there were hopes that investigations would be made in Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor such as the one now under way in Ottawa. But he admitted that the Department was considering means of making a closer check up of relief expenditures in the larger centres.

Organizational inspectors will probably be located in the areas of the province where the relief costs are greatest.

Says Driver Backed Against Her And Baby and Laughed at Them

Toronto, May 27—(CP)—Police today searched for a hit-and-run driver who backed her car into a woman carrying an 18-months-old baby. The victim, Mrs. James King, was cut and bruised and the baby had a cut on the chin and bruised driver stopped to look at her lying on the roadway, laughed and then sped from the scene.

She was struck as she stepped into the roadway in front of a street car. She gave police a licence number but police found the number belonging to a man who satisfied

HUNGERFORD YOUTH SENT TO KINGSTON

Gerald Cumming, a Hungerford youth who was arrested by Provincial Police some weeks ago on charges of stealing from a parked car, today committed to the Ontario Hospital at Kingston for a period of sixty days for observation. Cumming is being held in connection with the alleged attempt to steal money from a Tweed banker. Provincial Police Sergeant Ray Symington announced Cumming would be taken to the Kingston hospital today in accordance following instructions from the Attorney General's Department at Toronto. Cumming has been held in custody at the Hastings County Jail since he was arrested at his home.

BIG HAY CROPS APPEAR LIKELY

The old proverb of "a cold, wet May for grass and hay" appears to have once again justified its worth in this district at least, according to reports from district farmers and local seed houses that this season will probably see a bumper hay and grain crop. At present the forage crops are inches higher than generally observed at this date, it was stated.

SERVICE STATION SUPPLY WATER FOR THIRSTY HORSES

First relief to thirsty work horses of the city of the season has been extended by some of the city's automobile service stations during the past day or so of warmer weather. This morning the horse attached to a typical transient peddler's wagon was observed greedily drinking from a pail filled pail provided by the proprietor of the West Bridge St. station.

Actually it has been the custom of the local stations to offer this help during the hot months, following orders from head offices of the companies.

Girl Guides, Athletic Assoc. Of O.S.D. Meet at Banquet

Prizes And Pennants Won During Year Presented

OFFICIALS PRESENT

The Girl Guide Company and the Girls' Athletic Association of the Ontario School for the Deaf held their annual banquet in the assembly hall of the school last evening (Friday) when the tables were very tastefully decorated in the yellow colours, blue and gold. The place cards, product of the art room were very attractive. Blue bowls of hyacinths, of lilac and honeysuckle completed the decoration.

Mr. W. J. Morrison, superintendent of the School for the Deaf welcomed the visitors from Belleville, who work with the Girl Guides. He said that many schools for the deaf in United States, Canada and England have Girl Guide companies. He thanked the ladies of the city, who had helped so much in Girl Guide work at the School for the Deaf.

Officials Present

Among those present were Mrs. Riggs, district commissioner; Mrs. Ponton divisional commissioner, and Mrs. Durley, district captain, and a number of other officials from Belleville. The ladies thanked the girls for the invitation given as guests to the banquet and complimented Miss Bridger, the captain, and Miss Connell, the lieutenant on the work done by their company. Girl Guide demonstrations of dancing at the recent Girl Guide Rally, Peterboro, all over the province have been showing an interest in these girls, who have been trained by them. The girls were asked to abide their plan during the absence of the girls who were in their minds the pledge of the Girl Guides. They received words of encouragement and praise from their guests.

Miss Bridger thanked the girls for inviting her to their banquet and said that, "Every girl ought to be a good Guide. She hoped they would continue in their work which she was sure would happen this year.

Workers Thanked

Miss Connell, who is also director of the Girls' Athletic Association, who came from the city and who had helped so much in the Guide work at the School for the Deaf. She thanked those people of the school who had helped during the evening a success.

Miss Mather introduced to the gathering Ruth Shore, who is the only Girl Guide in the school, who took special art work, which had designed and coloured a very attractive copy of the Guide law which was framed ready to be placed on the walls of the girls' rooms.

Following the display of this piece of work, Mr. Morrison presented the prizes, and pennants which this year was winning teams of the year. They were as follows:—

Sr. Softball—Tigers, Ruth McKay, Captain.

Inter. Softball—Aces, Ruby Carnahl, Captain.

Jr. Softball—Bluebirds, Kathleen Bartley, Captain.

Volley Ball —Crows, Kathleen Bartley, Captain.

Sr. Badminton—Lillian Reed.

Inter. Badminton — Eleanor Charron.

Each captain in turn thanked her team for the splendid support which had been given during the season.

Mr. F. P. Cunningham, a boys' coach thanked the girls for inviting him to their banquet and congratulated them on the success of the event.

Mr. Morrison brought the evening to a close by telling the girls how really proud he is of them and of their good work.

Dairy Grader States Quality Early Cheese Best in Many Years

"The quality of cheese in this central district this year is the finest I have seen in years," stated Mr. J. L. Irwin, Dominion Dairy Grader of the local office this morning, following a week's survey of dairying conditions in the territory.

"More cheese of better quality will probably be made this year, because at the present time pastures were better and they give promise of better conditions later. This year there has also been a wonderful improvement in the finish of cheese."

"We still have the occasional maker who could improve his markings on the cheese boxes and we have been finding several complaint regarding light cheese boxes, so tight that it is hard to get the cheese to test when it is sold," added Mr. Irwin. On the whole, though, everything looks good in the industry."

Obituary

WILLIAM H. RICHARDS
Weaker

After a brief illness William Henry Richards passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Leland Bryant at Weaker, Ont., on Monday, May 23rd.

The late Mr. Richards who was in his 87th. year was born in Murray Township, near Wooler in Northumberland County and had resided in that locality all his life. He was well known and was held in high esteem by all persons in the community. By many intimate friends he will be much missed. In religion he was a faithful member of the United Church.

On December 24th, last Mr. Richards and his wife celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage and at that time received congratulations and good wishes from a host of friends. One month after the anniversary, January 19th, Mrs. Richards passed away and Mr. Richards has since followed her after a lapse of only a few months.

Surviving to mourn his loss are three daughters, Mrs. Leland Bryant, Mrs. Roy Putman and Mrs. Leland Bryant, all of Wooler.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon, May 26th., from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bryant to the United Church at Wooler where an impressive service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. A. Poulter. There was a large attendance of friends and the floral tributes were beautiful and many in number.

Interment was made in Stockdale cemetery. Rev. Mr. Poulter read all grandsons of the deceased.

The late Mr. Richards was a member of the Masonic Order and the last rites of the Order were conducted at the graveside by members of the craft.

LATE PHILIP SCRIMSHAW

The funeral of Philip Scrimshaw took place from the Parkinson Funeral Home, Thursday afternoon, May 26th. The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of the Bonarscastle United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. W. McPherson, John McEwen, John Shambo, A. Elliott, Charles Orrell and H. Vesterfelt.

Four Bands to Play In Garrison Parade On Sunday Morning

What is expected to be one of the largest parades of militiamen seen in the city for some time will take place on Sunday morning when the non-permanent militia of the city and district hold their annual garrison parade to St. Thomas' church.

Martial music from four bands will play the troops to the church from the Armouries shortly before eleven o'clock. Participating bands will include the Belleville Municipal Band, the Band of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton Band, Belleville Collegiate Cadet Band and the Belleville Pipe Band.

Local units of the militia including the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) and the 34th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, also augmented by the Cadet Corps of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, the R.C.A.F. and it is expected, a large representation of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment under the command of Lieut.-Col. B. C. Donnan, E.D. will take part in the service.

Following service at the church where Major, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, chiplain of the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) will deliver the address, the parade will march over a city route before disbanding at the Armouries.

Wellington Constructs Improved Sewerage For Canning Companies

No more will the tomato skins, seeds, and other refuse dumped here in former years by canning factories of the village, be a source of nuisance to Lake Ontario off the village of Wellington.

Following an inspection as sewage conditions by representatives of the Canning Manufacturers' Association, and the department of Health, conducted at the re-quest of Reeve James Rutter of Wellington, the village council, a twelve inch sewerage pipe is now in the course of construction, designed to carry an refuse from canning plants far out into the lake.

Inlets from the various factories to the main pipe will be constructed. Only liquid refuse however, will be allowed to be disposed of in the lake, since the former discolering skins and tomatoes seeds will be dumped on the lands of surrounding farms to be used as fertilizer, regulations of the department covering the new sewage disposal scheme state.

The new system will not only prevent a repetition of hideous looking refuse that covers the beach portion of the village for certain periods during the summer, but will also eliminate the odorous smells that permeated the main section of the village during early canning operations. The new system will be constructed at a cost of $2,000.00. It is stated.

LILAC BUSH BEARS BLOOMS WITH THREE LAYERS OF PETALS

Delicately-shaped purple petals lying in rows of three, and reddish with a heavy perfume, form the colorful blooms of an unusual lilac bush now growing on the property of Ernest Martin, 216 Church street.

The triple rows of petals are said to be an extremely unusual feature, the majority of lilac bushes in the city bearing blossoms with single or double layers of petals.

Completing the colorful ensemble on the Martin lawn are heavily-blossomed "Snowball" bushes, bursting into the full glory of snow-white balls of bloom, these bushes furnish a colorful contrast to the purple of the lilacs.

KNIGHTLY VIRTUES ARE NEED ALSO OF PRESENT AGE

Rev. Dr. James Semple Preaches Ascension Day Sermon to Knights Templar And Tells of Duties of Christians of Today

King Baldwin Preceptory Knights Templar celebrated Ascension Day by attending divine service in Bridge Street United Church on Thursday evening. With them as a number of Companions of the Royal Arch Masons, who had been invited by the Knights of whom Eminent Preceptor Garnett E. Dobbs is ruling preceptor. Among the distinguished Knights present were Deputy Grand Master of the Great Priory of Canada, E. Deveau of Belleville, Past Provincial Grand Priors R. A. Backus of Belleville, Edward Carbolt and John Mackie of Toronto and Sir Alyn of Trenton, and the present Provincial Grand Prior T. W. Holmes of Stirling. Members of the Templar branch of Masonry were present from Marmora, Madoc, Napanee, Stirling, Tweed, Trenton, Picton and Bloomfield.

A Knightly Service

Rev. Dr. Janets Semple, minister of the church, welcomed the Knight Templar and the Royal Arch Masons and the text of his sermon by Miss Leona Riggs led the Templars and Masons and others of the congregation to sing the hymn of special significance to the Christian Knights in the days of the present day, "Onward Christian Soldiers." "Stand up, stand up for Jesus, the Cross of Christ I Glory," and "Soldiers of Christ, Arise, while the battle rages with deep humility confess the anthem "Hallelujah," and Jesus Shall Reign." The last hymn of more than usual appeal to the Templars, "Open the Gates of the Temple." Psalm 118 "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof," was read by the pastor before lesson was the first twelve verses of the first chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

Assembling in the school room, the Knights had donned their white cloaks bearing the symbols of the red cross, their Templar color, the signia and emblems of rank in the Templar order, and marched into the church where they created an impressive scene, recalling something of the days of the crusaders and chivalry.

The Higher Manhood

Rev. Dr. Semple went back to history for a text for his sermon, whose text he said might be "Life's highest aims and the influence of the Christian school."

"When the order of the Knights Templar was founded in 1118 A.D. it had a twofold purpose—first the protection of the pilgrims journeying while in the city of Jerusalem and second, for the defence of the Christian faith," the minister said.

There is no official knighthood in Canada, he went on to say, but that did not mean that the spirit of knightly Christian manhood did not exist. It has existed in other forms in society, and many societies of the present day exemplify it.

"Touching the chivalrous or knightly gentleman Dr. Semple declared that the knight began with a long course of preparation. He then concluded with the presentation of the golden spurs and the accompanying charge.

There are five stars in the order of the Knights Templar and after Dr. Semple said he would speak five parts required of the Christian knight in the twentieth century as in the twelfth.

Honor

Honor was the first point. Today is value does not to be emphasized. The Christian man is under obligation to be a man of honor in all phases of life. A banker in Toronto had said to a friend when a church pulpit was the agency to stress honor's need in the business world. "Honor is a day when a man's word was as good as his bond but it is not so today with some persons. Men deplore that the sense of honor is not as keen in Canada today as it should be.

"We are called upon to be men of honor in private life and in public life," Dr. Semple said.

"The cross is the sign and symbol of the Christian life. It was not the cross but the sense of the cross in agiers or its emblazonment on the banner of Constantine when the cross of Christ dipped to the Roman Sword.

"Service is the keynote of our day but we need to go beyond it," Dr. Semple went on to the late T. F. Loblaw who left a fund of one million dollars for the needy and neglected boys. "This work would not have been possible had not the Disciplish service is the heart of Christianity. The most humanitarian age in the history of the world is our day."

Courtesy

Courtesy was the next point of merit in the Christian knight's character, of the past or today. The son of the lord or baron served as page from seven to fourteen years—his chief duty to wait on the ladies in the castle or to carry messages. If he was approved he became a squire at fourteen, and then waited on the men going to the cripples, the Jean Valjeans of life were it not for the valiant hearts of this earth?

"Great men in the past have died for the freedom of the world. We are challenged to be true to the great principles of patriotism. May we all become exponents of the higher manhood we live the life we are called upon to live day by day."

STIRLING BANK CLERK RESIGNS

James W. Mitchell of the Stirling branch of the Bank of Montreal has tendered his resignation on the staff and will leave this week for England where he will live with his brother and brother-in-law. Friends of Stirling and district have extended their best wishes for future good fortune here-after.

Today's Duty

"Do you think any man's duty is any less today than then?"

Touching the place of valor in the soul of man, Dr. Semple referred to the duties of firemen, policemen, nurses and all those whose lives serve others. He spoke of Rev. Dr. Niemoeller of Germany who sits in a leaky cell as the order of the Germait State and when he goes to communion he has to walk between two soldiers as guards.

We have today to waken up to the danger facing the Christian faith," Dr. Semple said.

Dr. Semple saw the need of trials in life as necessary to character training.

Patriotism is a word often cheapened. There is such a thing as a cheap waving of the flag. "Such I call 'making a noise'" he said. "I do not look to such people to stand by in the time of crisis. Patriotism is service. We know what Baldwin did for democracy and the peace of the world. One thing is sure. Mr. Chamberlain prevented another war in recent days."

The minister pointed to the great men in service in Standard, Pasteur, Livingstone and others. "What hope would there be for

Hazzard's

Hazzard's — Sunday afternoon members of the congregation had the privilege of hearing and meeting Rev. Dr. McKay and Mrs. McKay, returned missionaries from India. Dr. McKay chose for his text, Matt. 9:36, "They when He saw the multitudes He was moved with compassion on them because they fainted and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith He unto His disciples The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth laborers into His harvest." He gave a most inspiring and instructive address on the religion and the political life of India outlining the wonderful and encouraging work being done for India's millions (with 96 per cent illiterate) as thousands are turning from their false religions and accepting the religion of Jesus Christ.

Mrs. MacKay, a most delightful and forceful speaker, spoke briefly of the work among the women. She stressed the fact that the women of Canada should be devoutly thankful for the freedom enjoyed by the gospel of Jesus Christ and asked the question, "Why is it that comparatively so few of the women of Canada are vitally interested and active in our church work?" She urged her hearers to remember India's need and our opportunity. Dr. and Mrs. McKay sang with heart and soul and voice a hymn in Hindoo. Rev. Snelgrove introduced the speakers and had charge of the service. Mrs. McKay, formerly Miss Jean Sinclair, of Madoc, is a daughter of Mrs. McKay's cousins Mr. and Mrs. John McCaffrey.

WHAT WILL THE FUTURE SAY?

Will this be known as the age of violence in contrast to the ice age, stone age, the bronze age, the golden age and the age of democracy? Winnipeg Tribune thinks that "the age of violence" may be the name given to it because of its massed killings in China, massed executions in Spain, its concentration camps for foreigners in some lands and its racial pogroms and racial persecutions. At the same time it will admit scientific mastery and inventive genius today of a high kind, so that men in the future may wonder why when man had the opportunity to make inventions which would bring blessings, he rather chose to make those that would kill and endanger the perpetuation of civilization on this planet. Will it mean that man has abandoned art and beauty for violence and that a modernization of the "first man" carrying in his hand a club to bash out the brains of his foe would best suit us?

It does not seem that man has entirely forgotten his civilized ways despite the brutality which exists in modern wars. Man is so sensitive to his possibilities that he shudders at the thought of the deeds of violence which he reads are being enacted throughout the world.

It must be remembered that with the opening of the Great War, there came a disillusionment of the masses of the people who thought that war was practically impossible. While national leaders may have known of the treacherous currents at work in the years 1911-1914 which broke loose in the Great War, few others realized that such could be possible. The terror of the war, followed by the social and economical upheaval of the nations and the growth of new ideas in the twenties and the thirties stunned almost whole populations. Man can believe almost anything of evil that may be said against man. All because he foresaw better things for his fellowmen, than have happened in the past twenty-five years. Man is still an incurable optimist, the fact that he looks pessimistically on so much of the evil of this day is proof that he is disappointed and is a believer in better things.

What praise cannot be spoken for those leaders of democratic states who in the early years of the first part of this century knowing what the generality of mankind did not know, kept their secret and prepared as well as they could against the day in August 1914 to be ready to defend civilisation! They carried a great burden.

Today as man sees in different form the gigantic efforts of peace-loving states to have the nations keep peace and work out a basis of settlement by other ways than war which has never ended what it set out to do, he sees the same tireless optimistic effort of the democracies to work out the ways of peace and help other avoid the awful calamities of war.

Who knows how long this so-called "age of violence" may continue, but our leaders hope and expect it will pass. Therefore they give so much effort towards solution of vast problems. What the League in its first efforts failed to do, perhaps preparedness and the arming of many states of the world for peace may bring to pass. The states that want peace are in the majority, their cause is to keep from violence. It may be that these horrors of violence man now sees will shortly be seen as but the flames of a limited fire in the dark as compared with the sunlight of peace. They are signs of a disorganized time, but all hope they are not the only yard stick of this age.

AFFECTION FOR QUEEN MARY

The affection with which Queen Mary is held in the hearts of the people of the Empire was demonstrated on Thursday when her seventy-first birthday was celebrated. The British people realize the nobility of her character as revealed in her life and do not fail to recall the memorable words of her late husband, King George Fifth, when he spoke in a broadcast of the people of the empire as the people of one family. In these years the British people hold Queen Mary in much of that family spirit with the wise noble Queen Mary in the place of honor in that empire family.

Dances, says Queen's Principal, Dr. R. C. Wallace, have become too costly and elaborate for the average student. He says they miss their purpose if they create the sense of exclusiveness. The university is the place where there should be no exclusiveness among students, in the light of the part which they are to play in the world into which they ultimately pass to make their contribution, best when broadminded and not measured by the breadth of the coin.

BEGIN TODAY

Dream not too much of what you'll do tomorrow,
How well you'll work, perhaps another year;
Tomorrow's chance you do not need to borrow—
Today is here.

Talk not too much about some new endeavor,
You mean to make a little later on;
Who idles now, will idle on forever
Till life is gone.

Swear not some day to break some habit's fetter,
When this old year is dead and passed away,
If you have need of living wiser, better,
Begin today!—Sel.

MOHAMET KOKO DI KORESE, aged 27, a native of Ethiopia, has been giving Uncle Sam much trouble on account of his fondness for liquor and propensity for getting in brawls. He has served three terms in jail for disorderly conduct and burglary, since his arrival in the United States in 1926. Uncle Sam decided to ship Mohamet back to the mountain so loaded him on the Italian liner Rex with a ticket to Addis Ababa, via Italy. Ethiopia being now Italy, according to Mussolini, Mohamet may be said to be a man without a country, first cousin to the Ethiopian in the woodpile.

TWO WOMEN CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR in a new shack town called Disney, Oklahoma, makes news. Uncle Sam is spending ten million dollars there on a works project to give employment and "prime the pump", called the Grand River Dam. Both women candidates have been put on probation for thirty days, being permitted for that period to assume the dignity of office and run the town. Billy Baker, cowgirl, was first choice and assumed office on a platform of fun and frolic, a wide open town, with the sky the limit. Says Mayor Billy Baker, "We'll make this the best town by a damsite." Then the whoopee started, to be abruptly checked by a flank attack from the supporters of the other candidate, Mrs. Vera Silar, grocer, who stands for law and order all the time and on Sundays. The Silar party commandeered the chief of police who gave the revellers something to think about when he tacked up a notice on a tree bearing this inscription:

I AM THE LAW IN DISNEY NO WOMAN CAN RUN THIS TOWN BY A DAMSITE WHILE I AM IN THE SADDLE.

The final issue may depend upon which party has the most crack shots. In any event it is anticipated that some of the leading citizens will take up permanent residence in Boot Hill before long unless some compromise is arrived at, for Disney, Oklahoma is wild and woolly, loves bootleg likker, chawing terbacker and free-for-all fights.

THE CITY OF WINDSOR, ONTARIO, IS THINKING ALONG ADVANCED LINES as is indicated by following editorial reference in Windsor Star:

A special committee of the Windsor Chamber of Commerce, charged with the task of answering a Canadian Chamber of Commerce questionnaire involving government reform, looks with favor on the city manager plan. Mr. W. D. McGregor recalls that some years ago the people of Windsor voted overwhelmingly in favor of the idea, but it was never carried out. Such an excellent argument can be made for the city manager system that it is really surprising that it is not in force generally. There are so many departments of city business and so many bodies having to do with these departments that it is obviously desirable to have one official, an unusually capable and experienced man, in general charge of them all. Only in that way can a municipality's affairs be properly co-ordinated and a clear picture of the general situation retained all the time.

SOMETIMES

Mr. Potter, dining at the golf club, was amazed to see his wife in cap and apron approaching the table to take his order.

"What are you doing here," he asked.

"Well," she replied. "It's so nice to see you sometimes."

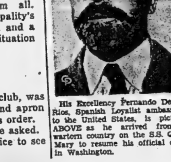
That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.



Strong Emotion During Exercise Puts an Extra Strain on the Heart

Some years ago I wrote an article for one of the weekly magazines entitled "What's Wrong with Golf." I was making the point that only two types of people should play golf, (a) the one who had learned to play golf in a "natural" manner just as he had learned to swim or ride a bicycle, and (b) the one who did not care what his score was.

The individual who eats a hasty meal, hurries to the golf course, arrives in mind tensed trying to remember all the points—left foot in line with the ball, left elbow straight, draw club back from the line with what would be the down swing, keeping head down, left eye on ball and still more and more of these instructions, is putting a great strain on his heart and bloodvessels, entirely aside from the physical exertion of walking, climbing hills, and hitting or trying to hit the ball. This case comes on early in these cases because the brain has not come to the exercise once a sport or exercise has been learned the brain is not needed and fatigue does not come on so soon. No one has to remember how to ride a horse, a bicycle, or how to swim: it is done entirely without thinking.

Further, during a game of golf it is not altogether unusual to see a player shake his club, throw it away, or break it, as he becomes annoyed with his poor playing. There is also a terrific strain on heart and bloodvessels. Dr. Louis B. Lapique, Philadelphia, in the Pennsylvania Medical Journal some months ago, made this statement, "Activity accompanied by emotion is a greater strain on the heart than the same effort without emotion. Emotion is believed to bring on heart failure by stimulating the adrenal glands and making them pour more of their juice—adrenalin—into the blood." This juice, by constricting or partially closing the bloodvessels puts more work on the heart.

The thought then is that if a heart is diseased, real is the best treatment; if there is some failure, very little if any, exercise should be taken. And even when the heart is normal it should be remembered that with the brain being used in the exercise, besides the work put on the heart by the exercise, there should not be further strain put on it by emotional upstirment during play or exercise.

Czechoslovakia Prepares for War with Germany

Despite assurances from Chancellor Hitler, to the British government, that Germany has no intention of invading Czechoslovakia, tension between the Czechoslovakian air force are pictured and the Germans remains high in the ABOVE radiophoto, standing beside their airplanes on the western Czechoslovakian frontier, ready for instant combat should the differences with Germany lead to war.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg—The annual meeting of the Plainfield, Rosin, Bethel and Thomasburg Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the United Church, Thomasburg on Wednesday evening with the president, Mr. Will Morden, in the chair. The meeting opened with the singing of an appropriate hymn after which Rev. J. McDonald led in prayer. The annual report of the branch was given by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Willis White of Rosin. Rev. R. H. Herrington took charge of the election of officers. President, Mr. W. A. Morton, and Mrs. W. White, secretary-treasurer, were both re-elected, while the clergy of the different churches in this division are vice-presidents. A meeting of this committee is to be held in the near future to make arrangements for the collecting of the Bible Society money.

Five reels of moving pictures, entitled "The Romance of the Bible Society" were then shown by Rev. F. B. Allnutt, B.D., of Toronto, secretary of the Society. The films showing scenes around Bala where Mary Jones is walking the distance 25 miles to secure a Bible, was the inspiration of the formation of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Mary Jones worked from the age of ten years to sixteen to save enough money to buy a Bible for herself. Other pictures were of the Society's headquarters on Queen Victoria Street, London, Eng.; Port Said, Jerusalem and Algiers.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Rev. F. B. Allnutt. The benediction was pronounced at the close by Rev. R. B. Herrington.

A number of ladies from the United Church Women's Association attended the sixth annual convention of the Women's Associations and Ladies' Aid Societies of Prince Edward and Hastings Counties in the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, which was held at Foxboro United Church on Thursday afternoon and evening.

The May meeting of the Sunbeam Mission Band was held on Saturday afternoon in the Sunday School room with a good attendance. All joined in the singing of a hymn. The Scripture lesson was taken by Janet McTaggart, followed by several members giving sentence prayers. Evelyn Bateman gave the secretary's report and Ruth Coulter the report of the treasurer. The offering was taken up by Lorne Thompson. A Temperance reading was given by Anney McTaggart and Ruth Jones read an interesting story on Peace. Merle Bateman gave an interesting reading after which Miss Dorothy Clare drew the attention of the children by telling them a suitable story. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer being repeated in unison.

Master Jackie Green, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Green had the misfortune to fall on Sunday evening and fracture his left arm.

Miss Isobel Beatty is the guest of her cousin, Miss M. Reeves in Belleville, for a short time.

Mr. Russell Bateman has returned to his home here to spend the vacation with his parents, having completed his year at Queen's University, Kingston.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Ernest Morton on the death of her sister, Mrs. Charles Reade of Flinton, whose death occurred on Saturday at the Belleville General Hospital, where she had been confined for some weeks.

With the walls of the dining hall in the United Church parlors gaily decorated for the annual Young People's Union banquet, about 75 members and guests answered the 7.30 p.m. gong on Tuesday evening and the extremely fine decorative effort was created by the members and the beautiful floral arrangement by Mrs. A. Poulter.

The sumptuous dinner for the occasion was provided by the members of the Young People's Union.

The ladies in charge of the banquet worked in co-operation with the refreshment committee.

The president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People's Union of the United Church, Don Baxter of Bloomfield, was the guest speaker, featured by the program committee under the leadership of Mrs. F. Rogers.

The toast to the King and Country was a masterpiece, proposed by Gordon.

The speaker asked the company to rise and drink a toast to King and Country after which the National Anthem was sung.

After singing Grace, Rev. A. Poulter, song leader, led in lively community singing throughout the dinner hour.

Arnold Anderson very capably acted as chairman. A novel addition to the early part of the program was a male quartette, Clifford Rogers, Theodore Poulter, Billy Mitchell and Paul Austin singing "Lassie o' Mine".

Mr. Anderson gave ten points in favor of Prince Edward County, in introducing the guest speaker, he added, we were both born in P. E. County.

The brother, Howard Baxter, a member of Older Boys' Parliament for the county, crowned with Theodore Poulter, member of Older Boys' Parliament for East Hastings, Ontario, at McMaster University, during parliament in Hamilton, brought greetings.

Don Baxter's opening remarks were of a humorous nature, one being, he gave his subject, "Christian youth, building a new world."

John Purdy moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his excellent address.

Trenton Young People's Union was represented by musical numbers given by Glenn Mills who sang "Bells of the Sea" accompanied by Glenda Huffman. Miss Cooper of Frankford played a piano solo with style and harmony. Lois May sang sweetly, "The Little Brown Bird".

The closing number was prayer by Rev. A. Poulter.

William McColl, Stanley and Dean Fox, Gordon Cole and Norman Richardson and Clifford Dempsey spent the 24th of May in Rochester.

The tragic death of Mr. Harry Flindall on Saturday was a shock to this community.

2nd Thurlow

2nd. Thurlow—The monthly meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. J. Lynch on Wednesday afternoon, May 18th, with about 23 members, ten visitors and several children present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. F. Dorland, and opened by Ode, followed by prayer; after the business was attended to the following program was enjoyed by all:

A humorous reading, Mrs. Percy Sprackett; a solo by Mrs. Harry Grills, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. F. Haight; a humorous reading, Mrs. Sprackett; a duet by Misses Lulu Mitchell and Flossie Terry, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Stanley Grills. Mrs. Paynter, a visitor from Montreal, sang a solo in French and then in English which were thoroughly enjoyed; Mrs. Mitchell read a paper, "Getting Ready for the Threshers." Mrs. Stanley Grills sang a solo which was followed. Mrs. Paynter gave a very interesting talk on the Mediterranean cruise which she had taken recently. She described different places of interest and told of costumes, ways of living, scenery, ammonnia, various happenings, etc. A few of the many places visited were as follows: Madrid, Cape Islands, Gibraltar, Spain, Africa, Athens, Dardanelles, Bethlehem, Jerusalem, Rome, Italy and several other places. After this talk refreshments were served by Mrs. Lynch and her convenors.

THIS IS HOW EVERY TIP TOP GARMENT IS HAND-CUT

This picture shows one of over a hundred trained union hand-cutters employed by Tip Top Tailors. With the customer's personal measurements as his guide, and using a tailor's hand-shears, this craftsman is cutting a garment to the individual measurements of the man who ordered it. In 28 years Tip Top has tailored over three million garments—every one separately hand-cut. Because men know that it's the cut of their clothes that counts—that gives them style, fit, appearance—hand-cutting has always been a fundamental Tip Top policy.

"I am satisfied with my R&G USED CAR to the extent that, through my recommendation, my mother purchased one a month later"

SAYS AN R&G BUYER

"Am well satisfied . . . will go to the same Ford Dealer for the next . . . My R & G car is easy on gas and oil . . . Best automobile I ever bought!" other R & G owners report.

A success story for Ford Dealers' R & G used cars has been written by the new hundred and four owners who answered a poll by mail in a single city. These people had driven their cars an average of eight months and more, including three winter months. Ford Dealers wanted to know how they liked their cars, how economical they were. Owners replied with a shower of letters that bear out every claim for these fine renewed and guaranteed automobiles.

R & G means that the used car bearing this emblem which you buy from a Ford Dealer, has undergone the repairs and replacements necessary to put it in excellent driving shape. Faint and splashy colors have been renewed in factory ovens; chrome work is bright, mechanical parts are in good order. R & G also means that you get a 2-day money-back guarantee and a 50/50 30-day warranty against mechanical defects with your purchase. 100% satisfaction or all your money back. That's a guarantee to go for! Ford Dealers have a selection of R & G cars, to help you pick just the one you've planned to buy. Good prices, convenient terms, and generous trade-in allowance on your present car complete the picture. You could ask for no more attractive offer!

Buy an R & G used car now. Enjoy safe, modern motoring right away. Start economizing on fuel and service bills. Go around to your Ford Dealer's tonight!

The interesting sessions were devoted to the reports of superintendents of various departments, to the plans of work for the coming year and to the consideration of resolutions.

Plan of Work

The following plan of work was recommended to be endorsed by the local unions for the coming year:

"Whereas our organization was founded on prayer recommended that prayer be the keynote in our prayer life and dependence upon Divine Aid.

"That we stress our educational work among our young people, through the departments of Medal Contest, Scientific Temperance in Day Schools and Temperance in Sunday Schools, giving special thought to the National Temperance Sunday, October 30th in the Autumn.

"Resolved that we approach our municipal authorities to make available the blood test for any desiring it.

"That each union endeavour to send one of their members to the school for leaders Aug. 8-12. The cost of the school to be $5.00 including room and board, not including expenses.

"Ask each union to petition their municipal authorities (where there are beverage rooms) for ten o'clock closing.

"That the Provincial Executive be implored to allow a change in elections by allowing a nominating committee.

"That we continue to contribute to the Light Line Union Fund for the maintenance of the association, the same to be taken at the Dominion Convention and forwarded to the County Treasurer.

"That in order to get acquainted with our separate work, we invite to our union sister organizations such as the Y.W.C.A. association and Women's Institute and have a guest speaker.

"That each union report important items to the press and to "Tidings."

Resolutions Adopted

The following resolutions were adopted by the convention:

"We, the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union county convention in session return thanks to our Heavenly Father for the blessings given and ever seek grace and wisdom from God to deal with the Temperance problems.

"Resolved that we give more time to earnest prayer and consecration of our lives that we may fight more successfully the great forces allied against us.

"That we express our appreciation of the action taken by the Canadian Radio Commission in eliminating all liquor advertising over the air and highly commend this act.

"Be it resolved that we appoint an opportunity period to reduce the hours of liquor sale by earlier closing.

Notwithstanding the warfare and unrest throughout the world, we resolved that we continue to pray and work for peace and good will among men.

"Resolved that the Junior Temperance County Council be prepared in simpler form.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.M.S.

The regular meeting of Holloway Street Woman's Association following by an afternoon tea was held at the home of Mrs. J. Corson, Yeomans Street, on Wednesday, May 25th with adopt 16 in attendance. The President opened the meeting by all singing "I need Thee Every Hour", followed by repeating the Lord's prayer in unison. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Reports of treasurer and the various secretaries were given and several matters of important business were discussed. A very interesting and inspiring report of the sixth annual convention of the Woman's Association which was held on May 19th at Foxboro was then given by Mrs. J. Wadsett Mrs. W. Oliphant's group then took charge with Mrs. J. Corson presiding and conducted their program by singing "Trust and Obey", Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Cordes followed by prayer by Mrs. C. Walters, Solo "Alone With Thee" by Miss Phyllis May, and piano solo by Mrs. R. Hubbs were very much enjoyed.

A delicious tea was then served by the group, the tea table looked lovely with lace cloth centred with red roses and red tapers with Mrs. McCrudden pouring tea. Those assisting with the serving were Mrs. W. Oliphant, Mrs. A. Campbell, Mrs. W. Woodley and Mrs. D. Hyde.

Vegetable platter is the apt name for a novelty basket which is a round platter of natural straw massed with tiny vegetables in their proper colorings, surrounded by a row of red cherries and with a cluster of cherry-red velvet ribbons. Grand for a wedding or garden tea.

Looking ahead to summer evenings one shop has ordered beautiful printed sheer evening gowns. The charming model is in black with a modernistic design of large white tulips. Self ruching marks the off-shoulder decolletage.

He Won the Tournament

He always had good form—but he couldn't seem to locate the chalk lines. He lost game after game on outside balls. Then he had his eyes examined. Keen sight put the lines where they belonged; he won the tournament. Maybe better sight will help your game. Why not drop in and see us this week?

ABOVE is Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson, M.V.O., distinguished British church-musician, surrounded by a group of Canadian Choir-boys.

Famed British Organist Will Be Heard in This City

Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson Has Been Organist and Choirmaster at Canterbury and Birmingham Cathedrals and Organist and Master of the Choristers at Westminster Abbey.

The city of Belleville will be ably honoured in having one of the world's most prominent church musicians, in the person of Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson, M.A., M.V.O., F.R.C.O. who will speak at the Tabernacle service in Bridge Street on Sunday, May 29th, and also give a short organ recital.

Dr. Nicholson has had a notable career in the musical profession. He was born in Australia and is a son of the late Sir Charles Nicholson, Bart. He was educated from an early age in England at the University of Oxford and other prominent English educational seats.

In Cathedrals

After a brilliant career in several of the prominent parish churches of England, he was appointed organist and choirmaster of Canterbury Cathedral; relinquishing the post to accept the same position at Birmingham Cathedral which he retained for a number of years.

In Famed Westminster

In the year 1918, Dr. Nicholson resigned his position at Birmingham to go to the world famed Westminster Abbey, of which he was organist and master of the choristers until the year 1927.

The School of English Church Music, of which Dr. Nicholson is the founder and head, began in the year of his resignation from the tendance.

Abbey. Having felt for a great many years, the increasing need of advancement and improvement in church music as a whole, he resolved to devote the rest of his life to this tremendous work.

Growth of School of Music

Starting from a small beginning the School has now grown to such tremendous proportions that there are now over 20,000 choristers belonging to it. Besides 1,500 affiliated choirs in every part of the British Empire and the United States.

Dr. Nicholson, who is on his third tour overseas on R.R.C.M. work and the advancement of church music; will lecture on Sunday evening in Christ Church on the subject of "Choirs and Places Where They Sing".

Choir School

On Monday evening, a recital and service of the work done during the day will be presented at 8 p.m. conducted by Dr. Nicholson.

The public are invited as far as the seating capacity will permit.

The choir of Christ Church and its organist and Choirmaster Gerald Marlow, are indeed to be congratulated on having such a distinguished visitor as it is the only place between Toronto and Montreal which he will visit.

The Canadian Dominion Secretary of the S. E. C. M. and other prominent representatives of the school are expected to be in attendance.

Belleville's Own Beatrice Lillie Coming To Belle Theatre

Beatrice Lillie's irrepressible sense of humor would have put her where she is today even if she had never lifted a finger to help herself get there. From a little Belleville, Ontario, Canada, girl in pigtails, whose antics nearly drove her mother distracted, she has risen to Queen Lady Peel, reigning Queen of Comedy of London, Great Britain and the Dominions Beyonnds the Seas, Laughter of Empire!

Ben Bist showed the world that her determination to play the clown could be held down, when at an early age, she queered a solemn vocal concert her mother was giving by spanking her from the wings of Carmen's Opera House with the business end of a broom.

Since that day she has never been able to stop herself from bidding a serious song or act with her mast facial expressions and the inflections of her voice.

During the World War the Lilies stranded in London, and Bea decided to offer her talents to the world of the theatre. She would do it in a great big way or not at all and so she went to the Alhambra Theatre and tackled the great Charlie Chariot, the king of the British stage. When she first appeared Chariot, carelessly burlesqued her song, "Won't You Come and Splash Me", then Charlie allowed her to join on his cigar and put her into the act.

Her lifelong motto, "It's better farther on", proved true during the years that followed. It certainly was better farther on, and before the War was over she had the Prince of Wales, now Duke of Windsor, deserting the royal box for a chat with her backstage. He became one of her closest friends and introduced her to the man she later married. Sir Robert Peel, grandson of Queen Victoria's Prime Minister.

Life in Burke's peerage proved too dull for Bea, zipping Lea and "Doctor Rhythm", she weakened and signed her contract.

Lady Peel, whose husband died four years ago, calls herself a "transatlantic commuter" because of her frequent trips to England to visit her ailing son, now at school at Harrow. The coincidence dabbling being called by her title, preferring "Auntie Bea". She is petite, five-foot-three and has blue eyes and dark brown hair bobbed like a boys.

A Perfect Souffle

Made This Way — A Success Every Time

By Katharine Baker

You've read about them and seen pictures of them and wondered how it was done, wondered if you dared make one yourself at the risk of being the only one in your circle who's never talking about, one of those that have fallen because of the weight because of their perfection. Well, there is no reason in the world why even beginners at the art of cooking can't make just such souffles. A light, fluffy, golden-brown souffle made with eggs and cheese is a mouthing dish and a thing of beauty.

Of course there is a special trick to make it and that is by using the new method which calls for a binding of quick-cooking tapioca. You can be sure then that it will not fall and that way every time and with that, even when being served.

Try this delicious souffle on your family in the near future and watch their eyes pop and their respect for your ability as a cook go up several notches. It's a grand dish for fairly luncheons.

Cheese Souffle

2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, 1 tablespoon mixed mustard; 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Combine quick-cooking tapioca, salt, and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water. Cook to existing point (allow 3 to 5 minutes), and cook five minutes, stirring frequently. Add cheese and stir until melted, remove from boiling water; add egg yolks and mix well. Fold in egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes, or until firm. Serves 4.

Look pretty at home in a lovely gray silk house frock with shining gold dots accenting the silver sheen of the gray. The neck has a square decolletage edged with wide, stiff, pleated ruffle. A similar treatment is accorded the cuffs, the ruffles covering the wrist.

Great Increase in Facilities For Drinking Says Speaker

Rev. D. T. McClintock Gives Address Before W.C.T.U. Convention

MEDALS AWARDED

Miss Fern Miller of Picton, intermediate winner, and Miss Ina Wannamaker, Trenton, senior winner, captured the medals awarded in the medal contest held last evening by the Women's Christian Temperance Union at the county convention in the Tabernacle Church. Eleven children competed and their work was of a high standard.

Mrs. E. N. Farnsworth was in the chair for the evening's program which was opened by prayer by Rev. A. G. Sinclair, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Mr. Sinclair also extended greetings on the great work they were doing in the great purpose to which they had pledged themselves, that of helping young people in these difficult days.

Officers for the ensuing year were installed by Rev. W. D. Harrison.

Made Life Members

Provincial life membership pins were presented by Miss Maude Reeves to Miss Thrall, Belleville; Miss Evelyn Gount, Picton, Mrs. F. J. Reeve, Trenton; and county life membership pins to Mrs. Peter Collier, Picton, Mrs. A. H. Bruton, Belleville, Mrs. J. Barnes, Belleville, Mrs. Geo. Wartzman, Newburgh, Miss Blanche Dunlop, Napanee ("Y"), Mrs. Harold Rattan, Yeoman's "Y", Mrs. F. Hodgson, Trenton "Y".

Mrs. N. Baker presented the awards in the Scientific Temperance contest and Mrs. J. Spicer the awards in the Sunday School work.

In the latter group, the Temperance Course in the Sunday School, seven children wrote and the following received awards:

Primary: Vivian Wood, Crookston; Milton McTaggart, Tweed; Jessie Bell, Frankford; Billie Bird, Ivanhoe; Colleen Baggerly, Ivanhoe; Dorothy Bird, Ivanhoe; Ella Sills, Napanee.

Juniors, 10 and 11: —Margaret Campbell, Trenton; Ruth Mumbleby; Helen Creighton, Picton; Hazel Pringle, Picton; Mary Reid, Napanee.

Intermediates, 12, 13, 14 years: Agnes Campbell, Trenton; Ina Mae Ireland, Trenton; Jean McLaren, Ameliasburg; Jack McLaren, Ameliasburg; Mary Reid, Napanee; Eva Murphy, Napanee; Ruth Jones, Napanee.

Seniors, 15, 16, 17 years: Edith Phillips, Napanee; Helen Wright, Napanee; Helene Westfall, Trenton; Dorothy Wright, Napanee; Frances Welsh, Trenton; Vera Pound, Canniffton; Irene Lucas, Trenton.

Miss Ella Bleecker, superintendent of Medal Contests took charge of the medal part of the program. The following contestants competed:

Intermediate: Shirley Jones, Trenton; Agnes Campbell, Trenton; Doreen Bloom, Picton; Cecil Derry, Trenton; Fern Miller, Picton; Marion Ireland, Trenton; June Wood, South Marysburg.

Senior: Wanda Wannamaker, Trenton; Jean McFaul, Picton; Ina Wanamaker, Trenton; Mary Deline, Picton.

Vocal Duet

A vocal duet by Misses Lois and Ruby Brown of South Marysburgh was greatly appreciated at the conclusion of the interesting and well presented contest numbers, the judges, Mr. H. Peterly, Rev. L. S. Wight and Mrs. Charles Walters, Picton, having a difficult decision.

Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of Tabernacle Church, delivered a thoughtful address on the present liquor situation. Today several entirely different aspects of the situation face the people. In the first place there is a marked increase in facilities of drinking, easier access to drink which makes increased drunkenness. In 1916, the last year of the open bar, there were 1529 places to buy liquor and last year there were 1750. The fact that $71,-559,000 was spent on liquor in Ontario, $12 million going to the government shows that there are a great number of people in Ontario who want liquor.

New Years

Social drinking is a new phase of the situation. The invitation in a cultural home, by a kind courteous host for youth to join in drinking is far more tempting than the public and requires much more courage to refuse than an invitation to enter a beverage room.

A new generation of men and women drinking rather in beverage rooms is a situation never faced in Ontario before and observers in large centres are sadly aware of the tragedies, that have resulted.

"In the days of the Province of Ontario have alcohol and death had the chance to go hand in hand as in the present day, and comparative figures show the great increase in accidents caused by drunken drivers. A man who has taken intoxicating liquor and gets behind the wheel of an automobile is a potential murderer.

"In the days of the bar" said Mr. McClintock, "a man stood up and drank until he had to sit down; today he sits down and drinks until he can't stand up."

Resolutions Advised

To remedy these conditions, the speaker stressed the urgency of doing all that is possible to place on death the best parlours; of best and hostess seeing that liquor is not served in their home and to keep in mind that one can be weak, lily social leaders, respected and admired by being true to Christian principles; of never neglecting the education side of their work, at the same time remembering that an appeal must be made to the emotion. There was never a great reform put forth successfully in history on a wave of emotion. The beginning of drink is first in the heart and the heart must be stirred to revolt in the liquor traffic.

Mr. H. R. Peterly presented the decision of the judges, announcing the competitions, including the intermediates for their fine work and complimenting the audience to the members regarding contest work.

Votes of thanks of appreciation to all those who had assisted in the success of the annual meeting were moved in a resolution of appreciation by the courtesy committee.

The next union meeting for prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Campbell of Trenton.

Nothing prettier has been seen this season than an evening gown with a bouffant skirt. The striped taffeta skirt made in three flaring tiers. The strapless, heart-shaped bodice is also striped with narrow pleated tulle and is marked by a centre cluster of red roses.

HOW YOU CAN Attract MEN

OF course, you have no men friends to call on you. You've let yourself become dull, crss, and nervous. Men like lively girls. Don't let constipation poison you by. Help build up your pep and you, too, should have gay friends. Remember, you've let yourself become this way because you've taken time-proven, reliable Lydia E. WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, May 27 (AP)—Stocks attempted to negotiate a rally tomorrow in today's market, but the market failed to attract sufficient support to get the ball rolling.

Sizable overnight offerings bulged the ticker tape all the morning. Selling soon dried up and initial losses of fractions to two or more points were chipped down or replaced by minor advances. Mixed quotations made the rule in subsequent proceedings and, near the final hour, small declines prevailed.

Transfers were about 800,000 shares.

Selected stocks grasped at recovery in today's market after an early sell-off had subdued prices to around low levels for the year. Sizable offerings at the opening were accompanied by losses of fractions to a point or two. These were subsequently recorded in some cases. Volume soon dwindled and buyers began to pick off issues that had been there.

Canadian issues turned in modest gains with the exception of Lake Shore which moved around to 69. Dome and McIntyre Porcupine advanced ½ or more while Canadian Pacific showed a minor upturn. Canada & wire neglected.

Among Senior acting shares were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Consolidated Gilsons and N.Y. Central. Dependent most of the time were American Telephone, J. I. Case, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum.

TORONTO STOCKS

(Close)

Toronto, May 27 (CP) — A mild rally in the golds introduced a note of cheerfulness in the Toronto stock market today. Base metals and the industrials lost ground and the western oils showed little change in the closes from the final prices of Thursday. Trade moved down noticeably with the tightening of the gold share prices and over the board only 450,000 shares changed hands in the session.

Steel utilities and miscellaneous issues were the weak groups of the industrial sections.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Crawford
By Financial Service

The past week has witnessed some of the quietest market sessions in many years with trading averaging around 600,000 shares daily on the Toronto Stock Exchange, with the exception of the Wallie Amulet which responded favorably to the exceptionally good results obtained in three diamond drill holes, the mining market would have been completely featureless. Announcement of a threatened strike in connection with Kerr-Addison Mines, to the amount of twenty million dollars, sent the stock down about 20 points and brought nervousness throughout the younger gold mines.

The trend, generally, was mixed, with half a dozen senior gold issues firming up slightly and a few others of the list sagging off under a minimum of transactions. With the Canadian dollar at a discount of One per cent in the United States the price of gold obtainable in Canadian funds is automatically raised to $35.84 which is very near to cent premium on American funds means an extra 35 cents an ounce for a Canadian producer. Export curtailing were weak and the decline in sterling also brought a rise in the London gold price in terms of our money. Banks from overseas report a renewed heavy demand for the yellow metal with private demand having been particularly satisfied. In contrast with the weak industrial markets throughout the week on the London market, African gold stocks were very strong.

There is no little public interest in the market at this time that stocks are still under no pressure whatsoever; it is not rather "absence of buying." For instance Central Patricia is now showing up on a turnover of 4,000 shares and Siscoe-Gold, 6,000 on 15,000 shares. There is no interest what-soever in the stock market; brokers report that there is much money available for speculation or investment but that the average trader appears content to remain on the sidelines.

Abroad, however, business conditions are showing less favourable. In the United Kingdom, new orders are falling off and the export rate of industrial production; export trade is shrivelling-up; inventories of steel and cotton goods are substantial enough to prevent rapid improvement. In reflection of this condition, the London stock market has been slipping about and interruptingly since last mid-April. The recent crisis is spreading on the continent, Belgium is especially hard hit and the totalitarian states find their own set short out into invidious influence. Returning to this side of the water, we draw a little closer to the broad economic picture and notice that the week-to-week basis there is a definite slipping (rail)— than a (trend) towards lower levels.

BELLEVILLE BAND AND MALE CHORUS TO VISIT COBOURG

Another indication of the fine standing the Belleville Municipal Band, that is rapidly gaining for them the reputation of being one of the outstanding musical organizations in Eastern Ontario, is seen in the fact that the Belleville band and his musicians have been invited to stage a program in the Cobourg Band Shell during the latter part of June.

Assisting the musicians in their drive for funds to replenish the depleted treasury of the Belleville Band, will be Mr. Harry Moorman and male chorus, whose vocal abilities likewise have established for them a high place in musical circles of Belleville.

Boy Scouts to Patrol Wellington Beaches During the Summer

Two Stalwart Boy Scouts, members of Troop No. 1, Wellington, will patrol the beaches, piers and docks in the Lakeside village during the months of June, July and August, it was decided at a meeting of the troop held yesterday.

The decision to install the patrol in the aftermath of the second near drowning tragedy to occur within the ranks of the troop within the past three years, when Bobby Thompson lost his life last month in the deep connecting channel between West Lake and Lake Ontario. Three years ago, Patrol-Leader Ernest Callow was drowned in a futile attempt to rescue Scout Harry Smith, swimmer who had gone beyond his depth in the same channel.

Members of the troop will take turns doing patrol duty. Reeve James Rutter and members of the village council have promised the troop with a fully equipped first aid chest, that will be placed with life-belts and ropes in a convenient place.

Dr. A. A. Thompson and R. E. Sarles, village physicians, have announced their intention of giving gratis to the troop, instructions in first aid and artificial respiration, and other data as to what to do in the face of an emergency.

PARKS BOARD TO ENFORCE HOURS

Action Taken to Discourage Destruction of Property by Night

Curfew laws are to be rigidly enforced in Victoria Park this year, the Last night members of the Belleville Police Department paraded to the park. Commencing at 10.00 p.m. they proceeded to clear Victoria. Part of loitering persons nightly and shortly after 10.00 each evening. The result less there is some special attraction in our city charged on the park but there is no reason why persons should loiter thereon after ten o'clock in our opinion and it is considerable money to make the park more comfortable for the citizens, we hope to keep it in good repair. but have found there is only one way in which to meet that end, namely —keep people off the park during hours when the majority of our citizens are home sleeping." Alex W. A. Woodley, chairman of the Parks Commission today.

Last evening marked the inauguration of the new police patrol on Victoria Park, when police authorities announced that the premises shortly after 10.00 p.m. and politely requested all persons to depart forthwith and to waste the premises quietly. "We feel this curfew law should be understood by all law abiding citizens and eventually adhered to. Our chief concern is of having the park will not affect visiting yachtsmen," police added.

2-Year-Old Girl In Toronto Draws Long Shot

Toronto, May 27 (CP)—Two-year-old Marlene Wheller of Toronto may be the youngest Irish Sweepstakes winner in the Epsom Derby draw.

Marlene had an ear ache today and wasn't interested when her mother, Mrs. Lucy Wheller, received a cable from Dublin announcing that Marlene's ticket, drawn at random, shot, in the draw. She stands to win $2,850 whether Pasch is first or not and $150,000 if the horse wins.

DYNAMITE USED TO BLAST OUT DRAINAGE DITCH ON CITY BEACH

Sixty pounds of dynamite packed in holes drilled in the solid limestone near the city beach project exploded with an echoing detonation on the east side of the city yesterday afternoon and shifted sufficient of the solid rock to clear room for the drainage tile which is now being placed on the fringe of the beach. The blasting was in charge of Benjamin Simpson and Company, contractors engaged on the part of employees. During the past few weeks a force of workmen, axes and men have been given steady work on this beach project. Numerous offers of help have been with which to fill in the low spots on the beach between the city and the shore by local residents lately, with the stipulation that such material be carted away, it was stated by President of the Beaches Reg. Hubbs, yesterday, however, that the Association has no trucks of carts available to handle them.

"We do need this fill and the trucks, too, but we are grateful for any kind of fill there is as long as it isn't garbage," he added.

St. Catharines, Ont., May 27.—(CP)—Appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada will be made on behalf of William Munchuk, twice convicted of murder, it was learned here today. Counsel announced today. An appeal to The Ontario Court of Appeal was dismissed early this week on a 3-2 division.

PARKING BY-LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Magistrate Makes Statement in Open Police Court

Belleville's one hour parking by-law is to be most rigidly enforced, it was announced today by Col. J. Bother K.C. announced during the morning session of police court proceedings.

"The streets have been clearly marked for parking purposes. The motorming public should now be fully acquainted with the bylaw, as the public works department has erected large signs indicating the parking bylaw of not more than one hour in the downtown area," warned His Worship, as he added a fine of one dollar and costs, amounting to $1.75 in all, would be assessed all first offenders in the future.

"Chief Kidd informs me his officers have special instructions to enforce the one hour parking bylaw to the letter and without exception, and I have brought it advisable to warn the citizens through the press, so that there may be no ignorance hereafter," concluded His Worship in open court.

Vance Jackson, charged before the Highway Traffic and Liquor Control Act, was disposed of and convictions registered against those charged, Fines were imposed in each incident.

A charge of the theft of a motor car from Bridge street, Belleville, against Vance, Frankford, was dismissed.

Owing to the absence of Crown Attorney Donnan, Mr. Bell presided over the Police Court.

EXPLANATION

In Formative Stage

The plan of posting neutral observers in the border regions to "unofficial umpires" on German-Czechoslovak friction was still in a formative stage.

The Czechoslovak Ministers to London, Paris, Jan Masaryk and Stefan Osusky, called home for consultations, continued talks with Krofta, Premier Milan Hodza and President Eduard Benes.

The prolonged suspense over a crisis that had waxed and waned for a week was beginning to auspaper the nerves of this Czechoslovak capital, 12 minutes by air from Germany.

Czechs Fearful

The Czechs living in Prahu, fearful that Germany one day may attack in answer to Sudeten Nazi demands, cannot travel north, south or even due east without soon bumping into Germany.

It is less than 100 miles from Germany to Germany right across the Czech-Czechoslovakia.

"There have been reports all week of Nazi Party Commissioners arriving in Czech territory, and there is a growing atmosphere of uncertainty.

BELLEVILLE WOMAN'S VOICE

Routing of the Long Distance Call

Miss Marshall's voice, the first expanse of ocean wastes to Baldock, England, where the station is situated transmitted by land wire from Sydney to the Penal Australian transmitting point, Mr. Marshall's voice travelled by land wire to the point in England from which point it was sent out over a beam to the Australian station at Lake Quebec.

At this point, the Marconi Company engineers picked up the voice in the Telephone Company where it was received by the wireless operator and sent by land wire to the waiting ears of her son.

How Problem is Worked Out

The complexity of routing had no effect upon the participants in the conversation. The connection was as instantaneous as though they were in the same room, due to the fact that their voice travelled at a speed of 186,000 miles per second. Miss and Mrs. Marshall's voice could travel seven times around the world in all conversations, except those to or from ships at sea, that are sent by short wave length because of the distance between passengers and those on land, thus ensuring absolute secrecy. By a device known as a "scrambler", speech is changed in the manner as it goes out over the other waves absolutely unintelligible. The end, in the case of Mrs. Marshall's voice, is "unscrambled" and sent to its destination land wire in its ordinary conversation.

According to Mr. G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone Company manager, 3,237 conversations took place last year between Canada and those lands overseas, marking a 57 per cent increase over the previous year. This is a remarkable development, since it is only 11 years since the first transatlantic call was made.

POLICEMEN

Donald Dixon, 19, was shot and seriously wounded by a rifle fire. Stephen McGowan said police shot him, about 2.30 a.m. (EST), near the scene of the principal fighting and several hours after the midnight deadline, but added he had not learned the circumstances.

Other Catholic persons were reported shot and slightly wounded, while a Protestant clergyman said he required hospital treatment—suffered head and shoulder injuries.

The rioting followed the United Irish League's peaceful commencement of a strike.

The Committee of Direction of Operation Belfast, exclusive bargaining agent for the company's approximately 1,000 employees, said efforts "got nowhere" in negotiations over claimed grievances.

While there were recurrent reports of gunfire, police said for additional guard assistance. Adjt. Gen. Emil F. Marr of the Ohio National Guard said he had been ordered to duty in the city.

The police started when a crowd, which had started gathering at 10 o'clock, broke upon policemen at the gate of Goodyear's Plant No. 1.

Immediately police charged with riot sticks, tear gas and gas guns, driving the crowd in two directions, and sending two score persons to hospitals with injuries inflicted by clubs and tear gas shells. Two persons were shot. One or two of the victims were in a serious condition.

Pickets Held at Bay

The policemen backed the major contingent of the remaining pickets into a street a block away, and held them there. As the morning wore on the crowd diminished to approximately 200. Occasional gas shells plummeted into the crowd, and both came the shout:

"Come on, you Mussolini and Hitler!"

Goodyear, one of the nation's largest rubber manufacturers, said: "What has happened has not been the result of any refusal to negotiate on the part of Goodyear. Negotiations will be resumed at any time."

Mayor Lee D. Schroy searched the strike to "Communistic and outside workers, a lot of the former Goodyear employees and most of them now are working under the administration."

The rioting brought to a new crisis the labor troubles which Akron paints of Goodyear, B. F. Goodrich Company, and Firestone Tire and Rubber Company have experienced for several years. Akron's year had previous strikes in both 1936 and 1937.

QUICK VICTORY

of alleviating present rigid import controls.

General Sadao Araki, former War Minister, who succeeded Marquis Koichi Kido as Minister of Education, refused an interview, declaring "you had better write about virtuous wives and faithful sons instead of my poor views."

It is a foregone conclusion that Hankow, a temporary Chinese capital far in the interior, will be the next Japanese military objective. Hankow is being made into China its largest numbers since September, it also is known that the army is concentrating enormous numbers.

Shortage of Materials

The appointment of Ikeda and his pronto of a study of import restrictions indicated the demands of business for relief from a shortage of raw materials. The Kido control was established in October to prevent imports from flowing abroad. However, exports diminished to an even greater extent, leading to the present shortage. Japanese business suffered a staggering loss in export trade.

Sources close to the government continued to insist the Minister of War, General Hajime Sugiyama, had presented his resignation. Lieutenant General Seishiro Itagaki, one of Japan's commanders in China, was said to succeed him at his successor, and according to unconfirmed reports already has arrived in Japan.

QUINTS LIKELY

other birthdays not on the program.

No. 1 Sees Them

Their screen careers were terminated, for some years at least, recalled when Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe their physician, announced they would make a picture after that feature film on which they will start soon is completed.

Guardians of the guardians on May 19 to reunite the quints with their parents Oliva and Elzire Dionne, and their seven brothers and sisters during which time they will be the last summer visitors will be permitted to watch the children at play. More than 400,000 are expected to see them before fall.

Within the next few years a home will be built near the DaFoe home for the quints and now the house the whole Dionne family and bring them together for the first time since June 22, 1934, when the quints left their farmhouse birthplace.

Father Given Lender Voice

Father Dionne will be given a louder voice in the affairs of Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne. This may be a force tending to withdraw them from their present close contact with the fans as darlings of the screen and the newspaper picture-takers.

Among child psychologists there are two schools of thought on the subject. Some believe the quints will never hope to lead normal lives and that their future will be to stand in the limelight and like it. They reason that if the girls live identical lives until they are adolescents the shock of realization they are unusual humans will be damaging at the 12th hole, and even go one up at the next.

However Dodie burly Ewing, a former West of Ireland champion, won three successive holes from the 13th and when Sandy three-putted the 16th—missing a six-foot putt—the match was over. It was the beginning of the end.

Ewing Fights Tighten

Nerves tightened to the breaking point after the luncheon break as the west wind and before an often unruly gallery, both Somerville and Ewing played consistently from the tee on the 223-yard 17th and halved the hole.

Needing a win on the home hole, the two-parder, to keep the match alive, the 35-year-old London, Ont., veteran watched his drive carry into a trap. While he was just getting out of the sand in two, Ewing had pulled his second green with his second, putted dead and the match was over.

In meeting defeat, Somerville fired his poorest round of the tourney. His card for the par-71 course read 38-39—77.

Troon, Scotland, May 27 — (CP Cable)—Sandy Somerville carried Canada's challenge into the semi-final round of the British Amateur Golf championships today, defeating H. W. Hattersley of Australia, two up, in the quarter-finals.

The Canadian champion was one down with three to go and played the last three holes in one under par.

This afternoon he will play Cecil Ewing, former West of Ireland champion, who defeated Johnny Stevenson, pride of Troon, one up, in the other upper-bracket quarter-final.

In the lower bracket, Charles Yates, secretary of the United States Walker Cup team competing in the championships, reached the semi-finals by eliminating Cyril Tolley, two-time former champion, 2 and 1.

Yates this afternoon will play Hector Thomson of Scotland champion in 1936, who won a 36-hole match from Leonard Crawley of England.

Somerville played erratic but brilliant golf. Over the first nine he struck a remarkable string of three birdies and was one up on the Australian at the turn.

Holed 60 Footer

He holed a 60-foot putt for a three at the second hole to even the match and after losing the first on a bad chip. He went one down at the next where he took four to get out of a bunker but, starting at the sixth hole, he had an eight-foot putt for a birdie, got another break at the seventh by sinking a 30-foot chip, and earned an eight-footer at the eighth for a deuce that put him two up. He added to that lead three from the edge of the green and lost the hole.

Trundlers Close Successful Season; Yanks Gain On Indians

Deacon 'Sportswear' Bowlers Honored at Annual Banquet Of the Major Bowling League

Les Shiels Re-elected as Head of Maple Knockers

TO EXPAND LEAGUE

Central Ontario Bowling League Will Also Operate Next Year

Exemplifying the same spirit of comradeship around the festive board that prevailed on the alleys of the Recreation Bowling Emporium all season, the Major A. Bowling League held its annual banquet in the Quinte Cafe last evening during which the champion "Sportswear" acetette of trundlers were honored and the annual election of officers held.

Les Shiels, who guided the major bowlers to a most successful season last year, was re-elected to the office of president for the year 1938-39, during which plans for an extensive broadening out in local bowling circles is planned.

Mr. Clarence Bryant was elected, vice-president; Mr. Robert Miles, secretary, and Art Little, treasurer. The executive will be chosen from the teams competing next year.

William Mitchell, a past president of the Kingston Mercantile Bowling League, ingratiated himself in the city's sporting life in the evening and was the speaker of the evening and in his message brought before the assembly a few thought in the effort to increase interest in the local league.

"I would suggest you include all classes of city bowling in various sections of your senior and minor leagues in a Mercantile League." The beginners, juniors and other clubs would have to be given a handicap, with all teams bowling on the same league. Of course each league would operate within itself but by giving the proper handicaps your senior or major league club would probably be called in the games as would be the case in the minor leagues as well," explained Mr. Knowles.

Favors Segregation

President Shiels was in favor of the suggestion, bringing before the meeting the fact that 18 to 36 teams could be participating in the Mercantile league, instead of six or eight, as has been the case of late.

Leo Barrett, manager of the Recreation Aliens, announced that the Central Ontario Bowling League would be revived next year with Trenton, Belleville, Port Hope, Peterboro and Belleville included in the league. The winning teams of these respective town leagues will compete in the Central Ontario Bowling League playdowns," explained Mr. Barrett.

The big league trophy was then presented to Mr. Dave Tobe, captain of the Deacon team, donated by Mr. Clarence Bryant, on behalf of the league. The winning team is composed of Dave Tobe, Les Shiels, Don Cameron, Jack Bryant, Leo Barrett and Pat Belnap. Following the banquet the bowlers were the guests of Recreation Emporium during an evening of social bowling and a which plan for the season for the year were presented.

The season is divided into two sections—Fall and Winter—with the winners of each playing off for the cup. The Belleville Bowling League, and became the Major League, and also the playoff series.

Some exceptionally fine averages and scores were established in the Majors.

Prize winners in the Fall league were:

High Average, Joe Legault, 214. High Triple—Evan Barlow, 842. High Single, Ab. Garriock, 358.

In the Winter League:

High Average, Joe Legault, 215. High Triple, Dave Tobe, 851. High Single, Bill Coyne, 362.

All of these players were presented with a token of excellence.

Left Little Fingers

In golf you can analyze down to a point finer than a grain's best 11. all depends on how you want to. expect from the game. The hands are a good example of how far you can go in treating details.

To most players the part played by the hands offers only problems as to which hand should dominate the action. Some players are willing to believe that the left hand should lead the right throughout the entire swing, others figure that it is all right to take the club back with the left hand, but it is necessary to supply the punch in the downswing with the right. Among all of the various ideas about the hands, there seems to be one that deals with the real inner workings of the one hand or the other, and these inner workings are just as important as anything you can name about this part of the swing.

If the little or middle fingers of the right hand exert more pressure than the thumb and forefinger, then the right wrist cannot function properly. If the thumb and forefinger of the left hand hold the club tighter than the little fingers, then the left wrist will be locked. In other words, it is just as important to know which side of the hand is exerting the pressure as it is to know which hand is doing most of the work.

The best all-around lineup is had when you grasp the club first with the left little finger and then the right forefinger and thumb last.

NAT. GROCERY LOSE TO CORBY'S

Delivery of Jenkinson Hit Hard in Opening Frames

Chuck Barnett's Corby's A. C. smoke into the winning column of the Belleville District Softball loop with an 8 to 7 victory over the National Grocers at the Coleman Plats diamond last evening.

The "Say Corby's" crowd pounced on the deliveries of Jenkinson in the early stages, to score seven runs in the first three frames. Against Freddie Valail, a fine reliefer, however, the ultimate winners got no place as well and were rather fortunate to win, as the Grocerymen out-did Corby's one to six, 1-2 runs, not hits, determine softball victories.

Eddie Schreiber ascended the mound for the Corby's A. C. club, and although in trouble in the middle stamens, successfully weathered the barrage of hits scored by Stan Hal Kremp's lads' bats to win. Schreiber without a walk, and his control was good, only passing one. Jenkinson, on the other hand, was not in any too good support and walked a trio during his sojourn on the mound. The winners only touched Valail for one safety in three frames, however.

McMakin with a triple and a single led the winners with the hitting, Schreiber getting a brace of singles and Gray and Lupenetta a single each. Sinfield, Pollard and St. Louis were the potent bat wielders for the losing National Grocers. This evening the Napanee team makes its initial bow in the league opening, and Manager Mc-Crae entry at the Coleman flats diamond.

The line-ups—National Grocers Ltd.—Henn 2b, Barriage ss, Tullis c, Jenkinson p, Sinfield 1b, Pointer cf, Sinfield lf, Philips rf, Hawkins 3b. Corby's A. C.—Barriage 2b, Lupenetta ss, Kilner rf, Gray lf, Coutts c, McMartin cf, McGuire ss, Gray c, and Schrieder p.

ARMSTRONG-ROSS FIGHT TONIGHT

Participants Must Report to Commissioners at Noon

New York, May 27.—(AP)—Providing the rain stops, Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong will keep their postponed 15-round engagement for Barney's Welterweight title tonight at Madison Square Garden bowl.

In the midst of all those fancy price tags sprinkled through the roster of New York Yankees, the big dividends being paid annually by the bargain counter pick-up, Ruffus the Red Ruffing, must wave the cockles of Col. Jake Ruppert's bankroll.

Down through the years, Col. Jake has turned a goodly portion of his brewery profits into the purchase and salaries for high-priced ivory. There was Babe Ruth at a cool $80,000 a year, and Lyn Lary, the $100,000 importation that didn't click, and then reported $20,000 jump to Tommy Henrich for his signature only last year, and many more, including Ruffus the Red and his right arm came to Yankee Stadium in a player exchange for one Cedric M. Durst. Cedric was down in the line-up as an outfielder when he got in the line up. The baseball Fates have never bothered when to let him. So you can see that Col. Jake drafted a lucky mortgage the family jewels in the deal.

Proved Profitable

Yet, Ruffus the Red has proved one of his most profitable pieces of business. In seven years with the Yanks the right hand pitcher has had just one poor season. He was a 20-game winner on the world championship outfits of '36 and '37, and even in 1935, when the club was floundering around, he came up with 16 wins and 11 setbacks. All told, his Yankee team record shows 118 victories and 76 losses, for a neat, if not gaudy, .608 percentage.

So far this year, he has been the mainstay of the staff that hasn't been an altogether sunny start for Gehrig and Company's campaign for a third pennant. In 50 innings he has allowed an average of less than a run per game—and all of them earned. He won four of his first five starts, and then gave way for Lefty Gomez. Yesterday, he got back from the hospital list, took a look at the Yanks' three game losing streak, and, in his first appearance of the year, proceeded to pitch them back into the money.

Facing the dangerous Detroit Tigers, who only the day before had made Lefty Gomez and Monte Pearson take elbowing, he hurled a seven-hitter, fanned five and allowed just three runners to get as far as third base and he posted his 1-1 victory. It was also the Yanks a .500 mark for their road trip, the best record some of the other of the eastern clubs on the western swing. The Yankees have three innings before Red Sox's 8-4 triumph over Cleveland Indians, also in full possession of the margin off the Tribe's American League lead. The Sox, however, have but three innings with seven runs, one of them Jimmy Foxx's 10th circuit clout.

Riding a three-home run barrage, the Senators trounced a wild 13-10 game from St. Louis Browns. Taft Wright's round-tripper with the bases loaded gave the Nats victory.

The Athletics, on a neat 5-hit pitching performance by Chubby Dean, topped the White Sox 4-1 in the only other game on the day's program. The entire National League schedule was rained out.

NAT. GROCERY LOSE TO CORBY'S

Delivery of Jenkinson Hit Hard in Opening Frame

Chuck Barnett's Corby's A. C. nine broke into the winning column of the Belleville District Softball loop with an 8 to 7 victory over the National Grocers at the Coleman Flats diamond last evening.

The "Say Corby's" crowd pounced on the deliveries of George Jenkinson in the early stages, to score seven runs in the first three frames. Against Freddie Valail, a relief hurler, however, the offensive slowed up not fare so well and were rather fortunate to win, as the Grocerymen out-hit Corbyville nine to six, 1-it runs, not hits, decided the softball victories.

Eddie Schricker ascended the mound for the Corby's A. C. club and although in trouble in the middle stanzas, successfully weathered the barrage of hits coming from Hal Kreopy's lads' bat to win. Schricker whiffed seven and his control was good, only passing one. Jenkinson, on the other hand, was given the long end of the count and walked a trio during his sojourn on the mound. The hitters only touched Valail for one safety in his relief role.

McMartin with a triple and a single led the winners with three hits each, Schricker getting a brace of bingles and Gray and Lopenzina a double each. Sinfield Phillips and St. Louis were the points last evening for the losing Grocerymen. This evening the Napanee team makes its initial bow to the Belleville nine, the Boots and Mc-Cree entry at the Coleman flats diamond.

In the midst of all these fancy price tags sprinkled through the roster of New York Yankees, there's big dividends being paid annually by the bargain counter pick-up, Ruffing the Red Ruffing, must warm the cockles of Col. Jake Ruppert's bankroll.

Down through the years, Col. Jake has turned a goodly portion of his brewery profits into the purchase of cash and salaries for high-priced lumps. Ruffing was $40,000 a year, and Lyn Lary, the $100,000 importation that didn't click, and he reported $30,000 paid to Tommy Henrich for his signature only last year, and many more.

But big Rufus the Red and his right arm came to Yankee Stadium in a player exchange for one Cedric M. Durst. Cedric was batting in the Senators as an outfielder when he got in the line up. The baseball writer's didn't bother to let him. So you can see that Col. Jake didn't necessarily pinch the family jewels in the deal.

Yet, through the Red has proved one of his most profitable pieces of business. In seven years with the Yanks the right hand pitcher has had just one poor season. Yesterday, he got back from the hospital like a look at the Yanks' three game losing streak, and, in his first appearance in 17 days, proceeded to pitch them back into the money.

Handled Seven-Hitter

Facing the dangerous Detroit Tigers, who only the day before had tied their homers off choice Yankee clobbering, he hurled a seven-hitter, issued two and allowed just three runners to get as far as third base and he got 'em. Yesterday, that win gave the Yanks a .500 mark for their road trips in the eastern clubs on the western circuit.

The Yankees' victory evened with Boston Red Sox's 8-4 triumph over Cleveland Indians after taking a considerable margin off the Tribe's American League lead. The Red Sox's game took the last three innings with seven runs, one of them Jimmy Foxx's tenth homer.

Riding a three-home run barrage, the Senators defeated the Browns in a game from St. Louis Browns. Taft Wright's round-tripper with the bases loaded was the payoff wallop.

The Athletics, given a neat 5-hit pitching effort by Bill Dietrich, starter, topped the White Sox 4-1 in the only other game on the league program. The entire National League schedule was rained out.

International Race Getting Quite Warm

By the Associated Press

The International Baseball League pennant race is getting so close that it's trying to be the four playoff teams now looks as easy as pie to last year's Kentucky Derby winner.

Only 6 1-2 games separated the league-leading Newark Bears from the last place Syracuse Chiefs today, and the fifth place Rochester club are going that margin apiece, in the second morning.

The Chiefs, the fastest moving club in the circuit currently, picked up over Jersey City Giants 4-2 last night and moved within 2 1-2 games of the fourth place Baltimore Orioles and one-half game of the seventh place Montreal Royals. The Royals took a 9-8 beating from Rochester in the only other game of the day as the Orioles were rained out in Newark while Buffalo and Toronto were not scheduled.

On Saturday the annual varsity interscholastic track and field meet will be held at Tweed this year. The O. S. D. and St. Mikes will represent the Belleville Collegiate will not compete, however. Last year the meet was held at Picton and the year before at Picton. No doubt Belleville will be the scene of the trials in 1938. While on the subject of track and field meets the O. S. D. will hold their meet June 3rd, while the Collegiate track and field meet will probably be held on June 8th. Incidentally interscholastic athletics competing at Tweed on Saturday and attaining the O. S. D. standards in competition will be afforded a two weeks athletic tuition at the O. A. C. training camp at Lake Couchiching. Yesterday concluded a two-day meet at St. Michael's Academy, Toronto, determining the senior title. Both divisions of the intermediate championship and Jack O'Connell, the junior honours. Athletic Coach Jack Doran pleased highly of the ability of Tom Haslip, St. Mike's track speedster and expects that he will be in the senior sprints at Tweed. George Laughlin will not send any competing athletes from the B. C. I. however.

Some time ago we were approached by Fred Hickey, athletic instructor at the Y. M. C. A. relative to an old Belleville boy, Bill Beckett. "What's the matter they don't follow through with their track and field activities in Belleville, I understand the various athletic clubs such as the B. C. I. and St. Michaels and the O. S. D. hold individual track meets, cross country, and some very good talent is being produced by the Belleville city, so why not continue this good work and organize a city athletic meet?" Mr. Hickey asked us. We feel Mr. Hickey's suggestion has its merits and should be given some consideration. Some years ago, Belleville had a city meet which was opened its doors, the opening day of the Exhibition and was known as "athletic day", but never seemed to appeal to the public and so was not permanently interested.

We feel if the Pair Board would co-operate with Mr. Hickey in the matter of introducing an "athletic day" into the Exhibition of the Belleville Pair, it might prove beneficial to both the athletes and the Pair in general. Such a meet would attempts at staging an 'athletic day' program, as many of the track events were being staged. First and foremost the city athletes from the immediate surrounding district and the many events would be a well attempted in the effort to build the day up. A mile run, three or four sprints, a senior school relay, and broad jumps, in other words events that do not call for too much equipment in the matter of standards, etc. As the programme grew more enticing, more events could be added, according to its popularity.

Just what stand the British Commonwealth and Empire will take in the forthcoming 1940 Olympic games, due to the athletic taken by Japan in invading sive military manoeuvres, has not finally been announced, but baseball is to be included in the 1940 Olympic games program. The U. S. A. Baseball Congress recently voted to send a team from that country to compete in the newly instituted baseball series at the Olympics. Ontario, through the O. B. COMMENT FROM THE COACH
Catching Job That Calls For Real Baseball Skill

By Lloyd A. Percival

High foul ball behind the plate. The catcher's eyes look upward. He keeps the ball in view. Of course, he did not see it. He knows, off his mask and is ready for the catch. Then the mask out of the way. Don't have it where you can trip on it. Use Manners of the Giants shown here.

The most important player in a ball game, the one who keeps the team working together and directs defensive play, is the catcher. The catcher doesn't get many cheers because it's hard for him to be seen. Usual, but it is an all-important—without a good catcher—no team!

As the catcher is the only man on a team before whose eyes every play takes place, it is only natural he should be the main cog in the defence On an infield fly it is the catcher who calls the man to take the ball. On an attempted steal it is his job to warn the others. The back-stop must have his eyes open and be alert all the time.

Foul Flies Most Frequent

Perhaps the toughest job for a catcher to handle is foul flies. Catching a high fly over your head is never easy, and when you are hampered by a mask and protector it's twice as tough. The main thing is to locate that ball! While the players can follow the ball up with their eyes, all a catcher has to go by is the noise of the bat and a lot of shouted advice. Develop your sense of direction by getting practice on ball high ones in practice.

A catcher must have a good arm for that peg down to second. When a man is on second he is in advantage for a catcher to be big, but not a necessity.

Stay at the Plate

Watch you don't get out of position. It's O.K. to back up first base if there's no one in scoring position, but don't go running down to third base. If you do you'll find yourself in bad waiter. When there is a batter play on stick to that plate like glue.

Summing up we find that a catcher must have speed, judgment nerve and accuracy. He must not get nervous or rattled as the team, and in particular, the pitcher depend on him. It's a tough job, but it's a grand one and there is a lot of opportunity for kids with determination. Good catchers are

Regarding the Olympic baseball question, the St. Louis Sporting News has the following to say regarding the matter:

"An amateur baseball team, to be chosen through an elimination system, will be selected to play for the United States in the Olympic Games in 1940, it was decided at a conference of Leslie Mann, executive vice-president of the U. S. A. Baseball Congress and representatives of several amateur organizations held recently at Philadelphia. All amateur clubs, including college teams, will be eligible to participate in the trials for the trip to Japan, Mann said.

Alex Weir announced today the local tennis tournament will open and pry off their Day at Quinte baseball kid versus the Kingston "Goose" next, next Tuesday evening. "With daylight saving coming into effect over the week end we felt the fans would appreciate a baseball game as soon as possible, thus our decision of Tuesday evening," added Alex Smiley. "The local will practice tonight and Monday before the big opening."

Local fight fans contemplating attending Barney Armstrong's match bout last night were disappointed, as the match was called on tonight, weather permitting this trip, at 9:00 p.m. our time with Glenn Mc-Donald acting as commentator of the night. This fight is considered a toss-up affair, and experts, who are split in their selections.

Remember way back when we chose sides for a game of scrub ball? Well sometimes the neighbor players we got along with a little better. Take Jack Hardy, Ralph has only to bear down and he'll have more half way to the plate. He had a highly successful year last season and is being suggested as being of senior timber for 1938.

His wife had been his only baby bath and bottles; at half past ten she began dinner preparations. He discovered; it was only Gloria's And Gloria, smart, at one time both women ate whatever was at hand; and in the afternoon Lotta herself carefully and went to see her own family, down in the village. Then Gloria would rest and at four perhaps carry Jimmy over to be packed round asleep in his coach, on Aunt Kitty's lawn and to have tea with the Baggley's.

"Gosh, I think we are lucky!" Peter would say, when the happy little hours of Sunday had ended by.

"It's wonderful to have Tony and Kitty here to tide us over these years," Gloria said.

"Isn't it heavenly?"

"Well, while Jimmy's so small and we haven't money to travel," Gloria answered, surprised at his simplicity.

"Oh, gosh, I never want anything more than this!" Peter said. And, surprised in his turn, he presently added, "Do you?"

"Well—I mean after a while. Some day we'll have to be down the Peninsula, won't we? I mean, we seem to be in a sort of backwater here. I love it; it isn't that!" Gloria explained diffidently. "Your Mother was speaking about a city house the other day—just what we'd have—maids and cars and belonging to clubs—"

But that's just what I loathe!" Peter ejaculated in dismay.

Gloria laughed at his expression. "Oh, so would I —now. But this is rather—out of things, Peter. We haven't practically nobody but the Baggleys, unless Mother and her friends come. And that's settled. Of course we haven't much money now. We're paying the piano, and that complicates—"

"But you mean when—we have it again?" Peter said ruefully, "you'd not want to live in it?"

"Not forever!" Gloria said, laughing. "It's too much out of the way. That's why it was so cheap."

"It doesn't seem so to me. I've never been so happy in my life," Peter said.

Gloria only laughed good-naturedly, but she was a little puzzled herself, in her soul.

She had now that every husband is a surprise to every wife. There may be much finer, much pleasanter to live with than she expected disappointment. But he is also expected him to be; he may be ways a surprise. She had thought Peter, for one thing, to be quite a society figure. But quite the reverse was the case; Peter resented any intrusion upon their complete little circle.

That was one unexpected thing about Peter. Others were that he was without ambition and without that jealousy and nervousness which always accompany ambition. He discovered; it was only Gloria's questioning which developed the fact that Peter had been given the Portland job and that Williams was to go for Carter's place.

"What's Moore getting, then, Peter?"

"Pay, you mean? Oh-hundred a week."

Miss Faye Anderson contributed a pianist number and Mr. Spencer led in prayer.

"Sandy's smart.....These are our apricots, aren't they?"

"Oh, yes. Aren't you going to get eighty cents a week?" she asked.

"Mine is just as good," Peter said, "Cook, Eaton & Co. want to leave the place!"

Gloria would look at him thoughtfully when he said things like this; she loved him; there was no joy in the land as great, but sometimes she did not understand him.

She tried to remember just how he had impressed her during the early days of engagement. A big, tall, laughing fellow who came in to take her to dance or to a concert. Had he been then just what he was now—Peter, who tossed his shirts on the bathroom floor and left his shaving brush soapy and never would learn to take the future or worry about anything, because it was so much more fun satisfied with the present! Love, young, romantic love, courage and happiness carried Gloria along as on a full tide, but now and then there was a little ripple that made she would fall into deep thought; and always those ripples ended with a little unconscious sigh.

One day Gloria rocked the baby down to the village to call on her people. Gloria found herself with an unexpected hour on her hands, and, suddenly remembering that she had been waiting for just such an interval, she took the level road from the farm gate along side of the hill, cut down on a cowpath to the lower road, crossed the canyon, and found a key and impatient closed iron gate above which a new sign said boldly: "BAYVIEW SANATORIUM AND HOME." Underneath the big words were smaller ones announcing: "Dr. Lillian Bond, Mgr."

Wondering what had become of Dr. Reynolds, Gloria opened a small gate on the footpath and went up the familiar drive to the house. The big building at first looked entirely changed, but at a second glance Gloria saw that they had simply added a new front on the old one—quite a handsome front of white cement trimmed with climber brick, in reddish back. A deep porch skirted the front, at right of which once been a large draped window in the dreadful disguised as the was a neat sign: "Office."

A nurse in uniform was at the desk in the old parlor, in the usual hospital setting of bank grating, telephone, glass panel, room list, and neat oak filing cabinets. Near her a tri-angular ash tray, "Miss Wilcox." Undaunted by these formalities, Gloria went up to the desk and explained, that she was an old friendly and curious call, and that she had once worked here in Miss Lockwood's day.

MOTHER'S TROUBLES VANISH!

Life's so much happier for the whole family—especially the youngsters!—when you change from bad-tasting, old-fashioned doses to modern, delicious, flavor-chewing gum laxative children love to take!

No more coaxing and scolding—no messy, bitter dose to cause tantrums—just more important stuff, so hearty built to burden delicate digestions. On the contrary, chewing increases the flow of natural mouth fluids that aid digestion. Furthermore, Ex-Lax Chewing Gum's active laxative ingredients acts in the intestine where it should—not in the stomach. Like modern parents who depend on Ex-Lax—not for all the family! Ex-Lax is good for everybody. Get Ex-Lax—until it's gone! Ex-Lax is a real, old-fashioned methods!

Shannonville

Shannonville — Residents of Yonge Street were forced to use lamps on the twenty-fourth as a result of the wind storm which broken by a large tree that was blown down by the heavy wind. Hydro was also disrupted as the large tree completely blocked the road. Hydro employees were busily engaged throughout the day removing the tree from the road.

Those from here who attended the W. A. Convention at Foxboro United Church on Thursday were: Mrs. Ross Sine, Mrs. Everett Stratton, Mrs. Lloyd Robertson, Mrs. Harry Murphy, Mrs. Orval Stratton, Mrs. H. Sherin, Mrs. Walter Hoover, Mrs. Elmer Vivian, Mrs. Sam Elliott, Mrs. (Rev.) W. D. Cragg was one of the speakers on the morning session and delivered an interesting address on the topic of the "Women of the Bible."

Shannonville baseball team has started with a bang with the win over the South Hastings League this year due to the fact that the Mogula of that league have banned reporting. This should enhance the chances of the local club who have always endeavored to field a team composed of local boys. Although Shannonville has never won the league they have always given the other teams in the group keen competition and this year they hope to lead the field.

BUY AT SAVINGS

Silver Ware is always high in a woman's estimation. Now it is going to rise in its market price! There is nothing to be gained by delaying the purchase of fine Silver. But much to be lost — through advancing prices! Now, while Silver is still at its lowest, see our charming Silver Ware!

POWER AT LOW COST

Plymouth's big, 82-horsepower, "L-head" engine gives FULL power, flashing performance and record-breaking savings on gas, oil, tires and upkeep.

AMAZING NEW RIDE

1938 Plymouth's new ride is the sensation of the lowest-priced field. Big, luxurious, floating ease of handling. Steering is quick, sure, responsive. The car feels alive in your hands.

MORE SAFETY

Plymouth is famous for its Chrysler Safe-Proved Hydraulic brakes — a safety all-steel body — rigid X-braced frame — new safety-styled interior and many other Chrysler Engineering features.

1938 Plymouth Two-Door Sedan, with luggage compartment

MOST FOR LOW PRICE . . . that's the big 1938 Plymouth. And it's making news everywhere because it's just the kind of value people want!

Plymouth's new ride is a thrilling experience. Big, airplane-type springs absorb smooth out bumps and jolts. New "live" rubber body mountings absorb road vibration. Even second-grooding gives you a quiet, "hushed" ride.

More remarkable still — Plymouth has many features most manufacturers use only on their higher priced lines, such as 6-ring pistons, full-pressure lubrication, and exhaust valve seat inserts that save on gas and oil. A Hypoid rear axle, chain-driven camshaft and Floto-Frame are other Plymouth long-life features.

And, for your protection, this big, new Plymouth offers smooth, equal-pressure hydraulic brakes . . . an all-steel body . . . a new Safety-Styled interior.

Martins Merry Mudcats Make Marvellous Music

Chamber music, swing music, concert music, and just plain music are all may meat for this outstanding new symphonic group, now touring the continent . . . that part embracing the city, in the National League. Yes, sir, they're the St. Louis Cardinal Mudcats, directed by the master musician, John Leonard Martin, maestro magnificent. The members of this allegro aggregation are, oddly enough, also members of the Cardinal's baseball team. LEFT to RIGHT, standing, Bob Weiland, pitcher and jug player; Max Lenler bench-warmer and fiddler; Stanley Bordagaray, shortstop and washboard; seated, Bill McGee, pitcher and guitar player; and the director cutfielder and guitar player. What a band! The smiling young man with bats over his shoulder instead of baton in his hand, is Pepper Martin, as John Leonard is known in the afternoons. A rough, rootin', tootin' ballplayer with a yen for music, that's all!

Canadians Mark Empire Day in New York

Empire Day was observed in New York by Canadian members of the International Casino's ice ballet who put on a special number pay-ing tribute to their flag. LEFT to RIGHT are, Katherine Coolican, Mary Simpson, Margaret Simpson and Cecil Coolican. The Coolican girls are daughters of Peter Coolican, assistant deputy postmaster-general of Ottawa. The Simpsons are from Banff.

National Open Champion Ralph Guldahl plays at Fresh Meadow, New York, and the crowd seems interested.

Fresh troops have been ordered into the province of San Luis Potosi by Mexican President Cardenas, TINSET, to subdue the rebels led by General Saturnino Cedillo. Cardenas has issued a proclamation, guaranteeing freedom for the rebels if they lay down their arms and return "to a life of honesty". Federal troops are shown mounting machine guns for defence against possible raid, by Cedillo's rebels.

Negotiated Gigantic Sale

Reported to be in the U. S. to invest some of the proceeds from the sale of nearly half the city of Cardiff, Wales, Lord Robert Crichton-Stewart, son of the Marquess of Bute, is shown as he arrived in New York. He is credited with negotiating the gigantic real estate deal in which his father is reported to have realized more than $100,000,000 through the sale of his holdings in the Welsh city.

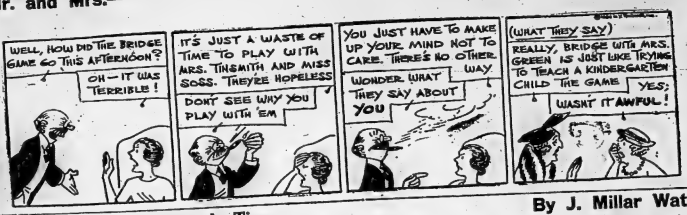
Princess To Wed

Pictured in skating attire, Princess Fawzia, sister of King Farouk, of Egypt is shown ABOVE. It is reported that she will wed Shahpur Mohammed Riza, Crown Prince of Iran, thus forging a link between his country and Egypt. Fawzia will be 17 in November. The crown prince is 18.

Little Benny's Note Book

My sister Giraldis and Harvey came around to play bridge after supper, and they was talking to pop and me about different subjects such as the movies, ma says. I can tell you one picture that I'm going to miss seeing with pleasure and profit, and that's Mabel Next in Oops my Dear. She's a purty picture, but it's profanity or worse than the picture deserves. The idea of any woman being payed fabulous sums for such vulger movements and conversation. Oh I dont know pop said, and Harvey said, She's given me plenty a hearty laugh.



Then the more shame to you, Giraldis said. If I had her face rite here this minute I'd slap it good. There's no place for every thing, she said, and ma said, going to set up that bridge table why dont you do it? Which pop did still laughing.

Exactly, and that woman's place is in a bertiak show where the audience is made up of riff-raff and monger seekers.

She's going to give a perposial appearance on the GAY life next, with all the seats reserved, quite an event, pop said, I had a chance to get a couple of complimentry tickets but unfortunately it's going to take place at a matinee and I'll be busy, he said, and ma said, Why Willyum, how can you turn down free tickits like that? Giraldis and I can use them for goodness sakes! Of course, my stars, father, you cant pass up anything like that. I can get off any afternoon Giraldis said. Well what's so funny, you said, Well what's so funny, you silly thing, and you too? she asked, making pop and Harvey laughing like anything, and ma said, I mite of known it was just a silly plot and trap and a man's malicioused idea of fun. Imagine, and even if we did go you don't need to please yourself with that idea that it would be with any notion or enjoying ourselves, and if you're

SIDNEY COUPLE OBSERVE 45TH ANNIVERSARY

Interesting Event at Home of Mr. And Mrs. W. Carlisle

Stirling, May 2?—On the evening of May 24th Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carlisle were guests of honor at a party given at their Sidney home by the members of their family, marking the 45th anniversary, forty-fifth wedding anniversary. About seventy-five attended the event all relatives and close friends and though taken completely by surprise the honoured couple welcomed their happy guests! Mr. D. A. Weaver of Belleville, who forty-five years ago acted as groomsman at the ceremony was present in the personality of his good wishes. A letter of greeting was also received from Mrs. Thos. Mills of Northport; the bridesmaid who was unable to be present because of ill health. After a social period spent in renewing old friendships, etc., Rev. W. J. Scott called the gathering to order and briefly explained the purpose of its being. Mr. Chas. Carlisle the youngest son of the honoured couple read an address and the presentation of a handsome studio couch from the members of the family was made along with numerous other lovely and useful gifts and messages of greeting from relatives and friends. Community singing with some of the favorite tunes of bygone days was very much enjoyed, and a group of clever poems written by Mr. Henry Farrell was read in an appropriate fashion by the composer. Brief speeches by outstanding citizens of the community paved the esteem in which the honoured couple are held. A very enjoyable evening was brought to a climax as the ladies served luncheon.

The Address:

Stirling, Ont., April 24, 1938.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carlisle,

Stirling, Ontario.

Dear Mother and Father:

Since you were wed forty-five years have passed

And happiness has grown.

And now you reach a milestone where,

The happy years are shown.

May this day that has the happy past

With joyful days to be

And richer dearer may you find

Each anniversary.

It is with much pleasure that we gather on this occasion to celebrate with you your forty-fifth wedding day. It falls to the lot of only a few, to make this auspicious anniversary, and we are very happy that through God's goodness, you are privileged to do so. We hope we are able to be with you.

We who know you and love you well realize that these forty-five years have not been all sunshine, that trials and sorrows have had a place, but that these have only served to strengthen the bond between you and your lives ever have been an inspiration to others. Forty-five years of wedded life. But the poet has written, "Grow old along with me, The best is yet to be." And we pray that this may be true as far as you are concerned.

On this occasion we want to pay tribute to that love have meant to us, your family, and to your service to the church and community. You have ever been thoughtful and willing to help in any way and we know that you have enjoyed being of service. At this time we wish to present as a token of our love and best wishes this gift with the thought:

"May there be many things to make this anniversary glad,

To fill its sorrows with happiness, with sunshine and with song.

To make it be in every way the very best you've had.

When once memories are placed where family things belong."

Signed on behalf of the family,

Mrs. Reid, Rodgers Marks Seth.

Birthday

On Sunday, May 22nd, Mrs. Robt. Rodgers was the guest of honour at a gathering held to mark the occasion of her eighty-sixth birthday at the home of her daughter Mrs. Arthur Gordinier, Mrs. Rodgers who is remarkably active for her years was born in the vicinity of Stirling and is a member of the pioneer family of Weavers. Still possessing all her faculties she has a keen memory with which to recall events of great interest in the community. The establishment of the Belleville-Northern Railway line was an event which she recalled vividly and the hauling of the first locomotive over the new line. Among the guests present to join in the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rodgers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rodgers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rosebrough of Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hagerman and Mr. Wm. Rodgers of Belleville, Mr. Wm. Rodgers who is recognized as one of the district's oldest citizens recently celebrated his 93rd birthday. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. White and Earl of Wallbridge and Mrs. A. Dodrell of Oshawa, Ontario were also among those present.

During the day the president of the Women's Missionary Society accompanied by several members of the organization from St. Paul's United Church called and presented the honoured guest with a lovely bouquet of flowers.

In addition to messages of greetings and congratulations from friends in all parts of the country Mrs. Rodgers was the recipient of numerous gifts of flowers and plants, and happily entered into the spirit of the occasion.

Mr. Ross Ketchenon acted as chairman for the evening and called on Miss Elsie Scott to read the following address:

"Dear Viola: We are gathered here this evening to bid you farewell before you depart from our midst and make for yourself a new home. We have always known you, having been born in this neighborhood and we are very deeply of your removal from us, your friends.

"Some of us here spent many happy years together at school and then later enjoyed numerous gatherings of the young people. You were always willing to perform any task asked of you and your happy disposition and friendly personality will be missed.

"To your husband we offer our heartiest congratulations and hope that in the near future we will become better acquainted. You both will always be welcomed in our midst and whenever it is possible we feel that you will join us in any activities of the neighborhood.

"We could not let you depart without expressing in some small way the high esteem in which we hold you, so we now ask you to accept these gifts and with them the wish that your married life may be one of happiness and prosperity.

"Signed on behalf of your friends at Moira: Miss Scott, Betty Foster."

Madoc

Madoc — A very lovely trousseau tea was held Saturday afternoon last at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wannamaker when her daughter, Margaret, entertained in honour of her younger daughter, Miss Gertrude Blue who was at the door and directed the guests upstairs. Here they were received by Mrs. R. C. Cummings, who showed the trousseau and gifts to the guests. The trousseau was greatly admired as were the many gifts received. The bride's table was then the guests descended to the drawing-room they were welcomed by Mrs. Cochran and Miss Eleanor. Mrs. Cochran wore a lovely blue lace gown with matching jaffet and Miss Eleanor was charming in pale blue chiffon with pleated jaffet jacket. Mrs. Davis, showed the guests to the dining room where Mrs. West poured tea. She was assisted by Mrs. Norman Wright, Mrs. T. Rupert and Miss Lamoine West. The table was lovely, centred with a low bowl of pink larkspur and carnations. The house throughout was very tastefully decorated with spring flowers, which added charm to a most happy and successful event.

On Wednesday evening Madoc Masonic held a Ladies' Night in the Masonic Hall. A play "The Middle-Aged Widow" presented by the Wooler Young People's Union, was very well presented. Between acts a vocal duet was rendered by little Miss Jean Haggerty, Miss Betty and Mr. Gerald Haggerty, and Will Hawthorne, Jr. Colleen Haggerty played the accompaniment. At the close of the program the Masonic brethren served lunch and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing with Mrs. Haggerty playing for dances.

The cast of the play: Robert Wooler (Grand Secretary) — Jack Darling (his fiancee)—Vera Coote; Charlie Winthrop (Robert's friend) —John Purdy; Mary Winthrop (his wife)—Mildred McColl; Carlie Howard (a seamstress)—Arthur Darling; Sam Bryant (a chauffeur) —Howard Orvis; Edna Powell (a confectionery girl)—Pearl Rogers; Mrs. Fraser (a friend of Sam's)— Mrs. Griffin (a young wife)—Edith Austin; Richard Wooler (a plain-clothesman) —Neil Nelson.

2 Boys Fall from Home-Made Canoe at Hamilton and Drown

TWO HOURS SPENT TO REVIVE LADS WITHOUT AVAIL

Identity Unknown Until Neighborhood Canvassed

MEN WITNESS ACCIDENT

Put Out in Raft And Seize One Boy Going Down — Other Soon Recovered

Hamilton, Ont., May 28 (CP) — Two boys met death in a home made canoe in Hamilton Bay today, drowning in deep water fifty feet off the rock-strewn shore.

The victims were James Malone, 11, and Nick Mancini, 13. They were seen to fall out of the clumsy craft by two men driving along the shore. The man hastily put out in a raft and seized one boy as he was going down for the third time. The other body was recovered by dragging within a few minutes, but police, firemen and medical men worked over them with artificial respiration for some hours without success.

Work At Resuscitation For Hours.

The victims were submerged for some time until all the neighborhood had been canvassed. Residents of every household in the district were put at the disposal of the rescue workers, including hot water bottles and blankets, but they were

Swarthy Rebel Chief Hides in Bush Eight Miles From San Luis Potosi

San Luis Potosi, Mexico, May 28 — (AP)—Swarthy rebel chieftain Saturnino Cedillo was hidden somewhere in the bush eight miles northwest of this state capital today, closely pursued by federal troops after two narrow escapes from capture.

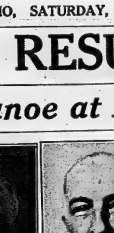
Four followers who escaped with him by plane from Ezeauile (Mockingbird) Ranch, his hidaway headquarters northeast of Palomas, were surprised yesterday by federal troops, were reliably though unofficially reported to have been captured.

The soldiers of President Lazaro Cardenas, beating back and forth through the brush-covered hills, said the capture of Cedillo was imminent.

Observers at the scene asserted laconically "it's about over," and said that with capture of Cedillo his eight-day rebellion would collapse quickly.

His two fast transport planes had fallen into government hands. One was found abandoned in a cornfield near Estanzuela, ten miles northwest of here.

From it Cedillo and four followers had fled, leaving a disarray of handbags and clothing in the cabin and gasoline for only hours flight in its tanks.



The other was captured by Gen. Reynaldo Perez Gallardo, onetime chief of the partisan at Ciudad Victoria, in Palomas, when he surprised the rebel leader in the Estanzuela hills at Ezeauile.

General Perez Gallardo's report from Ezeauile said the ground had seized automobiles, gasoline and 95 aerial bombs of "German manufacture"—two of them so big he had to leave them behind—in addition to the plane.

Youths Kidnap Blind Boy with Dog, Leave Him Stranded 18 Miles Away

Detroit, May 28 (CP)—Police today sought two youths for the most heartless crime of the year—having kidnapped a blind boy and left him stranded eighteen miles from home.

The victim, Richard Kotapski, Detroit, said:

"I went to take my pet dog for a walk last night. Two men drove up in an auto, forced me to get in, and drove away. They did not try to rob me but just hauled me away and forced me out of the car."

Sheriff's deputies found Kotapski and his dog walking along the road. They took him to the county jail, where he was made comfortable pending the arrival of relatives who took him home.

DISCUSS BRINGING BORDER REGIONS TO RIGHT STATUS

Papers Comment on Violations at German Border

Prahs, Czechoslovakia, May 28 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's restless Germanic minority today resumed peace parleys with the government on the eve of municipal elections watched tensely in fear of new fiery-breeding border disorders.

Representatives of the Sudeten German party, leaders of most of the 3,500,000 Germans who inhabit Czechoslovakia, were received by Premier Milan Hodza for a lengthy conference.

The Nazi-supported Sudetens were represented by Ernst Kundt and Franz Peters, Sudeten members of parliament.

Aim at Solution

The consultants agreed to carry out a regular schedule of conversations aimed at reaching a definite solution of minority demands to self-government, particularly in the Sudeten region fringing Czechoslovakia's 1,300 mile frontier facing Germany.

In addition they discussed bringing the border regions of three thousands of Czechoslovaks troops are on duty against any election incidents, back to a normal status.

News that Hodza and the Germans had met and actually progressed beyond a merely informative stage caused widespread relief in political circles

REPRESENTATIVE HITLER IN CANADA SEEN IN OTTAWA?

Hon. R. B. Bennett Alleges in House Man Was Seen in Ottawa

FORMER PROFESSOR

Ottawa, May 28—(CP)—Rumors that a German university man, Kuni Karl Gerhardi, formerly an instructor at the University of Western Ontario, London, is in eastern Canada on a secret mission stirred speculation in this capital last night following a controversy in the House of Commons over reports German interests were negotiating for the purchase of Anticosti Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Comment on Parliament Hill followed remarks by Conservative party leader Bennett in the Commons last night, in which he said: "Hitler's personal representative or a gentleman who at any rate alleges he is, was in this country on Saturday last and in Ottawa on Sunday.

"He stated he had been down to Quebec to see the Premier there. Whether or not that is correct, I

HUGE DEATH TOLL AFTER AIR RAIDS ON CANTON CITY

500 Either Killed or Injured as 100 Bombs Are Dropped

MANY INCENDIARY

Hong Kong, May 28.—(AP)—Official estimates counted 500 persons killed and 1,000 injured today in the aftermath of Friday's Japanese air raids on the crowded gateway city of South China. City blocks were reduced to ruins by the devastating raids.

The Japanese raiders, flying low over the abolished Wongsha Railway station district, were reported to have followed their attacks by machine-gunning streets swarming in the ruins for victims.

Forty persons were said to have been killed and 80 injured in the hail of machine-gun bullets.

The Japanese airmen concentrated their projectiles around the Wongsha station of the Yankee-Canton railway line, over which men and munitions have poured into Central China to fight the Japan-

G. A. Stokes, C.N. Supt., Transferred to London

Official Stationed in Belleville for Past Ten Years Has Made Many Friends in Society, Church and Lodge Circles—Member of Soccer to Church Affairs—Takes Over New Position on June 1st.

Toronto, May 28—A number of important changes in the supervising officers of the operation department of the Southern and Northern Districts of the Canadian National Railways were announced today by W. A. Kingsland, vice-president, Central Region, following the retirement upon pension of William J. Pigott, superintendents of the London Division.

G. A. Stokes, who succeeds Mr. Pigott, as superintendent of the London Division, entered the Grand Trunk Railways as a relieving operator at Owen Sound in 1898. Subsequently, he was operator at Lisgar and Owen Sound and agent-at Southampton. Harriston, Wingham, Wiarton and Brantford. In 1907 he was made dispatcher at Stratford and three years later trainmaster at Toronto. Subsequently he became general yardmaster, acting superintendent of terminals and division agent at Toronto. In 1915 he was transferred to Port Turner as superintendent of terminals. He returned to Toronto in a similar capacity, in 1918, and ten years later was appointed superintendent of the Belleville Division.

Interviewed this morning Mr. Stokes paid a sterling tribute to the men with whom he had been associated in the Belleville division for the past ten years. He said he "They are the finest group of men I have ever worked with and I don't think one could find a more capable, more sociable group of business colleagues than the men I have worked with during my sojourn in Belleville."

Pays Fine Tribute

Equally fine was the tribute paid to the city and people with whom Mr. Stokes has been associated with during the days here. "One cannot leave a place where he has lived for ten years and count the friends he makes like Stokes and I have made without feeling a keen sense of regret. However, London is not so far away and our house will always be open one to the many Belleville friends should they care to visit us."

During his tenure here as superintendent of the Belleville division, Mr. Stokes became associated with many outstanding organizations, in church, social and fraternal circles of the city. A staunch Anglican, he is a member of Christ Church and recently was appointed a member of the Synod of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario.

Member of Clubs.

Fraternally Mr. Stokes belonged to the Masonic Order, although his membership is transferred to a London point. A member of the Belleville Rotary and Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, Mr. Stokes also enjoyed membership in the "22nd Club", a unique city organization of business men that boasts membership numbers and meets on the 22nd day of each month.

In 1934 he married Miss Claire McConnell of Toronto. Last Decem-

FOURTH BIRTHDAY FOR QUINTUPLETS FAMILY AFFAIR

Famous Babies to Have First Taste of Ice-Cream

FAMILY ATTENDS

By ORMA TONGUE

Canadian Press Correspondent

Callander, Ont., May 28 (CP)—Orange Juice and cod-liver oil at 9.30 o'clock this morning will start Dionne quintuplets on their fourth birthday. The day their father calls "the most joyful" we have known since the quintuplets were born. Before the day ends they will have their first taste of ice-cream. Sip soon after the meal and pucker-ed in their extra special party dresses, the quints had breakfast together to start a day that will be marked by a quiet but happy family celebration with a religious note of thankfulness for their almost miraculous survival.

For the Dionne family the day is the happiest since May 28, 1934, when the quintuplets were born, because they know now their long fight to save the children returned to their home will be finally won before another birthday comes. Under a recent agreement with the quint guardians the family will be able to put into the back of the cup. Then Yates stroked his ball home to win.

CHARLEY YATES BEATS EWING IN BRITISH AMATEUR

U. S. Golfer, Member of Walker Cup Team Wins 3 And 2

PLAYS PERFECT GOLF

Troon, Scotland, May 28 (AP) — Charley Yates of the United States Walker Cup British Amateur Golf Championship, beating Cecil Ewing, former champion of western Ireland, in the 36-hole final, three and two.

Three up with four to play, the American won the third hole in Ewing's eight-foot birdie putt, then sank another eight-footer himself on the 34th to take the match.

One up at the end of the morning 18 holes in which each shot a four-over-par 75, Yates shot even par for the 18 holes of the afternoon round. He was three up at 27, lost the 28th as he got into a three-way tie on the round, then finished with five pars and a birdie.

At the final hole Yates hit a fine mashie public shot to within eight feet of the cup while the Irishman was in a trap to the left. He got down in two and Ewing marched into the semi. The exploded out his first shot and knocked the putt into the back of the cup.

51 CALGARIANS SHARE IN SWEEPS

Woman Drew Starter And Two Pools Drew Non-Starters

Calgary, May 28 (CP)—Fifty-one Calgarians, all of them bonds of families, were from $106 to $2,550 "to the good" today after the Epsom Derby in the Irish and English Sweepstakes on the English Derby.

Mrs. D. Hogan, wife of a railway shops carpenter and mother of 12 children, drew Bendor, a starter, while two syndicates with 25 members each, had non-starters.

"Anything I want to do now things stand now, I'm saving for my old age," said Mrs. McCool.

"What if Tahir comes home and you collected $150,000," she was asked.

"Well, that's a bit different. I'll have other plans by then."

After eight years of "trying", forty members finally on twenty-five employees of Calgary Street Railway Department. They bought an $80 bond, made four twelve dollar tickets the noon-day issue of "Stand Pat", and drew "Campaign", a non-starter.

"The money will sure come in handy for the boys," said Motorman Jack Hamilton. "Some of them are finding it hard plodding working only part time and having families to support."

Twenty-five members of the Calgary Stock Exchange were also lucky. They drew "Kyte", a non-starter, and will shade $2,550.

Will Not Seek to Recover Amounts Advanced to Old Lady

Toronto, May 28—(CP)—Col. George W. Peacock, Chief Secretary of the Salvation Army, today issued the following statement (150):

"Our attention has been called to a statement appearing in the press of Canada to the effect that the Salvation Army intended entering action to recover monies from the estate of the late Mother Ward of London, Ont., who, it is discovered since her death, by the publishing of her will, was estimated to be worth $2,000.

"Mother Ward, who was for over 50 years a devoted friend of the Army, working soldier of the Salvation Army, lost heavily in the floods of 1937 and the Salvation Army out of its funds and through its influence secured help in the way of cash, clothing, food, etc., feeling that this worthy old lady was in need. There is however no intention on the part of the Salvation Army authorities to attempt to recover any amounts advanced out of Salvation Army funds."

O'CONNELL WALKS IN RIVAL CROWD

Some Supporters Recognizing Him And Their Shouts Anger Crowd

Jersey City, N.J. May 28—(AP)—Joseph V. O'Connell, Democratic nominee for councilman, frustrated in a second attempt to speak in Mayor Frank Hague's ballwick, and wearing a bullet-proof fist-swinging pro-Hague crowd, said today he would return to Jersey City "when the people want the witness stand in federal court."

O'Connell, wife of a railway shops carpenter and mother of 12 children, drew Bendor, a starter, while two syndicates with 25 members each, had non-starters.

"Anything I want to do now things stand now, I'm saving for my old age," said Mrs. McCool.

Gunshot Wounds Cause Man's Death

Port Hope, May 28.—John Kerr, 25, died in hospital here Friday from gunshot wounds in the chest. Found unconscious on the floor of a shed at the rear of his home, where he had gone to clean the weapon, he was rushed to hospital but died a few minutes after he had been admitted.

Coroner F. W. D. Diamond, Port Hope, said no inquest will be held, and ordered the body for burial.

Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kerr, College street, had been in poor health for some time, but was stated by members of the family to have been in excellent spirits a few minutes before his death. Telling his mother he was going to clean the shotgun, he took it to a shed at the rear of his home.

Mrs. Kerr, hearing the report of the gun's discharge, ran to the shed to find her son lying unconscious on the floor. Medical aid was called at once.

Kerr, single, was a native of Port Hope. He is survived by his parents and one sister, all of Port Hope.

STRIKE SOON SETTLED

Harpeler, Ont., May 28 (CP)—A strike affecting 200 men at Harpeler Wood Specialty Company was settled today.

About 15 men in one of the departments left their work yesterday in protest over a reported wage cut, but today it was reported all the men were back at work and that the trouble was due to a misunderstanding.

The men are employed in manufacturing hockey sticks and baseball bats.

Claude W. Cole Estate $22,000

Claude W. Cole, Cape Vincent, well known local farmer, dairyman and fisherman, owner of the Main Ducks and Yorkshire Islands in Lake Ontario, died intestate, left an estate of about $20,000 real and $2,000 personal property, according to the petition for probate of his will filed at Watertown, N.Y. Mrs. Cole is left a life use of the entire estate and the executors are directed to continue the fishing business at the eastern end of Lake Ontario during the life of his widow or so long as it shows a reasonable profit. After the death of Mrs. Cole the fishing business, boats, equipment and real estate on the Main Ducks and Yorkshire Islands is to go to his son, Cecil, who is to take over operation of the boats, boats and equipment and life use of the real estate on the islands. After the death of the latter it is to go to his children, if any, and if not to Watertown Hospital and Nursing Home.

Saskatchewan Looks For Whirlwind Close

Regina, May 28 (CP)—The Saskatchewan election campaign appeared today to be heading for a whirlwind finish June 8.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, will start a series of campaign meetings in Dyxart today and a few days later, J. S. Woodsworth, national leader of the C.C.F., will be in the province. Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, head of the Social Credit Association of Western Canada: has announced no itinerary but will speak in Regina during the week-end he will assist the Association candidates in Edmonton picking the party's candidates.

Women's Council Urges Aid For Single Idle at Vancouver

Vancouver, May 27 (CP) — The National Council of Women yesterday urged the Federal Government to convert single unemployed and urged that the Federal Government offer temporary employment to single men and endeavor to establish a long-term public works program to give them employment "problem" days throughout Canada.

A vote by council more than 1,000 single unemployed marched into three downtown hotels, occupied the lobbies and peacefully occupied the ground-floor lobbies. They were paid $300 by the city council for the night.

Mrs. Georgia Harvey, Ottawa, retiring council president, and Mrs. Gerald Peters, Sudeten members of parliament, were also lucky. They drew "Kyte", a non-starter, and will shade $2,550.

Set Your Clock Ahead One Hour Tonight

For the first time in three years the clock-moving business, inaugurating daylight, savings, must be performed tonight in Belleville. Failure to advance the city's clocks tonight may result in the forgetful residents finding themselves one hour behind on Sunday morning.

Officially daylight saving will not take effect until 1.00 a.m. Sunday morning, but it has been suggested by city officials that householders do not forget to advance their family timepieces before retiring tonight, as else one may find themselves late for church on Sunday morning.

It is not suggested that householders adhere strictly to the time set at 1.00 a.m. and thereby break their slumbers in the matter of setting forward all timepieces. The most convenient time, it has been found in other communities, where daylight saving is now in effect, is upon retiring—in advance of the pieces one hour tonight and save possible embarrassment on Sunday morning. Such has been the effect, as the result of a city bylaw passed by the council of the election of the city of Belleville at the last civic election.

MEMBERS OF CREW HELD FOR PROBE

Captain of Bremen Held as Material Witness in Espionage Case

New York, May 28 (AP) — U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy announced last night that four members of the crew of the German liner Bremen, now in port, would be held as material witnesses in the United States government's espionage investigation here.

Hardy announced arrest and several officers and crew members, imprisoned after the ship arrived Thursday, testified yesterday before the Federal Grand Jury.

They presumably were questioned regarding the flight of Dr. Ignatz Theodor Griebel, witness in the spy inquiry, to Germany on the liner's last trip.

He sailed without a passport and the ship's officers insisted that the government request to surrender him when the ship stopped at Cherbourg France.

JURY MOVED BY TROUBLED STORY

Donald Carroll Freed on Murder Charge Because of Insanity

New York, May 28 (AP)—Acquitted of murdering the girl he loved, 22-year-old Donald Carroll, 6'4", day saw only a psychopathic examination between him and his return to "whose memory" he is.

Moved by the boy's troubled story of how he took Grace Matthiessen, 18 "at her request" because she was pregnant and feared disgrace, a jury of middle-aged married men last night returned a verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity." They deliberated two hours and 56 minutes.

County Judge Thomas Downs ordered the boy held for mental observation.

DIVING TOWER GIVEN VIC. PARK BATHERS

Presented by the boys' group of the Y.M.C.A., a diving tower which will be used by swimmers on Victoria Park during the coming season, has been delivered and is awaiting for bolting to the newly constructed swimming pier at the end of the park. A floating raft is also expected to be furnished, of the type found so popular by members of swimmers last season.

In the interests of further safety this year, members of the Parks Commission are expected to furnish Lifeguard Stewart with a pair or row boat for rescue work.

Swimming has been carried on daily at the park by several of the younger residents for the past several days.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH AWARDED TROPHY

St. Alban's Anglican Church Sunday School, Roblin's Mills, has been awarded the trophy donated by the Diocese of Ontario for the church school having the best attendance for the past year.

The Ameliasburg church has an enviable record in this respect as its members are justly proud of the honor that has just been conferred upon it.

NAZI ORGANIZER VISITS BELLEVILLE BUT GETS REBUFF

Nazism, grading under the head of a newly named "Nationalism" has made its first attempt at gaining a foothold in this city.

This week efforts have been made by provincial organizers to form a new party, bearing armbands of Swastika inspired insignia, to interest the Belleville residents in the movement.

It was unofficially reported that if the party entered, the organizers in other words, the Nazi agitators were thrown out on their ear, at the door.

Literature left with the workers, be viewed still in the ashes of the fire.

FISH METTED

Not only are Point Traverse fishermen breaking all records for the catch of bass this season but they have been acquiring marine novelties.

This week a pure white fish known as an Oswego bass, and a distinct rarity in the fishing world, was caught in the nets of one of the Point's commercial fishermen. The fish was brought after intensive study by its captors.

AUXILIARY STATION FOR TROUT REARING

A trout rearing station on a stream which empties into the Bay of Quinte, Warring property just west of Picton is nearing completion and already nearly a million trout fry are being reared in the new troughs.

The station is to be the provincial fish hatchery at Glenora and after the fry are hatched, are placed on to the main station for rearing. The new auxiliary is fed by natural spring water. At present there are 250,000 brown trout and 500,000 speckled trout in the station and will be sent to trout streams of the province later. The station is under the direction of John Barnum, manager of the Provincial Hatchery at Glenora.

6 ESCAPE INJURY AS CAR CRASHES INTO DEEP DITCH

Five School Children Were Passengers in Cherry Valley Car

CAR BADLY DAMAGED

Six people narrowly escaped serious injury last night when a car driven by Miss Phyllis Pounder, Cherry Valley, suddenly went out of control on the Picton-Cherry Valley highway, crashing into a deep ditch and removing several fence posts before it turned completely over.

Five school children who were riding with Miss Pounder escaped without a scratch with the exception of one who received a slight head wound.

The body of the car was badly damaged.

ALLAN BUSHELL FRACTURES LEG

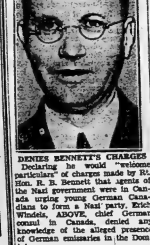
Riding on Play-Wagon Crashes Into Moving Truck

Unable to stop his play-wagon as it was coasting down the grade on Dundas street early last evening, Allan Bushell, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bushell, 4 Donald street, sustained a fracture of the body lacerations and skin abrasions, when the wagon directly in the path of a light truck driven by Percy Mc-Tegart, Bellville, that was coming from a laneway that connects Donald and College streets.

Dr. Gordon Pugh, after receiving treatment from Dr. G. C. Kennedy, was rushed by Martin Ambulance to Belleville General Hospital where the extent of his injuries was learned.

Approaching the corner at a slow rate of speed, with the young Bushell Donald street being obscured by houses and a fence, McTegart did not see the approaching boy and wagon until they darted from the sidewalk directly in front of his truck, he told Provincial Police Officer W. H. McKinley, who investigated the accident. Young Bushell was unable to stop the careening wagon as it went down the grade, James Short, a playmate of Bushell stated.

The boy and wagon were jammed beneath the front axle of the truck, bending the axle and causing some three or four feet before Bushell could be extricated.



Police Blotter

While backing his motor car into a parking space on East Bridge street yesterday afternoon, operated by Ernest Baldwin, Belleville, collided with a parked bicycle owned by Mrs. Mabel Williams, Anderson, 70 South John street. The rear wheel of the bicycle, after knocking it down and the fender of the car, was damaged.

Mr. Baldwer sought the owner and agreed to make restitution for the damage and has also information of the police, when making a report to Chief Constable Hall, he had failed to observe the parked bike when backing his automobile into the parking space.

Mrs. E. A. Manchester, Queens boro, reported to the police yesterday that another motor-bicycle had damaged the fender of her parked car while backing out from the Front street curb, when striking the fender of my car and damaging it, the other motorist drove away without stopping to report any possible damage." Mrs. Manchester informed the police. The license plate number of the vehicle was obtained by an eye witness and afforded Mrs. Manchester and the police.

No arrests were reported in Belleville during the past twenty-four hours leaving the cell block empty and police officers transients who sought shelter there last evening.

EGGS INCREASE 3c PER DOZEN ON CITY MARKET

Other Prices Firm—Good Display of Produce Offered

FISH PLENTIFUL

An increase of three cents per dozen over last week's prevailing price for eggs marked the opening of today's local market, when grade No. 1 eggs were offered at 24 cents per dozen today.

A bountiful market was in evidence, however, all seasonable farm produce being arrived in splendor with little change in prices being noted for products of the land. Rhubarb was plentiful and plants and flowers for transplanting purposes, all of which were eagerly purchased by early-day marketers. Fruit and vegetable plants were offered in abundance with tomatoes selling at 50 cents for flats containing 100 plants. Cabbage flats sold at 25 cents per box with strawberry shoots bringing $4.00 per thousand and raspberry canes $3.00 per hundred shoots. No variation in the prices of items of plants and flowers was noted over last week.

At the basket market a brisk business was seen with eggs advancing to 25 cents per dozen for grade No. 1 eggs, with pullets' eggs selling as high as 21 and 22 cents. The price of butter remained unchanged with a goodly showing of spring broilers were offered at 35 cents per lb. live weight, according to size and weight.

Green vegetables of the early season variety found a ready market here, with young and tender asparagus featuring at from 15 to 25 cents per bunch, according to the quality and weight. The market was one of the heaviest of the current season and saw heavy trading from an early hour until well past the middle of noon.

Adding a touch of beauty and color to the outside market, were numerous displays of potted and cut flowers, all of which were disposed of at popular prices. Rhubarb was very much in evidence, most every vendor displaying this commodity, which sold at the prevailing price of 5 cents for small bunches.

The usual fine showing of fresh fish on the east side of Front street resulted in heavy trading in this product, modest prices being noted while fish predominating this market.

HISTORIC HOME NOW FOR RENT

145 Piccadilly Once Residence of King George and Queen Elizabeth

by EDWIN JOHNSON

Canadian Free Staff Writer

London, May 28—(CP)—One of London's most historic houses, the beautiful residence of King George and Queen Elizabeth for some years prior to their accession, is for rent.

Since the four-storey stone mansion ceased to retain its royal connection status, which means a tenancy is the personal gift of the crown, the commissioners of royal lands, who control the property, have had considerable willingness to consider offers for the lease. Prospective tenants are at liberty to name the price for a city house, convert it into flats, but no trade whatsoever will be permitted on the premises.

Monthly Rental $1,999

So far there has been no outward signs of a rush of house-seekers or other likely clients, but the big white door of the house is there was a board," remarked the caretaker.

But if you are interested the lease is young until 1975 for a monthly rental of approximately £200 ($1,000), exclusive of taxes which come to a substantial sum. During the winter months the heat and light bills amount to about £35 ($430) a month and then there are the salaries of the servants. A staff of 20 to 30 would be required to run the place.

Description of Building

All of which may not sound like a very convincing sales talk, but for the outlay you get this: Nine reception rooms, 20 bedrooms, nursery, seven bathrooms, 13 kitchens, a "strong" room, two fully entrance halls, marble floors, wide spiral staircase and wrought iron balustrades.

On the first floor are four communicating drawing rooms in blue and gold. The smallest room of these, which faces a large back garden, was used by the King and Queen as their bedroom.

The top landing which used to be the nursery floor is guarded with gilt netting. The Queen ordered the netting set up as protection for the two young princesses, for she feared they might otherwise climb up the banisters and fall to the floor 60 feet below.

CITIZENS URGED TO USE PARKS

Mayor States Parks Especially Suitable For Picnicking in Hot Weather

"Summer will be here in all its sweltering glory before we know it," comments Mayor Jamieson Bone, reading from his executive office in the sun-filled street outside this morning.

"We hear of numerous cases of heat prostration in other cities every year, but Belleville has been fortunate in this respect owing to our wide, shaded streets and numerous parks and open spaces.

"Residents should take more advantage of these parts when the hot weather arrives. They are maintained for the citizens and should be used by them. Many of us can't afford summer cottages or homes by the water, and it is this class which would appreciate them all the more. They are available at all times for the purpose of picnicking, for the children of eating their meals thereon, and for family gatherings. The Board have done a splendid job this year and are to be commended on the manner in which they have fixed things up. Victoria and Corby's Parks look splendid.

"Take due precautions, use your heads, and you will allow the days of hot weather danger," advised Mayor Bone.

"This matter of Daylight Saving will just add that much more enjoyment to the daylight hours."

COMPANIONS SAVE YOUTH FROM BOG

Eldon McCrae Gets Caught in Mud Near Old Rifle Butts

SINKS TO WAIST

Trapped in a bog just north of the old rifle butts east of the city late yesterday afternoon, Eldon McCrae, 17-year-old youth, narrowly escaped death by asphyxiation when his companions, following the efforts of two boy companions who, attracted to his plight by terrified shouts, hauled him from the sinking trap after he had sunk past his waist.

Wandering into the bog in search of trillium, unaware of the peril in danger, McCrae found himself gripped by the treacherous ooze into which he commenced to sink. Separated from six companions he was unable to help for some moments before attention was attracted to his plight.

Armed with lines stripped from trees nearby, Ken Churchill and Harvey Anderson, companions of about the same age, made their way to the bog and, after several tries, finally succeeded in getting the youth to safety.

Both lines were badly muddy and dishevelled.

Macaulay Commends Mayor Bone's Efforts at Municipal Tax Reform

Full commendation for the efforts of Mayor Jamieson Bone and fellow members of the Belleville Property Owners' Association in their attempts to alleviate municipal tax conditions was expressed yesterday at a luncheon by the Hon. Leopold Macaulay during a friendly visit by the Mayor to his office.

"Belleville has to be getting plenty of advertising since you took over," Mayor Bone was told by Mr. Macaulay. "We have been following your efforts with considerable interest here in Toronto in regard to municipal management. You are headed in the right direction. There has been a lot of agitation for a cheaper baby, and if this agitation is kept up, there will no doubt be response to this appeal on the part of the public," Mr. Macaulay added.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, May 28—(CP)— Mining shares closed the week with a strong tone but in slow trading tempo. Base metals registered the widest net advance while gains were narrow in the gold.

Noranda improved to 60 for a net gain of 1 3-4 and Consolidated Mining and Smelting at 51 was up 1 1-2. International Nickel was about 3-4 higher around 43. Wallace Amulet rose about 10 to 13 cents. A gain of 5 cents for Eldorado was about the only change in the silvers.

Mine issues predominated in the bank group and other industrial groups were too quiet to register a definite trend. Bank of Nova Scotia firmness and in the steels, United Steel was up a major fraction and Canadian Car Pfd. slipped back about 3-8.

In Western Oil Royalite dropped 1-2 and Home was off a cent or two.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, May 28 (CP)—Selected issues were given a lift of fractions to more than a point at the best, but profit selling near the close shaded 1940 marks or cancelled gains in some instances.

Failure of the business picture to brighten perceptibly and a further slide of commodities continued to dim aggressive optimism.

Transfers were about 700,000 shares.

Canadian issues stayed in a groove. Gains were gained around ¼ points while Lake Shore and Canadian Pacific dipped minor fractions. Canada, it was felt, lacked demand.

Among favored shares were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott and General Electric.

American Opinion of Canadian Gold Shares

In their current review on "Metals", Standard Statistics in revitalizing their opinion on some of our senior gold stocks has the following to say:—

Dome Mines—This issue may be held for the secure return; one coming two-for-one split-up or use shares to market the market.

Hollinger Cons.—The shares issue outstanding appreciation possibilities, but the high yield justifies maintenance of positions.

Lake Shore Mines—The yield is reasonably secure, and present commitments should be retained.

McIntyre Porcupine Mines — The company's financial strength and excellent earnings record make this one of the better gold stocks.

Pioneer Gold Mines—This is one of the less attractive of the gold-mining issues, despite the present yield.

Premier Gold Mining—The speculative capital shares are attractive in view of the favorable progress of the company's investments.

Teck-Hughes Gold Mines—Speculative possibilities of the Lamaque investment and the high yield justify retention of the stock.

Wright-Hargreaves — The secure and satisfactory return warrants maintenance of present commitments.

In discussing the outlook for gold they say: "While the question of the price of gold is of paramount importance in the stock market's industry, there are no valid criteria by which the investor can judge the probable trend of this price. For the present, it appears likely that no change will be made, and certainly that is fairest assumption on which to judge the value of the gold mining profits. Until business activity has reached a material degree, the probability of a cut in the price is infinitesimal. On the other hand the questionable benefits to business at large of the last revaluation have largely stood as proper enthusiasm for another increase.

The current market is reminiscent of the days of 1931, 1932 and early 1933. It is the type of market in which profits are not possible on either side. "The public is remaining on the sidelines pending a clarification of the situation and of the interim, due to a complete lack of demand, the majority of stock are steadily losing ground. As previously pointed out, a general rise does not seem probable until the downward trend of commodity prices can be reversed.

But looking a little further ahead, the time element constitutes only of a number of factors which favor the appearance of business-ment in the summer or early autumn. Despite the importance of the "spring rise" in normal years, the record shows that definite turns following the equinoxes have more frequently appeared in the fall than in the first half of the year.

It now appears as if the offer of Hiram Walker to Canadian Industrial Alcohol shareholders will again be considered and most likely accepted. The "walker" offer places a value of slightly $2.75 a share on the "A" and "B" shares of alcohol, which is considerably better than the present market levels of these securities.

Canadian Celanese, a short time ago reduced the dividend rate on the common stock from $2 to $1 per annum. It is interesting to point out that even on the reduced rate, the stock is at present levels close to 19 per cent. High yields these days are of little significance but in the case of Canadian Celanese the showing financial position of the company, its leadership in its field, and its sound management, have on been taken into consideration. Poor business conditions have no doubt reduced the company's earnings, but it is in the fortunate position of being able to pay its dividends out of earnings by the trend changes. The stock appears to be worth as an investing speculation.

Top Grade and Top Prices on Hogs Should Be All Farmers' Objective

Farmers have only themselves to blame if they sell their hogs to shipper and then have difficulty in collecting their premium on account of the official grade certificates. If there was no demand from the farmers for flat quotations, the shippers would not be making them.

Farmers should understand that there is no logical reason for two price quotations on the same day. Why should a man with good hogs accept 25 cents per cwt. less than the man with poor hogs who wants to sell flat? It should be reversed, if anything. The highest price quoted is the price for the day and the farmer should see that he gets it. PLUS his grade premium. Likewise, he should expect deductions on inferior grades if he has them. Top grade and top price should be his objective.

If farmers experience any difficulty obtaining their premiums kindly write to W. M. Gordon, Federal Department of Agriculture, Canada Packers Limited, Peterborough, Ontario. ...

Rigors of Antarctic Cruise No Terror to Michael O'Brien

Tells of Whales Larger Than Little Ships With Mother Ship

TRAGIC VOYAGE

Halifax, May—28—(CP)— Not even the rigors of eight months in the Antarctic or the lonesomeness that drove five November sailors to jump overboard to their deaths, would deter him from volunteering for another whaling trip to the far southern seas, Michael O'Brien, veteran Halifax gunner said today

Before the trip on the mother ship New Sevilla and her brood of nine little whalers might have been a "madhouse," to O'Brien it took it in his stride. Because after all these months aren't to be "worried by hardship or privation. His only complaint against the last trip arose from having too much fish to eat—that and restrictions on shore leave while bound south.

Breeding Over Monotony

The fire who disappeared overboard had been brooding over the monotony of the icefields, and the smell of blood and whale oil, he said. For days they had refused to take their fishery rations and kept themselves muttering and starting fights.

Fights between members of the crew were frequent — enough to keep them from getting seriously. For that matter, the handy crew had fought every port they touched, they came in contact with between Halifax and Vancouver, which O'Brien's matter so much. At Buenos Aires and St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, they were "all square" ashore, so there were no officers to fight.

Graphic Pictures of Cruise

The Halifax seaman had dozens of graphic pictures of the trip. He left Halifax just a month with the fleet—much to the relief of Halifax police who had their hands full keeping order in the city's restaurants, while the whalers were in—and kept a photographic diary of the voyage. It showed icebergs so huge three days after the whalers left they were still in sight, and so high that the little ships that accompanied the fleet looked like toys.

Their base was at South Georgia where Sir Ernest Shackleton once sought food and refuge—only to discover three days after the whalers had gone. His grave is there, his body taken back to the Antarctic at his own request.

So despite it all O'Brien may go back next year. He is heart quite made up his mind, but the money is good and the bonuses tempting.

Cheese Board To Meet Saturdays At 10.30 a. m. S. T.

Belleville Cheese Board will meet during the remainder of the season in the Board room at the City Hall at 10.30 o'clock Saturday mornings, Standard Time 11.30 Daylight Saving Time according to a motion passed at the regular meeting on Saturday.

Notice on this motion which was finally moved by Mr. Montgomery and seconded by James Cook, had been deferred from last Saturday pending some discussion on the matter last week. It was pointed out by Mr. Montgomery that annually this question had been brought up only to have the board decide to let same stand.

The original motion was that the Board meet at 10.45, amended upon the suggestion of Mr. Cook that this time be advanced fifteen minutes.

The matter of cheese spoilage through too tight cheese boxes has been brought to the attention of the factory salesmen by Mr. W. R. McCleary, who pointed to the annual loss sustained through this by the buyers of cheese. Full support in the move to create better packing through the use of looser fitting boxes was given by Mr. Cook.

"We get many of them already, which are too tight for their height—cheese we can hardly get out of the boxes in good shape. They will be worse when the hot weather comes," stated Mr. Cook.

"We'd be glad you told us about this matter," supplied Mr. William Smith.

The factory salesmen would like to know about it unless they were told by the buyers.

Advice to salesmen to call this matter to the attention of the different factories was tendered by the buyers on the Board, with the promise received that it would receive attention.

Buyers on Saturday's Board were: Messrs. W. Stiles, Hart, Hunter, McCreary, Cook, Morton, Pralegit, Murphy, Ashton and Taylor.

CHEESE BOARD

Cheese brought three prices on the Belleville Cheese Board this morning at the regular trading. A total of 1192 white and 680 colored cheese were offered. 600 sold at 14¾ cents, at 14 14-16 cents and the balance at 14½ cents. Buyers were Messrs. McCreary, Hart and Cook, with only three factories purchased by the latter.

Ask Birmingham To Sell Land For Plane Factory

London, May 28.— (CP-Havas)— Viscount Nuffield, motor car manufacturer, said today in the House of Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State for Air, in requesting the city of Birmingham to sell 120 acres of land to be used for an auxiliary aeroplane factory.

It was reported £3,000,000 ($15,000,000) would be spent for the factory and buildings. The Birmingham City Council will meet June 13 to decide whether to sell the land, which it had intended to use for the building of 1,100 houses.

It was understood Lord Nuffield would employ 15,000 workers in the plant, which would be near Castle Bromwich Airdrome.

Police Searching for 14-Year-Old Boy

Kingston, Ont., May 28—(CP)— Hearing for the safety, Provincial and local police are searching for a 14-year-old boy believed to have left his home here in a motor boat to strike a motorcar belonging to Mrs. Ethel Chant, of Shoal Lake, 60 miles north of here.

The boy was located at Collins Bay early on Wednesday, when two men were seen to get out of the boat and approach the boy, Wilbert Jarvis, who was with them. He had been left in charge of the car by Mrs. Hawley. When last seen on May 19 he was wearing a blue jacket and grey trousers.

9 Boys Sick in Court Says They Stole And Ate 21 1-4 Lbs. Honey

Toronto, May 28.—(CP)—Nine boys in knickers and bare feet went today charged with shoplifting and theft of 21 pounds of honey.

Police said the boys took seven pounds of honey from a motor car in a garage and they ate it all. When caught they felt sick and they were still ill when they appeared in court today. The accused ranged from 9 to 14 years. The total weight of the honey was 21¼ pounds, or more than two pounds per boy.

DISCUSS BRINGING

which was also seen in the Czechoslovak-German tension the seeds of potential war.

Whether minimizing the difficulties still ahead, official quarters generally are pointing to the annual talks as a decidedly encouraging development.

Celebrate Birthday

The Czechoslovak public bravely flew the national colors, red and white and red in the face of an impossible situation in honor's absence of President Eduard Benes' 54th. birthday.

All admitted there were grave anxieties behind the gay flag-flying. The internal pressure of 2,500,000 Sudeten German demanding self-determination appeared to be supported by powerful Germany.

Official newspapers which editorially eulogized President Benes as one of the greatest statesmen of Europe, possibly published prominently a Berlin despatch to the effect that Chancellor Hitler conferred yesterday with high military officials.

Others emphasized the Czech government's refusal to withdraw any troops from the border region "so long as the situation is unchanged."

Alleged Vindictive

Dr. Ernst Eisenlohr, German publicist, again called the government's attention to alleged violations of the German border by Czechoslovak military units.

Official quarters regarded the Czechoslovak mistake in Berlin was instructed to make similar representations concerning alleged German violations of the Czechoslovak frontier.

It was charged two German bombers crossed the border near as Asch) after 14 instances of border violations involving 34 planes between May 19 and 21.

(In Berlin the German press stopped attacks against Czechoslovakia. It reported but one new incident in Czechoslovakia, the alleged ill-treatment of an Austrian-German farmer by soldiers.)

unable to revive the boy.

The older boy, who had been in the water a very short time, was taken to the general hospital for further efforts at resuscitation. Constables Charles Stephens and Harry Harris were in charge of the boat. All stimulants and artificial respiration were again resorted to in a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

The boys were pronounced dead two hours after being taken from the water.

FOURTH BIRTHDAY

Strictly Family Affair

For the parents of Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Yvonne and Marie will be a much different birthday from others. The first three birthday celebrations of Dafoe's famous daughters found them latterly retiring to bed by 7.30 p.m. fatigued. They thought should have been family affairs instead of public spectacles. Today they have won. It will be a strictly family affair.

The birthday dinner will be held at the Dafoe Nursery with the quints given free-run of the first time in their lives.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, their physician, has been a birthday guest of the new taste sensation but he vetoed any candy or icing on their cake.

Parents as Aides

With the quints and their parents Oliva and Elzire, at the dinner table will be Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dionne, children—Daniel, aged six, Pauline, aged five, Victor, aged two and Rose who was born April 4. Oliva Jr. will have a birthday in himself also, he was still at on his mother's knee unless the quints insist on holding him. Their sisters—Theresa, Marie, Rose and Ernest— are away attending school and will spend the home for the celebration.

Besides the five-some, the quints will have another treat this summer. Their guardians are setting aside a plot of land for their own nursery grounds as a garden for the youngsters. They will be given gardening tools and encouraged to try their hand at raising flowers and perhaps a potato or a carrot or two.

to save the youth from punishment in a "tragedy of adolescence," hailed the verdict.

The parents met with laughter and tears in the office of Provincial Attorney Sydney Rosenthal.

"Mrs. Jarvis, are you satisfied," said Donald's mother.

"My God! I like the verdict," said Charlotte's mother, Mrs. Fred Matthiesen. "I want the boy to come home again."

Both the state and the prosecution contended the boy knew right and the defence holding he was temporarily insane when he killed Miss Probate last March but failed to complete their suicide pact in his solemn pause to save her.

G. A. STOKES

ber a baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Stokes.

"London, after all, is not exactly new territory to me," Mr. Stokes said in his statement to the press. "It is that takes him to the western Ontario city as superintendent of the London division. "There are a number of my old associates connected there as well as a large number of friendly men with whom I have worked in the past who have been transferred to that division."

Refers to Successor

Referring to Mr. W. A. Duff, his successor, Mr. Stokes stated that he was "not acquainted with Mr. Duff's Belleville superintendent. "I was glad to hear that he was coming here. Mr. Duff's ability had been chosen to succeed me. He and Mrs. Duff will find a very charming people here who will make many friends in Belleville. Mr. Duff will add a new dignity to his office here as he is a man of fine personality and great abilities, who will prove a splendid citizen."

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes leave for their new home on Monday. Mr. Stokes however will not take over his official duties until June 1st.

O. W. Duff New Supt.

O. W. Duff, formerly superintendent at St. Thomas, who is now moved to Belleville, joined the Grand Trunk System as an operator, at Dawnevar, in 1904, serving as such at Cayuga, Jarvis, and St. Thomas. In 1908 he was promoted a despatcher and nine years later chief despatcher. From 1923 to 1934 he was assistant superintendent at St. Thomas Division, when he was promoted to superintendent.

Consulate Denies Knowledge

The German consulate here denied knowledge of the present whereabouts of a "Karl" Gerhardt and any knowledge of an Emil Gerhardt. The report, to which the consular statement had reference, said Gerhardt was among the German experts who looked over Anticosti Island last year with a view to its exploitation.

The German consulate issued this statement:

"This man with the name of Emil Gerhardt described as a doctor and professor is not known to this consulate general.

Karl Gerhardt, a former instructor at the University of Western Ontario, has had no contact whatever with any consular office of the German Reich since 1936. As far as we can ascertain he was naturalized early in 1936. We don't know where he is now in these circumstances it is quite unlikely he is connected with any Anticosti deal."

It was learned from a reliable source that Gerhardt now reported to be a newspaperman with Hitler's Berlin newspaper was on the train from Quebec to Montreal on Sunday afternoon.

Planned to Visit Ottawa

He got off the train in Montreal but told The Canadian Press informant, who had met him in Europe, will be a much different birthday from others. HUGE DEATH TOLL the invaders.

The railway apparently was the principal objective of the attack which spread out to include closely-packed civilian districts. Wongsan was converted into a shambles by four succeeding raids. Then the Japanese bombers turned their attention to the city's central district in the vicinity of Central Park and the Canton Mayor offices, narrowly missing the city hospital for the poor.

A block of houses was reduced to tangled timbers when seven Tungahan residential suburb, formerly the home of Canton's foreign community, was the scene of concerted shower of deadly bombs.

The objective of the raid moved over the crowded city twice before the cessation of bombing apparently attempting to destroy the terminus of the Hankow-Canton railway, which terminates in the heart of the battled China.

Chinese coolies digging into the ruins soon after the second attack ended found 700 dead and injured in 300 houses destroyed in the Wongsha station on the Hankow line subjected to bombardment by international Settlement.

Volunteers were called out during the raid to prevent panic-stricken Chinese refugees from swarming in, in search for protection.

10 Bombs Dropped

More than 10 bombs, many of them incendiary, were dropped during the attack. Several fires began in the Chinese section and the flames crowded to the river bank asking to be extinguished by the settlement. Shameen is an island in the river.

Two hundred British sailors ready to leave for Hankow for relief duty with the Yangtze patrol were unable to proceed because of the bombing of the railway. The raid was believed to be an effort to stop the flow of munitions to the Chinese capital, Hong Kong.

O'CONNELL WALKS

Shrieks And Curses Heard

When he hailed as if to speak—the accused O'Connell, a burly figure with a pengil—he shouted encouragements of a handful of supporters, who espied him first, were heard by the court above curses and shrieks of "kill him" as a thousand Hague supporters rushed him from the courthouse. A police detective ring and took a lot of punches aimed at him. Police said there were no arrests.

The police battled a way through the crowd for O'Connell and whisked him to the nearest precinct station in a squad car. Not under arrest, he was held for 15 minutes in a back room with high police officials and then taken in a police car to a railroad station and placed aboard a train for Newark.

READY FOR DAYLIGHT TIME

People are going to put their clocks one hour forward tonight (Saturday) so that when they woke up on Sunday they will be in tune with the time, which will have come over night—daylight saving time.

It happened when daylight saving was first inaugurated people were much embarrassed on discovering that they have arrived too late at church, in time to hear the benediction and perhaps little more. But as daylight saving time has been followed here before on several occasions, there is really nothing to worry about, just change all the clocks and watches and there will be no confusion.

One man writes to the editor a few lines of advice to help the citizen not to forget to advance the clock's hand. He says:

"MARK TIME"

"You must forward turn forward, your clocks in their flight
For the D.L.S. season commences tonight.
At midnight this Saturday by official decree
Mark Time and advance to 1 A. M. F. T."

F. T. of course means daylight saving time.
But at midnight do not forget!

DEFENCES

Nations which knew what war was for four years or more, have built defences which they claim are invulnerable to attack. There is the Maginot Line on the French side of the German boundary and there is the Czech line of defences on the other side of Germany. Within these the nations after the war decided they would hold Germans so that they never would again be able to rush through as they did in the early days of the 1914 drive. It is even said that Chancellor Hitler of Germany on his way through the Alps to Italy not long ago, could have seen his friends, the Italians, building defences which would seal the Brenner Pass if necessary, on the Austrian-Italian frontier, now the German-Italian frontier since Germany "anschlussed" Austria so dramatically in early March.

These are only some of the defences hemming in Germany. It is declared so strong that they cannot be taken, this statement being made with the full knowledge of what happened the forts on the Liege front when Germany stirred through in August 1914 to begin the war for the Channel ports.

That these defences may never be used and may some day be a sort of memorial which the world may visit and see as the final signs of what war defences were like is the fervent wish of every reasonable person.

Canada and the United States have a frontier, longer than any frontier in Europe and only custom houses here and there are to be found. Here there is no need of a Maginot line. Canada and the U. S. would starve to death if they had to maintain fortifications for thousands of miles.

ADVICE TO MOTORISTS

Here are a few remarks appearing in the "Many Happy Returns" booklet issued by the Accidents Prevention Association:

"Although the average motorist would always risk his life (and his passengers) to save the life of a child, it shouldn't be necessary to do so — especially if it's a second too late.

"Always bear in mind the dangers of overconfidence. The only way to prove that you drive well enough to avoid accidents is not to have any.

"And please also remember that undue refreshment may conceivably give you greater self-confidence — and at the same time less cause for it.

"Don't forget that for every motorist or passenger killed, several others lose their lives in highway accidents. The motorist comes off comparatively lightly, being very often only maimed for life. All the same, he's hardly likely to enjoy the open road again.

"Always realize that the car you are driving can, in a tenth of a second, bring a man, woman or child to a long lifetime of suffering. Remember this particularly when you're in a hurry.

"Consider what a total of 766 killed and 12,092 maimed in automobile accidents in Ontario in one year means in suffering, personal tragedy and remorse — and don't overtake anything merely to show that you can.

"And please don't think you're asked to read the Highway Traffic Act as a personal favor to the Minister of Highways; it was written to help you, and reading it is much less painful than learning by your own experience."

It is not the number of books you read, nor the variety of sermons you hear, nor the amount of religious conversation in which you mix, but it is the frequency and earnestness with which you meditate on these things, till the truth becomes your own and part of your being, that ensures your growth. — F. W. Robertson.

FIFTY-ONE YEARS OLD AND SPRY AS A TWO YEAR OLD. The Tweed News celebrates its Golden Jubilee Anniversary and announces Tweed Old Home Week in a special edition of thirty-two pages which reflects great credit upon the staff and management, especially considering the limitations of even a well-equipped rural weekly newspaper plant. The Front Page features the portraits of previous proprietors beginning with W. J. Taylor (Billy), afterwards publisher of the Woodstock Sentinel Review, and very popular in newspaper circles from coast to coast. Mr. Taylor presided over the destinies of The Tweed News from 1892 to 1908: O. M. Alger acquired the paper from Mr. Taylor and conducted it until 1920 when he transferred his publishing activities to Oshawa. Next came D. H. Morrison, whose tenure of management was eleven years during which the property was owned by a stock company. (Charles J. White published The News from 1888 until 1892). The present publisher, S. R. Curry, took over the business from The Tweed News Limited, in July, 1931, thus injecting new and young blood into the fifty-one year old organ, or moulder, or leader of public opinion. Some men, not Samuel, nor even Sam'l, but just plain Sam, was well grounded in daily newspaper making before he entered the weekly field, thus reversing the customary procedure for the majority of young gentlemen recruited from the weekly ranks. The Golden Jubilee Edition of The Tweed News is a very creditable production replete with pictures of Tweed, old and new, and the places which have been prominent in civic life for the past fifty years. Opportunely the Golden Jubilee Edition appears on the eve of Tweed Old Home Week and serves as an admirable invitation and souvenir to all the Old Boys and Girls of Tweed and vicinity, an invitation that can scarcely be ignored. Congratulations to Tweed and to Sam Curry and his efficient staff for an admirable production.

THE WAR GODS ARE BUSY IN CHINA, and all Europe is flooded with war talk. Revolutions are spilling blood in Mexico and Brazil, and the State of the World in general is rather disturbing. With ten nine-power treaties signed by the United States, notwithstanding the fact that the United States Government has provided jobs for several millions, and many out of work in Canada, it looks as if something more drastic will have to be done before "priming the pump" with public works expenditures. England, outside of a few black areas is experiencing better times than for many years—which goes to prove that the Mother of Nations can still teach the youngsters how to suck eggs, as the sayin' is.

LONDONERS HAVE TELEVISION IN THEIR HOMES, CLUBS AND PUBS, according to an article in the weekly magazine Time, which also states that France and Berlin can also enjoy television. There is a telephone-television service between Berlin and Leipzig where patrons can call up friends as well as voices. Television is the young'uns' most controlled hence the advance. Over here private capital has been working on the idea but working very cautiously and slow.

NEW YORK CITY'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM is being pried loose of Tammany Hall political control by Reform Mayor Fiello H. LaGuardia, the big little man, brave enough to challenge the Tammany Tiger and clever enough to slay the Tiger, for the time being. New York's city school system has 1,110,000 pupils with 38,000 teachers, splendid school buildings and well paid teachers, also 20,000 habitual truants. Teacher salaries, elementary, minimum $3,830; high school $4,500; high school principal $10,000; superintendent of schools $25,000. Tammany certainly lost some juicy patronage when it lost control of the schools.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

An old Highland soldier got into a train travelling to Inverness. Rather unsteadily he sat down beside a Salvation Army officer. For some time he gazed at the officer's uniform with profound concentration. At last he broke into speech.

"What's your regiment, man? I canna mak' it out."

The officer replied: "I am a soldier of heaven. I go to Inverness to fight the devil, to Aberdeen to fight him again, and then to Dundee, Edinburgh, and Newcastle."

"That's right, ma man," said the other: "keep on heading the blighter south."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 28th., 1918.

Seven cars of anthracite nut coal are due to arrive shortly. Orders will be accepted at the city gas office for delivery from the car at $10.75 per ton.

Mr. E. Dunn Porter, K. C., M. P., is 56 years old today and is receiving the congratulations and good wishes of many friends.

The Rev. S. C. Moore, pastor of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, will be the next President of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Church Conference. He received the nomination last year and will be elected at the meeting of the Conference in Lindsay early in June.

Mrs. S. Russell, Mrs. A. Morrice, Mrs. D. V. Sinclair, Mrs. A. Hitchon and Mrs. Howard Sharpe have gone to Gananoque to attend meetings in connection with the Presbyterian Church.

30 YEARS AGO

May 28th., 1908.

Mr. W. G. Herring left today on a business trip to the Maritime Provinces.

A meeting of the Belleville Board of Trade was called for last night, but owing to the lack of a quorum the meeting was not held.

At a meeting of Belleville Lodge I. O. O. F. the following were appointed delegates to the Grand Lodge which meets in St. Thomas in August: Messrs. R. A. Barkley, R. W. Adams, and Henry Ransome. Messrs. L. G. Peacock, R. W. Adams, H. Ransome, Geo. T. Woodley and N. Dempsey were elected to represent the Lodge at a district meeting to be held in Picton in the near future.

Complaints are made that drivers of horses attached to delivery wagons do not take proper care in tying their horses when leaving them unattended. In accidental streets, the consequences being that the horses run off the boulevards and lawns greatly to the annoyance of the owners of property. One delivery team driver, it is said, has a horse which would go in the front door of a house if it could turn the door knob. Someone will hurt a bomb at that lag of bones some day if it has not already.

40 YEARS AGO

May 28th., 1898.

Mr. John Tannahill is enroute home and is at present in Winnipeg. He will spend the summer here.

Mr. William Johnson returned from Kingston last evening.

The first of this season's saw logs reached the boom this morning, much in advance of the usual time.

Mr. V. Mikel of Buffalo, N. Y., is spending a few days here with friends.

Mr. F. McGinty is spending a short time in Kingston.

The steamer Amelia Lake carried a large number of excursionists to Mountain Park today.

The steamer Alexandria was in and out of port today on time.

The steamer Merritt will commence regular Saturday afternoon excursions from this port the first week in June.

50 YEARS AGO

May 28th., 1888.

Mr. M. J. Tobin and the Misses. Mann have completed the location of the N. T. and C. Railway to Tweed and construction work will be commenced at once.

Mayor Bigger has presented to each of the members of last year's city council a gold pen and pencil, the gift of the members of the council.

Pews in Bridge Street Methodist Church are in great demand. At the last auction sale recently many of the old members paid very fair prices for securing seats had to take pews in the gallery. Pew rent is paid half yearly invariably in advance and the receipts at the auction sale were $170.00. Mr. T. W. Yeomans is the steward.

The present Mayor has arrived home from Ottawa.

The property Wallbridge is favorable for boating. The bay was dotted with small craft last evening.

THE ICONOCLASTS

People will go about destroying our most precious illusions. It is positively distressing. But how much of the things found to be not what they seem could be quoted as right without all this painful publicity.

Just before Easter, the Hon. Mr. Dessaints at Ottawa spent quite some time arguing that Parliament had no legal existence and, as he becomes news that an Australian wool man has made the discovery. The discovery that the historic woolsack, on which the Lord Chancellor sits to preside over the House of Lords, is not stuffed with wool at all. This is rumoured that it is filled with horsehair instead. Why, the Lord Chancellor might as well have taken in an ordinary padded armchair, and then he would have had the additional comfort of a back he could really lean against, too.

In the interests of the Australian sheep, the Australian magnate and stickler for tradition wants the horsehair replaced by good British wool. Of course, he will have much better if the shameful secret had been kept quiet, and the wool quietly slipped in as soon as the discovery was made, with nobody present but the Lord Chancellor, the Minister for Health and a couple of upholsterers. How much better for the House of Commons at Ottawa had just had a session in which it and in swift secrecy voted themselves into existence.

Wh. if this public debunking goes on, somebody will be finding out that there is something incomplete in the omniscient statesmanship of the Empire. Oh well, you fill in the Province.—Cobourg World.

RED ORCHIDS

The Marquis de Wavrin, famous British explorer, is leaving shortly for Venezuela to seek the source of the Orinoco river and, if possible, to bring back a specimen of the red orchid that natives told him about on a previous journey.

As he has assembled his party, which will include a surgeon, botanist, magician and two anthropologists, the marquis himself will act as ethnologist. In Venezuela he intends to hire three of the guides who accompanied him on a previous expedition to the headwaters of the Atabapo and Venituari rivers and Guaharibo tribe. Sudden floods and shortage of men forced him to turn back.

There are conflicting stories of the source of the river, the Orinoco, he says. Some natives told him it rises in a low marsh. According to others, the mighty river originates in a lake peopled by gods.

While collecting orchids, the natives asked him why he didn't pick one of the red orchids that grew in the depths of the jungle. That, then, the marquis was the first news the world has had of a red orchid.

The explorer adds that the Guaharibos have a strange, mysterious taboo against whistling. It's all right with them, however, if you chew tobacco.

BOTTOM BALLOON

Many people may imagine some mistake as they read of Professor Auguste Piccard's plan to put a bottom in a balloon. Balloons to the stratosphere are nothing to thrills largely to Professor Piccard's own upward adventure, but this time the sea bottom one thinks first of sinkers.

Mr. If this public debunking goes on, somebody will be finding out that there is something incomplete in the omniscient statesmanship of the Empire. Oh well, you fill in the Province.—Cobourg World.

Undernath this floats the enclosed gondola or bathysphere. Heavy metal ballast attached below this bathysphere makes the combination heavier than water, so that it sinks.

Destring to rise, occupants of the sub-sea gondola merely release some of this metallic ballast. Lifting power of the oil-filled space above then predominates. The whole operation sounds like theoretical difficulty is involved except that of making the gondola strong enough to withstand the pressure.

When Professor Piccard rose into the stratosphere his gondola had to withstand an outward pressure of than 15 pounds a square inch, corresponding to the partial vacuum outside which the normal air pressure was maintained inside. A sub-sea gondola, on the other hand, must withstand inward pressures amounting to nearly 8,000 pounds a square inch for each mile of descent.

Otis Barton, builder of the famous ballysphere used by Dr. Beebe, believes that depths enormously greater than Dr. Beebe's record of 3,028 feet may be established safely by hollow structures built with the utmost engineering skill. Professor Piccard's plan would avoid, at least, the difficulties of lowering such a device on those sands of feet of weighty and troublesome cable.

The experiment certainly is worth trying, perhaps even more so than were the ascents into the stratosphere. Much already is known about the upper air. About nothing is known about great depths in the sea.—New York Herald Tribune.

Drug Which Helps Prevent Epilepsy Attacks Manufactured in This Blood.

Physicians now look back but a few years to bring to mind the large number of patients suffering from epilepsy who were to be seen in the street, in their homes, churches and theatres, any anywhere else that happened to be. Today it is uncommon to see a patient undergoing an epileptic attack.

The prevention of epileptic attacks entirely, or to reduce their number and severity, has been brought about by the few simple rules now followed.

1—Cutting down on all starchy foods, such as bread, potatoes, pastries.

2—Cutting down on all liquids—water, tea, coffee, milk, soft and hard drinks.

3—Increasing the fat foods—butter, cream, fat meat, egg yolks.

4—Limiting the use of proteins—lean meat (1-3 to 1 1-3 grains), as prescribed by a physician, every twenty-four hours.

However sometimes the body has to be helped in addition to the above rules. Dr. Gallinek and Miss Jamieson state in Paris Medical Journal that they have saved many patients (this blood in two epileptic patients who had been treated for years in vain with phenobarbital for several years. In the light of the above they detected a more or less severe reduction in red blood corpuscles in the other epileptics. Further addition of the red corpuscles (cane sugar) disappeared and were very slowly, neither patient nor physician suspected that the symptoms disappeared. When the heart beat fast, the swelling of ankles and legs, and the patient perished of the use of phenobarbital.

Now the epileptic attacks must be prevented and phenobarbital must be used, but those investigations have shown that blood can be built up again by reducing the dose of phenobarbital and by treating the patient with liver extract. It is likely that ordinary liver—up to 3 ounces daily—will give satisfactory results.

It must be remembered that while only 8 of the 15 cases became anaemic, still any of the signs of pallor, weakness, tiredness, pale heart—should mean an immediate examination of the blood.

FARE, LADY?

One day these IQ tests were bound to go too far. The limit seems to have been reached when the company employed a professor of psychology to prepare a series of questions which were supposed to help "backward drivers" to overcome their defects. Instead they found the backward drivers but the public was most unpleasantly the one expected.

One of the questions was: "At four cents each, how many pencils can be purchased for 36 cents?" A driver, Sidney Schofield Charles A. Pirolli, president of the Taxi Drivers' Union, New York, and a Yale alumni agreed rapidly. These gentlemen, however, have just been used." They considered such questions the truck. It has agreed to do as a toe is to a heel, shoe, knee, fool, toenail." "Some pedant is the truck. It has agreed to do as a toe is to a heel, shoe, knee, fool, toenail." "Some pedant is "a slick scheme for finding excuses to fire drivers the bon didn't like." In any event those who have been up against such a question as "do you retreat from a question, idea, a country, a position?" will know how and with whom to answer pat-like.

Of course there is still that disturbing incident of the taxi driver in New York. It seems a lady boarded his cab for a destination, and suddenly awoke from a dream of spring to find herself in front of a pawnbroker's. Whereupon she shouted to the driver, "do you think you are taking me to a gentlemen, also in revery, jumped out. "Gosh, lady," he said, "I forgot all about you."—Christian Science Monitor.

Maybe there's something in this "backward driver" stuff.—A—Christian Science Monitor.

Beauty at City's Doorstep

We often thought that if we had the time and the money that we would purchase a small sight-seeing boat and put it to work on the Bay of Quinte. There is a month of this Bay of Quinte that is so picturesque, so unbelievably pretty.

We took an American out fishing one time and we were anchored near Telegraph Light. He had paid five dollars for his non-resident angling permit and naturally we were hopeful that he would get something for his money. But all that American would do was to gasp at the scenery.

Finally we couldn't stand it any longer and we asked him what was the matter.

"I never saw such a sight in my life," he said. "Look at that pinnacle (near Northport)! And look at that sky and the water and the trees. Say! he enthused, "if we had a bay like this over in the United States, we would have a continual breakwalk! from one end to other. And it would be alive on Sundays with people."

Incidentally this American went home later with some fish, but he didn't catch them. He was scenery struck and couldn't fish.

We have been on a lot of water at various times of the day, but we don't think there is anything more beautiful in the evening than the lower end of the Long Reach. Down by Jans Soucl and Casey's Point and Robbin's Cove. And early morning somewhere from Bellevile that Canadian Rediyen will be able to handle pleasure parties after June 1 and we are sure his venture will prove most popular.—Harry Moore in Trenton Courier Advocate.

Roses of Old Loch Lomond

In the little village of Luss, on the shores of Loch Lomond, the small white houses are clustered, and homely, with low open doors and gleaming windows and roses blooming everywhere. Roses ramblers climb up the walls, reaching in at the windows, touching the lintels of the doors; so that the inmates of the cottages must forever interweave and smell their sweet fragrance every time they cross the threshold. The old arms of the cross somehow one can never call it by the grander name of "Cross of Lorn"—covers the rustic porches over the doors. In shade of these vines, from rich, dark green leaves, to the deeper tones of honey, tea rose waft their delicious perfume. It is not this perfume combines a whiff of myrtle with a suggestion of thyme. All the sweetest scents of summer seem to come from the creamy buds of the tea roses.

The people in the villages have names to be jotted down in their old favorites, like tried friends, have pride of place, and "Globe of Gold" becomes about the perusing of the glorious pure white "Aimee Vibert" tor-rose, grown in the gardens of Orleans centuries ago, and the ancient Cross of Lorn flowers in Luss defy all gardening rules; and, in spite of them, they rose bloom always prolific. While the soil and exposure help, the fact that it is called—rose still more. Flowers respond to the intimate touch.

Luss one realizes to the full the romance of the rose, which poets of every time and tongue have been standing on the shores of Loch Lomond on a "bonnie summer day." It is then the magnificence melodies coming on the lapping of the water from all sorts of unexpected places. The mighty Ben, softened to meet the mood of summer, is revealed in the hues of blue and purple. The midsummer sun, as it sinks as it eventide, suffuses with rosy light the surrounding peaks. The little village—Luss are part of a world in which the color and scent of roses are almost all else that grows.—Christian Science Monitor.

That Editorial 'We'

We heard a magnificent program the other night while waiting our turn in front of the radio in our living room and it was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it. However we were greatly struck when I heard it mean, we were struck when I heard it mean—I—oh skip it, let's start again!

We heard a magnificent program the other night while we were sitting in front of the radio in our living room—sorry: it should be our radio in our living room—our living room—whose living room is it anyway? and whose living room is it, brother start seems to be indicat-

HONEST SCOTS

The management of a Glasgow tearoom is said to be highly impressed with the honesty of the city as revealed the other day in their establishment. While crossing the floor. There was a fire scare and some twenty or thirty visitors left their food to make a hasty exit without being given their checks. All the food was left as delivered day and paid their dues. Not perfect—but pretty good.—Glasgow Bulletin.

TIES THAT BIND

It is not always the loudest ties that make the most noise. Take Zionism, for example, as a very delicate affair of black and blue stripes, there are whispers of those things go; yet its reverberations are here echoing around Britain, at a recent gathering of some hundreds of Jewish women in London that only half a dozen people present flatfoot beneath their chins knew what the whole thing was all entitled.

Such a phenomenon has naturally set England thinking. There are those who declare that it is the result of the decline of snobbery in Britain, showing that men are no longer ashamed to wear their hearts on their sleeves. Others declare it is a connection with an exclusive sacred thing. And, of course, there are those who maintain that it points to an increase in snobbery. Only a ground that Old Romans no longer wear Old Romian ties because Old Romans no longer exist to be worn by people who are not Old Romans.

However this may be, one thing is certain. There is much sanctity up in the trees. It has spread even into the cultured retirement of Oxford, where blue colleges are busy changing the colors and designs of their own ties. Oxford tradesmen, who should be listened to with respect—for many undergraduates owe them more than they can ever hope to repay—assert that this is because Oxford wishes to be up-to-date. This explanation, however, is received with reserve by Ireland.

Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, bride of the U.S. secretary of the interior, is pictured above. They were married by the bride's father, Dr. R. K. Hanna, of the Presbyterian church, in Dublin, Ireland, where the new Mrs. Ickes was visiting with her uncle, John Cudahy, United States minister to Ireland.

Hastings, Lennox-Addington, Prince Edward W. C. T. U. Hold 29th Annual Convention

The Twenty - Ninth Annual W.C.T.U. County Convention of Hastings, Lennox-Addington and Prince Edward was held on Thursday, May 26th in Belleville Tabernacle Church. The President, Mrs. (Rev.) E. Parnsworth presided and opened with the Temperance doxology and pledge after which Mrs. O. S. Sharpe and Mrs. (Dr.) Baker took charge of the devotional period, in which was shown that true Temperance spirit seeks to lift up Christ before the world and trusts in His power to give a breath of vision that individual cares may not spoil noble purposes.

In Mrs. Parnsworth's words of welcome she stated that the greatest mission ever given to women is to lead the world to Temperance.

The committees appointed were: Resolutions: Mrs. A. Grimmon, Mrs. W. J. Spicer and Mrs. Wm. Hurch. Plan of Work: Mrs. J. Warriman, Mrs. M. Windover and Mrs. Geo. Hicks. Finance: Mrs. N. B. Miller and the Treasurers: Courtesy, Mrs. (Rev.) Osborne and Mrs. J. V. Funnell.

The worship service was conducted by Miss A. Gardner of Nagagon. She said the greatest need of Temperance workers is that they be completed of self. Silent prayer was used there and then to help put away anything that hindered in free action of God's spirit upon the convention.

Roger Babson says "It is not what is in evidence," John Wesley said on his most busy day: "I find I may pray two hours today, if I would accomplish all." The farmer takes time to sharpen his hoe before going to the field. We need to establish with God a happy fellowship of father and child before undertaking work for Him," she concluded. Mrs. Howitt then offered prayer.

The minutes read by the Secretary, Mrs. Bradshaw showed that a girls' camp has been arranged for. Mrs. Arch. Miller to be camp mother and Miss R. Duff the leader. The cost to each girl has been cut to $4.00 per week on condition that 40 girls may be secured. A committee was appointed to purchase cots for camp.

At an executive meeting, a motion was carried giving the County Treasurer authority to pay County Officers and Superintendents their travelling expenses only.

Greetings were received from the Provincial President, Mrs. John Wright. She said: "there never was need for more aggressive work as promises for peace. Temperance laws have not been kept. We must approach this old problem with new methods." Mrs. Wright made an appeal for the attendance of young women at the new training school for temperance leaders to be held at Willard Hall, Toronto, Aug. 9-12.

Memorial Service

A beautiful Memorial Service was conducted by Mrs. G. Hicks and Mrs. E. Parnsworth and a solo "There is no Death," by Miss Phyllis Mae Ivey. The room day prayer was offered by Mrs. H. R. Cory.

Mrs. F. Brown of Milford, delighted all with a solo given in fine style. Belleville W.C.T.U. served a delicious dinner and at night a banquet around which were given greetings from the various religious organizations of the city.

Mrs. Brown's Address

Mrs. W. T. G. Brown of Kingston World's and Dominion Officer was guest speaker at Belleville W.C.T.U. convention. Mrs. Brown said a movement without God may fail but a movement with God cannot fail. A movement without God is a movement with God we take courage. We have a vision of great need. We will therefore educate, organize against the liquor and other beverage alcohol. As women we have a special responsibility for education, women more than men set the tone and life of women is the key of civilization. Men will not continue to do morally, that which women universally, do not wish them to do. When a thing becomes widely disapproved by women, it disappears from social life. Then why have we failed to stamp out evils such as beverage alcohol? Are we losing our sense of responsibility? Have we not grasped the extent of our influence?

A college student taking a cocktail with others answered a question thus: "No I never took a cocktail until after I saw mother take one." That woman professed to be a temperance woman. Another lady a member of the W.M.S. entertains governors and their wives because of her husband's position bringing him in contact with them. Neighbourhood gossip said she would have to serve liquor if entertaining that kind but she didn't. She served fruit cup and was complimented on her action and on the quality of the drink. She emphasizes being very particular that fruit drink is tasty and proves that alcohol is not needed to make delicious, popular drinks. Which woman did the finer thing? Which rendered the finer service? Could we be excused to face the problem of custom. It is the fear of being different and of doing the unusual thing, that keeps so many in bondage. But there are brave souls who dare to change customs and so progress comes.

Our attention is called these days to John Wesley, in the day, tavern would advertise that a man would be entertained at so much per head drunk for two pence. The first temperance society in 1812 in the United States was concerned only with heavy drinking. To be a member one need not sign a total abstinence pledge but just promise not to drink to excess, except in public dinners. If a member were found drunk at other times he was fined 25 cents. If he had to be carried home 50 cents. For long enough, our efforts were to help the drunkard, now our emphasis is upon the moderate drinker. Most gross crimes such as murder, stabbing and rape are committed by the moderate drinker, says Dr. Rogers, Ontario Provincial Analyst.

Dr. Frank Lade of Australia said when Henry Ford put the automobile on the road, he rang the death knell of trade in intoxicants. The motor car has become one of the direct and inevitable effects of alcohol. We have now to declare that total abstinence from intoxication is the true ideal.

The brain wabbles long before the legs wabble. There is great responsibility resting upon temperance women to broadcast information. We have access to facts and figures and ought to make knowledge live. This we can do by conversation, by letters or by articles focusing on some local incident at the opportune time.

The Ontario Minister of Highways says: "If you drink, don't drive." The law is severe with the drunken drivers, who is to say when they are drunk.

Blood Tests Endorsed

Dr. Rogers says the blood test is safe, simple and impartial, protects the innocent and makes the accused absolutely impossible. We should ask our municipal councils to make the blood test available. We should request the Minister of Justice at Ottawa to investigate the desirability of making it compulsory. The blood test is endorsed by the Chief Coroner of Toronto. Dr. Frankish, Ontario's crime expert says the blood test is most efficient in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, Hungary and United States. It has been endorsed by British medical men. Dr. Cherrington says: "Drunkenness temperance fanaticism today becomes the common sense of the morrow. We temperance folk have moved forward when we have condemned what we must go. The liquor trade says: "Leave the moderate drinker alone but get after the drunkard." We want prohibition. The liquor trade wants temperance advertisements. They fight on the old temperance levels we have left. We go forward knowing that they will gradually follow. The law used to permit slavery of human beings. We shall some day look back on the slavery of beverage alcohol also as a thing of the past.

Dr. Little says 11 years ago it was necessary for women to go out to save their men folk from liquor, do they not need to go out today to save their sons from the same danger?" He estimates that there are 3 women to every 2 men frequenting the beverage rooms. Men have more regular hours of work. Women can go any time, and they do.

Mothers Neglect Babies

One could night last February 4 baby carriages were left outside a women's beverage room. In these were cold crying babies, while inside the beverage room were 4 mothers drinking. One evening a telephone message to call on a home and found a little eleven year old girl trying to find supper for herself and her younger brothers and sisters, the mother was out at a beverage room. Surely we ought to send a deluge of petitions to have beer parlors closed. If conventions of Liberal and Conservative women send such petitions, should not temperance women?

God never made any collection of individuals responsible for the complete abolition of any social evil. We can show the way, we use our influence but people must open their own eyes. We cannot force them to see. "Every one decideth the way his soul shall go." Satisfactory decisions by the great mass of common people will answer the needs of the present day. Each of us can count only one for the great social problem but let us see to it that we do count one. Any neglect on the part of temperance people is magnified by unsympathetic persons. Let us put on our white ribbon badge with prayer and be extra careful in our contacts with others.

No matter how intelligent and enthusiastic leaders may be, the success of a movement depends on the rank and file, the sober living and strongly held conviction of temperance women. Ideals cost but they are worthwhile. Let us be idealists, also movers and shakers of the world.

"THROW DOWN A CHALLENGE"

● "What do you suppose it is that stimulates men to great efforts—and great accomplishments? Money? Seldom. The desire for fame? Sometimes—but more frequently it is neither of these things.

"It is something simpler, something elemental in human nature. It is the love of contest—the thrill of victory."

● "Every person of spirit wants a chance to prove their worth, to excel, to win. That is what makes foot races, sand-lot baseball and pie eating contests. Yes—and it also makes Olympic games, Marathon swims and stratosphere flights.

"A world-famous industrialist once said: "I have never found that you had pay alone, would either bring together or hold good men . . . it is the game itself."

● "That's it. The game itself. The way to get things done is to stimulate competition—not in any sordid, money-getting sense, but in the desire to excel, to do better than the other fellow.

"So, if you want to influence people — spirited people — remember, a good rule is: Throw down a challenge."

Home Canning In Tin Cans

The tin can as a container for home canned fruits, vegetables, meats and fish is becoming increasingly popular every year and the reason for this is that canning in tin cans is quicker, easier and cheaper than canning in glass, states R. W. Arengo-Jones, Horticultural Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Successful canning in tin cans requires a reliable can closing machine and a pressure sterilizer for vegetables, meats and fish. Both these pieces of equipment can be purchased quite cheaply and they will last for many years if properly cared for. The pressure sterilizer may be used for cooking every day meals as well as for canning and for this reason will be found very useful.

Both the can sealer and the sterilizer are sold in a wide range of sizes to suit every need. In country sections where a lot of canning may be done, it is a good plan for several families to purchase the equipment co-operatively, selecting the larger models, and then, by helping each other during the canning season all concerned will benefit and a variety of foodstuffs may be preserved for the table.

The only difference between canning in tin cans and canning in glass is that the tin cans must be sealed while the contents are hot. This is necessary in order to exclude air from the can as it is only in the presence of air that the acids in fruits and vegetables can attack the metal of the can. Furthermore, since the filled cans are cooked following sealing, hot filling will reduce the internal pressure developed by the sterilizing treatment.

Plain tin cans are used for most vegetables and for all but the coloured fruits. Red coloured fruits fade in plain cans, so cans lined on the inside with a protective enamel are used. Certain kinds of vegetables such as Lima beans and corn will darken in plain cans and a special can finish, known as C Enamel, is provided for them.

Using present day equipment and reliable canning instructions, home canners may have as much confidence in their own products as they have in commercially canned fruits and vegetables.

New Bulletin Issued On Poultry Disease

During the past few years there have been many changes in connection with the control of poultry diseases. Following the announced promise of Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ont. Minister of Agriculture, that all advanced scientific farming information should be placed in the hands of the farmers of Ontario as quickly and easily as possible, a new bulletin "Diseases of Poultry" has been written and compiled by three noted Ontario poultry experts, J.S. Oliver, B.V.Sc., Ont. Veterinary College, Guelph; P. N. Marcellus, B. Poultry Husbandry, O.A.C. and recently appointed head of the new Animal Nutrition Department, O.A.C.

This bulletin of 62 pages is profusely illustrated and should be in the hands of every poultryman and every farmer who has even a medium large flock of chickens.

Write for your copy at once to the Statistics and Publications Branch, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Scintillating Entertainment At Annual Dance Recital by Pupils of Miss Mary Forster

An evening of scintillating entertainment was provided the crowd which filled to overflowing the Collegiate Auditorium last evening for the annual dance recital of pupils of Miss Mary Forster. Once again the young dancers under the tuition of a clever and capable teacher demonstrated their mastery of the graceful art, the audience being held spell-bound by their skill and charm which hinted at careful and painstaking preparation.

From the opening number, "Ten Pretty Girls" with dancers of pupils as soloist and a delightful bevy of small girls as the blondes, brunettes and the red head of his lyrics to the colorful Gypsy Ballet, featuring Miss Alexandra Forster as leader of the Gypsies and Barbara Dimepi as the fancy gypsy, the program was a delight to young and old. Tap dancing in the modern manner, the graceful ballet, lovely ballroom dances, acrobatic numbers and interpretations by dancing feet of the spirit of today's songs were introduced in small routines, ranging in the love ness of the picture the dancing figures made, were the beautiful costumes, designed with originality by Miss Forster who has a decided flair for this important part of her stage presentation and executed by Mrs. Pigden, couturiere for the Studio.

Fifty Numbers Given

Over fifty numbers were given last evening. The program was opened by a splendid program by Bud Haines and His Commodores. Accompaniment for the dancers was provided by Mrs. Grace Leeman in an excellent manner, which was an important factor in the success of the Recital.

The entire program was one of charm, appealing to every individual taste in dancing. The versatility of pupils and teacher alike was remarkable, judging from the diversity of the numbers. The soloists proved themselves to be veritable dancing stars, while it would be difficult to select from the lengthy program numbers more outstandingly than the rest, a few were highlighted, by their unusualness, or by the appeal to the audience. In the latter group, the "baby line" was definitely most captivating to the audience.

From winsome blonde Carol Labelle, and brunette Dawn Myles, the tiniest of the performers, whose personality was a challenge to the larger tots in the juniors who were enchanting Daffodils and realistic Playgirls these small dancers captured the hearts of the audience. Featured last evening was the Tap Militaire, with Barbara Jean Dimment, Anne Hepburn ballerina of the smaller pupils dancing on a drum; the rollers skate lay by tall eyed Jeanne Watson and the Stairway Tap by Inez Forster one of the most brilliant of the students. Two boys had a chance to demonstrate their skill in "Freedom'on Down" and were most adept.

Voiced Sentiment

Mr. Charles Dolan in explaining some of the numbers expressed the sentiment of the audience when he said that Miss Mary Forster had endeavored to her pupils grace and charm, that she herself possessed. Mrs. Leeman was presented with a lovely bouquet during the evening at the close of the program she was enthusiastically applauded by the audience, a tribute to her success in her chosen field and her own personality. Miss Forster and Mrs. Leeman were presented with lovely bouquets by the small accompanist for the smallest of them all Carol Labelle.

The following program in whose preparation Miss Forster was assisted by her sister, Miss Antoinette Forster, was as follows:

Ten Pretty Girls—Boy, Jimmie Cowan: Red Head, Madeline Walpole; Blondes, Meribeth Stobie, Dorothy Brown; Ruth Hagerman, Mary Lou Pigden; Brunettes, Dena Pappajohn, Joyce Fraser, Eileen Cameron, Joyce Cooper.

Few organizations in the world appeal more to the imagination than the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Such a history of the Force, emphasizing the adventures of the officers and men rather than the detail of organization and administration has been written by R. G. Pecheniuk-Haigh in his book "The Royal Canadian Mounted Police". Basing his history on the official records and documents, the author has written a stirring story of travel and adventurous service which is the daily life of the Force. Illustrations in full color and striking achievement, that of establishing the Dominion's authority in the prairie empire of the West. The narrative follows the march north to the Yukon, to Herschel Island and Hudson Bay and to the Arctic and Sub-Arctic regions. Humorous are accounts of daring incidents of bravery and heroism. Many photographs and maps give added interest to the book.

The story of a changing country, half primitive and half engulfed by modern civilization is told by Basil Birky in his book "Zulu Journey". Zulu prowess in battle, the fine physique of their warriors and their famous clothes are known throughout the world. Mr. Birky's trek is not confined to Zululand alone but he visits also the Basuto, second only to the Zulus, the Griquas, half-caste neighbours, and journeys through Portuguese East Pondoland completing a survey of native South Africa. Customs are widely varying life and customs of the regions are described, before the territories are lost in the march and romance and are wholly influenced by Western civilization. Mr. Birky guarantees to introduce readers to as strange a set of native characters as ever Rider Haggard invented.

In his fascinating book "Robbery by Mail" Karl Baarslag contends that it is not gangsters who are the big robbers. "No," says the author, "the criminals who dip their hands into the mail bags are small potatoes in the best society, have powerful political connections and clever lawyers". These are not hold-up men but swindlers who "rise the mails to defraud". The work of the United States Postal Inspectors is described in accounts of many of ingenious methods, used on unsuspecting victims. Against them are pitted the energy and brains of 540 postal inspectors. Many of the swindlers are as glorious as to be highly amusing. "The Spanish Prisoner" confidence game in many forms, only changing its locale from time to time. Tickets to non-existent lotteries, reports of fake oil-wells, gold mines and even gold-bricks are but a few of the many methods of fraud. The outstanding tales among the varied collection are the story of the fabulous mountaineers who swindled the mail-order fanciers with speed and serenity and the "Sir Francis Drake Estate" fraud which has been called "the greatest swindle of modern times". It will be a rare reader who is not intrigued by Mr. Baarslag's history by Mail".

In his latest volume "The Path of the Gods and Other Poems", E. J., Pratt points a satiric finger at the modern world and its complacence. His title poem "The Fable of the Goats" tells of the evil and ways of dictators. Many will recall the controversy aroused by this poem on his recent visit to Belleville this winter. "A Prayer-Medley" is a caustic commentary on the self-complacent attitude of today. These and many other poems make up a fine volume to add to the Canadian literature shelves.

Poems That Live

ROBIN REDBREAST

Sweet Robin, I have heard them say
That thou wert there upon the day
The Christ was crowned in cruel scorn
And bore away one bleeding thorn;
That so the bluah upon thy breast,
In shameful sorrow, was impressed;
And thence thy genial sympathy
With our complaining misery.

Sweet Robin, would that I might be
Bathed in my Savior's blood, like thee;
Bear in my breast, white'er the loss,
The bleeding blazon of the cross;
Live ever with thy loving mind,
In fellowship to human-kind;
And take my pattern still from thee,
In gentleness and constancy

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Wedding Toast

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—When a toast is drunk to a bride and groom, or to a bride-to-be how should they or she respond and should the groom or he personal drink in acknowledgment?

2—Should one always "respond" to a toast?

3—Exactly what is an entree? When and with what silver should it be eaten?

4—With what initials should silver be monogrammed — the maiden name or married name initials?

1—The first, and of course the most important toast that is proposed at the wedding reception, is the one that is proposed to the bride and bridegroom. That toast is usually proposed by the best man, but of course it may be proposed by someone else. All (except the bride and bridegroom) rise, raise their glasses and drink the toast. When the toast has been drunk and the guests seated, the bridegroom rises and expresses his and the bride's thanks. Besides saying a few words of thanks he may add something about the happy occasion, but long "speeches" are not called for and are usually not indulged in.

The bridegroom may say, for instance, "Mary and I thank you, may heartfelt, for your good and warm-hearted wishes. Having all you dear friends with us on this happy day is a joy and the sweetest of memories to the occasion. We shall remember all the anniversaries of this day with you."

When a toast is proposed to a bride-to-be she may simply bow her thanks, smilingly, or to this she may add a few words of thanks in appreciation . . . "Thank you, with all my heart, for your friendly words. I am sure that Jack and I will be as happy as you wish us to be. Always I shall carry in my heart the memories of this lovely day, and you have planned beautifully for me."

2—There must always be a gracious acknowledgment of a toast. Such a pleasant tribute demands an appreciative response. The acknowledgment may be one to which the toast is proposed may be only a smiling bow and a gracious "Thank you". Or to this may be added a sentence or two of thanks for the toast for "hoth there" and a few words about the memorable-ness of the occasion. But, as I said before, there should not be an effort to "make a speech". In general, the shorter the toast and the shorter the response to it, the better.

3—An entree is, strictly speaking, a dish that is served between the heavy courses at a dinner or luncheon. The menu for the usual dinner, formal or including-toward-formality, is first soup; then an entree or fish; the roast, accompanied by salad; dessert; after-dinner coffee. Very popular at the moment is the vegetable plate entree — asparagus or broccoli served with Hollandaise sauce, artichokes, tomatoes peppers stuffed, for instance with mushrooms, or creamed mushrooms served in number of interesting ways; braised celery or endive; artichoke bottoms filled with forcemeat and baked. Aspics are sometimes served as entrees at dinner parties. When an entree is served at luncheon, eggs prepared in any one of many delicious ways are always popular, or broiled mushrooms on toast or creamed mushrooms on toast.

Restaurants have come to use this term for the list of their dishes that are offered on the menu, but they use the term more freely and indiscriminately than it is used to designate a course at dinner or luncheon. Such dishes as a fork is placed with an entree, but many hostesses who prefer to place a knife with it. The fork is the proper implement of its use to the guest.

4—With the bride to be rest the choice as to whether she has her silver engraved with the initials of her maiden name or with the initials of her name-to-be. If engraved with the initials of the bridegroom's name, the hostess is obliged to engrave with the maiden initials and her linens embroidered with them. Obviously, as time elapses it is more practical to use the initials of her married name.

Advice to the Lopelorn

What Does It Take to Make a Good Husband?

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I expect to be married very soon to a girl I have been trying to persuade for the past two years to marry me. I know she has one fault, and I am looking forward to an ideal life. I want to make her happy, but I am not very hopeful to this girl.

"Do you think is the best way of avoiding those misunderstandings, those ugly family jars which wreck the home? Is a happy life a comic supplement? In other words, how can I be a good husband?

"T. D. P."

Please let me say that this is the first time I've ever had a letter from a prospective bride to be about a good husband!

Generally girls have written asking how they can be good wives. Wives have asked how they can keep their husband's love, what can they do to fend off that girl next door who wants a husband who is getting bored.

But—men seem to feel that nature has divinely endowed them, from the beginning, with every qualification for being perfect husbands.

If men contemplate a business partnership, they usually have a year or so as a "go" of it. If a house is bought, the same care is exercised. If a motor boat is bought, or can't run an airplane, an automobile, they at least have some knowledge of the way these things are done.

But the average men will fearlessly stride up the church aisle to those matrimonial shoals and rapids, and make the necessary promises without ever giving a thought to those things that make of marriage a success or failure.

Happiness, skill and all success to the new school of husbands; to the man who feels he doesn't exactly know all about women; that he is not divinely inspired with complete understanding of that half of the race that is fearfully and wonderfully made.

No one really knows anything about women, but certain rules to live by are fairly certain. If a man will set down as a good working basis that women are human, that she is distinct understanding about financial matters. Let your wife know what your income is, and then establish the budget system. Decide what's going to be spent for clothes, amusements and what's to be put by for emergencies and the possible rainy day.

It's unbelievable the number of women who have no idea of how much their husband's income is.

Nothing is more natural in married life, is courtesy. This is as essential on the part of the wife as the husband. Likewise, as our most cynical American writer—himself a husband—says, one of the most indispensable element in marriage.

Think, think, because a woman has does you the honor of marrying you she has not grown all over the way you grow! at "Central" when you have the wrong pelmanism number?

And why, my dear young wife, should you feel pelitted by jibe and sneer at a man because he has continued to love you cherish you all his days.

Politeness in the home is more necessary than in the office. Don't scratch at the grocer's or the ability to "look a million dollars" when you feel sweet, hasbe or charming, goes farther than a box of expensive candy.

The ability to laugh at humor is essential to all successful marriages —the ability to see the funny side, to make merry over the things that go wrong. Remember that.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The May meeting of Plainfield W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Wickett on Thursday afternoon of twenty eight adults and six children.

The meeting was opened by the president reading the theme and Bible reading. A hymn was sung. Devotional was given in the form of a questionnaire by Mrs. A. Hall. Mr. Collection then took charge. Readings were given by Mrs. E. Hall and Mrs. O. Marshall. Mrs. Will Sills gave the Study Book which was very interesting. A hymn was sung. Mrs. Ed. Emmerson gave a reading on Temperance and Mrs. Walter Hall on Stewardship. Collection was received by Master Iner Prindle. Mrs. C. Hall closed with prayer. Lunch was then served and social time spent.

WALLBRIDGE W. I.

The Wallbridge Women's Institute held their meeting on May 25 at the home of Mrs. O. B. Martin with an attendance of twenty-six. The president, Mrs. Jas. Eine presided. The Roll Call was answered with "Books of Mothers". The Sec., Mrs. W. Woods and the Treas. Mrs. W. Wickson, were appointed delegates to the convention at River Valley. Aid was given to a child of the community who is crippled from the effects of infantile paralysis. A letter of thanks for flowers from Miss Violet Graham was read. Mrs. H. Jeffrey was convener of the program which was "Education" and she introduced Mr. Sisler, manager of the Dominion Bank, as guest speaker.

Mr. Sisler chose as his subject, "Canadian Banking System" which was very interesting and instructive. Appreciation of the address was expressed by the president to Mr. Sisler. A vocal solo was given by Miss Margaret Johnston and a piano solo by Mrs. O. S. Martin. Current Events were given by Mrs. H. White. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. All enjoyed a social half-hour in which Group 3 served lunch.

Give A Child All Praise He Earns

That is Best Way to Build Confidence in Him, Says Grenelle

(By LISA GRENELLE)

"I HEAR YOUR son, John, is getting to be quite a linguist, Mr. Brown," a friend said one day.

Brown grunted disdainfully — linguist—what's that?"

"Someone who can learn to speak and understand the other fellow's language as if it were his own."

"Hmm," grunted Brown. "What's the matter with English?"

"Nothing, nothing. But I should think it would give you a lift to have a son who can read Latin as if it were French, French as if it were English. He's a bright boy—your son, John. He's the best linguist in the school. Tom says, and you should be proud of him."

Brown was not pleased. He was not pleased. "Johnny bright! Huh! You ought to see his math marks". And he went off in search of Johnny's report card. Johnny's mark in math certainly was not distinguished.

Calls It Disgrace

"A disgrace; a disgrace," Brown said, slapping the card "I told Johnny he ought to be ashamed of himself—ashamed. He must be lazy. Can't apply himself. Why, at his age I—"

"You can't be good at everything," the friend counseled. "He got A in languages, and that's the best. Besides, they say now—the experts have proved—that the kind of mind that takes to languages finds math difficult."

"Piddlesticks!" Brown murmured.

"So you didn't even praise or congratulate him on his outstanding showing in languages?"

"Not certainly not," Brown said disgustedly. "With a C in math, certainly not! Why should I?"

There was no way to argue any more with Brown, the friend decided. The only thing left was to find Johnny and tell him he was tops, make him feel that he'd done something in getting a mark like that in languages, and that it was not such a disgrace to get a low mark in math after unmark.

Confidence Needed

Johnny was a bit hard to convince. Brown had talked to him first, and he was "low" very discouraged. Papa Brown had made him feel that his achievements in the good subjects didn't count; only his failure in math.

So do we in everything, you need confidence. If you give a child confidence by praising him for the things he can do well, you give him the courage to attack with fresh zeal and hope those subjects that finde difficult. If Papa had made Johnny feel he was proud of him for his linguistic achievements, Johnny might have tried harder and done better with his math. Although of course, some people just can't master math. I couldn't, much of myself.

FALLS FROM LADDER

Brantford, Ont., May 26 (CP)—Falling from a ladder while at work on the Bank of Toronto building at Paris, near here, George Miller was killed last night.

Miller was a plumber and electrician, well known in South Dumfries Township. Crown Attorney F. D. Wallace of Brantford was called and decided no inquest was necessary.

Miller, 54, is survived by his widow and two children.

Citizens Trained In Home

Parents Responsible for Children, Says Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Head Department Parent Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

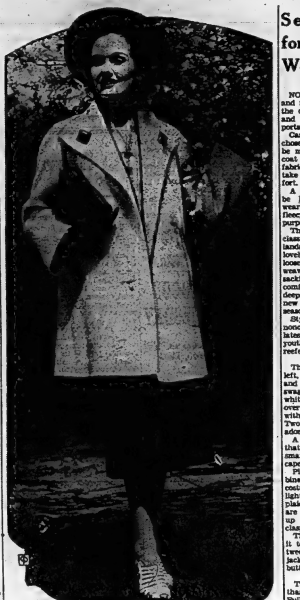
CITIZENSHIP, good or bad, begins in the home. And for it in our children we parents are primarily responsible. The school is doing a good job at teaching citizenship there, but it could do much better if we parents did as well, if we gave teachers better citizens to begin with.

The basic attitudes and habits of citizenship in our children have been pretty well established before they enter school. Even while they children are at school, these basic attitudes and habits are more dependent on the home than on the school. A grave problem of the school indeed, is so to cultivate citizenship there that it will continue to function after the child leaves the school grounds each day or graduates, finally, from school. Not nearly all, alas, who are good citizens at school are good citizens in their home or community, even while attending school.

Among the ABC's of citizenship are regard for the rights of others, respect for authority, and readiness to share and bear responsibility among those with whom one mingles, especially at home and in the home neighborhood. These virtues presuppose including some basic inhibitions early in the child, care of property, respect for things that belong to others, self-reliance and sharing in the common chores and duties about the home.

We educate the child in good citizenship at home as we train him early in the unambiguous meaning of NO rarely heard, train him from the time that he begins to toddle that there are a few things he must not have and a few things I'e must not do; as we train him to be very careful, within reason, of his playthings and of the furniture; train him neither to mar nor destroy things belonging to others nor to use them without permission of the owner. We see that he gets discomfort from violating these principles and comfort from observing them.

Learning Responsibility



We let him learn responsibility for taking care of himself and his own possessions as soon as he is able, and help him find satisfaction in so doing. We let him carry on his own conversation. We let him answer the questions meant for him. We let him have as many choices and decisions as his protection and the rights of others warrant.

We train him in responsibility for bringing himself in from play, sending himself regularly to bed, preparing himself for meals, and the like, in accordance with clearly established standards. Gradually he is assigned one, and later a few more simple tasks to be done every day; also allowed to do some things which don't seem to be drudgery. He learns to handle money, and to get along agreeably with his playmates. He learns to co-operate and is liked by other children and adults in the neighborhood. All these things he learns best in a home of love and sympathy and understanding, where he feels secure, with parents who themselves are good citizens. Such are favorable beginnings of good citizenship.

"Casual Clothes" Can Be Extremely Smart

Select Carefully for Traveling or Week-End Jaunt

By LISBETH

NOW THAT week-end jaunts and travels by land and sea are the order of the day, casual coats and jackets are almost more important than ever before.

Casual clothes cannot be chosen casually, however, so don't be misled by the title. A casual coat must be made of durable fabric that is practical, able to take hard wear and give comfort.

A summer casual coat should be lightweight but warm, long-wearing and adaptable. A soft, fleecy wool is ideal for these purposes.

There are the beloved and classic tweeds, soft wool shetlands, suede-surfaced velours, lovely fleeces and intriguing new home-woven wools. In basket weaves, homespuns and hopsacking—all equally correct and comfortable in white, pastels or deep shades, as well as in the new vivid tones so popular this season.

Styles range all the way from nonchalant swagger lines in the latest boxy mode, suitable to the youthful and flattering full-length reefer.

Fingertip Swagger

The good looking little coat, left, is in a summer-weight wool and mohair fleece in a fingertip swagger model. It is snowy white, and is designed to slip on over dressy and sports costumes with equal ease and usefulness. Two large, contrasting buttons adorn the lapels.

A cape is often the answer to that casual wrap. Some of the smartest suits of the season are cape suits.

Plaid and plain wool are combined very nicely in the cape costume shown. The cape is in lightweight tweed in navy blue plaided with white. Its shoulders are squared, and the little stand-up collar fastens with a metal clasp at the throat.

The spectator sport suit which is now a navy shetland wool tweed, with a cutaway-front jacket fastened with metal ball buttons.

Coats Varied

The casual type of coat is more than usually varied this season. Full-length topcoats, fitted or semi-fitted, are handsome in monotone or novelty wool tweed in lovely warm colors.

Plaided tweeds are also good, and fine twill flannels, famous for their fine tailoring qualities, make many of the smartest and most practical of the casual coats.

APPLE DUMPLINGS MADE BY FAIRY RECIPE ARE DESSERT

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Cold Sliced Roast
Hashed Brown Potatoes
Creamed Carrots and Peas
Lettuce and Green Onion Salad
Snow White's Apple Dumplings

You have all been to see the lovely picture, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," I know. So when some recipes drifted into my desk labeled "Snow White" delicacies, I couldn't resist looking them over and trying them.

Today's Recipes

SNOW WHITE'S APPLE DUMPLINGS—One and one-third cups sifted flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup milk, one tablespoon butter, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-third cup pure vegetable shortening, four tart apples pared and cored, one-fourth cup brown sugar. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and cut in the shortening. Add milk and mix to a soft dough. Turn the dough out on a floured board and roll into about a 12-inch square. Then cut the square into fours, placing a pared and cored apple in each. Cream the butter and brown sugar and place in the apples. Bring the four corners of the dough together on top of the apple and press the edges together. Brush with milk. Place in greased pan and bake in hot oven for about half hour. Serve with cream. This recipe serves four, although Snow White undoubtedly doubled it.

SNOW WHITE'S PIE CRUST—Two and one-half cups sifted flour, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup vegetable shortening, five tablespoons water (ice cold better). Sift flour and salt together. Add half of the shortening to the flour. Cut in the shortening until the mixture looks like meal. Add remaining shortening and continue cutting until the particles are the size of a bean. Sprinkle the water, a tablespoon at a time, over the mixture. Work lightly together with a fork until all the particles are moistened and in small lumps. Add just enough water to moisten. Press dampened particles together into a ball. Do not handle the dough any more than is absolutely necessary. This recipe makes one two-crust pie. In rolling the dough, do it gently, rolling outward from one edge to the opposite and back again. Be sure that the dough is uniformly thin. Be sure that the board is always well covered with flour. Never turn the dough while rolling it. For the lower crust, roll the dough about two and a half inches larger than the pie tin. Fit the dough into the pie tin and let it stand for a few minutes. Pat it with a large piece of dough to be sure all the air is out, occasionally dipping the dough piece in flour. Trim the crust. Adjust the top crust over the filling and fold it under the lower one. Seal the edges firmly with the tines of a fork to keep in the juices.

Housewives Must Be Lovely

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

NOWADAYS it is compulsory for all our wives and mothers to look well groomed, neat and attractive. It isn't just a question of keeping up with the Joneses. It has really become a part of our standard of living.

Susan Hayward
Has type of figure you want to acquire

That doesn't mean that you haven't just got as much housework to do or that you don't have to mind the children, cook and sew. It simply means that you've got another duty also, and that duty is to yourself. You probably are saying, "That's all very well, but where will I get the time?"

No doubt you have surmised that old notion about "woman's work is never done" many times, and no matter how devoted you are to your husband and children, there must have been a time when you couldn't help feeling just the least little bit put upon. But remember that other duty—the one you owe yourself, and take some time off to improve yourself. The minute you make up your mind that you aren't wasting valuable time, you'll get a lift in all the spirit and pep you'll forget all about being put upon. Those extra few minutes spent on beauty will make you happy about yourself and will win compliments from the whole family. A cheerful mother will make a happy family, so it is really an investment in happiness.

Now the question is where are you going to get the time? A housekeeping expert that we know says that any modern woman can get all her work done in 67 hours a week. The trick is to make yourself keep hours. Do just as your husband does about his office and the kids do about school. If you go about your job as systematically as your husband does you'll find that you really do have plenty of extra time for yourself.

Here is the routine that she worked out, and she claims that during your working hours you will have extra time on your schedule for little added jobs, like knitting, making a favorite dessert or doing a bit of gardening.

Mrs. Smith's Routine

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday you rise at seven o'clock and work until 2 p. m. From 2 to 3 you prepare, serve and clear away the evening meal. It is best to decide on certain days for special jobs. For instance, a good brisk cleaning on Monday and Friday. On Tuesday mending and sewing daughter's dresses and son's shirt's. Wednesday clean the silver. Thursday can be wash day for your personal things as well as those of little sister and sonny. On Saturday you rise at 8 o'clock and work until 2 p. m. with an hour's allowance for church. Most of your work on Sunday will be cooking the Sunday dinner, so your work for that morning will really be about five hours. Then you spend two hours in preparing and clearing away supper and making advance preparations for Monday's breakfast.

1938 SUMMER GIRL MUST BE ENSEMBLED

By Central Press

FROM TIP to toe the 1938 summer girl is ensembled.

One of the perfect summer ensembles is pictured and consists of a dress with eyelet embroidery. It is styled on that "basic" dress idea, so as to make it the background for "basic" or other colored jewelry and the other accessories so dear to the feminine heart.

In this case a plaster hat trimmed with bows of ribbon and flower sprays has been chosen; a Monet necklace and bracelet in shiny white and gold, while a patent leather bag with sharp angular and shiny chiseled monogram initials on it, also in gold, complete the effect.

I wonder if you've noticed that at least every other woman has a monogrammed bag this season.

Style Whimsies

Something new and decidedly chic are the colorful canes and boots dyed to match evening gowns.

The increasing interest in sapphire blues is reflected in softly vivid fabric bags of this shade.

Small embroideries, such as French knots and tiny lacings of leather decorate the new summer gloves.

COUPLE WANTS OWN HOME BUT FEARS TO HURT PARENTS

By VIRGINIA LEE

BONNIE AND her husband live with her people who are very lovely to them. When the younger couple were first married they were not well off and the doubling up was necessary for them.

Now, however, they could run an establishment of their own, or at least pay something toward their own keep in Bonnie's parents' home, but the husband isn't at all anxious to contribute toward their living expenses, but he has several times mentioned setting a place of their own.

Bonnie has felt that if they continue to live with her father and mother they should help with expenses, and, in time, when her people are old, take over the house and take care of them.

This house belonging to the wife's parents does not apparently seem like home to the husband, and Bonnie herself confesses she doesn't take much interest in housekeeping in her childhood home. Her parents act them, however, if she mentions leaving them. They do not feel free to invite their young friends to come to see them or act as if it was their own home.

You married your husband, you know, Bonnie, and promised to "leave all others and cleave only unto him", and it seems to me that you owe him a home of his own. Of course your parents will miss you very much, but after all, that is what parents have to expect when their children marry. They have to "lose" them to a certain extent. It is right and natural, and they should not let themselves be hurt.

I think you should have a good talk with your mother and father, tell them frankly that your husband wants his own home and that you do too, and that you feel you should have it. They will not be selfish about it, I am sure, even if there is a bit of hurt at first. Every married woman wants her own things and her own home, no matter how small and poor—to make a place for her husband, and maybe babies by and by.

As for the other matter, that of taking care of your folk when they are old, that will be a problem to solve when it comes. Don't try to shoulder that burden now. It is what you feel is best for your husband and yourself.

If you continue to stay with your parents, I think you and your husband certainly should pay your share of the expenses. That is only a fair and self-respecting way to do.

ENNA M. P.: Sorry about your letter concerning your party. You should have sent it to the society editor. As it is, it reached me too late to have it printed before the parties.

Improve Shoulder Posture

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND
Carries her shoulders beautifully

By HELEN [illegible]

BODICES of evening robes are a sharp-rated device for leading up full, billowing skirts. That means that one must be shoulder wise. Shouldering a beautiful gown requires good posture and plenty of "swish". It might be well to take a survey of your shoulders to see if they stand up or if they fall down.

Unless the shoulders are carried beautifully, the set of the head will be awkward. Yes, my friends, it is a fine thing to carry one's head beautifully. It is the making of the silhouette, gives one a distinguished air, sets one apart from the slouchy girls who pay all the attention in the world to appearance but give never a thought to posture.

Shoulders should not fall forward. When that happens the spine caves in, the upper portion of the back rounds out, which is exactly the opposite of what it should do. Keep the chest lifted, have a neat tip in at the back of the waist, let shoulders and arms fall easily and naturally. There will be no display of collar bones. One has to have them, but nobody should know it.

Detroit Hurler Scores Seventh Straight; War Admiral In Surburban

Vernon Kennedy 'Cast Off' Hurler by Chicago White Sox Defeats Old Team Mates 5-2

Detroit Pitcher Has Now Run String to Seven Straight

DYKES UNHAPPY

Cincinnati Wins First Night Game Defeating Cards 2-1

By SID FEDER

Jimmy Dykes hit his big black cigar clean in half, threw both ends out past first base, and mumbled to himself: "I'll get that Cochrane guy yet, even if I have to kidnap his saxophone."

Vernon Kennedy, the pitcher Timmy "cast off" last winter, had just stopped Dykes' Chicago White Sox with six hits for his seventh straight win. And over in the victorious Detroit "tigers' dugout, Mickey Cochrane, Dykes' pal and ally-American goat-getter, might have been snickering up his sleeve.

It was just adding insult to injury — pouring salt in Dykes' wounds. Here he not only had to sit around and watch Gerry Walker's auntie, but he had to take Cochrane's ribbing over the very deal for which everybody was slapping Dykes on the back at Christmas time. It was too much.

The story starts, of course, in the days when Mickey and Jimmy, then managers for rival A.L. Athletics, were traded to the Tigers and White Sox, respectively. Cochrane, as manager of his new club, and since then each has been trying to get the other's goat.

Engineered Deal.

Last December Jimmy engineered a player deal that sent him his Ace Southpaw Pitcher Kennedy, outfielder Dixie Walker and Infielder Jimmy Pofahl to Mickey's team. In return, Outfielder Gerry Walker, Third Baseman Marv Owen and Rookie Catcher Mike Tresh came to the White Sox from Detroit.

Immediately Detroit fandom was up in arms. While Jimmy was getting congratulations all over the place for getting the best of his No. 1 neighbor the Detroit fans threatened Mickey with boycotts, sit-down strikes, everything short of re-meeting the dark alley scene that night.

Came the first and the developments of the first six weeks, and so far Cochrane has done the gloating. Gerry Walker is hitting a mere .266, Marv Owen is .233 for the White Sox and Marv Owen is .233 for the Tigers, while Dixie Walker, who had been called "brittle", has played in all of the Tigers' games and has compiled a respectable .309 average.

The big thorn in Jimmy's side, however, has been Kennedy. All however, has been Kennedy. All Vernon has done so far is win seven straight, and he has yet to taste defeat. When he whipped the Sox yesterday, holding the Tigers to a 5-2 victory with the aid of Hank Greenberg's seventh home run, Kennedy was all Jimmy was fit to be tied.

Tigers Now Fifth.

The victory hoisted the Tigers into fifth place in the American League over the White Sox. It was the only Junior circuit game that got by old man weather.

In the National League, two contests escaped the rain. Bill Lee pitched a sit-hit shutout, his second in two weeks, and Gabby Hartnett slammed a three-run homer to hand the Chicago Cubs a 5-0 win over Pittsburgh's revamped, but not improved, Pirates. The victory boosted the Cubs to within two games of the league-leading New York Giants.

Cincinnati entertained the first night game of the season with fireworks, a band concert, and a classy pitchers' battle between the Reds and St. Louis Cardinals. Johnny Vandermeer and the Reds finally bested Pitcher McGee 2-1 in ten innings. The opening run came across on doubles by Spud Davis and Harry Craft. Vandermeer hurled a five-hitter and fanned ten.

Number 28

worthy of more than passing attention. Obviously, the first thing to do is to look to their combat Shoes and socks figure strongly in this matter of comfort. Most play-ers wear thin socks with street shoes. The lighter sock may be practical for the small amount of walking a business man does during the day, but when it comes to sleuthing off four or five miles on a golf course, something more substantial is the way of hose is needed.

I attribute much of the absence of trouble with my feet to the fact that I always wear woollen socks of more than medium weight, and the rougher the going, the heavier the socks. At times I have worn a light cotton sock inside the woollen socks for extra protection and comfort.

Most golf shoes allow for the wearing of heavier socks so that a trial does not necessarily call for the purchase of new shoes.

Take Care of Your Feet

Feet! The last things the average player thinks about. In fact, I've known many players who actually give them a thought until they get tired or sore. And yet they play more important part in the game, for no player can be any better than his feet. By this I mean that the rest of his swing can be any better than his foot action.

PASCH FAVORITE FOR EPSOM DERBY

Epsom, England, May 28 (CP)—Ten favorites only have won the derby in the past thirty years, but Pasch, a colt who has run but two races in his life is a strong public choice and will go to the post weighted with general confidence when the classic is run for the 159th time over the rolling Surrey heath on June 1.

Twenty-three other candidates for the big race rate little better than ten to one. They represent the great stables of the land and approach perfection in breeding.

Pasch is magnificently bred. His sire, Blanford, stood for four of the last nine derby winners—Bahram, Windsor Lad, Blenheim, and Trigo. His dam is Pasch herself by Hurry Kelly, sire of Mahmoud, who ran away by Pilliewla, another winner of the classic. Pasch, who have a pedigree as equally impressive.

Pasch stands at the short odds of two to one. As a two-year-old he was prevented from racing by an injury. This year he won one minor race and then triumphed in the two thousand guinea, first of three 5-4 classics open to colts.

Gordon Richards, greatest of modern English jockeys, will be in the saddle.

CLOTHIERS HAND NAPANEE LOSS

Harold Dracup curled Swell Ball For The Winners

When the Booth and McCrae entry into the Belleville and District Softball League handed the Napanee "Mic Mac" an 11 to 2 reverse at the Coleman Flats diamond last evening, all local clubs in the loop have at least one victory in their first week of league competition.

A four run splurge in the fourth frame give the local "clothiers" a distinct advantage, although Coach Hank Ryan's line played smart ball and well earned their victory. Some clever fielding was noted by both squads with Gerald Stinson, the winners' shortstop, starring defensively for the local. Sensational running catches of line drives coming from the bats of Napanee's centrafielder, Harold Dracup ascended the mound for the Booth and McCrae nine and turned four-hit ball. Dave Stinson getting three safeties, for Napanee and G. Curry the other, a circuit blow in the fifth when Curry went to the limit. Booth and McCrae team pounded the offerings of Ronbow, Napanee's hurler, for a total of eleven hits, Jenkinson, Riggs, Elliott, Mansfield and Dracup each connecting for two. Two of safeties, while Lunberg hit for the circuit with none on in the ninth. The locals collected sixteen hits in all.

Ronbow whiffed three Belleville batters to lead the equal number while Dracup struck out eight, while Napanee fanned in order in the second frame. Dracup's control was exceptional as he only passed one batter in the four-ball route. The next scheduled game at the Coleman Flats diamond is on Monday night when the league leading Point Anne "tenacious" nine and Bayside-Point-Aalmaa Juniors.

WAR ADMIRAL IS TOP WEIGHTED

Pompoon Will Provide Stiffest Opposition in Suburban

New York, May 28 (AP)—Packing the heaviest weight of his three years of racing, Samuel B. Riddle's War Admiral goes to the post in the $25,000 suburban handicap today in a test that may be even more severe than his cancelled match race against Seabiscuit might have been.

The Admiral was given 132 pounds to carry over the 1½ mile of the suburban. That's two pounds more than he ever has had before in a race.

Jerome H. Luchheim's Pompoon, which chased the triple-crown winner home in most of his important races last year, is expected to furnish most of the opposition. In at 128 pounds Pompoon may give the Admiral a real run for his money.

WINGS MOVING AT RAPID PACE

Hard on The Heels of League-Leading Newark Bears

Rochester Red Wings, who have been moving at a rapid pace the past few weeks, are hard on the heels of the league-leading Newark Bears today and a good share of the credit goes to Rookie Sam Narron.

The 25-year-old catcher, who came up from Asheville of the Piedmont League, has been powdering the ball at a .397 clip in the Red Wings' drive from seventh to second place in less than three weeks.

Narron has moved out four hits in six tries last night when the Wings trounced Buffalo Bisons 14 to 4, and moved within 2½ games of the idle Bears who were rained out of their game with Baltimore Orioles. The Montreal-Toronto game was moved up to make a Sunday doubleheader.

Syracuse Chiefs took their third straight victory by defeating Jersey City Giants 10-5. The Chiefs scored five runs on two hits in the third inning and that meant the ball game, as Ted Kleinhans settled down to hold the Jerseyites scoreless after the second inning.

Edmonton Grads Win

Edmonton, May 27—(CP)—Victory over Cleveland Playhouse Goods here tonight clinched the title for Edmonton Grads their second straight Canadian-American basketball championship. The Underwood International Women's Basketball Trophy they have held since 1933.

Grads whipped Cleveland 53-24 last night in the second game of best-of-five series. They won the first 61-38 and need but one more victory to annex the three-straight triumph they scored early this month over Chicago All-Stars.

Banging the ball with great and potent frequency is Hal Trosky, first baseman for Cleveland Indians and one of the reasons for the fading pace at the top of the standings. Hal has maintained a batting pace of the .380 mark so far this season.

COMMENT FROM THE COACH

Reduce Angled Returns By Using Centre Theory

By Lloyd A. Percival

Today we take another look at tennis and discuss the centre theory and add a few hints concerning general play.

The centre theory is part of the theory of angles and is considered by many experts the best style of game. The idea in a nutshell is that by hitting your shots down the centre of the court you reduce the angle and chance of the return shot to the minimum. In doing this you have only an equal portion of the court on either side to cover and there is less chance of being drawn out of position. If you hit down the centre it is practically impossible for your opponent to use cross-court shots, always the hardest to get. If you use the centre theory the percentage of clean placements, scored against you will decrease.

Tie It For Attack

A good plan to follow is to use this theory when your opponent returns a set-up, a for your angle shots. In waiting for your opportunity use this style and cut down your opponents' opportunities. That is the centre theory.

By playing to the centre a player can get a big advantage. There are times when it is fruitless to use your energy. For example, if and finesse when the score is 15-love in the first set, don't tear after shots you have only a slim chance of getting. If you are leading 40-30, to win the point will give you the game; to lose the point will give your opponent a loss of a point will not put you in the position to have to play so that the odds will be in your favor. In the final games of a long match, however, play to win the point in the safest possible manner.

Use Lobbers Deep

If your opponent takes a strong forehand drive, the ball deep to the centre of his court and avoid short returns to his forehand side. Deep lobs will blast the shot across court to leave you flat. Also lobbing to an opponent's weak point, keep your shots at his feet or below the height of the net, he will not be able to do much with them, unless you are master of the angle shot—

No diving triumph over the world's best thrilled Georgia College man as much as her recent victory over Infantile paralysis. Sweetheart Sue Eden with the dread malady after walking off with national, world and Olympic diving titles, Georgia Tech regard a steady ball battler and is shown as she passed another milestone in her fight for recovery by her crutches after her first steps without their aid at a benefit show staged in Los Angeles.

KINGSTON LOCOS COMING TUESDAY

Bay of Quinte League Will Open Season on That Date

Supplemented with six former C.O.B.A. stars, the Kingston "Locos" will open the Bay of Quinte League with a twilight fixture with the Belleville "Orfuns" at the Fair Grounds on Tuesday evening. Postponement will wrought havoc even with the fighters weighing in at 147 pounds. Promoter Jacobs postponed the fight until Tuesday, when Jack Arnold, manager of the Capitol Theatre, today informed us he would get the services of the Ross-Armstrong fight as soon as they are released from the hooking office.

The Recreation Alleys Major Bowling League held its annual post-season banquet and election of officers recently, during which some interesting items, as to the betterment and advancement of bowling was brought forth by President Les Shields and also William Knowles, former head of the Kingston bowlers. The major leaguers were advised to include all bowlers in a team in a two-man group, preferably known as a Mercantile loop, with the owner and public alike being given a substantial handicap when they meet the major league teams in competition. Just how this practice would appeal to the major bowlers is problematic but in the matter of the Major League alleys, we have been informed the practice of "packed teams" is one of the major problems facing the loop. Of course all we know pertaining to the matter is what is related to us by the current under-dog bowlers.

From this corner it would seem the paramount ailment to bowling in Belleville is the perfect setup of "packed teams." If the bowlers would get their heads together and allow only two top bowlers, whose average is well over 200, to a team and, with improvement, these with bowlers of a lower flight, no doubt an increase in interest would result and better bowling would be seen all around. Some of the better bowlers in Belleville there are only about 15 or so really top-notch trundlers today in Belleville. If these bowlers would condescend to mingle and mix with the duffer bowlers, who may not at present be their equals, we feel the latter would, in time, be bowlers, teaming with those not quite as good will ultimately raise the quality and calibre of the so-called 'under-dogs' of today. It is a well known fact, that in all lines of sport, a player will rise to greater heights when playing with better class players throughout.

Another suggestion we have been hearing the city wail and after interesting as many bowlers as possible before next November dawns, put the names of the players into a hat and draw the teams season out. Of course; here again one team might draw five real "dogs" to battle, which would in no way alleviate the situation any. We have understand the old Central Ontario Bowling League, comprising Peterboro, Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough and Bethesda will be revived again this season, which is another reason why Belleville bowling should look to its future laurels on the alleys. Belleville having been the host to C. O. B. A. champions.

That old familiar cry of "Play Ball" will again be heard at the Belleville Fair Grounds on Tuesday night, when the Bay of Quinte League will make its second attempt at a 1938 debut with the Kingston "Locos" meeting the Belleville intermediates. Manager Bud Wilkins pruned to hurl for the West bay "Orfuns" and will have the homesters with either Sonny Thompson or Ted Hutchinson in the receiving end. The local squad held an extensive workout last evening, nearly their total flight being on hand and will continue on Monday in preparation for their initial game of Tuesday. Incidentally don't forget to advance your ticket purchases a full hour tonight, or you'll be either late for church or even for Tuesday night's ball game.

Credit Dizzy Dean with the smart one of the week. There are three men in base and the next batter hits a home run: not a man scores how come asked Diz of the astute gang. Then all gave up in despair. "Why it was a gride" ardball game" replied Dean, as he strutted nonchalantly away.

Note that all local teams in the Belleville Softball loop have registered at least one victory and are consequently well placed in the league standing, the boys can get down to some serious scrapping for the remainder of the season. That 30 to 1 shellacking we took last night was only a spring tonic, watch us get the next time around. Coach Hank Ryan recently and his Booth-McCrae nine have added two last night, as the Napanee nine is no team of softies.

HODGE PODGE..."Well done Sandy Somerville", all are saying today.. Naturally we would have liked to have seen Somerville win the British amateur golf title, but what a fine showing anyhow.... That man's in again—there re rumours to the effect that Mike Rath is being mentioned as manager of the Brooklyn baseball club of Burleigh Grimes .... Brooklyn seems a tough spot to manage, even for Casey Stengel? Well, new it's Grimes for the grinding .... Speaking of baseball the fans to the south of us and the annual 500 mile automobile race at Indianapolis.

Miss Wilcox slightly unbent at this. She had never seen Mrs. Lockwood, she told Gloria, nor Mrs. Larkin; she had heard of the Reynolds.

"When Dr. Reynolds came after the last confinement took charge, he built himself a lovely little cottage right back of the manse," she said. "I think the trustees thought that the hospital should have been done first. Anyway, he's gone, and we have Dr. Bond here, now. Would you like to see Dr. Bond? I think it's her rest hour."

"Don't disturb her, please," thought they were going to tear all this down?"

"They were. But I believe—" Miss Wilcox coughed delicately. "I believe—Gloria, I'm sure you'll excuse me—"

"Is the house full?"

Mary Ann hesitated for the fraction of a second before answering. "Full, no," she said. "We have forty-one beds, but even when we opened. But now we've had quite a few, lately. Just now, I believe we've thirty-one patients."

"Thirty-one! But I thought the 'best' accommodations were to be for hundreds!"

"Well, no," the nurse said. "I believe we should have a hundred more or four; if we were full. That was Dad's idea. He always prided frankly, walking to the door with Gloria, "as an advertising manager, Gloria, I'm a bit of a survivor. Miss Bond—that's Dr. Bond's sister—is not; she's just not the office manager. In your case the men and women were all together, weren't they?"

"You mean they aren't now?"

"Oh, not at all! Not since Thompson's supper together.... Well, good-by!" the nurse said. "I guess things are pretty well changed since you were her. You're married, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"And have a— completely-gray-haired baby?" she asked, laughing.

Gloria her face was rather serious as she took the road home. Miss Kirwood's methods had been pretty unauthorized, but "matters of confinement" were not right for "her," Gloria, "and for Gloria's mess he rolled to be old." Suddenly her face was illuminated as Lotta tolling ahead of her up lane, pushing Jimmy's coach, gets quickened her pace.

She found Peter on the Baggley's lawn with Jimmy and his father. Tony's old deck chair sat under a sprawling oak; Gloria always knew it by sight. Jimmy's eyes were to the end of the lawn; and Peter, with tapping branches, was the softly moving surface of the water.

To look down at the water high trees is one of the delights of life," Gloria told Gloria. Jay shelved has its titanic compositions."

"It has its bad hours, too!" she added lightly, as she and Peter looked at her with narrowed eyes for a long moment.

The long exhilaration with which she had filled his changed life with starred and fell, even though he and Peter saw, Kitty told Gloria, only the accomplished fact of the bitter struggle that had accomplished it. He read incessantly.

On a specially construction tilted card he wrote letters for hours on end. Each hour of the day had its appointed task or amusement; in the late afternoon Gloria read from radio program that made his skin-scanned face twitch into laughter, and in the evening there was usually music. Best of all he had talk, idle talk.

As for Kitty, she was first, last and always Peter's perfect affectionately called her—"the world's most wonderful cook." She was an excellent cook, but meals were never on time; she frequently overlooked some essential ingredient, the salt or napping or even bread, but nothing ever spoiled. Mary Ann Reid had been her neighbor for months before she bothered to see in these deficiencies anything more than the whimsical behaviour of a wealthy, she received this; Kitty was a wretched housekeeper.

Gloria herself was a born manager. She was not here, Gloria felt, or, like a combination of an office and a yacht. Apart from normal cleanliness, sensibly handled by, tidied himself into the scheme with no trouble at all, Gloria left it to Kitty's family. That his young mother followed a strict regimen that the menus for the week were written without fail on Sunday nights; that she went to market only on Mondays and Fridays; that the cook was never late with that an unpaid bill was concerned a dismay to all. All she had to be general efficiency concerned itself with the baby, and with Peter, his silkings in the sun. Kept this schedule strictly, he gurgled, throbbed, grew bold and strong. "You're a smart woman, Glory," her father told her.

"You're the sort of daughter who makes an old man very proud."

"Am I?" Glory asked thoughtfully. Her life was to come very soon to Sausalito to spend Sunday with her beloved protagonist.

"And how are finances?" Dr. Hereford asked.

"Oh, we're rolling in money, Dad!" and Glory reminded him gratefully. "Jay's been a thrifty boy, we're on suddenly and confidentially. "Now that we have it, what have you done?"

"Now that you—" the doctor looked somewhat uncomfortable. "Do you mean, what have you?" he asked.

"I mean Dad, everything's running like a dream. Jimmy's a model boy, Peter's here to stay, this place is lovely, and I—I'm just no good at all."

Instead of answering her, her father looked at her thoughtfully.

"See what I mean, Dad?"

"You're like your grandmother," he said. "Always discontented."

"How am I?" Gloria asked, interested.

"Well, she was a woman of enormous energy, and was capable of always wanting to feel that if she had lived in this day my mother would have forty-one beds to fill somewhere."

"I think that's exactly what I'm trying to say, Dad. What am I doing with my money?"

"Home, husband, garden, baby, proud old dad—" he began, and he hundred.

Gloria took it up vigorously: "And I'm not doing any of them! I'm any time and practically none of them intelligent! I'm not even the rest of Jo Dad!"

"What do the other girls do?" Dr. Hereford asked. "Phyllis is in Europe, Alida's in Paris, Ruth's in Chicago; they go to Honolulu or they have a house in Pasadena, or some thing."

"Perhaps—" the man said, musing, and stopped.

"Perhaps what?"

"I think perhaps you rushed into this rather young, little girl."

"Married, you mean? It's almost twenty-one."

"Not marriage only. You were too girl at school. Then you broke loose from everything your own home and your own city. You got a job, and did well with it, too."

"Dad, see, well, I can't do with it now." Gloria said. "They didn't want me in authority." Gloria had managed that place to make any amount of money."

"Not quite like power, don't you? You grandmother loved power," Dr. Hereford said, musing. "Not like that."

She thought about it a moment. "Now I—everyone—"

"Well, no. Some people hate it. Peter, for example."

Gloria's bright eyes narrowed; her look was fixed on her father's face. "Peter doesn't do. No," she said, thinking; "I don't think Peter is interested in power. He's a born nurse, Dad, when a person isn't—"

"Isn't what?" he asked, and added, incidentally, "may not be placed in the right environment to bring out the finer line of work—he may later develop some special interest—"

"He was wonderful at first. Gloria said a little anxiously, as her father paused.

"But lately—they all like him. You know, but somehow— She hesitated. "Somehow the others get the promotions."

"I'm sorry that I could show much enthusiasm for the high-sounding types of banking—incorporation, that sort of thing," her father observed indifferently.

"No. But Peter never talks of wanting to try anything else. Still, I don't Peter I worry about." Gloria said, "but myself. There must be thousands of things I could do! And here I sit, saying, 'Did the bougainvillea come?' and 'Remind me of the safety pins,' and what good do I do?"

"Jimmy's little sister may come along one of these days and give you something else to do."

Gloria's eyes clouded. "Not while things are as they are now, I hope. You give me an allowance as big as Peter's salary and pay Lotta, too, and there were all those checks when we put him into the bank. That's not fair. We oughtn't to have another baby until Peter's taken some definite step forward, gone into business for himself, something like that. If it were in Boston, for instance, or in Baltimore, we could help him—you could always start this place, and then we'd have that money back, Dad." Gloria interrupted herself to say earnestly, "don't misunderstand me. I love this place. But I feel as if, in a few years, it might outlive its usefulness, and I outgrow it, you know. Do you see what I mean?"

"Not at all," he said, "I wonder if it isn't wiser to let these changes — these steps forward — come along of themselves? We can't see the future, whether it's dark or bright but we do have today and Jimmy and Peter about perfect for you, Glory. You have a young woman who's growing too young when Jimmy was born, and you have just how rich you were. These things have come to you too easily. Most, women who have to work for years, if they ask for marriage; they dream, perhaps for years, of the minute when they can have it all fallen into your lap ready-made. Don't try to make yourself time to ripen, Glory. Assimilate what you have. Hurry you are, a—what is it? twenty-two, with everything in the world to make you content."

"I'm not," Glory said seriously, after a moment. "You make me ashamed of myself, Dad, over to Sausalito to spend Sunday with the beloved protagonist.

"And how are finances?" Dr. Hereford asked.

"Oh, fine," she said.

"Now that you—" the doctor looked somewhat uncomfortable. "Do you mean, what have you?" he asked.

"I mean Dad, everything's running like a dream. Jimmy's a model boy, Peter's here to stay, this place is lovely, and I—I'm just no good at all."

Gloria's father was pleased to see, pleased as quickly as it had come, and she was dancing about Peter, who came in flushed and hot from a walk with Jimmy and almost asleep upon his shoulder.

At half past one lots announced luncheon. The soup was hot in Spode bowls, the Sunday chicken served on peasant plates gay with sunflowers and red daisies. Gloria had not eaten after the meal; the last vestige of it was presently gone; Peter and his father-in-law were playing Russian Bank beside the fire, Gloria, penciling lists lay on the couch. A soft rain fell audibly on the tiles of the roof.

"Mary Ann, you don't Monday. How I hate Mondays!" Peter said as she passed him.

Gloria sent a quick glance at her father to see if he had heard this. But the doctor was not looking at her; instead, he was smiling down at baby Mondays, too. I think every one does! I have two operations in this week, and a baby in the wrigle out of them. Never mind—I'll be there to order.

CHEQUE PROVES BLESSING IN TIME OF NEED

On Tuesday we received a letter from a young man who is in dire circumstances in an Ontario city. She acknowledged the receipt of the Family Welfare Plan $48.243 on the life of her father and said:

"I am very grateful for this wonderful cheque. My father and I work in the same office and I have never lost time otherwise. Having no home to keep us the financial end was sick for three weeks. There were doctors' bills, hospital and specialists' accounts. Had it not been for the Family Welfare Plan I would have been in debt for a long time. Now I am free from debt and have some money to make me feel independent. Thank you very much."

It is to those receiving medical insurance that the cause either means the loss of a breadwinner or makes it mean the difference between comfort and financial embarrassment and a heavy burden.

When choosing your life insurance company consider the 68 years record of the Canadian National Life Assurance Co. Any of our representatives, or Head Office will be glad to help you in selecting the right type of policy.

YOU CAN'T KNOW ALL YOUR FRIENDS

There are always people, whom you don't know, ready to say a good word for you. Maybe they have heard about you from someone else, or perhaps they just like your looks, or something you have said or done. The more you are in the public eye the harder it is to meet everyone of your well wishers personally.

Your business has the same problem—how to meet and keep its friends. You can never know them all, but you can cultivate their goodwill right in their own homes through the friendly columns of their daily newspaper.

Use the daily newspaper for your advertising. It has the confidence of the readers. It is an accepted part of their daily life. It can help, more than any other medium, to place your business in front of the public on the same footing.

AT THE BELLE

"Doctor Rhythm"

Your prescription to banish the blues and make yourself forty-twenty years younger is furnished by Doctor Rhythm" in the Paramount picture now on the Belle screen, starring Bing Crosby and Beatrice Lillie. For Dr. Rhythm's new musical comedy that should make history.

Croon-conditioned as only Bing knows how to make it, and petite "Doctor Rhythm" is the screen debut of one of Britain's most popular tales, directed by Hollywood's master of frivolous screen romance, Frank Tuttle. Who was responsible for "Waikiki Wedding" and "Doctor Rhythm"? For Dr. Rhythm's prescription he selected an all-star cast headed by Mary Carlisle, Laura Hope Crews, Andy Devine, Frank Elliott, Bill Austin and Rufe Davis and the ever-lovely Bing.

Bing's enjoyment is second only to Doctor Rhythm's, for as personality Dr. Rhythm's the Paramount Pied Piper who safely first showed up in favor to the "Devine Andy", who has been put hors de combat by a bad case of Hay Fever. Newly cast in the Central Park Zoo, Bing's first assignment is to woo, persuade and hypnotized to the madcap Miss Lillie, who convinces this policeman's lot is not a happy one, but when she turns him over to her niece Carlisle, the spell of this love and duty ask perfectly.

Romance travels a rough road for Bing must not only lead Miss Carlisle away from her fiancee, Dr. Jack Sanpsirr, Fred Keating, but also must protect her from his self. Miss Lillie's disastrous attentions to carry her off on his yacht. Bing's efforts to keep the girl free to contribute to the gaiety of "Doctor Rhythm." In the opening scene of the picture, Dr. Zoo, giraffes, Zebras, seals, monkeys and the like all enter prominently into the spirit of the occasion. Miss Lillie is in her element when these animals cut rule supreme over the English and American stage, and in one scene does her "dinner napkin" routine which has become almost as famous as her "tea pot" in Gielgsburg address.

"Doctor Rhythm" is a musical comedy as tuneful as "Rhythm on the Range", as laugh-filled as "Belle Loves Joe Lewis." Don't miss it.

Another feature of the picture is a clever cartoon and the Belle Latest Paramount News.

GIVEN TWO YEARS

Coincidence

By DONALD BURNS

"And I'll never speak to you again" concluded Sally, to which John thundered "Fine!" and went his way.

This was the conclusion of one of those little entanglements that announces begin as lovers' quarrels. They had just attended such a social happens. When they came to think it over neither of them could tell just exactly how it started or just what they had been quarreling about. Each was sure that the other had been in the wrong.

Why two people so sincerely in love with each other as Sally Keyts and John Harris should quarrel over this absurd manner is hard to say.

Of course Sally and John were very miserable after they had thus parted in anger. And just how objectionable were, too, you can imagine—how determined each was that the other should speak first. That there was to be no more speaking between them did not enter the heads of either party to the disturbance.

Sally and John were two obstinate young people. The fact that they were very much in love with each other predicated the final yielding of one of them. Unfortunately the other generate things that Sally did in the disturbance of mind caused her quarrel with John was to buy a small car—or rather she prevailed her father to buy one for her—and to drive, after a fashion.

In this stage of the game came Dick Lee. He and Sally were old schoolmates, and Dick, seeing her gave him rides in her car. And Sally, with the true feminine skill that he was willing to risk life and limb for the privilege of sitting beside her while she did weird things with the steering wheel. In fact, before long Sally figured that seeing Dick ensconced in the car was her side would make jealous.

As a matter of fact, it did make John jealous enough to start in recognizing Dick's peril, he did not go so far as to let what happened to him. He hoped, however, that, in the impending smashup, whenever it took place, Sally would be the one not be hurt. Yes, he told himself, in spite of the manner in which she had treated him, he sincerely hoped she would escape unhurt. If Dick Lee only knew anything about driving a machine, he thought, it would be a matter of fact that he would have worried so much. But Dick did not know it, and many of the times Dick been the best driver in the John would have been grievously disturbed at seeing him in the car with Sally. John had a car of his own in which he took other girls for he and Sally had had many long and pleasant rides together.

Sometimes it seemed to John as if every noise its engine made was impending error and he broke again. "Sally, Sally," one day, John came rolling along in his sedan, on an unfrequented highway, and saw the sight of Sally's car prone in the tress. Something had gone wrong with it, and Dick and its fair owner were bending over vainly trying to get it right. John hesitated, stopped, got out and addressing Dick, said, "What's the matter?"

Sally heard her back and gazed at the distant horizon while Dick answered: "I don't know, the blamed thing went to somehow." John discovered at once what was the matter, for a few things to the mechanism of the car and had it working in a few minutes. He entered his own machine and drove off, never once looking back at Sally. Sally was very disappointed to see that John had not attempted to speak to her. All the way home she berated poor Dick for his ignorance of automobiles and his general inefficiency. And she seemed thoroughly frightened.

Supper Jack would never speak to her—not even if she spoke first! So to quiet this sudden fear Dick invited her to the invited Dick out riding the next day.

As John sat in the mirror he spotted Sally's roadster and it certainly was in a small mood. In a split second it evinced a disposition to climb telephone poles, fences and otherwise display an exuberance of spirits quite inconsistent with the sad fact that it was. When John reached it, the rueful Sally and Dick were in the midst of successful attempt to jump the ditch, from the highway over a neighboring fence and Sally crawled in a damaged condition from behind the wheel.

"Oh, John!" "Oh, Sally!" they cried almost simultaneously.

If there was something more than just accidental about the whole thing—that is if Sally were a bad Jack would never speak, and Jack was afraid that Sally would have a week and Dick was pretty helpless, and besides good looking—at least they never spoke about it. But they did assumed it was pure coincidence that both happened the same road.

Every day say in Jonesville that Dick Lee never again went riding with a girl either.

CLAIM MEN HAVE $1,000 IN GOODS

Brockville, Ont., May 28 (CP)—Alleged to have broken into a service station on Hillis's Corner, Grenville County, last April, 11 men giving their names as Lucien Dery and Daniel Ortignet, both of Shawinigan Falls, Que., were arraigned on the statistics of Prescott early today by Provincial Constables A. MacLeod and C. Johns of that town. They were found to have goods to the value of approximately $1,000, thought to have been stolen in their possession. The two men are being brought here for preliminary hearing in Magistrate's Court.

The Adventuress

By JEAN KAY LANDERS

And Tom Caldwell stood swaying in an uptown subway, a rather pretty girl caught his eye, immediately rose and stepped toward him.

"Tom!" she exclaimed.

Tom gazed upon her coolly. He had never seen her before. "I beg your pardon, you take me to lunch, Tom," she went on lightly.

Tom felt his arm quite naturally as they made their exit into the bright lights ahead.

"Where," said Tom, stalling for time, "shall we go?"

"Let's drop in on Dixie Dean. Haven't been there in ages," the girl answered. "Last time I saw her," she continued conversationally, "Dixie said in that Southern drawl of hers, 'Law child! I'm goin' to have a heart attack if Tom Trainor. You ah heah more than Ah, am!"

Tom wondered who Dora Trainor could be. Had he met her at a party? He thought not. Consciously or unconsciously she had supplied her name and she was thankful. Girls of this type did not go out with a stranger and even though they have been quite prominently photographed as one of the season's debutantes in New York. Yale was proud of Tom.

They had left into the restaurant. Two or three men seemed on the verge of speaking to her but on seeing no signs of recognition and they took the apparently deliberate cue from Tom. Tom suddenly became suspicious. What if the girl was the decoy for a gang of crooks or blackmailers? Tom suddenly remembered the roll in his hip pocket. His throat began to throb with excitement. Dixie Dean indeed! And he was penniless and full of confidence. This exhilarating mood was the final clue of Tom. If this girl thought she could snare him with her smartness, she'd have another thing coming.

After lunch the girl said, quietly, "I want you to help me call a cab."

Resistantly he called a cab, realizing that he might be plunging into danger. She gave the address to help her blow a bank. But the address she gave was not in the financial district. It was Park Avenue, where she ordered the taxi to stop in front of a private house.

"Wh—what are we going to do here?" asked Tom.

"Just follow me," she commanded. She had the loveliest smile, framed by eyes that became indescribable just when you thought they were listening. "We're going into the rear of this house."

They passed along a dark narrow hall and up a flight of stairs to the main floor. The girl led Tom through the bedroom, through another hall and emerged into a large living room together.

Tom presumed she was headed. But the library wall he nodded to take matters and her into his own hands and call the police.

But the woman suddenly came from the library.

"Why, Dora, Dora? I thought you were coming home for lunch," the girl nodded Tom into the room with her and stood facing the woman.

"I am out with Tom Caldwell mother," she explained casually.

Tom's face fell. Surely the woman addressed Tom with interest. Tom's face fell very well.

She chatted with him a bit and went upstairs.

Tom turned upon Dora.

"You little devil!"

Dora's sophistication melted. Her big eyes were round and innocent.

"Why, Tom, I never knew," she confessed. "I—I thought you were wonderful. But you didn't even look at me. All the way up on the subway I decided to mystify you a little—and you never saw it."

When Tom was leaving for New Haven on Monday morning, he passed a moment at the door and loosened something that was attached to his lapel.

"I want you to have my fraternity pin, Tom," Dora implored ardently.

"I would you send one your picture, too?" she asked shyly. "I'd love it, Tom."

"Sure —ill."

He kissed her quickly but satisfactorily and departed.

Dora wandered up to her gray room and looked at Tom's pin in her palm. She lightly dropped it into a small silver box, where she pressed fraternal among seven others.

On her dressing table were photographs of the football captains of Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth, Amherst, Dartmouth, Syracuse and Brown.

"Yale's coming, boys!" Dora told them impishly.

Captain of Bremen Asked to Appear Before Committee

New York, May 27 (AP)—Captain Adolf Ahrens of the German liner Bremen was suspended by Federal Agents to appear before a Grand Jury investigating the activities of passenger ships in the United States. The agents boarded the Bremen as it steamed into New York harbor. The president, it was indicated, wanted to talk to Captain Ahrens in connection with his refusal to put Dr. Ignatz Griebl, a United States spy inquiry witness off his ship at Cherbourg, France, recently in compliance with instructions from suspicion that he do so.

Dr. Griebl quietly left the United States without a passport shortly before the public beginning of the Grand Jury's investigation.

Turning to Stone

With only five years more of life allowed him by physicians, 18-year-old Luther Hatcher, of Fort Worth, Texas, paunted and defied his doctors. They say his body is turning to stone, but Luther denies it. He is unable to sit down. He must either stand erect or lie down. Calcification of the tissues of his body is given as the cause of the ailment.

Giant Spearhead

As the Giants hang on to their lead in the National League they can give a large share of thanks to Mel Ott, veteran slugger, who guards third base since his switch there from the outfield last year. Mel is producing his annual crop of home runs and has been first or second in the league run-batting-in dept. all season.

Cubs' Hurler

A dependable, hard - working flinger for Chicago Cubs for the past four years, Bill Lee is maintaining a steady pace in the National leaguers' drive this year.

Indians' All-Star

Earl Averill is in his 10th year with Cleveland Indians and, like the rest of the team, is hitting on all fours as the 1938 edition of the Forest City club flashes pennant-winning form. The Earl is an all-star on anybody's team and with his .370 batting pace and fine fielding is earning that rating for another year.

Dissatisfaction with the slow progress being made in the war with China has caused a shake-up in the Japanese cabinet. The new cabinet is predominantly militaristic with General Kazushige Ugaki, top RIGHT, replacing Koki Hirota as foreign minister; General Sadao Araki, top LEFT, a former war minister, entered the cabinet as minister of finance and commerce, while Lieut.-General Seishiro Itagaki, LEFT, replaces General Hajime Sugayama as war minister.

Winners In Fort William Race

One of the oldest distance races on the continent, the Times-Journal 10 mile road race, staged every Victoria Day in Fort William and Port Arthur, was won this year by Toivo Leinonen, LEFT, of Port William, who led the field of seventeen across the finishing line after covering the distance in 56:59.8. Arne Riha, RIGHT, winner of the event last year and leader for three-quarters of this year's running was second, 15 seconds behind Leinonen. It was the 26th renewal of the race.

Ten Persons Meet Death as Airliner Bursts Into Flames

Ten persons, including seven passengers, met instant death when a huge airliner, flying from New York to Cleveland, fell flaming into a ravine 10 miles from its goal. Eyewitnesses stated that the airplane burst into flames shortly before it fell. Pilot James L. Brandon, INSET, who served in the Royal Canadian Air Force during the war, was in charge of the ill-fated ship. The wreckage of the ship which was found by rescue parties, is shown ABOVE, with mail bags strewn over the ground as the result of the crash.

Flogs Son

Despite the fact she believed her son innocent of the "crime" Mrs. Mary Bradley, administered a whipping to her 15-year-old son, Thomas, on instructions from a New York magistrate. The youth was found guilty of pulling the whistle cord of a subway train and the magistrate sentenced him to jail or a good whipping.

Canadian Twins Reunited after 27 Years

Ignorant of each other's existence until recently, 27-year-old twin sisters who had never met before, were united in New York through the efforts of cartoonist Robert Ripley. Here are the twins, Marjorie Gregg and Shirley Swinn, pictured with Ripley. The girls were born in Toronto in 1911, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw. The mother died in childbirth and the children were separated. One girl was adopted by the Swinn family, the other by Mr. and Mrs. John Gregg, of London, Ontario. Both took to nursing for careers. Shirley came to New York seeking a job and her likeness to her sister caused the supervisor at the clinic at which she was employed to tell her she looked like Miss Gregg. With this clue, and Ripley's aid, the girls were brought together.

CZECHS' DETERMINATION PREVENTS TROUBLE

Experts Work on Plans to Prohibit Massacre from Air

INTERNATIONAL PACT IS NEEDED STATES PREMIER

Britain's Views Expressed to Both Sides in Spain

MILITARY OBJECTIVES

George Lansbury Asks Question Which Chamberlain Does Not Answer

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 30—(CP Cable)—British experts are working out an international plan to prohibit the massacre of civilians from the air. Technical details are now being carefully considered.

"What is desired," Prime Minister Chamberlain informed the House of Commons today, "is an international agreement. The matter gives rise to very great difficulties.

Workable Scheme

"From the practical point of view" Mr. Chamberlain replied, "it would be advantageous if we could find some workable scheme. That is what we are trying to do. Then we shall be in a position to invite other governments to consider it."

"The British government," the Prime Minister said, "have left no more than one occasion expressed to both sides in Spain their profound concern as the intensification of aerial bombardment, resulting in serious loss of life among the civilian population, and have drawn attention to the universally accepted principle that aerial bombardment of military objectives is alone permissible.

Lansbury's Question

George Lansbury, former Labor leader, asked if the British government considered that "neither side in Spain or China should take notice of protests against this sort of warfare, seeing that Britain and all the great powers are feverishly struggling to prepare for even worse and more cowardly outrages against the civilian population if war breaks out."

"I do not accept that view," Mr. Chamberlain warmly replied.

"Why?" Mr. Lansbury then demanded, "are we on Wednesday going to devote debate to air raid precautions when we know perfectly well that we are expecting to bomb any enemy with whom we get into war and they expect to bomb the civilian population."

The Prime Minister did not reply.

Chinese Warplanes Fly 2,500 Miles Round-Trip to Drop Leaflets for Japs

Tokyo, May 30—(AP)—Dispatches from Fukuoka tonight said two airplanes of unknown nationality had appeared over Sasebo, westernmost of the islands of Japan proper. Western air defence headquarters issued an air raid warning.

Kyushu was visited early this morning of May 29 by two Chinese warplanes which made a 2,500-mile round-trip from Hankow to drop leaflets instead of bombs on the area around Nagasaki, Kyushu port, and Sasebo, naval base from which Japanese warships usually set out for China waters.

Fukuoka is at the northwestern tip of Kyushu, 800 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Tonight's air raid warning was issued at 10:50 p.m. (9:50 p.m. E.S.T.). One Fukuoka source said the planes were over the island about 9 p.m.

PETERBORO GIRL IS SUN-STRUCK, FOUND IN WATER

Miss Margaret Kirby, 24, Discovered Two Hours After Accident

NO INQUEST

Believed by doctors to have been the victim of a sunstroke, the drowned body of Miss Margaret Kirby, twenty-four-year-old girl had been found in the Otonabee river at Peterboro, business girl, was found in the Mohs River a short distance from Marmora Station early Sunday afternoon.

Coroner Dr. S. Eagleson, Madoc, after investigating the circumstances surrounding the accident, declared that no inquest would be held. He expressed the opinion that the dead girl had been into the water after being concussions following a sunstroke. No water had been found in the lungs, he stated.

The body was discovered a few minutes before two o'clock by E. D. O'Connor, Marmora, Station, at the scene of the dead girl with whom she had been spending her vacation. Miss Kirby had left the boat been absent from his home since Saturday morning and alarmed at her non—appearance for the noonday meal, O'Connor instituted a search along the river bank she had been accustomed to frequenting.

Hurrying to her favorite spot on the bank that parallels the Canadian National Railway tracks at this point, he found the body of the girl lying face downward in two feet of water approximately three feet from the bank of the river. It had been in the water about one and one half hours, Dr. J. Crawford, Marmora Station, physician who examined the body shortly after its discovery stated.

Intensive artificial respiration methods failing, pulmotors were rushed from Belleville, but were of no effect, life was pronounced extinct by the examining physician.

BODY IS FOUND NEAR HIGHWAY

Badly Decomposed And as Yet Unidentified by

Guelph, Ont., May 30.— (CP)— Body of an unidentified man, believed to have been a transient, was found near a highway on the outskirts of Guelph yesterday. Police said a pair of trousers were wound tightly about the neck. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition.

The body was dressed in winter clothing. The cause of death of the body was found lying with the face upturned, the legs doubled underneath by A. E. Stockford and his son, Victor, in a thicket on their farm.

Dr. L. M. Start, coroner, said an inquest into the death of the man of item examination will be made.

HEADLESS BODY OF PETER LEVINE WASHED ON SHORE

Police Certain Boy Murdered And Body Thrown Into Water

WOMAN CALLS POLICE

By JOHN A. MOBOSO
Associated Press Staff Writer

New Rochelle, N.Y., May 30.—(AP)—Long search for kidnapped 12-year-old Peter Levine ended in grisly discovery this morning during which one clue after another came to nothing—almost last night in the discovery of the boy's headless body on the grassy island beneath the Hutchinson River Parkway.

Ransom notes had been found and answered; Murray Levine, the father, had been arrested to pay $30,000.

Woman Makes Discovery

There was no conclusive answer from the skeptical police, and the case of missing Peter Levine had been all but forgotten until, just after dusk last night, a woman phoned the police: "There's a body out here!"

They found, in what was left of Peter Levine—a wire-bound torso and thighs, a pathetic, patched-sleeved sweater, a red windbreaker and a shirt, with the name "Peter Levine" stitched on it, to make the identification certain. The body and some ashore on an estate bordering the Sound not far from the boy's home.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester County medical examiner, said it would be almost impossible to tell whether the boy had died from drowning—knife, blow or drowning—but added that his preliminary examination indicated the boy had been slain and his body tossed into the Sound.

Dr. Squire and his assistants took every possible step to account. Dr. Robert Latemer, assistant city phy-

DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE IS LAID

With Reckless Driving

W. J. Gauthier, Gananoque, Also Charged With

Arrested on charges of drunken driving and also of reckless driving on Highway 2 near Gananoque, he is lodged in the Leeds County Jail, by Motorcycle Policeman J. C. Hatch, Kingston, late Saturday night following an accident on the highway in which a car driven by Mrs. Kaladar, which resulted in Gauthier's arrest and a second victim being badly damaged.

According to constable Hatch, Gauthier was proceeding east and failed to negotiate a sharp turn at the Gananoque cut-off, his motor car allegedly sideswiping another automobile, driven by Charles Parks, Gananoque. Both vehicles careened into the ditch, the Parks car being overturned, the top completely torn, dersneath by A. E. Stockford and his son, Victor, in a thicket on their farm.

Dr. L. M. Start, coroner, said an inquest into the death of the man of item examination will be made.

Man Enters Havergal College, Tries to Seize Girl Student

Toronto, May 30—(CP)—A man who entered Havergal College for Girls in North York Township, just outside the city limits, and according to police tried to seize a girl student, was being sought today.

Toronto police answered a call from the college last night and were informed that the girl was asleep in her bedroom when a man entered the house. Her screams aroused other girls while the girl herself beat off her assailant. He fled from the building.

"The girl told me that she was not molested," said Constable John Harrison of the North York Police. "They told me that the man made no attempt to harm her."

The officer found marks on the ground at the foot of an eaves-trough piping which indicated the man climbed the piping to break through the window. The girl, who is 14, awoke to find the man standing over her from the foot of the bed.

The girl described the intruder as tall, slim, partially bald and with a heavy growth of beard.

TORONTO MOTHERS IN STORK DERBY GIVEN $400,000

Millar Will Finally Adjudicated by Payment of Money

FOUR BENEFIT

Possibility Mothers Will Receive More When Estate Settled

Toronto, May 28—(CP)—Cheques for $12,500 were sent today to Mrs. Frances Kenny and Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke in settlement of their claims to a share of the $500,000 Charles Vance Millar stork derby estate, it was confirmed today.

While estate executors deferred making formal announcement of the payments, they said the cheques had been addressed to the two mothers who sought unsuccessfully in court to establish legal claim to part of the fortune.

The legal winners—Mrs. Kathleen Nagle, Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. Alice Tinnick and Mrs. Isabel McLean—each received a cheque for $100,000 as initial payment.

PARLIAMENT MAY CLOSE END MONTH

Legislation Coming to Give Gov't. Control of Bank of Canada

Ottawa, May 30 (CP)—With June only two days away parliamentarians the Capital wondered today whether the parliamentary merry-go-round could be stopped in time to end the session on schedule.

Most guesses are that Parliament will still be deserting Ottawa the end of June or early in July but they are decidedly only guesses.

Considering the heavy program Prime Minister Mackenzie King has mapped out for the House of Commons many believe the session will run well into July.

Mr. Mackenzie King informed the House yesterday he will introduce legislation to give the government complete control of the Bank of Canada. The government also will introduce measures to assist the construction of low-cost, low-rental housing and to provide for loans to municipalities for self-liquidating projects.

Expect Early Agreement

These alone will take time for consideration, as will the new flexibility a trade agreement with the United States will be reached in order for its publication at the same time as the budget speech Finance Minister Dunning says the budget is being delayed in the hope the country will be ready in time to embody the tariff changes in the budget.

Debate on public control of currency and credit is expected in the autumn when the Bank of Canada legislation is considered. The Bank of Canada is being given the second change in the ownership of the bank since its establishment in 1935.

The National Central Bank then was capitalized at $5,000,000 in 100,000 shares' of a par value of $50 which were sold to the public. After the Liberals took office in 1936 the government bought the majority shareholder with the issuance of an additional $5,000,000 in stock. The projected move will bring the shares in the hands of the public back into treasury, the government paying for them at the average price for which they have sold on the market during this year.

Missing Boy Found At Home of Relatives

Kingston, Ont., May 30.—(CP)—Missing from his home at Sharpot Lake since May 24, 15-year-old Wilbert Jarvis was found by police at the home of a relative in Kingston after the week-end.

When the boy disappeared a car owned by his employer, Mrs. Byron Hawley, was also found missing and it was thought that some men had taken the car and carried the boy away.

The lad however, was said to have told police he took the car himself, driving it to Toronto and Kingston and then to Sharbot Lake.

The boy said he had been in Kingston all week and that no one knew he was there when he left Sharbot Lake. He will be returned there.

SEES NAZI PLOT THRU RESIDENTS OF EMPIRE LANDS

Sunday Chronicle Says Hon. R. B. Bennett Has Discovered Plot Here

EMPIRE ACTION

Nazi Agents at Work Says London Newspaper

London, May 30—(CP-Havas)—The Sunday Chronicle, taking former Prime Minister Bennett's statement last week on the Nazi threat to the Dominion as its text, today warned that the movement has wide imperial ramifications and may present a danger to the solidarity of the empire.

Tom A. Reveley, leader of the Canadian Conservative party, has discovered a plot to Nazify Canada, the paper said. He has put the facts before the Dominion government and immediate inquiry has been ordered. Reports calling for urgent attention have also been made to other British Dominions.

The plan operates at work

"South Africa, Australia and New Zealand have been warned. The British government is being asked to take the matter up with Germany as a movement intended to endanger the solidarity of the empire.

"Sir Earle Page, Deputy Prime Minister of Australia, now Lord Halifax, Foreign Secretary, in London a few days ago and explained to him the necessity for immediate action.

"Canada never has always been a number of Germans living in empire centres and governments intended to through his overseas organization—has now sent a number of Nazi agents to work among them and to weld them into a strong militant Nazi association.

"In Canada these secret agents have already held meetings in the homes of some of the more influential residents. Everything is being done in an underground manner but there are signs that ample funds are available to buy the support of the brown shirt and storm troops of unity that are projected.

"In South Africa the Nazi organization is already a very strong one, especially in the former German colony of southwest Africa.

Germans Are Active

"Under the guise of trading organizations powerful groups of Nazis are already well established and now they have asked Chancellor Hitler to send a number of Nazi storm troopers on a colonizing visit to South Africa. The Hitler government has agreed."

During a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons in Ottawa last Tuesday opposition leader Hanson said that the "Nazi menace is in the mind" is a will for war, not a will for peace. Then he continued: "And this very country today there are emissaries of Germany—I say that without fear of contradiction—here of this House—talking to minorities about their rights."

REFUSES BARGAIN IN TULIPS

Brockville, Ont., May 30 (CP)— An Orchard Street resident politely declined the offer when a small boy and girl knocked at her door offering tulips for sale. She said she had tulips of her own in the garden. But she hadn't. When she went into the garden a few minutes later she found they were gone.

Bruin Failing to Show Respect To Humans, Target of Wide Hunt

Lindsay, Ont., May 30—(CP)—A big black bear, minus the usual respect that bruins grow to humans, is the target of a wide hunt north of the village of Bobcaygeon. An organized bear-hunt yesterday failed to trap him and farmers say he is their prize loafer awaiting his return.

The bear has been chasing livestock and altogether acting too aggressively to please residents. On Friday he jumped out of the bushes and crossed the road a few feet in front of Miss Jean Junkin, a schoolteacher, and Saturday the bear followed John Patterson along the furrow he was ploughing and approached uncomfortably near before the farmer chased him away with shouts and arrowwaving.

Saturday S. Bick and his daughter, working in their garden found the bear a curious spectator and their dog chased brute, who gave a number of sheep and lambs the fright of their lives as he dashed around before returning to the woods.

SEARCH PRESSED BY WATER, AIR FOR MISSING PLANE

With Four Aboard Not Seen Since Last Friday

SEEN LATE FRIDAY

Vancouver, May 30 (CP)—Search was pressed by water and by air today for a big Fairchild seaplane carrying four persons, missing since Friday on a flight from Vancouver to Zeballos on Vancouver Island's west coast.

Pilot Len Waagen took the Clayoquot Cole airways plane off on its scheduled two-and-a-half hour flight to the mining town. The three passengers were Mrs. George Nicholson, wife of the Zeballos Mining Recorder and Postmaster Zeballos; Charles R. Rumsey, Toronto mining engineer, and H. Boys of Stevenson, B. C.

Two Vancouver planes had United States coastguard amphibian Port Angeles, Wash., scoured the Gulf of Georgia, separating Vancouver Island from the mainland, and the heavily timbered, lake-dotted island itself.

Chief of police John Cameron of Zeballos led a speedboat party northward from Port Alberni along the coast, believing the giant yellow craft might have been forced down by low visibility and dwindling fuel supplies.

8 SUDDEN DEATHS AS CAMP SEASON GAINS MOMENTUM

Four Died by Drowning And Four Victims of Accidents

HIGHWAYS JAMMED

By The Canadian Press

Warm weather and bright skies drew another army to Ontario's highways and resorts during the weekend and as the tourist season gained momentum eight sudden deaths were added to the province's toll for the year.

Four died by drowning and four as a result of motor accidents, through two of the automobile mishap victims were killed within city limits.

James Malone, 11, and Nick Kissel, 13, died together in Hamilton Bay Saturday when they fell from a makeshift canoe. Rescuers gave up attempts at resuscitation two hours after the bodies were taken from the water.

Jerry Leslie, 39, of Toronto, died in Lake Scugog, 30 miles northeast of Oshawa, when he slipped from the grasp of a companion who was trying to aid him after the latter's boat. Gordon Hart of Toronto said that Leslie dived from their boat to swim and Leslie became tired when the latter started away. Hart made a desperate effort to bring him to the surface but could not get a firm grip.

Mayor's Association To Discuss Housing Question at Ottawa

Canada's housing question, said to be one of the most acute and pressing facing the Dominion today, is a matter of providing better and more satisfactory homes for the middle class people, and the Mayor's Association will come under close review at a special meeting to be held executive of the Canadian Mayors' Association during their visit to Ottawa Tuesday of this week, Mayor Jamieson Bone, chairman of the Central Regional Housing Committee announced following the meeting and take an active part in the discussions.

"We expect to arrive at some solution of this housing matter in a manner a little more practical than it has been tackled in the past," added Mayor Bone this morning.

"What we are trying to do is to help some one who is in trouble, so we get this then the matter of housing and building, which would in turn provide well paid employment for thousands, is one that will look after itself."

Some time ago Belleville, through a resolution passed at a meeting of the Belleville Housing Committee and association led the way for tax reform which would be applied chiefly to assisting this resolution calling for a reduction in the sales tax and on all new building material to the Ontario government.

WINDSORS LEAVE VERSAILLES

INJURED BOY IS FOUND IN DITCH

Theodore Schamerhorn, Believed Victim of "Hit And Run" Driver

Believed to have been the victim of a hit and run driver, Theodore Schamerhorn, 14-year-old son of John Schamerhorn, of Stoney Lonesome, was found lying along Highway No. 37 immediately north of Belleville on Saturday night. Young Schamerhorn was found lying in an unconscious condition by Thomas Lamb, Thurlow, who was passing in his automobile. The injured lad was rushed to the surgical ward of the General, but escaped major injuries, however, having suffered this evening from abrasions and minor facial lacerations, which had apparently been knocked on when struck.

Young Schamerhorn informed Provincial Constable W. R. Smith upon his investigation, that he was riding his bicycle on the right hand on the east side of Highway No. 37 when the descent of two automobiles abreast coming from the opposite direction. He remembered nothing until he regained consciousness in Dr. Cronk's office, however, finding there his bicycle and wheel of the lad's bicycle it would appear that the latter had been struck by some other object, although when the bicycle went into the ditch it might have been damaged, when the boy was forced off the highway." Asked Constable Smith, who is still investigating the matter.

Following medical attention, however, Schamerhorn was taken to the home of his parents, although still in a dazed condition.

Opened Printing Shop in 1738, Memory of Printer is Honored

Philadelphia, May 30—(AP)—Benjamin Sower, early German-town printer who built his own paper mill after Pennsylvania's ban had cornered the Philadelphia paper market, was honored today on the 200th anniversary of the opening of his first printing shop.

From his press came the first European language Bible printed in the United States, the first entire German language newspaper in the colonies, the Sower almanac and a religious magazine—the first of its kind, to be printed in the United States in any language.

BRITISH PRESS LAUDS CALMNESS OF CZECH NATION

Yesterday's Voting of Sudetens Heavily Pro-Henlein

POLITICAL DIFFICULTY

Election on Sunday Quiet With Only One Serious Clash

London, May 30—(CP-Havas) The British press today expressed satisfaction that the second phase of the Czechoslovak elections had passed without serious disorders.

The newspapers emphasized the threat of war growing out of the Prahs-Berlin dispute had been avoided by Czechoslovakia's determination to resist violence. In a letter to the Times, the labor peer, Lord Allen of Hurtwood, placed particular emphasis on this point. In editorial comment the Times (Independent) felicitated the Czech people for their "admirable coolness" during the crisis.

United Action on 2 Fronts

"It had been asserted over and over again that peace in Europe could be maintained and increased only if effective action were taken on two fronts simultaneously—collective and certain—and if collective action should guard our world in writing and speech so that no provocation may impede success."

All Oppose Conflict

After congratulating the Czech people on their calmness, the Times said "the truth is that all elements were and are still opposed to an international conflict on a large scale and it is only by forbearance and moderation exercised by both the governments and by the official directly concerned that the danger to peace can be held at arm's length."

"But the same methods will not always produce the same results. The government's action was even to entertain proposals for a peaceful change must, therefore, take their full share of responsibility if by a popular vote or otherwise such a change is to be desired by a majority of the population.

Difficult Problem

"The process of conciliation is being actively pursued by the British government. In those districts where the voting was held yesterday all sections of the people deserve the highest praise for the orderly manner in which the proceedings were conducted."

ENGLISH MUSIC'S FINEST FORM IS CHURCH MUSIC

Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson, Former Organist And Master of Choristers at Westminster Abbey Plays at Chris t Church and Speaks on Place of Music in Act of Worship.

Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson, M.A., M.V.O., F.R.C.O., head of the school of English Church music, who is making his third tour of Canada in association with the development of the S. E. C. M., was at Christ Church on Sunday evening, playing the organ at evensong, and speaking from the pulpit on the place of music in the service of worship. Rev. C. O. Wright, the rector, conducted the service, and welcomed the famed organist and choir leader.

"The music of our church is today the best expression of music we possess. It is historical, it is peculiarly English in its development", said Dr. Nicholson, who pointed out the glorious heritage of church music left by English composers, who had largely come from the ranks of the clergymen. As a sign of the large share music plays in worship, he stated that there are over 30,000 singing boy church choirs in England. More people take part in this form of music than in any other," the musician pointed out. There are even more persons singing in the services in the church choirs in England than even the figure quoted.

In the early day he stated that the church did take its music seriously. Today the people have become indifferent to the equipment of the church. "Can we feel that our worship is any the richer or more certainly striving to improve it? he asked.

"Worship is something we give, rather than gaining for ourselves." he declared, stating that the music to be of the highest character and the performance of it must be an integral part of worship.

Dr. Nicholson has edited six radio services and books of sermons and the arm chair as being helpful. He also has written somewhere that worship is an offering to God. The comfort of the individual is a secondary consideration.

Speaking of the type of music the famous organist and director of choristers, said that the best music will be found in the world. There will be no jarring notes of the secular, but there will always be dignity. The music must be suitable and direct.

Modern church music will tend to be strong, rather than sentimental. "We must remember that worship is an offering to God. The comfort of the individual is a secondary consideration.

"We are going to do something new, but getting back to first principles," declared the leader and master of the choristers of Westminster Abbey, speaking of the organ development in this season, will be followed by the choristers of Westminster Abbey, assisted by

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, May 30 (CP)—In the quietest trading of the year the price tone improved on the Toronto Exchange today. The New York market was closed for Memorial Day and interest was confined mainly to the cheaper gold shares which charted irregularly higher price movements. Moneta was a feature of the group while Waite-Amulet stood out in the base metals with a rise to a new high for the movement at $3, up 30 cents. Fewer than 350,000 shares changed hands in the session.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, May 30 (CP)—A 15-cent gain, third advance within a week, brought prices of dressed-weight bacon hogs at Barrie to $13.75, top mark reported any-kets today. Only other price change was a gain of 10 cents for Brantford livestock.

Liverweight, — Brantford $13.25, Hull $13.75, London $13, Stratford $13.35, Chatham $13.65.

Dressedweight — Barrie $13.75, Hull $13.75, London $13.25, Stratford $13.35, Chatham $13.65.

Produce Prices On Montreal Market

Montreal, May 30—Receipts of dairy produce during last week at Montreal, with comparisons, were given at the Board of Trade as follows:

	Eggs	Butter	Cheese
	Cases	Boxes	Boxes
For week ...	19,022	19,921	12,215
Week ago ...	11,472	16,107	2,878
Year ago	11,425	18,578	13,285

Exports during the week from the local port were announced at 2,467 boxes of cheese, 12 boxes of Canadian butter, 144 boxes of New Zealand butter, 1,000 cases of eggs and 50 cartons of eggs.

There were no sales at the Canadian Commodity Exchange. Spot butter, Quebec fresh 92 score, was quoted 23 1-4c, to 23 1-2c at the close. On the open spot market No. 1 butter was 25 1-2c to 25 3-4c, while No. 1 Ontario cheese was 14 3-4c to 15c. Small lots in the retail trade were quoted by jobbers at 26 1-2c for solids and 27c for prints.

Graded shipments of eggs were offered on spot in used tree cases at 25 1-2c to 26c for A-large, 24 1-2c for A-medium, 23½c for B and 21 1-2c to 22c for C.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford By Financial Service

The Canadian markets last week exhibited little to cheer about, a continuation of the sagging tendencies being in evidence. The public is at a stage where it is not tempted by low prices or high yields and unless something of an outstanding nature occurs soon, the prevailing lethargy will remain with us throughout the summer, with sporadic rallies from time to time.

Last week a rumour was prominent to the effect that Lloyds of London was laying odds of 2 to 1 that the price of gold would be increased to $41 an ounce within 90 days. This report gained wide publicity, although no one knew exactly where or how it started. Reports from London, however, indicate that there is no truth in the rumour and a glance at the action of the Canadian gold mines heretwice would have confirmed the falseness of the report. The market is always an excellent barometer of coming conditions, and the poor ability of an immediate rise in the gold price would have resulted in a tremendous bull market in our mining stocks.

"Indefinite Period"

On Monday tals column carried an article on Imperial Oil Limited and in our concluding paragraph we remarked that we expected the $1.25 a share dividend would be continued.

A high ranking trust official wants to know how long we thought it would be continued. In this connection, we might say that we have been told by responsible people that the dividend will be continued "indefinitely".

Canadian Industrial Alcohol

Unofficially, it is stated that earnings of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Limited will run in the vicinity of $300,000 for the current fiscal year. While the subsidiary, the McNish Company earned $90,000, during the first five months of its year.

Sherritt-Gordon

Sherritt-Gordon Mines are producing copper, gold and silver at an average rate of a little over $250,000 every thirty days. This is made up of about $255,000 in copper and some $25,000 in precious metals. The company also has large deposits of zinc, but is not drawing upon these orebodies until the price of that metal advances.

300 VOICES HEARD AT CHRIST CHURCH

Three hundred mixed voices representing choirs from parishes between and including Smith's Falls, and Cobourg will sing at the evensong service at Christ Church tonight under the direction of Dr. Sydney Nicholson, famed English organist and conductor.

During the service seventy-five surpliced choirboys will march in procession around the church.

The songsters are potential pupils of Dr. Nicholson who is conducting the first term in the School of English Church Music held in this diocese.

Police Blotter

Held on nominal charges of vagrancy and for further investigation, two men who gave their names as Arthur Bouchard and Marcen Maisenaille, transients, were taken from a box car in the Canadian National Railway yards at Belleville, last night. The two men were found in a box car, in which a safe was being shipped from Toronto to Brockville.

The apprehension of the men resulted after the railway lock on the box car was found to have been tampered with when the train arrived in Belleville, C. N. R. police, with Fred Chapman in charge, apprehended Bouchard and Maisenaille in the box car. The pair were held for further questioning for further investigations.

Further witnesses were necessary in Belleville over the week end, however, although five spectators were apprehended exceeding the speed limit on local streets yesterday.

Last night's rain resulted in an increased number of transients seeking shelter at the police station 29 in all.

Obituary

MRS. ADDISON VANDERVOORT

After a lengthy illness Mrs. Victoria M. Vandervoort, widow of Addison Vandervoort, Belleville, passed away in Hospital at Kingston on Sunday evening, May 29th. To many friends in this city where she made her home for the past ten years, the announcement of her death will bring sincere feelings of regret.

The late Mrs. Vandervoort was born in the Eastern Townships. Prior to her marriage ten years ago she was Miss Victoria Maude Chapman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. H. O. Chapman. At one time her parents resided in this city and Mrs. Vandervoort spent some of her girlhood days here. The family later removed to St. Catharines. In the course of time Mrs. Vandervoort became a nurse and she was eventually successful in this profession. For some time she was superintendent of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Hospital at Howell, Mich., near Detroit, and for a time she was in charge of a section in the Hospital for Tuberculosis at Detroit. In Gravenhurst and Hamilton she also engaged successfully in her chosen work.

Upon returning to reside in this city after her marriage to the late Addison Vandervoort, Mrs. Vandervoort immediately attracted many friendships and soon became prominent in the church and social life of the city. She possessed many fine traits of character and was endowed with more than ordinary ability in music and art. She was also a student of literature and was remarkably well informed upon many subjects.

In religion Mrs. Vandervoort was a faithful member of the Church of England and in Christ Church parish in this city she was a highly valued worker in various organizations. She was the immediate past president of the Women's Auxiliary and also gave of her time and ability in the activities of the Women's Guild.

In the parish she will be greatly missed and many intimate friends will entertain affectionate remembrance of her.

Mrs. Vandervoort is survived by one sister, Mrs. W. Nelson Campbell, Toronto.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

Peterborough Canoe Co., 308 Water St., Peterborough, Ont.

CHANGE IN TIME CATCHES PEOPLE LATE FOR WORK

Hands of clocks notwithstanding, Belleville in general awoke sleepily Sunday morning and today, yawned once or twice, and turned over collectively for the second nap. Daylight saving may have been inaugurated and clocks on the mantel and at the bedside may have been set ahead a misturday night, but many of the city reported late for church on Sunday and for work this morning.

An early call at some of the downtown' business offices this morning revealed the majority of them still waiting for the tardy ones to show up before routine business of the day could be started.

"The hour may be right, but the time isn't," stated one clerical worker with a prodigious yawn. "I woke up all right, but went back to sleep again. I got down just a half hour late." Peculiar were the actions of some of the city's pets, with dogs in particular finding it hard to get accustomed to the change in hours.

Some of them probably viewed the one hour earlier rising of their master as an invitation for a pleasure.

"I have a dog which for the past couple of years has never failed to wake me up at 7.30 o'clock," stated one pet owner. "This morning I had to wake him up. He's still asleep."

FAREWELL to BACKACHE!

Her back ached—she felt miserable—"then she couldn't be too good" to go out—friends said was lonely. Her sister advised her to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Her backache soon was relieved—and energy restored—and she was glad she was "good" once again she was her "old self." 115

HITLER'S NEW CAR

Soon it is expected the new Hitler "Folkscar" or "Volksauto" will be running the German highways in a year or two. At least the laying of the first cornerstone of the large plant at Fallersleben which is to produce the autos by the millions, is taken as a safe indication that the time of the much-talked-of car is approaching.

The German product will not have the horsepower of the cars known to the people of the United States and Canada. Instead of horsepower running up to ninety the German car will have but twenty-four, which means less ability to climb hills and lower speed on the level portions of the highways. As it is to be a people's car, it will however be taken up by thousands upon thousands for enjoyment in these intense days when a little joy in life would seem to lift some of the strain from the Spartan way the Germans are forced to live.

One thing is puzzling those who have pondered over the situation—the German statement that money should be spent on volksautos rather than on more food, however tight the German has pulled in his belt. Gasoline costs 90 cents a gallon in Germany. What of Germany's economic program!

At any rate Hitler is giving the Germans something to think of even if the car lacks many of the comforts of the cars which glide over the roads in the North American continent.

At the price of the Hitler car with exchange, it seems unlikely it will offer competition in foreign markets.

COLOR AT CROSSINGS

Municipal World refers to the value of color in the marking of streets. Color plays more part in life than at any time in history and it is natural that it should be utilized on the roadways for markings. The World says: "Color is important in pedestrian crossings, as they must be conspicuous. On account of the limited area covered, the question of cost is not so important. As these crossings endure much harder wear than other parts of the pavement, they offer an opportunity for experimental work. In Finsburg Borough (England) it was decided to try out a new yellow asphalt, and in which cadmium oxide, an intensely yellow pigment, is employed as coloring agent. This asphalt mixture one-half inch thick, was laid on a mastic asphalt base. Thus far the results are excellent. Its use will probably be extended to marking traffic lanes where it will be less expensive than the present practice of frequent painting."

OIL FOR THE EMPIRE
(Montreal Gazette)

Rupture of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Mexico following the latter's expropriation of foreign oil companies from Mexican soil, indicates the vitally important part which oil plays in Britain's affairs today. The concern which followed Mexico's action is easily understood, for though only a relatively small percentage of Britain's oil imports come from Mexico, wartime might well make England's other sources of supplies, such as Persia, Iraq and Rumania, distinctly less accessible than they are at present.

These recent developments call attention to the fact that less than 5 per cent of Britain's oil imports are derived from Empire sources. Oil is vital to the great nation of today; as a factor in wartime its importance of oil cannot be overestimated. Science has made strides in producing gasoline from sources other than crude oil, but there are yet few indications that this much real progress has been made in this direction. Crude oil from the oil wells of the world is still one of the most prized possessions of any country, for world consumption of oil is steadily increasing.

It is only natural, then, that Alberta's Turner Valley should be attracting attention far beyond the boundaries of Canada. In the past two years this field has sprung from an area whose crude output was virtually nil to rank as one of the second largest crude oil field in the British Empire. Recent Government tests in the Valley established a potential production from existing wells of 31,918 barrels daily; this figure is surpassed in the British Empire only by Trinidad and it seems quite possible that Trinidad itself will soon be outstripped if production in Turner Valley continues to increase at its present pace.

Reports from Alberta teem with colorful stories of activity in this newly-discovered oil field. Forty-one new wells are being drilled in Turner Valley and twenty-five more will be started by June 1. The current development programme involves an expenditure of some $14,000,000. Already forty-five wells are producing crude; every week brings the expectation that a new producer will "blow in" and add its flow to the present wealth which is gushing out of the Valley. Crude oil is now marketed as far east as Winnipeg and western authorities are of the opinion that over $5,000,000 has been saved for the domestic consumer through distribution of the local product.

ONTARIO COUNTRYSIDE IN MAY

The citrus groves of Florida are glorious to behold,
With their glistening verdant foliage and their globes of shining gold;
The flowers a passing pageant when motoring through the land,
The flame-flower and hibiscus and Turk's Caps on every hand;
The stately pine and palm trees whose summits touch the sky
Complete a tropic picture as they wave their plumes on high;
A million times I've revelled in these scenes in Florida,
But oh! their beauty can't compare with our countryside in May.

And in the State of Georgia the pecan trees are fair,
And in the Carolinas peach trees are growing rare;
In the woods of old Virginia the fragrant dog wood grows
Its pure white spicy petals crowning the trees like snow;
And farther north the mountains majestic, grand and strong
Bring to our hearts the Psalmist's words that we have pondered long;
Though we've enjoyed these wondrous scenes while journeying day by day
To us their beauty can't compare with our countryside in May.

O fair Ontario countryside in the balmy days of Spring,
With verdant meadows here and there with trees birds are carolling,
With tiny leaf-buds bursting and streams a lilting song
Rejoicing in the freedom from a winter storm and long.
The world is full of music and every heart is stirred
To burst in song with migrants on every tree-top heard;
Though fertile fields allure us and distant hills seem gay
The world holds nothing fairer than our countryside in May.

FROM SEATTLE IN THE STATE OF WASHINGTON, U.S.A., many miles away, comes a letter to this Great Family Journal asking us to express the gratitude of Belleville folk for many acts of kindness. On behalf of himself and family Eugene V. Ilsley, formerly Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Branch, writes:

"If I might do so, I should like the privilege of expressing through the Ontario Intelligencer the gratitude felt by our family for the indescribable kindness of the citizens of Belleville which have been extended to us prior to our leaving Belleville. It would be out of the question for me to write personally to all who in one way or another indicated to us a friendship and goodwill that any family might be proud to claim, and to them all I should just like to express thanks from the bottom of our hearts.

"While we are now far removed from those happy associations of nearly nine years, the cord of attachment is only stretched and it will always be a pull upon us back to what, after all, must be 'home' to us.

"It will be our great pleasure at any time to see any of our Belleville and district friends who may find it possible to visit us in this very interesting and hospitable city."

AN INTERESTING SIDELIGHT ON CANADA'S GOLD PRODUCTION is outlined in the following extract from an editorial in the Fort William Times Journal:

At the time that all the nations of importance in the world were "going off the gold standard," as the expression was, the question was raised as to whether the time of gold would disappear and the metal would be mined only for the purpose of filling teeth and making wedding rings and ornaments. Contradicting this belief, the production of gold has been going on with accelerated speed, and the only effect that the action of the United States in increasing the price of gold to $35 per ounce had was to make low-grade mines more profitable and to encourage further gold development.

Gibraltar, The Impregnable

A reservoir of 1,175,000 gallons capacity has just been completed in Gibraltar, and work has begun on another to hold over two million gallons of water, according to the Victoria Colonist.

On the face of it this does not sound very exciting news, but the water supply of Gibraltar is a very interesting problem. Water is very valuable there, costing the household about ten times as much as in England, and at one time was the old proverb about saving for a rainy day, Gibraltar saved for a rain for a dry day.

Engineers are always being faced by hopeless-looking problems, and the task of supplying the city and fortress of Gibraltar with an unfailing supply of water must have given those concerned something to think about.

Gibraltar has about 22,000 people on the edge of an enormous lime-stone rock a mile and a half long and 1,300 feet high. Where is the water to come from?

On the east side of the Rock it is a slope of sand about 700 feet high and a half a mile long. Twenty-four acres of this upper part of this have been covered with impervious sheeting fastened to heavy wooden framework held by leaspegs driven into the rock. Trenches are dug round the Rock from east, even when their ship is twenty miles away, can see the Mediterranean sun shining on the light-colored sheeting in strong contrast to the grey blue of the rock itself.

Even in the Mediterranean it rains sometimes, and then the rain falling on the corrugated sheeting is collected in concrete channels along its lower edge and led away into enormous reservoirs which have been hewn out of the solid rock. They have a total capacity of nearly seven million gallons.

Although Gibraltar is a hot, dusty place in the summer, with no rainfall between May and October, it has an average of twenty-eight inches for the rest of the year, almost the same as the yearly rainfall for London. In order to catch for the wet months, sufficient water for the whole year, the total catchment area must be thirty-nine acres, or twenty-four acres of corrugated sheeting on the east side of the Rock and fifteen acres of bare rock on the west side.

The first rain is allowed to go to waste, merely washing the dust off the catchment area; then directly the Rock Gibraltar has been created so that it runs into the reservoirs. Eight of these tanks are two million gallons each, and one has a capacity of two and a half million gallons, and between them are eight concrete blocks built up with a slight space left between them and the rock face of the chamber, the space being filled in with concrete and forming a special waterproofing preparation. The face of the blocks and the floor of each reservoir are also covered with waterproofing material.

About three years ago a fairly pure water was found in shallow wells on the British part of the neutral ground at the north end of the Rock adjoining Spain. This water falls on the neighboring hills and flows down towards the Rock in a narrow bed of sandstone about twelve feet below the surface. Here the water is caught, available of supplying seven million gallons in a dry season without exhaustion, the water being pumped up and mixed with the Rock water in the Rock itself.

Apart from the municipal supply, the people of Gibraltar have their own catchment area on the roof and a tank in the basement. During the wet season, therefore, most houses have full stocks, but when the dry season comes the tanks soon run out and everyone goes over to the town supply. The civilian population then uses as much as 450,000 gallons in a week, which does not need go thirsty.—Montreal Gazette.

BRITISH PATRONAGE

The patronage evil, about which many members of the Canadian Parliament or provincial legislature could write a book, does not exist in the United Kingdom, thanks to the British civil service system. Professor Harold J. Laski, who was the faculty of McGill before the war, afterwards at Harvard and for several years, now, at the London School of Economics, has been lecturing in Washington, and, incidentally, telling something of the British civil service. He has been telling of half a dozen of his friends, who are members of parliament, and who have served combined terms numbering over thirty-five years. In the thirty-five years, says Professor Laski, no one of these M.P.'s has received a single letter from a constituent asking for a job. Conditions like that would be heaven to the representative of most any Canadian constituency.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

The Best Known Method of Curing Hay Fever

It may seem a long way ahead of time to be talking about hay fever which comes in the late summer or autumn according to the date at which the ragweed begins to travel in the air. But, if what is now considered as the best known method of treatment in preventing hay fever is to be used—injections of pollen under the skin—then it should be discussed at this time.

What is the idea behind this method of the injection of small amounts of pollen under the skin? Prof. Sanford M. Feinberg, Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago, in a chapter in Oren C. Durham's book "Your Nerves at Work" states that just as a peaceful nation pays no attention to an enemy until that enemy crosses her, so the body pays no attention to this enemy in the air—pollen—until it begins to cause trouble. Then, just as a nation arms itself to destroy the enemy, so does the body in the body.

A small amount of the actual pollen extract, the "enemy", is injected into the body. As a result of this, collecting interest each time the body—the "peaceful nation"—becomes accustomed to fighting substances or substance that destroy the harmfulness of the "enemy" weapons. When fighting substances are usually in sufficient numbers or strength they overcome the power of the enemy forces. Then the enemy's forces disband and the body ceases to manufacture more fighting substances to overcome the enemy's disbanded forces. The increase of the enemy's forces and the further increase in the body fighting army is. The final result is that the body manufactures enough fighting power to overcome the actual invasion—the pollen that is in the air when the hay fever season starts.

The fight should thus be finally won by the time the pollen is over, two, three, or even more years. Whether the method has been discovered and this same type of pollen owns to invest in bank shares, and there is no bank shares, and there is no bank office rush at Ottawa for bank charters — though no application has been refused in the last fifteen years.

Credit can only be loaned against actual assets. That is as true today as ever. You cannot create credit by writing figures in a book. You cannot make loans regardless of deposits, unless—and to the extent that—the loans up with a fountain pen as figures in a book labelled "Deposits" and lend them over and over.

If you could, then bankers in any country would need no more than a fountain pen to prevent bank failures.

During the last ten fiscal years Canada's chartered banks have paid more than $397,000,000 in interest on deposits. If they could create deposits by the magic process of writing figures in a book, they could have saved that $397,000,000!

And if banks could lend ten times the amount of their deposits, collecting interest each time, bank profits would become a national scandal, dividends would be paid in astronomical figures, people would be selling all they had to buy bank shares, and there would be a bank office rush on at Ottawa for bank charters.

But what are the facts?

Bank profits last year averaged less than half of one per cent. on total assets—a lower margin than that on which any other clerk of business, corporate or personal, can succeed.

Dividends are less than 4½ per cent. on shareholders' investment; nobody is scrambling to sell all he owns to invest in bank shares, and there is no land office rush at Ottawa for bank charters — though no application has been refused in the last fifteen years.

The borrowing public is not. They draw it out promptly and use it in the expectation of making a profit over and above the bank charges.

Let us remind you that deposits of any kind are always payable to the depositor, or to his order, in cash.

FIGURES IN A BOOK?

What gives rise to a loan?

"Credit can only be loaned against actual assets . . . The amount of credit must always be limited to the amount of free money . . ."

That was written by one of the greatest of Socialists—by the late Viscount Snowden of Ickornshaw, Philip Snowden, in 1935 — little more than two years ago.

Few stood so long or so resolutely in the forefront of public controversy, or aroused such fierce opposition by vigour of opinion or severity of tongue — and none passed to his rest having earned greater public respect than Viscount Snowden.

His career was a triumph of sturdy British character. He took an unpopular course during the Great War, but later became one of his country's great figures, standing firmly for his convictions and for soundness in the financial structure of Great Britain.

His words quoted above apply to Canadian banking today with all the force with which he applied them that day to banking in England. The Canadian banking system is a British system, adjusted from time to time to fit the needs of a developing nation in the changing scene of this new world.

Credit today as ever. You cannot create credit by writing figures in a book. You cannot make loans regardless of deposits, unless—and to the extent that—the loans up with a fountain pen as figures in a book labelled "Deposits" and lend them over and over.

They keep cash reserves more than sufficient to meet the average daily withdrawals. They keep much more in forms readily convertible into cash, should any emergency ever arise.

It is by reason of their substantial liquid assets that Canada's chartered banks have money awaiting demand and just awaiting safe lending opportunity.

Banks cannot lend money unless people want to borrow it. They have no monopoly of the business of extending credit, for the cash reserves of many other corporations provide a convenient outlet in the same way.

Some loans directly give rise to deposits; but have you ever considered what it is that gives rise to a loan? It is the available assets accumulated from his own work, plus his own character, ability and willingness to repay.

All deposits are not the direct result of loans. People do not borrow money and pay interest on it to leave it on deposit at a lower rate or no rate at all.

They borrow money for use. They draw it out promptly and use it in the expectation of making a profit over and above the bank charges.

Let us remind you that deposits of any kind are always payable to the depositor, or to his order, in cash.

Barnyard Ducks Form Fours

We often observe ducks marching single file, never find one turned ahead of another, never do they bunch. Is there any reason for this? Perhaps the little incident will inform us.

Five White Rumour ducks had a narrow runway leading into their home. Each night they filed in, one by one. Their owner wondered if they always came in the same order, tagged the last one. Then after observing one particular duck was always third, and the 20 consecutive nights of observation, they came up in the runway, one by one, in exactly the same order.

"The casual observer will say instinct." But why and what for? Is there a reason? Just a reason to cover up human ignorance, lack of understanding?" their owner once asked.

He believes, after such a test, that ducks exit count, to a limited number, at least. How else would they select their position in line? He also believes, after years of experience with wild waterfowl, that they are able to communicate with one another and intelligently plan their course of action.

Other observers tell us that ducks appear to select their own position in line when they follow loyally. The man quoted above also believes that ducks understand us, for he can call them and they come to him, put their necks into his hand—one by one—and again always in the same order. Instinct? Just a reason to cover up human ignorance, lack of understanding?

THE VATICAN

The large gifts of money which the Pope has been making towards the relief of distress in troubled Spain indicate that the Papal Treasury is now much better off than when Pius XI succeeded Benedict, in 1922. It was then found that only 11,000 pounds remained out of the funds accumulated before the war. Benedict having been extremely liberal in his grants to the poor. He had indeed, subscribed over 440,000 pounds to help the needy in Russia and Austria alone.

The new Pope ordered the utmost economy in the Vatican, setting up a committee of four cardinals to carry the scheme into effect. Of simple habits himself, Pius XI instituted the practice of paring for each meal as he took it, thus facilitating the keeping of his household accounts. On one occasion, however, the cook made the blunder of charging the Pope twice for a single chicken, which his Holiness had partly consumed at a previous meal. The cook was therefore discharged.

FREE SERVICE

A polite young fellow went into the office of a big Fifth Avenue Party-stirk St. and asked if he could take orders for dead sets. The head of the corporation he asked if anybody had a fountain pen that needed adjusting. Explaining that his company always tried to make it convenient for people handed over their pens for inspection. "Hmm," he said, "they all have new points. He put bright new points in the pens of customers. Then he told the owners, protesting their thanks, "We charge it up to good will." It was all right, but it wasn't much later when someone realized that the bright new points, in the pens of his points seemed flabby. Upon examination he discovered the points were of brass, whereas the old points which the salesman had taken away were of fourteen-carat gold, representing a handsome profit for him on the transaction.— The New Yorker.

THE PARTY ORGAN

There are some people who still believe that the party press is supported by the party. Such people have obviously had the vast majority of thoughtful men and women are free to think. Such fetishes as the press in this country has pretty well shaken off political shackles—and is relatively free from ulterior domination of party. Nevertheless, party is governed by reporters of excellent character. Its "foreign" news is supplied by news agencies. Its editorial voice endeavors to reflect fairness to all and to inform without prejudice.

It sometimes takes such examples as the uniformed flunkeys of a controlled press masquerading as newspapermen—what we are seeing in Central Europe these days—to remind ourselves of the blessings of a free press.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Three Men Killed, One Injured in Sladen-Malartic Mine

EXPLOSION RIPS THRU MAIN SHAFT CAUSE UNKNOWN

Accident Occurs at Height of Electrical Storm

SHAFT DAMAGE LIGHT

It is Not Known Whether Bolt of Lightning Exploded Dynamite

Val D'Or, Que., May 31—(CP)—Three men were killed and one injured late yesterday when an explosion ripped through the main shaft of the Sladen Malartic gold mine 10 miles west of here. The dead are Peter Prokop, 32; Casey Tyrpt, 22, and Gerard Lacasse, 30.

Wilfrid Lecoy, 27, was slightly injured. Five others escaped in the shaft one level above escaped injury. They were Ernest Lecoy, 23, brother of Wilfrid, and Albert Lecoy, 30.

Of the victims, all residents of the newly-settled village of Malartic which sprawls around the mine, only Peter C. Prokop was married. His widow survives.

Debris Not Given

The explosion occurred at the height of an electrical storm but it was not established whether a bolt of lightning struck the shaft-head exploded a charge of dynamite before.

Mine manager D. Agar refused to make public details of the disaster, explaining that Roger Taschereau, provincial mining inspector, was to open an investigation later today. Taschereau came here from Quebec.

Agar said the blast did little damage to the mine shaft and that a rescue crew went on to descend without difficulty and bring the bodies to the surface.

Authority to Be Set Up in Case of War To Decide Position for Individual

London, May 31—(CP Cable)—The question of conscription was aired in the House of Commons last night as Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence coordination, announced plans were envisaged for creation of a competent authority which would allocate to persons concerned their proper place in an emergency, according to age and capacity for public service.

"There is certain to be in the event of war a competent authority who will allocate according to the age and capacity of each individual personal a suitable occupation for that person to occupy," Sir Thomas said.

"Nobody can escape from that obligation by choosing a position, possibly one which he might think more attractive for himself in peacetime."

J. C. Ede, Labor, asked if this meant a conscription act was in existence which put everybody in an appropriate niche and on the day an emergency arose legislation in that sense was ready for effecting it.

Sir Thomas replied: "I said so as plain as I could." But later he added he had announced a policy of conscription of labor and warned: "No more must be built than either expressly stated or necessarily inferred" from the statement.

FATHER CONTACTS KIDNAPPERS WHO STOLE YOUNG SON

James Bailey Cash Says Abductors Demanded $10,000

EXPECTS WORD

Child Taken on Sunday When Mother Was Away

Princeton, Fla., May 31—(AP)—James Bailey Cash, wealthy grove owner, made contact today with kidnappers who stole his young son Sunday and demanded $10,000 ransom.

Cash said today the $10,000 ransom demanded by the kidnappers of his five-year-old nephew, James Bailey Cash, Jr., had been paid.

The money was thrown from an automobile, he added, by agents of his father, who made two trips over routes outlined in a map provided by the kidnappers.

"Everything is favorable," Cash said. "I expect to get the boy back by 12 o'clock. I wouldn't be surprised if he had been let out somewhere already. It's just a matter of waiting."

It was learned a map provided by the kidnappers showed two routes. Cash made a circuit of one route, the northern one, he said—and returned home within 10 minutes. Then he drove away again and upon return said the contact had been made.

Paid by Bank

The money he presumably paid over was obtained from a Miami bank. Federal agents also were engaged for the withdrawal and recorded the serial numbers of the bills.

White Paper on British Plan of Wartime Conscription Asked

LABOR PROTESTS

Prime Minister Says He is Not Prepared to Issue White Paper

By GEORGE HAMBLYN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 31.—(CP Cable)—Plans for wartime conscription brought snappy questioning in the House of Commons today. Repeated by the opposition present Prime Minister Chamberlain to clarify Sir Thomas Inskip's statement last night and let parliament know what the government intended.

But Mr. Chamberlain declined to go further. He indicated, however, that a suitable statement would be made when the government would make the white paper.

Clement Attlee, Labor leader, raised the question by requesting the government to issue a white paper outlining its plans for wartime service.

Chamberlain Not Prepared

The government has not prepared to issue a white paper. The government's plans for dealing with war he declared Conservative applause, would be laid before parliament if war came.

Was it not then unfortunate, Mr. Attlee sharply retorted, that the Minister for Co-ordination of Defence should make a statement in the course of which was likely to give rise to a grave misapprehension?

FORMER CHAIRMAN TESTIFIES AGAIN AT HYDRO INQUIRY

Refers to Negotiations For Fewer Contract to Replace Cancelled One

EVIDENCE AT INQUIRY

T. Stewart Lyon Says He Was Virtually Dismissed by Hepburn

Toronto, May 31—(CP)—Negotiations between the Ontario government and the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company for power contract replacing one cancelled by the government were going on without his knowledge last summer, T. Stewart Lyon, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, told a special legislative committee today.

"These things were all done behind my back," he asserted. "They were carried on behind my back."

The committee under Attorney-General Gordon Conant met again behind the last session of the legislature after Leopold Macaulay Conservative house leader, charged Premier Hepburn had misled electors during the late 1937 general election by proclaiming a "back-to-Niagara policy."

"Dismissed" He States

Mr. Lyon, who resigned following Premier Hepburn's statement today he was in effect "dismissed" by the premier. He declared renewing a contract with Beauharnois, holding that the Hydro Commission had the right to develop power in the Niagara system rather than buy from Quebec companies.

The first suggestion he had heard of a new Beauharnois contract was two or three weeks before the election, Hon. T. M. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, and at that time a member of the Hydro Commission, had made an offhand statement that he believed they were going to come to terms with Beauharnois.

ONUS OF PROOF SHIFTS TO DRIVERS UNDER NEW BILL

Leaving Scene of Accident Will Bring Maximum Fine of Penitentiary

OTHER CHANGES

Ottawa, May 31—(CP)—New penalties for motorists, including license suspension and the lessening of maximum penalties for others are foreshadowed in an omnibus bill for amendments to the criminal code presented in the House of Commons by Justice Minister Lapointe today.

The bill ranges over a wide range of subjects including safety devices, publication of reports in divorce actions, sailing of planes, penalties for reckless driving and new offences in connection with gaming houses.

Some things that will become offence if parliament approves bill presented yesterday:

Deliberate defacing of coins by stamping on them items or words. (It is now an offense only if the coin is tendered.)

Publication in relation to any judicial proceeding of indecent matter, or indecent medical, surgical or physiological details calculated to injure public morals.

Publication of anything in relation to divorce, nullity and other marital cases, except names of those concerned, a report of judgment of the charges, defences and counter-charges in support of which evidence has been given, submissions on points of law, statements of the court, and the judgment of the court.

Salting of a mine, or a sample from one, with the fraudulent intent to affect an assay. (This is now covered only by the general fraud provisions.)

The parting with a naturalization certificate by the holder thereof when it is to be used for a fraudulent purpose. (It is stated in the explanatory notes that such certificates have been used to allow aliens to enter England and obtain British passports.)

Increases Some Penalties

Some increased maximum penalties, that would be provided for are as follows:

For a motorist leaving the scene of an accident, the maximum fine

QUEBEC PADLOCK LAW UNDER FIRE IN THE COMMONS

Minister of Justice Says Government Has Own Responsibility

HOUSE MAY APPROVE

Ottawa, May 31—(CP)—House of Commons members started the week at a pace that quickly threatened the order paper of this long-standing business but came to an abrupt halt last evening when C.C.F. members set down a barrage against the government's Quebec padlock law.

A demand this legislation be submitted to the Supreme Court until its constitutionality is decided by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, after he had been called to order by Justice Minister Lapointe, the following resolution was finally moved and that he would not discuss merits of the legislation in the house before that court had taken

"Dominion Jurisdiction Invaded"

Mr. C. O. MacNeil (Vancouver North) said the law "flagrantly" invaded Dominion jurisdiction and that under it there had been set up a form of fascism. Padlocking of a citizen's realty, seizures of the most widely accepted books and publications, and violation of private premises, had gone on without any redress. He appealed to and with the onus on the victim to prove his innocence.

No decision was reached on this debate which took the form of a discussion initiated by Mr. Woodsworth on the motion to resolve the house into committee of supply to consider estimates.

Both Mr. Woodsworth and Mr. MacNeil spoke at length from statements prepared by the Civil Liberties Association which urged instance passage of the law against communism, and the distribution of a new list of raids and seizures under the act by Provincial Police.

Mr. Bennett entered the discussion briefly to obtain British papers.

No Lives Lost as British Freighter Bombed, Sunk in Valencia Harbor

Madrid, May 31—(AP)—The British freighter Stanbrook was bombed and sunk in an air raid in Valencia harbor today. No lives were lost.

A Spanish vessel also was sunk. Air raid alarms kept the harbor district in a state of tension from 1 a.m. last night until after daybreak.

The Penthames was the third British ship sunk recently at Valencia, Spanish government port on the Mediterranean. Others were the Thorpe-Hall May 24 and the Cresswell May 28.

A French sailor was killed yesterday and several British seamen wounded in Valencia harbor raids in which the French steamship Djem was set afire.

The Penthames had previously been bombed at Valencia May 20 during an insurgent air raid. Three sailors were wounded then and she was set afire, but the flames were quenched in an hour. The Penthames was the first vessel to report a cargo of wheat. She is a 3,995-ton vessel.

Barcelona dispatches reported 100 persons killed or wounded today in insurgent bombing air raid on Granollers, 18 miles north of Barcelona. Bombs fell in the market square of the town at a time it was crowded.)

The Penthames was hit by three bombs and settled to the bottom at Caballeros dock, with her masts and funnel still showing.

The Djem, after burning all night in the harbor, reached a complete loss.

The Penthames was the fifth ship in the harbor at Valencia in air days as the insurgents intensified their efforts to halt all shipping to Spanish government ports.

Confusing Reports Prove Fruitless In Aerial Search

Zeballos, B.C., May 31 (CP) Search plans sorted confusing reports today as they continued intensive hunt for pilot Len Wagner and three passengers missing since Friday on a routine flight here to Vancouver.

Search planes returned to this West Coast mining community last night to report no trace of the Ginger Coote Airways machine.

Pilot Ralph Oakes and Provincial police officer Ernest Lawson of Zeballos returned from Hesquiat Lake where they questioned Mrs. Hays. There she had reported seeing a yellow plane flying low and apparently circling over the lake at the 35 miles south of here.

Mrs. Hays reported that the day she had seen the machine, Oakes and Cameron said, and they estimated the belief it had been one of the eight search planes.

Mrs. Hays' report came to search headquarters here but soon was followed by word that all the three passengers, Mrs. George Nicholson, Mrs. Charles Cairns of Rumsey, Toronto mining engineer, and H. Boyd, Steveston, B.C.

Association contended such savings could not exceed one or two per cent. It urged then that the government allow the fair market value" should be applied to ourselves. Members of the committee under the Customs Act.

Mr. Stirling recommended the operation of mail order houses concentrated buying power in the hands of a few and constantly fewer hands, draining the small communities and giving further impetus to the city-ward drift of young people.

Mail order houses did pay a small local business tax where they maintained order offices but it was infinite small compared to the volume of business drawn from the community.

Ottawa, May 31 (CP)—The "glaring inequity" of mail order houses escaping almost entirely from community tax obligations was vigorously protested to the royal commission today by the Retail Merchants Association of Canada.

"The spectacular volume of business done through the mail order houses and the inadequate local contributory cause to some of the financial difficulties from which many Canadian municipalities find themselves," said George Stirling, Dominion Secretary of the Association.

Mail order merchandising constituted a tremendous drain on the prosperity of the rural communities from which the bulk of mail order business came, with no corresponding contribution to the expenses of those communities, he said.

As a remedy, the association proposed a Dominion tax on the volume of mail order business, which would be turned over to the provinces for municipal purposes.

Protest was also levied against the practice of permitting chain stores to "wash out" the profit of prosperous years by offsetting the losses of thrifty more unsuccessful units, the state being the loser in both income and sales tax departments, according to the association.

"Less Local Sales Protested.

In recent months in southern Ontario several chain stores had again adopted the "loss leader" policy referred to frequently before the Price Spreads Commission, selling nationally advertised brands at a figure above or even below minimum wholesale carload cost, Mr. Houghton said.

Large companies could afford to adopt such a practice, he said, but they were able to offset profitable and losing units on their consolidated balance sheet.

In connection with large discounts allowed some big buyers, he recalled the Price Spreads Commission had been told these amounted to as much as thirty per cent.

"The sales tax on these transactions is collected on only 70 cents of each dollar whereas on the business resulting from the purchases of individual store buyers the sales tax is collected on the full dollar," he said.

Where savings were made by efficient merchandising, the consumer was entitled to the benefit, but too

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN TENEMENT FIRE

Fire Sweeps Through a Tenement Occupied by Japanese

UNKNOWN ORIGIN

Vancouver, May 31—(CP)— Three children were burned to death when fire of unknown origin swept through an east end tenement building housing seven Japanese families early today.

The dead were George Taniguchi, 12, Nobuko Taniguchi, 13, Ishikazo Ono, nine. Firemen were uncertain whether others had been trapped and perished in the flames when the two storey frame structure was heavily bombed. Japanese admitted one of their number was missing.

It was the first big raid on Hastings since that of Emperor Hirohito's birthday, April 29, in which more than 50 Chinese and Japanese planes bombed a half-dozen Chinese battle. Each side declared the other lost heavily in the April 29 fight.

Four Shot Down

Canton, through which most of China's munitions from abroad pass was raided for the fourth successive day, but Chinese said four of 22 attacking planes were shot down.

Hong Kong dispatches said the Japanese air forces spread its attack from Canton to areas around Canton, raiding many towns in central and northern Kwangtung province. Refugees from the scene of the fighting women and children, poured into Hong Kong for safety. Hong Kong officials estimated the colony had received 20,000 refugees since Saturday.

Chinese said large numbers of Japanese were trapped in a 21-mile square segment of the 250-mile Canton-Hankow front, from which the Japanese hope at a strategic moment to attempt a repeat of Hankow, Hankow, China's provisional capital.

The defense commanded by Lieutenant-General Kenji Doihara, chief of staff of Manchukuo army, was among those encircled, the Chinese said. There seemed little chance for escape.

Edmonton, May 31—(CP)— Forty Social Credit candidates for the Saskatchewan general elections June 8 were announced here today by Provincial Secretary E. C. Manning, chief organizer for the Alberta Canada Social Credit Association.

CANADA'S APRIL

Ottawa, May 31 (CP)—Canada's April imports were valued at $45,000,000 compared with $38,000,000 the corresponding month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The total from the United States was $21,381,000 against $26,701,000 and from the United Kingdom $9,187,000 compared with $10,307,000.

Canton And Hankow Objectives of Huge Air Raids

EVACUATE CITIES

Shanghai, May 31—(AP)—The Japanese air force today struck heavily at two centres vital to Chinese resistance, Hankow, provisional capital, and Canton, southern metropolis and gateway for war supplies from abroad.

Thirty planes attacked Hankow, and Japanese accounts said they dropped 60 Chinese planes in dogfights over and near the city. The Hankow airport was heavily bombed. Japanese admitted one of their number was missing.

It was the first big raid on Hankow since that of Emperor Hirohito's birthday, April 29, in which more than 50 Chinese and Japanese planes fought a half-hour's battle above the city. Each side declared the other lost heavily in the April 29 fight.

Oppose Making Chorley Park Into Hospital

Toronto, May 31—(CP)— Toronto Board of Control decided today it will oppose converting Government House into a hospital.

The $1,000,000 former home of the Province's Lieutenant-Governors, closed late last year was offered by Premier Hepburn Saturday as a gift to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

Story in Dead Man's Pocket For Sweetheart to Read in Papers

New York, May 31—(AP)—This is the story Albert Heinz said his sweetheart would see in the newspapers if he died.

The body of Heinz, a young seaman who had been brought from Miami, Fla., for deportation to Germany, was found floating in the Hudson river off Hoboken, N.J.

In his pocket was a letter addressed to Lou Annice Summers of Miami.

"Dear honey," it began. "They are taking me away from you, from America and from all the happiness which you have given me.

"They will send me back to Germany, but I never will get there. I love life I never did before. I have cried so that I have no more tears left.

"Whatever happens from now on may cost me my life, but I will not let anyone take me away from you alive. If I die you will read it in the newspapers. If I am alive you will hear from me."

Then, in a postscript, he wrote: "I gave up my country, Germany, for America and I have found it. I have the freedom and history, and for my girl from Mississippi.

"I don't believe they will kill me, they send me back to Hitler. But I will never die dead, my honesty and the mistake they make. Yours forever, Albert."

Enclosed with the letter, dated April 6, was a warrant for his arrest on a charge of assault, issued in Miami on Christmas Day, 1937, on the complaint of Louis J. Summers.

There was no indication of the relationship between Miss Annice Summers and the man who signed the assault complaint.

T. Stewart Lyon Says He Was Virtually Dismissed by Hepburn

Toronto, May 31—(CP)—Negotiations between the Ontario government and the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company for power contract replacing one cancelled by the government were going on without his knowledge last summer, T. Stewart Lyon, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, told a special legislative committee today.

"These things were all done behind my back," he asserted. "They were carried on behind my back."

The committee under Attorney-General Gordon Conant met again behind the last session of the legislature after Leopold Macaulay Conservative house leader, charged Premier Hepburn had misled electors during the late 1937 general election by proclaiming a "back-to-Niagara policy."

"Dismissed" He States

Mr. Lyon, who resigned following Premier Hepburn's statement today he was in effect "dismissed" by the premier. He declared renewing a contract with Beauharnois, holding that the Hydro Commission had the right to develop power in the Niagara system rather than buy from Quebec companies.

The first suggestion he had heard of a new Beauharnois contract was two or three weeks before the election, Hon. T. M. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, and at that time a member of the Hydro Commission, had made an offhand statement that he believed they were going to come to terms with Beauharnois.

After five years ago was moved to Watford, England, to take charge of a new plant installed there by the American Optical Co. At the Work who is accompanied by Mrs. Work, has been spending some weeks at company headquarters at Southbridge, and is spending a few days here on his return journey to England. In a brief address to Belleville Rotarians he referred briefly to affairs in England and the attitude and expressed full confidence that the "men behind the scenes" who direction the course of Great Britain would continue to steer a course which would keep Britain ever in the forefront of world affairs.

George Stokes who has been moved to London as C.N.R. superintendent, bade farewell to his fellow Rotarians before taking the train for his new home.

Visitors included Sam Cordingly, of Leeds, England; Clarence Trenton; F. S. Deacon, and Rev. D. T. McCrimmon, Napanee.

Y'S MEN CONCLUDE SPRING SEMESTER

Concluding their semester with a business meeting, the local Y's Men's Club completed their year's business before declaring a summer vacation at the Y.M.C.A. last evening. President-elect Harold Hanhan was named as the Belleville Y's Men's club representative to attend the annual Y's Men's International convention to be held in Toronto next year, while the club in general was invited to attend a district convention at Midland. Before adjourning, the club would suspend activities during the summer months. President Lorne McDougall closed the club last night. Special meetings, in the form of a dinner at the Y.M. C. A. Boys' Camp, will be held periodically throughout the summer, however.

DEEPER WATER NOW FOR LOCAL SHIPPING

Engaged on her regular survey of buoys and beacons in the bay, the new government lighthouse tender and buoy carrier, Steamer Grenville, entered port early this morning and was gone at daybreak this morning.

An average draught of fifteen feet for ships entering at the local dock is reported by Harbormaster Joe Whidden this week. A level which is considerably higher than at low water ebb. This covering of many of the shoals of the bay with a deeper depth of water has resulted in the crippling of several boats lately.

The large launch owned by Walter Patterson, engaged on the bay this morning for repairs to hull, wheel and shaft, following her grounding on the reef about this week.

LIGHT OFFERING ON CITY MARKET

Little business was done at the city market today were only a light offering of new vegetables was displayed by a few vendors.

Asparagus headed a light display of onions, radishes, lettuce and rhubarb with prices showing an appreciable change from week-end quotations.

Eggs were steady at 25 cents per dozen for select grades, while a few medium and pullets were offered at 22 and 20 cents per dozen respectively.

Potted plants and flatted plants added a touch of color to an otherwise sluggish market.

HEAVY TRAFFIC OVER MEMORIAL DAY

A heavier than usual influx of American tourists was noted in the city yesterday as the highroads to the south took the bread highways for their journey in this direction.

Automobiles bearing New York and Michigan license plates drove through the city continually all day. Restaurant and service station proprietors reported a definite increase in the volume of daily business.

LIGHTS URGED FOR SMALL WATER CRAFT

Small boats using the Bay of Quinte after nightfall, of which there have been many since the end of warmer days, are urged for safety's sake to carry lights designating the position of their craft. Owners of larger, faster boats, have made their first cruises of the week-end, and report several narrow escapes from running the lighter craft down.

OLD COUPLE GET MIXED IN TIME

Daylight saving which has been in effect in this city for the past three days, has led to some confusion through the rural sections of the district, it is reported by stage and bus drivers, especially in northern Hastings points. Considerable difficulty in explaining the difference in time is being experienced.

A typical case was explained yesterday by the driver of a northern bus who brought two elderly fares into Belleville for the day. In spite of his careful explanation of the time, the couple, after their day's visit believing they had missed the bus in front of their hotel, remained the entire walk back to Marmora, boy were picked up on the highway outside the city.

"Frankly, we don't like the change in time," stated one former on the city market this morning.

300 VOICES HEARD AS CHOIRS MEET AT CHRIST CHURCH

School of English Church Music For District Held Here—Evensong Sung in Presence of Many Worshippers.

The largest choir numbering about three hundred members, ever heard in a church service was rendered at evensong in Christ Church on Monday evening. It was really a festival of Anglican choirs from as far east as Smith's Falls, and as far west as Colborne, and included many organizations, including Kingston, Christ Church choirs of Belleville and all portions of the district. The choirs were filled by boy choristers and men, while the very large number of women formed and completed the centre of the church in front of the choir boys. With the attendance of the clergy of the various parishes who occupied the chancel, Archdeacon Daly of Q. O. Wright conducted the service and was assisted by visiting clergy.

This immense gathering of choristers was the result of the assembling of the churches in Central Ontario was the result of the School of English Church Music, who is delighting the district with a week of musical service of the Church of England in Canada, and the Christ Church as well as in the Church in the Old Land. The members assembled and retired to Dr. Ninon's service in the cause of music in the Church of England as a proof of the growth of the S.E.C.M. in Canada.

The combined choirs after opening of the service at the parish hall on Bridge St. W. Wright walked around the church and entering the church passed up the centre aisle. First came the choir in the black gown and white surplices, some with hoods, and others with caps, and then their black gowns and white surplices with hoods, and last given by ecclesiastic wearing their hoods, incating their degrees in music, and last by the choir of women choristers with their gowns, surplices and hoods, some wearing the red caps. The clergy followed.

The service was evensong in which the principles enunciated by Dr. Nicholson during the school and Dr. Nicholson during the school and Dr. Nicholson during the school and afternoon of Monday were put into practice. Rev. Canon E. Jaynes, rector of Christ Church was at the organ and played throughout the service, while Dr. Nicholson directed the choir and congregation in the singing of the responses and in the singing of the hymns. Under his direction, the resources of the vast choir created a magnificent exhibition of art in religious music not often heard except in the various portions of the choir sang.

Rector's Welcome and Tribute

Rev. G. G. Wright, the rector of Christ Church, spoke briefly welcoming the various choirs and noting that this was the first time in the history of the kind held in this portion of the province. "We hope it will be the forerunner of many others", he commented.

A high tribute was paid to Dr. Nicholson, the former organist and master of the choristers at Westminster Abbey who had in 1927 given up the post to organize a school for the improvement of music in the Church of England.

Dr. Nicholson has stressed the fact that reality as worship should be as beautiful an offering as possible in the worship of God.

The school was opened in Canada in 1933 and has spread so that sixty choirs are now affiliated. The principal idea is the increase of the beauty and efficiency and the realism of the service of music.

The principle followed by the S.E.C.M. is a system of speech rhythm.

Mr. Wright spoke highly of the results of the first school held in Toronto in 1933 at which four of the boys of Christ Church were present.

This present visit of Dr. Nicholson's takes in schools in Halifax, Fredericton, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Belleville, Hamilton, Brantford, and Windsor, with a grand total of U.S., choirs at Lake Erie.

Rev. Mr. Wright pointed out that the ideal is to train choirs in music which can be sung "in our own parishes".

Mr. Wright expressed to Dr. Nicholson the grateful thanks of the congregation a d district represented in the school and his own thanks and said he hoped to see these choirs again in Belleville.

During the service the boy choristers led by Rev. G. G. Wright marched in procession through the church singing the processional hymn.

There was a large congregation present at the service.

CLARIFY RULES, REGULATIONS FOR VICTORIA PARK

No Restrictions as to Hours Residents May Stay on Park

TRAFFIC REGULATED

Motions governing the newly inaugurated regulations governing Victoria Park were the principal items of business before the Local Parks Commission at their fortnightly meeting held last night. Owing to misunderstandings being heard and protested by citizens in general, the Board passed several measures to clarify the rules and regulations pertaining to the driving and parking of motor vehicles on Victoria Park, a regulation recently introduced in Belleville.

"It has been brought to my attention that motorists are making a driveway on the park along the foot path directly in front of No. 1 Front," said Chairman Alfred Bradley. Discussion brought a resolution by Commissioner H. Anderson as follows—"Motor cars must not enter Victoria Park on the path directly in front of No. 1 Fireball, but at the entrance at the junction of Front Street and Park Streets, only." The motion was carried and it was also made clear that traffic must keep to the right, when once on the park property and that parking entirely in front of or directly in front of the fireball is for pedestrians only.

No Set Hour

Due to a misunderstanding in a motion passed at a previous meeting, Chairman Woodley stated, there is no set hour when citizens may leave the park, as long as the citizens behave themselves and do not create any disturbance and do not "litter up" their disposal," pointed out the Chairman. In conjunction with the above, however, a motion was passed which read as follows—"That the Chairman be instructed to engage a police constable for restriction hours to be applied to automobiles only, and that one of children not accompanied by adults, or persons acting disturbances or annoying property". The police department will be requested to give full co-operation in the law of enforcement pertaining to the behaviour of children especially. Members of this year have ordered destructive children off the park after apprehending them in acts of damaging property", added Commissioner Callaghan.

A complaint brought before the Board relative to permanent parking of motor cars on the Park resulted in the following motion being passed—"That persons or persons shall have the privilege of permanent parking on the Park Front of Victoria Park for unless given special permission by the Parks Superintendent Redfearn of the "Miss Canada" was given that special privilege on Monday afternoon, during, after making representation for such privilege. The season will be held on Friday night at Victoria Park Front, the Belleville Municipal Band being featured.

The planting of accounts and planting flower beds in the various parks of the city constituted the routine business of the Board including Chairman W. A. Woodley, Commissioners Symons, F. J. Shapiro, M. Callaghan, Harold Armstrong and C. R. Clapp was present.

FALSE ALARM FROM BATHER IS CRITICIZED

False Cry For Help From Joking Bather Rouses Citizen's Anger

There were several complaints this year and already one has been heard this year of boys bathing at the beach calling for "help" when in no danger.

Mr. Reg. Moncrieff, who has much to do with the bringing of the beaches project to the present stage when it gives every promise of being one of the finest of city assets, has told The Ontario Intelligencer that on Sunday a boy bathing off the beach uttered an outcry for "help" and had the pleasure of seeing a man come running from a nearby cottage to go to the help of whoever was in danger of drowning.

At the beach he fortunately found that his run to the beach was not necessary because no one was in danger. But he was irritated, said Mr. Moncrief, that he should have been made the object of a boy's prank.

"He told me the next time he would not go down to the beach if he heard a cry," said Mr. Moncrieff.

"Last year we had some complaints of a like nature and now and we are seeking to have it stopped this year. The attention of the authorities will be called to it.

"We sincerely plead for the sake of the safety of those who go to the beach that no one will give a false alarm of this kind, which is so dangerous.

ENTOMOLOGICAL 'LAB.' TO OPEN FOR INSPECTION

General Public Invited to View New Addition Just Completed

OPEN WEDNESDAY

In order that the people of Belleville and district may view what is declared the world's finest and most complete laboratory devoted to the task of preserving Canada from the inroads of destructive insects, and obtain first hand knowledge of the work being carried on in the local plant, an invitation is being given by Mr. A. B. Baird, B.A., and staff of the Belleville Dominion Entomological Bureau at East Dundas street to visit the laboratory on Wednesday afternoon and evening of this week. The staff will be on hand to demonstrate the equipment of the building, and new addition of which has been completed.

Police Face Problem Of Locating Children

With the advent of summer-like weather local police are facing problems of locating children reported in leaving home without the knowledge or consent of their parents. Yesterday two teen-aged girls who had hitch-hiked to Trenton, police in the Trenton police until the local authorities were notified. The girls were returned safely back to Belleville by Plainclothes Constable Fred Gay, and reunited with their parents, who knew nothing of the incident until the lassies were delivered safely back to their homes. The girls stated they were going to Smithfield to visit relatives. Three teen-aged boys failed to return home late last night resulting in parental anxiety at their whereabouts. The boys returned home long after midnight and today when brought to the police station by their parents were given a severe reprimand by Sergeant Arthur Harman. The boys promised not to make a repetition of their last night's escapade.

"These are the Baggely girls," office job in San Francisco, what Gloria said, disentangling herself from their pipestem arms. "You weren't stay, Hooker? I'm privileged to ask any one I like to Mrs. Baggley's."

He shook his head, left her.

Gloria and the children went in as the Baggely's gate, then was in his chair on the lawn. He looked up and smiled.

"They found you, eh? Peter home?"

"No; Jimmy said he'd gone to town. So I came in to ask why you're coming to supper here tonight?"

"Special occasion. The Jardines are here. They motored out for the trip, and went up into the Sierras for ten days. Now they're on their way home."

"Doctors, eh?"

"Yes. Brothers. Research men."

"Oh, Tony, then we ought to have Dr. Pitcher, too."

"Pitcher? You mean—of course, the new man here at the Bayview. That's right. Well, Kitty'll be back, and I'll have her telephone him. He probably knows them, if they've ever mentioned them?"

"Not to me. I've hardly talked to him at all—until today, that is. He walked here with me just now. He didn't come in. He's been terribly busy."

"He looked it."

"Yes; in a way. Terribly keen and smart-looking. Classes. He's not talking out of sandy."

"Married, I suppose?"

"No. That's the mother's with him, but she's lame—she's in bed most of the time. Gloria was just thinking of what she was saying; she had fallen into thought. "Have you any idea what's going on in town?" she asked.

"I didn't know he had gone. He was over here with the bean poles this morning and didn't say a thing about it. He and Kitty were talking about dinner tonight."

"Peter thinks there's no one like Kitty."

"Well, Kitty thinks Peter can do no wrong. Good thing, too. She's lonely, up here on the hill, and she and Pete are terribly congenial."

"I dong think Kitty is ever lonely, Tony."

"You were lonely," the man said significantly.

"No, I wasn't lonely Tony! No woman could be lonely, with a baby and mother and husband and neighbors. I was just—I don't know what to call it—restless. My getting a job simplified everything, and finally as Peter was laid off with flu—"

Gloria was silent for a moment, looking at her companion rather anxiously.

"You think I was wrong, don't you, Tony, to get a job when Peter was so violently against it? But he's long ago come to conclusion—he's said so a hundred times—that it was right."

"No; I think you were right," Tony said. "That is," he added, "I think you were as right as any one is who makes a courageous decision."

"You mean a right decision?"

"Well, I don't. They sounded fine."

"But the alternative gave me no choice at all!" Gloria argued.

"You remember we discussed this three years ago. You said that then."

"I know. But you didn't quite agree with me then, and you don't now. But look here, Tony. If a man—or a woman—is not fully of his own, in bad times or in unusual circumstances—can't support his wife and child, and a woman can, and wants to, why on earth shouldn't she?"

"She makes her choice."

"Nonsense! You keep saying that. She has no choice. When I went over to the Bayview three years ago all the money that we four had was somebody's hundred a month. Peter'd lost his job. It wasn't his fault, but there it was! You don't know what it is. No man ever can feel at home with it for a woman to sit at home worrying about money. I'd have been an absolute fool to refuse another hundred! Now they're paying me three thousand; we have two good maids; Mother doesn't have to worry; and everything that her make is velvet, and who's any the worse? A woman can hold her job and keep her family together, too," Gloria said.

"If your job happened to be an hands locked in her lap. The moonshine found her crown of loosecurled hair and burned it to dark gold; her slipper was only a few inches from the pillow upon which rested Karl Pitcher's head. He had flung himself down on the grass, to the delights of the air, had carried him away from his usual moorings of self-consciousness and virtuousness; he was stretched there with his hands locked behind his head.

Kitty never talked very much. If her dinner had been good and the coffee that followed it has been strong she was content to sit festing and listening. Peter was rather quiet, too, tonight, stretched out in a low chair with his pipe, he occasional question. Tony Baggley always talked, he could, was an experienced host, knew just how to guide the talk where he wished it to go, and for the guests, no matter what their tastes or limitations, the delights were the conversation and the tastes of the talkers were the dish. Dr. Jardine Pitcher were eagerly articulate on their own ground, and Karl Pitcher proved a delightful surprise. Quick wits of inspiration, stimulus, challenge. He could talk about his work, his tremendous effect. Gloria was oddly shocked when, after a drink a day or two later, to find him once again the spectacled, quiet little doctor of the hospital research. He was asked some question as to sleeping arsenic poisoning, and he was the visiting doctor; they parried with no reference to the moment they had shared.

But on a Sunday afternoon new delights awaited Mr. and Mrs. Jardine Pitcher. Gloria was on the terrace, where she and Jimmy were sitting.

"I thought that you went home on Sunday, after lunch—" Gloria began. But her self-possession was gone, she was away and my mother's spending a few days with friends in the Santa Monica. So I've given Molly and Carmen a holiday tomorrow."

"I don't know that until that day when I walked home with you, Mrs. Karl Pitcher," Kitty said, "I didn't know that you were married. They call you Dodo Budd."

"Yes, I know they do. It saves explanations, and I let it go. Oh, my friends said, 'I've been married five years.'"

"That doesn't make you very old, does it?"

"Almost twenty-six."

"Good heavens!" he said under his breath. "I'm all of an ass!"

"I shaped over girlhood, really," Gloria explained. "I met Peter when I was twenty-one, and it didn't take us long to settle things."

"Love at first sight?"

"No-o-o. Not exactly!" An old thrill was running through Gloria's veins. She did not know why it was so exciting, suddenly to be talking to Karl Pitcher. "I don't think I believe in that," she said.

Ice-Cream Cones Make Big Hit with the Quints

Marie Covers Face Ear to Ear With The New Delicacy

GET JUST ONE HELPING

Callander, May 30—(CP)—Thats more surprising gift, a plain vanilla ice-cream cone each, the Dionne quintuplets celebrated their fourth birthday in an atmosphere of quiet family gifts and religious thanksgiving for their growth from puny, premature infants to sturdy, handsome young girls.

The quint smacked their lips over their first ice-cream cones Saturday as their parents, Oliva and Elzire Dionne, joined with them in the "happiest birthday" since Elzire always kept her life in bring them into the world on May 28, 1934.

Marie, tiniest of the quintet, plunged into the cone with such gusto that her little face was splashed from ear to ear, but promptly stuck out her tongue and licked the cream from around her mouth, saving a finger to bring in a bit that was out of reach of her tongue.

Yvonne, Cecile, Emilie, and Annette cast eager glances at the score of ice cream, but, like Marie, tory were, and didn't ask for a second helping.

Yvonne Says Grace

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne were accompanied by Mrs. Perry Daniel, 6; Pauline, 5; Olivs Jr., almost 3; Victor Renie, who was born the day after the quints, and the Catholic priest at the Corbell church, which the Dionnes attend. Mrs. Dionne and Pauline wore a pink frock the quints got for Christmas. The girls were blue dresses with matching hair bows.

Later the quints re-enacted the birthday party for 300 visitors from fourteen States and the Provinces, who watched them frolic in their playground.

Yvonne, natural leader of the quints, stood solemnly at the head of a little table, with her eager, curious sisters grouped around her.

Crossing herself, she said grace with dignity, and then led the movements for the gifts. Marie poured "tea" from a long-spouted watering-can.

Marie and Olivs held the first light as they romped together. Little Olivs, proud of his efforts, sat Marie in a bright red wagon and tugged the vehicle into motion. After a little sailing, he stopped, and Marie took her turn at giving her baby brother a ride.

When Olivia tired of the noise, his father took the toddler back to the nursery, and left the older ones, Pauline and Daniel, to share the attentions of their famous sisters.

Cake Lacks Icing

At the birthday party the quints were served pineapple juice with their ice cream cones. Because icing is listed among the sweets the little girls cannot have, the entire family ate their cake without frosting.

Reviewing the day, Olivs Dionne, father of the quints, said: "It has been the happiest birthday yet, for we can now confidently look forward to knowing our children more intimately. We hope that this is the last time we shall have to be limited to the privacy in their little parties."

He added: "Although Mrs. Dionne was very happy while we were in there with the quintets and had them to ourselves, she felt sad as we had to return to our home without them, for it is hard. It is almost too much to hope for that we will be blessed by fall. It may even be next spring, but at least we have the assurance that steps are being taken to accomplish this step which has always been foremost in our minds."

Speaking for the eldest children, Ernest, Rose and Therese, who are attending private school in Quebec, he said the children were lonesome for their home and the quints, and expressed happiness at their educational advantages.

Parents at Benediction

Although he had thought of taking the quints to many their birthday. Mr. Dionne said they were little shy and when he and the Elzs had been forsaken.

After the party, the Dionnes returned to their home, and later the parents, accompanied by Miss Grace Demers, aunt of Mrs. Dionne, attended the evening Benediction service at Sacred Heart Church in Corbell.

TRAVELLERS READY FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Commercial travellers of Eastern Ontario meet annually at Cobourg in a big outdoor picnic to which all invited merchants and their families and employees for a fraternal good time. Plans have been perfected for this year's Travellers' Goodwill Picnic to be held in Victoria Park, Cobourg. Feature attractions, clowns, comic music, games, sing-song and vaudeville will be included in a fast-moving and mirthful programme and there will be special races and fine prizes. As usual the travellers will extend a hospitality particularly to children and one hundred children from Peterboro and Oshawa will be guests of honor. Colonel Kittle Band will furnish music and a special vaudeville program has been arranged for. A dollar feature attraction will consist of a tap-dancing contest, open to children under 16 years of age and including the age of fifteen years, open only to children of Cobourg and district wards. Valuable prizes will be given. Entries will be received by W. G. Mills, British Hotel, Cobourg, up to midnight June 20.

HALF HOLIDAY THIS WEDNESDAY

The first Wednesday half-holiday of the season occurs this week when Belleville stores close at noon, also the banks, barristers and barbers. Do your shopping early.

"I'm a long distance operator. I don't know how many thousand calls I've handled, but I still get a thrill out of it. Here I sit at my switchboard—you, in your home or office, decide that you want to talk to someone who may be many miles away. I—say a few words, make a few simple movements with my hands and—Presto!—here's your party. Is it any wonder I sometimes feel like a magician?"

Business men, too, have found magic in long distance—magic that gets more business done in quick time at less cost. They make all kinds of contacts—use it in a score of ways—and get amazing results.

Let us tell you about them!

Pop telephoned home to tell ma he mite be a little late, and ma said, Well I'm glad you called because I want you to stop in at Rooney Brothers and get me one or those imported English plum puddings; it's the only place that has them, now for goodness sakes dont forget.

And about a hour later pop came home and he didn't have anything with him, and ma said, I knew it, I mite of known it.

O yes, the plum pudding, pop said. I'll tell you how that was, he said, and ma said, O, spare yourself the trouble.

No trouble at all, pop said. You see, when I entered the store the first object to meet my eyes was a sign announcing that this is apple week and reminding everybody to buy apples, the idea being as far as I could make out that if people walled too long they'd find themselves buying apple after apple in a week that wasn't apple week, he said, and ma said, I seem to remember something about apple week, but what's that got to do with it? You didn't even bring apples, she said.

Well, the next sign I noticed announced that today, tomorrow and Thursday are prune days and consequently the only proper days to be prune conscious, and still another proclamation informed me that Fruitlad Oatsies day is drawing closer and closer, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum what's all this got to do with my imported plum pudding

Simply that there wasn't a sign in the place announcing that today was the correct day to ask for plum pudding, and I wasn't going to have the clerk laughing at me, so I didn't ask for any, pop said, and ma said, O, I mite of known you'd have some fabricated fairy tail, come and eat your supper.

With he did, being liver and onions in his honor.

Japan Cannot Win and Faces Economic Ruin, Possibility Of Revolt, says Dr. Armstrong

China Prepared For Long War, With Millions of Men And Adequate Financial Resources—New and Interesting View of Conflict Given to Rotarians—Japan's World Embracing Aims Revealed — After Gobbling up China Plans to Move on to Gates of India, Annexing French and Dutch Colonies.

An interesting close-up view of the undeclared war between Japan and China was given Belleville Rotarians at the weekly meeting Monday in Hotel Quinte by Dr. A. E. Armstrong, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Church. Dr. Armstrong has an intimate knowledge of conditions in China and Japan from personal observation, contact with high officials of both nations, and study of the subject. Summing up his opinion of the present conflict and its probable outcome he said that it looked as if the war would end in the economic collapse and bankruptcy of Japan, no matter how the fortunes of war terminated, in a stalemate, or victory for the defenders. High admiration for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, former Premier of China, and his clever wife, Madame Chiang Kai Shek, two Christian leaders of the new regime which succeeded the War Lords of ancient fame, supported by officials of high mental calibre and adventure, combined with confidence in the ultimate victory of China—their watchword being that the war has just begun—and the more territory Japan occupies the weaker she becomes and the nearer ultimate defeat.

Aims of Japan

Japan's aims in regard to China and the rest of the world were outlined by Dr. Armstrong, who made a strong plea for sympathy for the Japanese people aside from the military party who control the government and even act independently and ignorant of the knowledge of the government, and the government is obliged to pass the army budget without question.

World Conquest

China's progress toward unification under its new leaders did not please Japan who saw the rise of a formidable rival in a united China, interfering with the aims of Japan, which included the annexation of Manchuria and the gradual absorption of the vital portions of China, dismemberment of China, and Japanese rule throughout, with China paying the bills, followed by the occupation of French and Dutch colonies and extending Japanese rule right up to the gates of India, as the first step in spreading the divine culture bequeathed by the Emperor, "Son of Heaven", as handed down divinely for thousands of years.

Japan is the most courteous and polite nation in the world, and moves from conquest to conquest with "excuse it please, so sorry, you're helping me, teacher," which means in Japanese, helping himself.

Japan Fears Russia

A graphic outline of the causes leading up to the present conflict in China was given by Dr. Armstrong, with the Japanese explanation that they were only trying to help China grow . . . . . which Japan hates and which is like a red rag to a bull . . . . . arose militiary rulers. This in the face of China's own victorious fight against the communist forces inspired and financed by Russia, was rather thin. Japan fears and hates Russia, fears modernized China, and has other national fears including earthquakes, typhoons, floods and fires. With tremors occurring daily and tidal waves recently causing half a billion dollars damage in and about Osaki, no wonder the Japanese look longingly for new and more stable territory on which to plant their ancient culture and new methods which they believe will sweep the world under Japanese banners, eventually.

Japan's Dream, from Tradition

China's natural resources are also coveted by the Japanese with no iron or coal of their own and coal reserves in China which lay untouched for centuries because of the chinese superstition that their country rested upon the back of a dragon and the earth must not be disturbed lest the dragon be annoyed and make trouble. Japan also has to import rice, their staple diet, and here again in China is an unlimited supply. Raw material for the various manufactures of Japanese world trade can be obtained in China, adding to the advantages of Japanese control of China, and building up the great Asiatic empire no less a Japanese dream, from which Japan could dictate to the world.

Japan's military overlords point to shelves in the Chinese army but permit the Chinese people to pay for the upkeep of the Japanese army of occupation and control, an excellent idea, for Japan.

Japan Cannot Win

Describing Chinese and Japanese viewpoints, China's sense of humor, which Japan lacks in its profound serious obsession and fanatastic belief in Japan's destiny to spread Japanese culture and control over the entire world, Dr. Armstrong said that the belief was gaining ground in the remainder of the world over this, Japan can not win this war and is headed straight to national economic collapse and bankruptcy.

Sympathy for the common people of Japan, outside of the military party, was asked by Dr. Armstrong, who stated that they were wound down by the heaviest taxation in the world to provide funds for the grandiose schemes of the Japanese military party in control. Farmers and fishermen, most of them, the Japanese can ill afford to pay the tremendous war bills being incurred, and internal revolt may be the outcome, unless the military party to divert attention from their failure in China do something which will bring on Russian attack, and fear of Russia is ever real and terror-inspiring in Japan.

A Long War

China's leaders have prepared for a long war and have mapped out a policy of fight and retreat aimed at wearing the war by attrition. There is no hate of civilian Japan in China and for every bombing plane which flew over Japanese cities dropping leaflets was an evidence of this. They could just as easily have dropped death dealing bombs.

The world is beginning to believe that Japan had already lost the war and the further inland Japanese armies penetrate the worse off they will be. China can afford to lose millions of men and millions in money, while Japan can afford neither.

Winning War With Laughter

Dr. Armstrong paid a high tribute to the sterling national character of the Chinese, thrifty, honest, honorable, and headed for a great future under Christian leaders who have cut through the shadows and wet blankets of superstition to start China on a career of modernization. China's sense of humor is one of her greatest assets, asked about the war a Chinaman laughs and answers "We win", patient and persistent, time means nothing to them, upholding but final victory in the near or distant future. The Chinese are a serious people, know not how to laugh, and this is their strength and hope. The Japanese with a healthy sense of humor, who can laugh, have always survived.

All in all Dr. Armstrong gave a vivid picture of the aims and objects of Japan as a potential world conqueror, of Japan's limitations, and of the causes which led up to the present conflict, with the probable outcome as predicated by those in highly informed circles in the chancelleries of Europe and the international business world. As a result of Dr. Armstrong's illuminative address a more intimate and close-up understanding of far eastern events was made possible for his audience, who will follow the conflict with more understanding than before. Dr. Armstrong was introduced by Secretary Club by Rev. Dr. Semple, and Rotary appreciation was expressed by W. Morrison, Superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, and President Fred Douglas.

. . . and Have Money Left Over

A wise man once said there are two ways to save money!

"Increase your income, or cut down your outgo."

Much as we'd like to, few of us can regulate the amount of money we take in each week... But all of us have control over what we spend. And many a family bank account has been made possible by CAREFUL SPENDING.

That's why it will pay you to read the advertisements in this newspaper. Day after day they show you where to get the things you need . . . where to get the fullest dollar's worth for every dollar you spend.

A careful reading of the advertisements . . . today, tomorrow, and every day after . . . will help you to do something that we'd all like to do:

BUY WHAT YOU WANT — AND HAVE MONEY LEFT OVER!

HITCH-HIKER PAYS HIS WAY

A paying hitch-hiker, that phantom of the highways, searched for by a long-suffering motoring public since thumbs took the place of buttonhooks, has at last been discovered.

The Columbus of the motoring seas is Mr. J. McPhee, Toronto travelier, who received the shock of his life the other day while driving to Belleville from Kingston, when a fool-loose wanderer who had needed a ride by means of the conventional thumb, offered to pay for gasoline and a meal for his benefactor upon arrival at his destination.

Questioned, the gentleman of the highways stated trains make him sick, buses jolted him out of his usual calm, and buggies were too slow.

He did not like the idea of driving a car, it demanded too much concentration. So his favorite method of travel was the thumb, with a dollar bill tucked beneath it by way of incentive for would-be passersby motorists to stop.

FATHER CONTACTS

Blond, blue-eyed James Bailey Cash Jr., five year old, was stolen from his bed while his mother was next door to help her husband close his grocery for the night. The kidnapper slit a screen, unlatched a door and took the pajama-clad boy away.

A note, one of three in the case, threatened death to the little tot, now in the neighborhood as "Stregie" if the father called authorities. Cash notified Federal Bureau of Investigation at Miami, 25 miles north of here, and J. Edgar Hoover at Washington assigned a squad of inspectors who flew here Sunday.

Makes Contact

Then early today, while G-men worked on the case and throngs of curious milled about this crossroads village of 600, a man presumed to be the abductor slipped the third note under the door of the Cash apartment, tossed a rock at a window to attract attention and fled into the underbrush.

The message, prided in a triangular piece of brown wrapping paper, Ordered Cash to repeat measeurres prescribed in an earlier note—to drive over a route specified on a map, blinking the headlights of his car at certain spots as a signal. Cash had done this in vain last night but the new note was understood to have complained of too many persons about.

With him Cash took the $10,000 in banknotes of $5, $10, $20 and $50 denominations.

Note Pinned to Door

The earlier note had been found pinned to the door at the home of the boy's uncle, William P. Cash, next door. The other note figuring in the case was given to a Negro to deliver to James Cash. It directed attention to the note at Wilson Cash's home but the Negro became frightened at the nocturnal visitor who gave it to him and failed to deliver it so it did not turn up until later. The F.B.I. agents took the three notes and their full text was not available.

A state road department watchman provided a clue with a report that a green sedan travelling west at breakneck speed was forced by oncoming workmen on the road to slow up as it passed his station on an east-west highway. 1 1-2 miles north of here shortly after the boy was missed.

The watchman saw several men and a small child who was crying loudly.
